Fingerprinting Children May Take Place Here

Would you feel more comfortable if you had your child's fingerprints, safely and privately in your safe-deposit box?

Several communities have begun to fingerprint children, and Borough Police Commissioner Barbara Hill has proposed the idea to both Borough and Township police chiefs and to school officials.

"So far, Princeton hasn't had any missing kids," Ms. Hill says, "and this isn't a scare tactic. It's a public service, in the interest of safety. Both chiefs are supportive, and so is the Township Police Commissioner, who is Mayor (Winthrop) Pike."

No infringement of civil liberties is involved, Ms. Hill emphasizes.

"Our police do fingerprinting now, if parents ask for it. We don't want your name. We don't even keep the print while it dries, so nobody will think we've copied it. Prints don't change much, so it could be useful in a person's adult life."

She also sees it as an educational experience, showing children that the police are their friends.

James Pascale Named To Succeed Joe Nini

James J. Pascale, who served as Assistant Township Administrator from late 1976 to the beginning of 1979, has been named to succeed retiring Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

Township Committee is expected to confirm the appointment of Mr. Pascale at its regular meeting Monday at 8 in the Valley Road Building. He will be the Acting Township Administrator effective May 1 and become Township Administrator upon Mr. Nini's official retirement in October. Although no longer in office, Mr. Nini has accumulated vacation and other leave that puts his official retirement date in October.

Mr. Pascale received his bachelor's degree and master's in public administration from Rutgers University. Since leaving the Township in 1979 he has been the Mahwah Township Business Administrator and an adjunct instructor at Ramapo College in Mahwah.

TALK OF THE TOWN: Hasn't been so much fuss since the first time they paved Nassau Street. Collins' kiosk, with Yankee Doodle as the feather in its hat, has sent letter-writers to their word processors (page 14) to view with alarm, stand firmly against and wonder what the town is coming to.

Historical Society Recoups Majority of Funds Spent on Antiques to Furnish Drumthwacket

The New Jersey Historical Society was able to recoup most of what it spent in furnishing Drumthwacket as a governor's mansion through the sale at Morven of the Empire-period and contemporary furniture that was rejected by Governor Kean and his wife.

"We sold more than one-half of the furniture for more than we paid for it," reported Gregory Coin, the New Jersey Historical Society's resident administrator at Morven, who was in charge of the sale. The sale realized approximately $130,000, Mr. Coin said, which will go a long way toward recouping the estimated $250,000 the Society paid to furnish the Greek Revival mansion. The Society held back for itself the Empire dining set with 16 matching chairs, three Duncan Phyfe chairs, and a custom-made rug and runner with the New Jersey state seal that are valued at $50,000.

Last year, the Society purchased 57 American Empire-period antiques and 30 modern pieces and put them in the mansion as part of a $2 million restoration of Drumthwacket. Governor Kean had the furniture removed, saying he considered them unattractive and of narrow historical interest. In January he announced that he and his family would not be moving to Drumthwacket but would remain in Livingston. A new committee was formed to purchase still earlier antiques with which to furnish the house.

According to Mr. Coin, 36 of the 57 Empire-period antiques were sold, many to individual collectors, leaving eight that remain to be disposed of. Included in the eight are the two massive and ornate sideboards that Mr. Coin thinks will do better at a public auction. Also remaining are a number of large custom-made rugs which the Society will also try to sell in some other way.

The 30 modern pieces were sold in two groups at slightly below purchase price to two separate corporate interior designers, Mr. Coin said. "We knew we could sell the Empire pieces for about what we paid for them, but we were worried about the modern pieces. They depreciate the minute you buy them," he commented.

School Budget Increase Is Smallest in Six Years; How Will Littlebrook Vote?

In many ways, remarked School Superintendent Paul Houston this week, "it's the best budget since I've been here."

Voters will let the school board know whether they agree with him when they go to the polls Tuesday (polling places and hours on page 3.)

Whether parents who wanted Littlebrook left open will take revenge by voting down the budget, is still a question. One school of thought holds that opponents of that closing may simply not vote on the budget at all, rather than vote "no."

The Littlebrook PTO decided not to give active support to the budget, but its president Margie Haber, is on record as saying that the PTO would never actively work against the budget.

There are two reasons for cheer, the superintendent said. The first is that the budget calls for the smallest increase in taxes in six years — 5.7 percent. The second is that, almost for the first time, the schools will be introducing things that haven't been done before.

For example: foreign languages for fifth graders; a new general-music cycle in the Middle School; computer education for second and third grades and the possibility of instrumental music classes in the fourth grade.

"Maybe these aren't world-stoppers," Dr. Houston observed, "But we're doing more than just holding our own. Class size, too, is favorable: a ratio of approximately 20 students to one teacher, at the elementary level."

Dr. Houston is a frank rooter for the system. He says he has always chafed under the restrictions of the National Merit Scholarship Program that prohibit formal releases comparing districts.

"But Princeton High has the highest number of Merit Scholars in New Jersey — public or private schools — and we're among the highest, per capita, in the United States. Our SATs maintain, and even go up: we're 100 points or so above the state and national average."

School Budget

"According to the National Merit Index, New Jersey is fourth highest in the country. They use an index because it's easier to win, with the same scores, in Mississippi than in New Jersey."

"This speaks well for the Princeton community, and, I hope, for the school."

Back to the budget. Princeton's state aid is down, Dr. Houston explained. In 1983, the district was supposed to get $590,000 — the notorious $525,000 that was sliced off last July plus the $40,000 that had been taken away earlier in the year.

Instead, Princeton will get $494,000. This is a decrease in expectations of about $100,000. The actual dollar decrease amounts to $30,000.

Under New Jersey law voters pass on the Current Expense budget and a Capital Outlay budget. There is also a Debt Service budget. This year, Current Expense is $11,969,033. Capital Outlay is $785,000.

Late last month, the board put $200,000 in reserve and increased the capital budget by $200,000. There is no difference for the taxpayer, but the maneuver satisfied state requirements and, presumably, those who felt that the returned state aid money should be used to lower the tax rate.

Ann McGoldrick, school board president, feels it is "very important" to pass the citizens Bond Referendum Advisory Committee pointed to things that needed to be done, beyond the $4 million bond issue proposed for a December vote. "Our capital needs are now about $6 million. And we have a $785,000 capital budget. Either we leave it at that level for six or seven years, or go for a bond issue and lower the capital budget — which is what we'd prefer."

There is no shopping list for the capital budget. Money would be spread around among the schools, attacking the most critical problems first: athletic fields, roofs, boilers, walks, curbs.

This year, Dr. Houston adds, the board will probably not work on energy needs. They would be assigned to the bond issue.

One problem: Princeton's schools were built within a few years of each other, so the roofs have been going all at once, more or less. The Littlebrook and Community Park roofs have been done and two-thirds of Riverside's. But Johnson Park — now used by tenants — and parts of the high school need roofing.

The board's finance committee, which already has a priority list, will probably meet with citizens on the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee to blend the two sets of priorities.

Drumthwaack

The Society reportedly spent $147,000 on this furniture. Remaining at Drumthwaack as part of the $250,000 spent in furnishings are draperies, carpeting, and kitchen equipment, including the fixtures appropriate for a caterer's kitchen that were also removed by Governor Kean.

An article in the February issue of Maine Antique Digest reports that the new Foundation charged with finding Queen Anne style antiques for Drumthwaack has purchased a walnut lowboy for $41,800. The lowboy was part of the Linden sale at Christie's in New York City on January 22. The article makes reference to the fact that a very similar lowboy sold for $16,000 at the Winter Antiques Sale in New York. Neither Finn Caspersen, chairman of the Drumthwaack Foundation, nor Percy Leach, the decorator working on the project, could be reached for comment by press time.

Where to Vote in Tuesday's School Elections

Next Tuesday, April 12, voters in Borough and Township will choose members of the school board, and will pass on the school budget for the coming year.

Polls will be open from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. For school elections, the regular General Election Districts used in November elections, are combined into special School Polling Districts. This means that the district whose number you know for November voting, may not be the same as the district you vote in for school elections.

School Board Races in Borough, Township Will Be Decided by Voters This Tuesday

CANDIDATES' VIEWS
A Final Look. In both Borough and Township, voters will go to the polls next Tuesday afternoon and evening to select members of the school board.

In the Borough, Karen Woodbridge and Corinne Kyle are running for a two-year term which is the remaining time in an unexpired three-year term. Michael Mahoney is running for the only three-year seat. He is unopposed.

In the Township, three candidates are running for two three-year seats. Sharon Muzik is challenging incumbents Michael Tomalin and Rosemary McGee.

The League of Women Voters, pointing to forecasts of a school population of only 1,770 students in the year 1990 — about 1,150 in kindergarten through eighth grade and 620 in the high school — asked all the candidates what they think the school board should do to prepare for the reduced population.

All the candidates said the board must wrestle with the problem of providing "quality education" in the face of budget constrictions.

Corinne Kyle. "Encourage administrative and educational flexibility in achieving educational goals ... provide programs that meet the needs of ALL students."

"Have available continuously updated forecasts of enrollments rather than ten-year static projections. Encourage and help disseminate publicly for discussion, proposed re-organization of curriculum, staff assignments, student scheduling and other educational changes being considered."

Karen Woodbridge. "Think and plan deliberately about the impact a smaller school system has on financial planning, space utilization and program development and evaluation."

TOPICS Of The Town

"Ensure that students have excellent skills in the basics: reading, writing, thinking, communicating, problem-solving, math, science and technology. We should demand excellence from teachers. To help teachers, meet high standards, we will need to provide them with the tools to improve old skills and learn new ones."

Rosemary McGee. "Possible consolidation with another district; shared teaching at the high school level with another district. This might allow Princeton to continue to offer six languages to students from both districts while District X offered a wide range of science courses."

"Sharp reduction in educational options at the high school; restructuring grade groupings for the most efficient facilities usage ... broadening instructional areas: for example 'Humanities' instead of English, Social Studies and Language."

Michael Tomalin. "We have taken steps to provide a quality program by reducing the physical plant to two elementary schools and one Middle School and moving the fifth grade to the Middle School. Similar solutions will NOT solve the problems of a 620-student high school."

"Attempt to increase enrollment through sending/receiving relationships with other districts, and by attracting private school students."

"Share teachers between Middle School and Princeton High School, to maintain present program diversity."

Sharon Muzik. "Become more involved in educational politics on the state level in a positive way. Find new ways to develop a good working relationship with the state. "Develop a comprehensive, long-range plan of action to ensure that the quality of education will not suffer. Find solutions to our 1990 educational problems now, which are positive and educationally sound."

And it Rained ...

March was wet. At least, if you can call 8.12 inches in 31 days "wet," and most people probably would. The figure is from Science Associates, where gauging rain is a way of life.

Record? Well, in New York and Newark, they had the wettest March in history — ever. We had an inch and a half or two inches less, but enough, nevertheless.

On Easter Sunday, three days into April, 1.37 inches fell on Princeton's churchgoers, egg-hunters and bunnies. Saturday night before Easter Sunday, Princeton had not only thunder and lightning, but hail as well.

Remember water rationing?

APARTMENT DAMAGED
By Fire At PCV. An apartment at 30 Greenbrier Row in Princeton Community Village was damaged by a Sunday fire that originated in a downstairs hall closet. A general alarm—the Township's second this year, both at PCV—was sounded at 3:57 p.m.

Police report that the fire was confined to the closet and a hallway. The interior of the apartment was damaged by smoke and water.

The occupant was in the kitchen, according to police, when her grandson told her that there was a light on in the closet. Investigating, she discovered a pillow was burning.

Police added that the cause of the fire is unknown.

THREE ARE CHARGED

With Robbery. Three Princeton residents have been charged with robbing a 20-year-old Princeton man of $16.

They have been identified by police as William Major Brown, 19, 71 Clay Street; Eric L. Cook, 20, 21 Reading Circle; and Frantz Celestin, 19, 32 Witherspoon Lane. All have been sent to the Mercer County Detention Center to await a bail hearing.

According to police, the three had confronted the victim on Mt. Lucas Road late last Wednesday evening and asked him for money. He handed over his wallet. The three had also been jumping in front of cars and harassing motorists, police added. There was evidence that one had been drinking, police commented.

Ptl. Peter Savalli responded to a call complaining about the harassment and confronted the three and the victim and told them to stay out of the roadway. When they agreed to comply, the officer returned to headquarters.

A short time later, Ptl. Savalli received a call from the victim. He told him that he had just been robbed prior to his arrival but had not reported it because he had been threatened by one of the three not to say anything. One of them, he said, had his hand in his pocket and told him he had a .22 pistol.

Ptl. Savalli had obtained the names of the suspects earlier and they were arrested at the 21 Reading Circle address by Sgt. John Hammond, Ptl. Anthony Gaylord and himself.

CAR IS TOTALLED

On Route 206. A 1970 Chevrolet driven by Brian K. Yates, 20, of Trenton, was totaled early Friday morning when it went out of control on Route 206 near Edgerstone Road. Mr. Yates and his 20-year old passenger were injured and treated at Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Yates told police that all he could remember was heading south on 206 toward Trenton.

The investigation by Ptl. John Petrone Jr. revealed that the Yale car first crossed over into the northbound lane where it struck a signal post, causing it to spin. It then struck a second signal post.

Still spinning, it then hit a rock and flipped over, coming to rest upside down. The car, a total wreck, traveled 87 feet from point of impact to its final resting place.

Mr. Yates sustained internal chest injuries; his passenger, Dan Reichert of Trenton, was treated for contusions and abrasions of the face. Mr. Yates was issued summonses for careless driving and operating an unregistered vehicle. The accident took place at 2:32 in the morning.

Car Strikes Embankment. A 17-year old driver, Alec E. Hoke of 31 Hawthorne Avenue, was issued a summons for careless driving last week following a single car mishap on Cherry Hill Road.

According to Ptl. David Cromwell, the Hoke car was traveling at excessive speed when it went out of control some 300 feet from State Road. It left 150 feet of skid marks before striking an embankment 25 minutes past midnight last Wednesday morning.

Mr. Hoke was treated at the Medical Center for lacerations of the head. His 1982 sedan had to be towed from the scene.

EIGHT BALL
In Side Windshield. Six balls of a pool game played early Saturday morning at the Campus Club on Prospect Avenue did not end up in a pocket.

Police said that six pool balls and a cue stick were thrown from a second floor window, damaging the car of a Princeton University student parked below. Two struck the car, one denting the hood, the other breaking the windshield. Damage to the victim's 1978 Pontiac Grand Prix was estimated at $200.

A 58 x 48-inch window valued at $75 and a rain gutter, also valued at approximately $75, were broken last week at the Johnson Park School building. They were broken, police said, when someone apparently tried to climb the roof of the building. It was reported Saturday morning.

Three 18 x 16-inch windows at the main entrance to Princeton Day School were broken early last week. An employee working inside early in the morning told police that he heard the windows breaking and saw three males run through the parking lot and enter a full-size car (possibly a Ford) and drive away. The value of the windows was not reported.

Eggs were thrown at a house on Grover Avenue early in the morning last week and the vandals also broke some boards in a fence.

FOUR ARE ARRESTED

For Trespassing On Campus. Four persons, including a husband and wife, were arrested last week by police and charged with trespassing on the Princeton University campus.

In addition to trespassing, Thelma Green, 50, of Philadelphia was charged with simple assault, possession of burglar tools and hindering prosecution.

Green was first seen by a student Friday night when the student heard the door of her suite in Patton Hall open and saw a woman entering her bedroom. The suspect left without saying a word.

She was later observed by a university proctor near Brown Hall and apprehended. When questioned later by Borough police, Green was evasive. She had no identification, police said, and told them she was Thelma McGlawn. Police found in her possession a screw driver, 16-inch pry bar and a saw knife.

Capt. John J. Bellow reported that police were able to learn her real name from a Pennsylvania Dept. of Welfare receipt. When police tried to get Green to enter a Borough jail cell, she punched Ptl. John Reading with her fist. Capt. Bellow described Green as 5-2, 143 pounds; Ptl. Reading as 5-11, 180.

Robert V. Todish, 33, no known address, was arrested Friday evening at 7 and charged with trespassing at historic Maclean House on campus.

Previously warned about trespassing by proctors,

Todish was taken to police headquarters, issued a summons and later released. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court April 20.

In Wilcox Hall. At 5:21 Tuesday morning, Kimberly Ann Blair, 20, no known address, was arrested for trespassing in Wilcox Hall by Proctor Charles Peters. She was taken to police headquarters, issued a summons and released. Police report that she had been previously warned.

Her husband, Stephen Blair, 20, no known address, had been arrested at 1:06 Friday morning by proctors for trespassing in Dodge Hall. He was later released, pending his appearance in Borough court this Wednesday. His wife faces a court appearance April 20.

CRIME IS SUMMARIZED

In 1982 By Township Chief, Crime in the Township in 1982 was highlighted by the murder of 19-year old Maura E. Gottlieb, a Lawrence Township resident, whose body was found March 7 in the waters of the Delaware and Raritan Canal near Harrison Street. Her murderer has not been found.

In addition to the single homicide and one instance of rape, the following incidents of criminal activity in the Township were summarized by Chief Pinelli:

Tobacco, four; assaults, 43; burglaries, 149 involving residences and 32 involving entry into business establishments; auto theft, 15; and arson, four.

The chief listed six categories of larceny: shoplifting, 32; from motor vehicles, 23; motor vehicle parts, 23; bicycles, 86; building materials, 58; and from coin machines, 44.

Also possession of stolen property, five; forgeries, fraud, and embezzlement, five; carrying weapons, one; sex offenses other than rape, eight; and narcotics possession, nine.

Township police made 22 arrests for driving while under the influence of alcohol in 1982, and 71 arrests for disorderly conduct. Police handled 15 reports of runaways 18 and older, and 14 cases of juveniles who had run away. None of the runaway cases is still open, the chief commented. "Most of them are located the next day," he said.

Juveniles contributed an additional amount of work to the Township Police department's load. Police investigated five assaults involving juveniles (that's anyone 17 or younger), seven burglaries, eleven larcenies; one auto theft, one case of possession of stolen property; three cases of carrying weapons; one sexual offense; six cases of narcotics possession, one drunk driving case, and eleven cases of disorderly conduct.

ASKS WRONG PERSON
Teenager Is Arrested. When 19-year-old Erik Larsen of Longview Drive stopped in at the Princeton Volvo dealership at 255 Nassau Street last week to ask for a wiring diagram, he asked the wrong person.

Owner Matthew Long recognized the $700 computerized radio-stereo unit in Larsen's hands as one that had been stolen two days earlier from a Volvo demonstrator car while it had been parked on Halsey Street in the Township.

Mr. Long stalled Larsen while he asked his parts manager to check on the model number TD2111. "It's the one that was stolen," he was told.

Before Ptl. Donald Dawson arrived, Larsen had left the radio behind in the hands of a friend and returned to nearby Larry's Sunoco service station where he is employed. He was arrested there and charged with possession of stolen property.

THEFT REPORT
Tools Are Taken. A case of tools valued at approximately $500 was stolen last week from a locked pickup truck that was parked near the victim's home on Butler Avenue. They were taken sometime during a five-day period.

An unlocked green Puch moped, valued at $750, was

Township Schedules Spring Cleanup

The annual Spring Clean-up in the Township will begin on Monday and continue until completed on a one-time basis. It is expected that the clean-up will take 10 days.

Materials to be picked up must be put out ready for collection before 8 a.m. on Monday. Only garden and yard debris such as tree branches, twigs, leaves, lawn debris and grass clippings will be picked up. Household items, such as furniture and appliances, will not be collected and should not be put out. These items will be picked up in the fall clean-up.

Brush, leaves, lawn debris and grass clippings must be placed in closed and sealed containers, cartons or plastic bags, paper bags and other fragile containers should not be used.

Tree branches and twigs must be tied in bundles not more than 12 inches in diameter and four feet in length. Rope or twine should be used, not wire. Large branches must be neatly stacked in lengths not to exceed four feet.

Items to be picked up must be placed on the public right-of-way at the curb or edge of the street, not in the street. Items which do not conform to these rules will not be picked up.

Residents may call the Township Public Works Department at 921-7077 for further information.

stolen Saturday night from the $80 were removed from a roll front porch of the Colonial bar of a 4x4 pickup truck while Club on Prospect Avenue. it was parked Friday between Police said that the owner is a 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. in a rear high school student who is lot at 10 Dickinson Street. The victim is a university student.

A Mongoose dirt bike was stolen last week from the side of Princeton High School near the school's auto shop. Police report the bike was unlocked and was the property of a student.

A Barnard College student visiting Princeton reported the theft Saturday night of her $150 black wool jacket from the Cottage Club on Prospect Avenue, and an Edgershouse resident listed the theft of her wallet last week while she was shopping at the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center. She lost $16.

ANOTHER SUMMONS
For Bill Blackburn, William K. Blackburn, 57, has had another brush with the police. Blackburn, who has no address, was issued a summons for creating a disturbance at the Thomas Sweet Shop, 179 Nassau Street.

Patrolmen John Reading and Ronald Wohlschlegel responded to a call and found Blackburn outside eating ice cream with an open bottle of beer in his hand.

Checking with the store manager, the officers were told that Blackburn had entered, muttering something about the Soviet Union in a loud and annoying voice. He also allegedly annoyed customers by taking his false teeth in and out of his mouth in front of them.

Blackburn was issued a summons which is scheduled to be heard in court May 4. Capt. John J. Bellow commented that since Blackburn has collected so many summonses a special hearing in court for him alone is being planned.

A SAFE RIDE HOME Program is Growing. "It's made kids think about drinking and driving," is the thoughtful comment of Ann Sutphin, president of Safe Rides and a student at Princeton High School.

In the week-ends since mid-February when Safe Rides began, 15 and 16 calls an evening have come in, between 10 p.m. when the volunteers arrive, take off their coats, and settle in for the evening, until 3 a.m. when they lock up and go home.

Safe Rides is a teen-parent volunteer organization (technically an Explorer post of the Boy Scouts, for insurance) that gets you safely home if your date has had too much to drink to drive safely. Or if you, yourself, have had too much for safe driving. "We don't necessarily know when a kid has been drinking. We don't ask," Ann continues. "Maybe your friend left the party without you and you have no way to get home. Maybe your parent dropped you off and said 'Get your own ride home'. Or maybe it's just a younger kid who can't drive yet, who hasn't been drinking or anything, but just needs a ride. And even if it's just four blocks, we'll take them. Remember the two girls who were raped so close to the party they'd just left?"

Calls like these, not necessarily linked to drunkenness, are OK because it makes it less humiliating for the drunk guest to call Safe Rides. "It's not cool to go home with your parents," Ann remarks.

At a teen dance at the "Y," she says, the Safe Rides telephone number was written on everybody's hand. Soon, Safe Rides hopes to get a stamp made.

Yes, Safe Rides has been abused. Kids may try to get a ride from party to party. "They lied," Ann reports. "It was obvious right away that we weren't dropping them off at their own home. They weren't refused the next time, just because they'd abused the privilege before. But the kids who were Safe Ride drivers told them, 'Hey, don't abuse this. It ties up a car and cheats the other kids.'"

The driver who takes you home is a teen volunteer. This driver has been in a training session and knows how to recognize somebody who has been drinking, and how to handle that person. If things get tough, there is a CB in the car and the driver can call back to the adult at headquarters.

So far, Safe Rides report, there have been no tricky things to handle.

Meanwhile, back at HQ, other drivers are waiting. Dispatchers — teens but too young to drive — handle incoming calls.

The boundaries are Carnegie Lake, Carter Road (including Honey Brook), Cherry Valley and the canal at Kingston.

"There is a need out there, and more of a need than we have been getting calls for," is the view of Loy Ann Carrington, Safe Ride co-founder, with parent Polly Miller.

series is "Free Yourself to be Yourself, Dealing With Phobia and Anxiety," by Jerry Kantor, M.D., a specialist in the field of phobias. Dr. Kantor will combine a slide presentation with discussion about phobias, what they are, how to cope with them, and how to keep them from narrowing down the affected person's life. According to Dr. Kantor, there are often physical as well as emotional reasons for phobias, and research in this area has been quite promising. Family members and friends of those suffering from phobias are encouraged to attend.

On consecutive Thursday evenings, beginning at 7:30 p.m., the topics to be presented are: "Taking the Woe Out of Worry" with Ms. Prestbo; "When a Loved One Leaves" with Nancy Seaman, R.N., M.S.N., and "Catastrophic Illness" led by Benjamin Wright, M.D. and Randall Nichols, Ph.D.

REP. SMITH TO SPEAK
On Hunger. New Jersey Congressman Christopher H. Smith (4-R) will be keynote speaker at Trenton State College during a week of events focusing on the plight of the world's hungry. Mr. Smith will discuss the problem of hunger in the United States and related legislative actions on Sunday at 7:30 in Room 130 of Forcina Hall (formerly Education Building). Human Hunger Awareness Week, continuing through April 14, will include a variety of discussions, films, workshops and a 24-hour fast. All events are free and open to the public.

Michael Goegehegan of the United Nations Development Programme will give a worldwide perspective on hunger on Monday at 7:15 p.m. in Forcina Hall 130. Following his presentation will be the film, "Hungry World," and workshops on the economic and business aspects of hunger by TSC professors Dr. Harriet Hinek and Patricia Duffy.

Workshops with TSC faculty later in the week will provide information on: "Subsistence Rights" with Dr. Morton Winston; "How Hunger Affects Children" with Dr. Sheila Mays and Robert Anderson; and the "Political Aspects of Hunger" with Dr. Kenneth L. Maxwell.

Sponsored by TSC students of the Human Hunger Awareness Organization, the week's program of events was coordinated by senior political science major Nicholas Larigakis, president of the organization and a resident of Wrightstown. For full details of the program, call Mr. Larigakis at 771-8769.

"Progress? Count Me Out!"
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The "Heart of Princeton" desecrated and destroyed! The demolishing of the theatre and attached shops was but a beginning. This act completely changed the charming appearance of THE SQUARE. Of what aesthetic value are masses of parked cars!

The nearly final blow was the creation of that ugly kiosk! This area was, formerly, a pleasant oasis on most days -- a nice spot for a bag lunch -- an appropriate location for Seward Johnson's "Out to Lunch". The sculpture has been removed as of this moment, and wisely so, since some "newspaper" seeker could trip over the young man's extended legs!

Adding insult to injury -- can you believe that yet another dress shop is to be located in that already "over-saturated" dress-shopping square?

How depressing to look at the Projected Collins' Master Plan for the Square! Take a good look at the scale model in the lobby of the Nassau Inn. If this is progress, count me out!

KATHARINE B. STRONG
91 Hun Road

What Next, Collins?
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Planning Board has to answer for allowing the Collins company to deface the center of Princeton with the ill-proportioned, ugly kiosk, with its pastel colors and silly weathervane. Its existence gives cause for concern about what decisions the Board has made and may make on other proposals.

As well as major building plans, possibilities for further bad taste are at hand. Town Topics of March 23 noted some projected plans, including a "Plaza with bandstand"; "varied paving stones" and "lanterns" on Chambers Walk; a "monument to open space"; "arches" and "decorative gates" -- all are alarming in their potential.

The Collins company in many ways is riding roughshod over Princetonians' wishes, and often with the cooperation of the Planning Board. They have ousted four of the most popular shops on the Square; have raised rents in One Palmer Square so firms who have been there for many years are going elsewhere; have increased the Park and Shop charges to participating shops so much that some shops are giving up this service to their customers.

Unless there is voiced opposition from Princeton residents who care, worse things are going to happen.

A Walker in the Woods
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Your story in TOWN TOPICS about preservation of the Institute woods brought to mind this true story.

I first came to Princeton on an NSF postdoctoral fellowship as a member of the Institute. By good luck I was assigned an office in the ECP, the so-called electronics computer project building named for the computer built there by John Von Neumann with the engineering done by Julian Bigelow. It has long since been packed off to the Smithsonian, but it was still there in 1960 when I arrived.

By another piece of luck my office overlooked the entrance to the woods at the bottom of Olden Lane. One Sunday as I was sunning myself on the front door stoop, a small woman walked by, read the sign that the Institute posted on a chain across the service road into the woods, stopped, turned, and came up to me.

"Please, sir, I wonder if I might walk in the woods."

"Sure. It's open to the public."

"But the sign says 'Friends of the Institute for Advanced Study.'"

"That means everybody except hunters and flower-pickers!"

"Yes, I see. I think I might be allowed to go in. You see my father used to work for the Institute."

I gave her an inquiring look, but gave up and asked, "Who is your father?"

"Einstein."

And then she walked through the woods that glorious sunny day, and suddenly I felt that God had revealed his face.

CARL FAITH
199 Longview

One Police Force.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The talk of the town lately has been the space problem at Borough Hall, pertaining to the needs of the Princeton Borough Police. I think it absurd to think of spending $400,000, when there is a less expensive way of doing things.

The answer is the Princeton Regional Police. Under my proposal, which was presented in the form of a letter to the majority of members of Borough Council and the Township Committee, the Township and the Borough Police would merge under a precinct system. The Borough Police would be the Stockton Street precinct, and the Township Police would be the Valley Road precinct.

I am sure that space problems could be solved once and for all by scrapping up additional space at the Valley Road School Building. Hiring additional dispatchers, painting police cars, changing around the telephone system and general administrative costs would fall way under $400,000. In 1984, it is highly likely the consolidation issue might come up for a vote again. Since in 1979 consolidation only failed by 33 votes it is probably that consolidation might be passed.

Troublemakers from Trenton come into Princeton on the Mercer Metro for the exclusive purpose of making trouble. The Princeton Regional Police could do much more to combat the problem than two Princeton Police Departments. There are five detectives in the Borough, including the Chief Detective, and I believe there are five detectives for the Township Police. Wouldn't it be much better to have ten detectives for all Princeton, instead of only five for the Township, and only five for the Borough?

Under my plan, police morale would improve because an election would be held between Chief Carnevale and Chief Pinelli, to determine who would run the newly merged Princeton Regional Police. The runnerup in such an election would be the Inspector of one of the precincts.

Under my plan, the courts would be merged, if that is allowable under New Jersey Law. To have two judges, and an assignment clerk, over all traffic cases, disorderly person cases, & whatever else needed to be heard, would make the wheels of justice (injustice in the minds of some) move faster. I believe that my form letters were issued at least two weeks ago. Why isn't anyone weighing my proposals?

Alexander Saharic, Central Jersey Power and Light Coordinator of Safety Training and Health for the corporation will give a talk and audio-visual presentation on the dangers of mishandling power and telephone lines. John Kenton, who is an accident prevention specialist for the Federal Aviation Administration, will speak on balloon safety practices and accident prevention.

Lawrence Boyer, president of Hot Air Affairs, certified balloon flight instructor, who is also the New Jersey State Accident Investigator for the Balloon Federation of America, will also speak on ballooning safety practices and accident prevention.

On Saturday at 6:30 a.m. all attending the seminar, as well as interested parties, will gather at the Sanders' field for a mass balloon fly-out. As seminar coordinator, Mr. Boyer hopes to assemble as many as eight balloons to take off carrying first aid squad members, those attending the seminar and local dignitaries, such as West Windsor Mayor Stanley Perrine and a representative of the West Windsor Police, for a visual demonstration of ballooning and ballooning safety.

After the demonstration, a special Balloonists' Buffet Brunch is planned at Galletta's Gallery in Princeton Junction from 8 to 12:30.

At U-Store. The Princeton University Store is accepting entries for its ninth annual Photo Contest. Deadline for entries is April 30 at 5, and the show itself will be held at the U-Store May 5 through 14.

The contest is open to all amateur photographers, except for U-Store employees and their families.

There will be two categories, color and black and white with prizes being awarded in both categories. Photographers may enter a total of two pictures in either or both categories. The prizes, to be awarded in merchandise of the winner's choice, are in each category $50, $25 and $15.

Entry blanks may be picked up at the Princeton University Store's camera department during store hours, which are Monday through Saturday 9 to 5:30 and Thursday evenings to 8:30.

HISTORIC BUILDINGS
Samples on View. The Historical Society is holding a special exhibition entitled "Fifty Years of the Historical American Buildings Survey" which is currently on view at Bainbridge House.

The exhibition which features 17 New Jersey buildings is an introduction to a small gleaming from the rich harvest of the state's HABs program. The selection of drawings and photographs hints at the variety of subject and the depth of information on New Jersey architecture available in the HABs collection -- high style and vernacular buildings, regional variants, the beauty inherent in utilitarian objects executed in wood, metal and stone.

They are also a testimonial to the skill and artistry of New Jersey's architects, draftsmen and photographers, past and present.

The exhibition was planned by the Historic Buildings Committee of the New Jersey Society of Architects and was mounted by Michael Mills, AIA, of Short and Ford Architects. The text and labels were written by Constance Greiff of Heritage Studies.

The exhibition will be on view at Bainbridge House Tuesday through Sunday, noon - 4 until the middle of June. The public is welcome.

NEW LOCATION SET
For International Festival. The eighth annual International Festival, organized by Princeton University's International Center, will take place this year in Dillon Gymnasium on the University campus. The date is Sunday, April 17, and the festivities will start at noon and last till 8.

Students, faculty and visiting scholars from more than 40 nations will take part in this event. For the more than 800 Princeton visitors from foreign lands, the festival offers a showcase of life in their own countries. A wealth of ethnic foods will be on sale throughout the day, from Dutch "Hutspot" to Indian curries and spicy African specialties.

There will be performances continuously during the day, and they will be as varied as the food. Some examples are Greek folkdancing, Chinese singing, poetry reading, a gospel ensemble and many more.

Exhibits and craft demonstrations, such as Japanese flower arrangements, will introduce a variety of arts and customs to the visitors. Paintings, art objects and crafts, collected all over the world will be for sale.

A donation of $1 is suggested for the benefit of the Center.

COURSE FOR KIDS SET
In Self-Reliance, Camp Fire, a nationwide non-profit organization which has been serving youth for 72 years, will offer its "I Can Do It" self reliance course for children beginning the week of April 18.

A session for grades K-2 will be held at Nassau Presbyterian Church. The course meets 1 1/2 hours, once a week for five weeks. Call the Camp Fire office at 392-6138 for registration information. Pre-registration is required.

LIKE TO DANCE?

Learn Country Dances. Two classes in English country dance will be given next Tuesday, April 12, and again Tuesday, April 19, by the Princeton Folk Dance Group. Classes, which will begin at 7:30, will be held in Riverside School. They will be followed by an evening of request dancing. Country dances — some of which came to America as "contra" dances — require no special experience or ability. Classes are free, and no partners are needed. Additional information is available by calling 921-1462 or 924-7350.

KNITTING CLINIC SET

By Artisans Guild. The YWCA Artisans Guild is holding Knitting Clinics on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:30 through May 19 at the YM-YWCA building, Paul Robeson Place.

The clinic offers advice to those who are having trouble with their knitting projects and wish to seek help from a member of the Artisans Guild, who will be present. A drop-in fee of $3 per session will be charged and will include refreshments.

For further information call the Artisans Guild at 924-0501 or the Adult Department at the YWCA, 924-5571.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST

In Hopewell. The Hopewell Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary will hold its annual Spring Pancake Breakfast on Sunday, April 10, from 8:30 to noon.

The menu will include pancakes, eggs, sausages, bacon, home fries, juice, toast, coffee, and tea.

GRANT IS AWARDED

To Near Eastern Studies. The Cleveland H. Dodge Foundation Inc. of New York City has awarded a grant of $150,000 to Princeton University to increase the endowment for the Cleveland E. Dodge and Bayard Dodge professorships in Near Eastern Studies.

The twin chairs were established in 1972 by members of the families of Bayard and Cleveland E. Dodge, of the Princeton Class of 1909, in recognition of their service to Princeton and their lifelong interest in the Near East. The two men were the twin sons of philanthropist Cleveland H. Dodge, of the Class of 1879, a trustee of Princeton and classmate of Woodrow Wilson.

Since their inception, the chairs have been occupied by two of the world's most eminent scholars of the Near East: Bernard Lewis, the leading historian of the Near East in the English-speaking world and the editor of "The Encyclopedia of Islam," and Charles Issawi, a renowned economist and economic historian of the Middle East, whose most recent work is "The Economic History of the Middle East and North Africa Since 1800."

IT'S THEATRE

Your Social Life. "Social Life as Theatre," a Conversation in Sociology, will be held Thursday, April 14 at 8 p.m. at the Woodrow Wilson School. The public is invited to attend.

The "conversation" honors the late sociologist Erving Goffman, who perceived social life as a form of dramaturgy, and was regarded by many critics as one of

Superior teachers

The Princeton Schools

excellence until it reaches a crescendo...

Strong, caring teachers are the foundation of the Princeton Regional Schools. As the District's Long Range Plan Advisory Committee has explored the decades ahead, the importance of this foundation has been underlined repeatedly. A changing society characterized by dramatic technological innovation will require flexibility, originality, and growth from its teachers. Fortunately, Princeton's staff is greeting the future with a positive and energetic spirit.

Computers have been welcomed to Princeton with enthusiasm. The High School and Middle School were among the first in the State to introduce computer literacy for all students, and now the elementary schools lead the State in the introduction of LOGO, a programming language designed by MIT for young children. Unlike many school systems, Princeton has not been content to stop at computer literacy. Students may elect advanced programming courses at High School and computer applications are being integrated into the regular curriculum. The success of this effort can be directly tied to the willingness of teachers to embrace new methods and new experiences.

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE BUDGET

There are two important constraints on the school budget. "Cap" legislation defines the allowable increase in per pupil expenditures. Princeton's cap is well below the State average and well below the rate of inflation. Declining enrollment further jeopardizes budget flexibility as rising overhead costs threaten to infringe upon funds designated for programs.

The positive attitude of teachers is supported by the systematic review of programs, the commitment of time and resources to long-range planning, and the resolve of the schools to stay in the vanguard of educational practice. A major goal of the schools is to nurture the growth of thoughtful, questioning individuals who are equipped to meet the complex challenges that lie ahead; and programs are carefully selected or revised with that goal in mind. Decision-making, problem-solving, and higher level thinking skills are valued and frequently stressed.

Advancement of excellence depends upon the continued support of fine teaching. The District searches exhaustively to identify superior teachers to fill vacancies, and it invests substantially in the development of teachers already employed. Training programs and opportunities for professional growth are essential elements in a plan of education for the 80's and beyond. The Princeton Regional Schools are preparing for the future with confidence and enthusiasm.

The budget presented to the voters on April 12 has received careful review of the Board. Four public hearings were held.

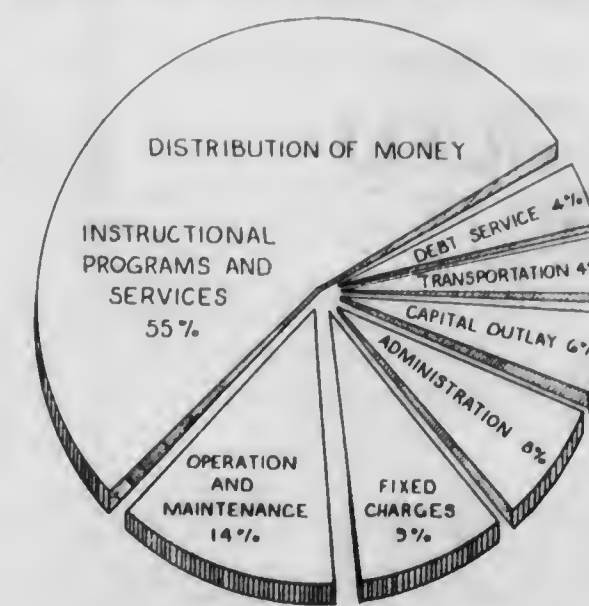

The budget reflects a total increase of 7 percent over last year's budget. The projected increase in taxes is 5.7 percent which is the smallest increase in the last six years.

Tales for Children

Story-telling and dance will be combined this Sunday afternoon in a program for elementary-school age children at the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street. The program will begin at 3:30.

Joy Vrooman, who holds a master's degree in dance, will begin by telling a Persian folk-tale and then perform a dance she choreographed which is based on seven Persian fairy tales. When she was a senior at Princeton University in 1975-76, she choreographed and performed the dances as part of her thesis in Near Eastern studies.

Admission will be $1. No reservations are necessary.

The Way will fund Camp Fire's "Latch-key" program for elementary school children. Latch-key refers to children who go home from Princeton University's school to an empty house sociology department, will lead the discussion. Par-Lenni Lenape estimates there participants will be Robert Scott will be 10 million of these faculty, Edward Jones of the by 1990.

In the program, children learn safety measures, like what to do in case a fire breaks out in the house, whom to call and what to say if there is an emergency, what to do if someone follows the child home from school, and so on. School officials in Princeton, Plainsboro and Montgomery have expressed interest in the program.

Alan Frank, chairman of the Way's mercantile solicitation, said this week that 91 merchants donated to the recent drive, contributing over $27,000. Of the 91, nine also solicited their employees. Employee contributions accounted for more than $6,500 of the $27,000 total.

FORD DUE AT RUTGERS
As Visiting Fellow. Former President Gerald R. Ford, the Distinguished Fellow of the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, will meet with students and faculty of Rutgers University as the Clifford Case Visiting Professor during a visit to the New Brunswick campus on Friday, April 8.

The visit will be conducted under the auspices of the American Enterprise Institute as part of AEI's continuing academic outreach program, which is designed to focus attention on public policy issues.

The former president will take part in a public forum, "A Conversation with Gerald R. Ford," at 11:30 a.m. at the Nicholas Music Center. To attend call Morris Roth, Rutgers News Service, 201-932-7061.

Mr. Ford was named AEI's Distinguished Fellow on February 4, 1977. He has visited 99 colleges and universities since leaving office, most under the auspices of AEI. Earlier in this term he visited Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada.

More Than Sun and Fish. Starting with the subsistence patterns of Indians who lived along the coast in the early 1600s, and continuing through the whaling industry, shell fishing and the resort boom of the 19th century, a State Museum exhibit called "Maritime New Jersey" focuses on the economic history of the state's coastline. It will open in the main galleries of the New Jersey State Museum, West State Street, Trenton, on Saturday, April 9, continuing through June 12.

REGISTRATION DUE
For Senior Trips. Senior citizens interested in going to Lovey's Songfest Showcase with the Recreation Department on Friday, May 6, may still register. The cost of the show, with roundtrip transportation, lunch, and a visit to Frogmore Village is $20.

The trip to Neil's New Yorker will not include seeing "South Pacific," as originally promised, but "Annie," straight from Broadway. This trip costs $21. Interested seniors should call the Recreation Office at 921-9480 for details.

AWARD FOR ENDOWMENT
In International Studies. The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation of Menlo Park, Cal., has awarded $200,000 to Princeton University to create a new discretionary endowment fund for International studies. The grant comes in the form of a challenge, and involves a three-to-one matching component.

This latest Hewlett Foundation grant to Princeton will enhance the teaching and research opportunities available to faculty and students in the university's various programs in international studies. The funds will be used to serve a variety of purposes such as the development of new courses, support of faculty research projects, and support for student field-work. The grant will be administered by the university's Council on International and Regional Studies.

Dr. A. Arthur Sugerman, of Lawrenceville, director of the Affective Disorders Program of Carrier Foundation, has been elected a Fellow of the Royal College of Psychiatrists. The Royal College has approximately 50 Fellows in the United States, and Dr. Sugerman is the only one living in New Jersey.

Dr. Sugerman formerly served as medical director and director of research at the Carrier Foundation. He is presently a clinical professor at Rutgers Medical School and is also a visiting professor at Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia.

John K. Kaderabek of Fairway Drive will join European American Bank as senior vice president in charge of the Automation Services Division.

Mr. Kaderabek has 26 years of experience in banking, most recently as executive vice president of operations and data processing at New Jersey National Bank. Before that he was with the National Bank of Detroit, where he was responsible for data processing, systems development and check processing.

Victor H. Brombert, Henry Putnam University Professor of Romance and Comparative Literatures at Princeton University, has been named director of the Christian Gauss Seminars, succeeding Francis Fergusson, E.B.O. Borgerhoff, R.P. Blackmur and Joseph Frank, professor of comparative literature, who has led the Seminars since 1966. Founded in 1949, the Christian Gauss Seminars bring distinguished writers and scholars for lectures and discussions with members of the Princeton faculty and community. Under the leadership of Prof. Frank, seminarists have included Roman Jacobson, Lionel Trilling, Tzvetan Todorov, Herbert Marcuse, Helen Vendler, Erik Erikson, Nathalie Sarraute, Roger Shattuck, Wayne Booth and Michael Walzer.

Prof. Brombert himself presented a Gauss Seminar in 1964 when he was a professor of Romance Literatures at Yale University. An authority in 19th and 20th century literature, he has written on Stendhal, Flaubert, Balzac and Hugo, as well as on "The Intellectual Hero" and "The Romantic Prison: The French Tradition."

Prof. Brombert joined the Princeton University faculty in 1975. In 1979 he was awarded the Howard T. Berhman award for distinguished achievement in the humanities. The French government recently announced his decoration as Officier de l'Ordre des Palmes Academiques, in recognition of his service to French letters.

Charles B. Purrenhage of 48 Jefferson Road has been appointed managing editor of Society magazine, which is produced by Transaction Publishers at Rutgers University.

A 1968 graduate of St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia with a B.S. degree in international relations, Mr. Purrenhage comes to Rutgers from the Foreign Policy Research Institute in Philadelphia, where he served since 1975 in a variety of capacities, including book review editor of Orbis, a journal of world affairs. He also worked with the Institute in the development of its book program, co-published with Praeger-CBS. He was managing editor of the Foreign Policy Issues book series.

Previously he worked for a year as chief copy editor of the Annals of Internal Medicine of the American College of Physicians in Philadelphia. His first job in publishing was with Dorrance and Co., also in Philadelphia.

Airman William K. Schwab III, son of William K. and Dorothy S. Schwab of Pennington, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training. Airman Schwab will now receive specialized instruction in the avionics systems field. He is a 1976 graduate of Hopewell Valley Central High School.

Marion Katz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Katz of 152 Clover Lane, has been awarded a four-week, all-expense-paid study-trip to the Federal Republic of Germany this summer.

Miss Katz was one of more than 16,000 students who competed for the study-trip by participating in a nationwide German language testing program administered by the American Association of Teachers of German. She is a student at Princeton High School, and Dr. Victoria Ellis is her German teacher.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights are sponsored and prepared by the Parent Teacher Organization of the Princeton Regional Schools.

PHS People in the News

The Editorial Board of ASPIRATIONS, the literary magazine for Mercer County high school students, published by MCCC, has chosen for publication the literary works of the following PHS students: Ken Beer, Peter Bergman, Bhaswati Bhattacharya, Rosemary Chowins, Jessica Danielson, Rebecca Davis, Adam Ende, Amy Halstead, Meg Isaac, Carol O'Donoghue, Margaret Riddle, Erica Ruben, Daniel Ruiz, Deborah Rosenfeld, Lindsay Smith, Heather Troy, Leonie Wortman and Mako Yoshikawa.

PHS hosted the March competition of the New Jersey Science League. In this regional competition, the Chemistry I, Biology I and Physics teams placed first and the Biology II team, second. In state standing to date, the Chemistry II team is in first place and the Physics team, second. Team members include: Biology I - Paul Baum, Vera Chen, Mark Liu, Japheth Wood, Samuel Zimmerman; Biology II - Nicholas Hirsch, Inger Larsen, David Proshan, John Lifflon, Troy Norris; Chemistry I - Aage Bendiksen, Nina Eagles, Safi Iehcail, Lisa Dresner, Matt Freulich, Joel Miller and Marion Katz; Chemistry II - Sara Bolton, David Fork, Olga Frysman, Ahmed Taha, Robert Dunham, Maria Dowell and Kristen McCrea; Physics - Daniel Bascara, Bhaswati Bhattacharya, William Branson, Tony Curtis, Charles Sullivan and Yaffa Weaver.

On March 9, the Colonial Valley Conference Debate Tournament was held at PHS. At this contest, PHS emerged in first place. The victorious team included: Nick Hirsch, David Proshan, Tony Curtis and Tom Judson.

The Advisory Committee for the Business Education Department of PHS met recently to observe a demonstration of the equipment of the department and to be apprised of its use to prepare students for jobs in business and industry.

Under the direction of Toni Nielsen, Coordinator of the Computer Center, several students have completed programs: Chris Franks, Justin Wolfe, Oscar Bascara, David Calaprice, Marek Kowarz, Eric Bing, Eric Pearce, Geoff Wadsworth, Andrea Rutherford, Jeff Taylor, Aaron Bredon and Tom Judson. In conjunction with the Learning in the Community Program, several students have had the opportunity to explore avenues of expression. Kate Huggins and David Nelson have joined a group of selected seniors to participate in KYW News Radio's "Newstudies" program. The students will be exposed to news writing, editing, and the workings of a radio station. Kim Helm has attended a 40-hour training session in crisis counseling sponsored by the Trenton YMCA Women's Center. Maria Pinochet has been assisting William Volk in the Internal Revenue Service Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program.

The Black History Club presented a talent show on March 8 and 9. "Magic Moments" was produced by Marjorie Toussaint and P.J. Young. Those who participated included: Judy Aust, Toni Barclay, Beth Berman, Kristy Ivan, Tika Liverman, Claire Procaccino, Dan Panitz, Fergus McCormick, Alicia Kornegay, Crystal Nevius, Renee McGowan, Dellice McElroy, Tony Alexander, Scott Fisher, Tim Howard, Ken McKellar, Andy McManus, Anthony Paige, Moshe Toussaint, Dionne Craig, Georgianna Cumberbatch, Michelle Cumberbatch, Suzette Cumberbatch, Tracy Hemingway, Allison Hoagland, Madinah Howard, Cora Sloane, Camille Thomas, Wendy Turner, Kyle Stephens, McKelcie Beauvil, Michelle Greenland, Marni Rice, Robert Bosley, Lance Flenoid, Marvin Trotman and Ralph Jackson.

Mademoiselle Jocelyne Garbay and seventeen students of the Lycee de Grand Air, Arcachon, France, are visiting PHS and host families from March 24 to April 14. During the month of February, faculty member Janice Carey and 17 PHS students visited Arcachon. This exchange is arranged by the Council on International Exchange.

Carmen Prezioso, Chairman of the Foreign Language Department, and student Matthew Tamasi have been awarded scholarships to teach and to study during the summer session at Corfinio College, Italy. The session will include courses in language and culture and a seminar in "Italians in the Creation of America."

On March 19, the New Jersey Foreign Language Association presented an award to Mr. Prezioso for his outstanding contribution to the study of foreign language in New Jersey.

The Federal Republic of Germany and the American Association of Teachers of German have awarded an all-expense paid study trip to Germany to Marion Katz. During the summer, Marion will live with a German family, attend high school, and travel. Marion received a perfect score on the National German Examination and was recommended by her teacher, Dr. Victoria Ellis.

Evan Cohn has obtained a scholarship to visit Brazil during the summer. This opportunity has been made available to Evan through the "Youth for Understanding Program" sponsored by Johnson and Johnson.

and group tours April 1. Hours are from 1 to 5 weekdays and from noon to 6 weekends.

1983 marks the 20th year that the museum has been open to the public on a regular basis. The Red Mill, circa 1763, which houses the largest portion of the museum's exhibition area, was purchased in 1960 by five area residents who had the foresight to preserve the building and establish a non-profit corporation for educational purposes.

Today the museum encompasses an area of almost 10 acres with 13 buildings, nine of which are presently used for exhibit purposes. In 1974 the Red Mill was listed on the National and State Registers of Historic Places. In 1977 the Museum received official recognition in the form of accreditation from the American Association of Museums.

The museum opened its Educational and Cultural Center, built with the aid of a Challenge Grant from The National Endowment for the Humanities in 1979.

The museum interprets the life of the common man or the "folk" of the region from settlement to 1920. Its collection reflects this theme and consists mainly of artifacts donated by residents of Hunterdon County. The exhibition program consists of life-like settings utilizing artifacts of the period and mannequins to create an educational and entertaining visual experience.

Programs include a series of 11 Saturday evening concerts, a Children's Day, an Antique Show and Sale, a House Tour, Craft Day and Harvest Jubilee. Additional information may be obtained at the museum or by calling 735-4101.

Enter Your Art

The Mercer County Artists' '83 Exhibit will receive entries May 18 and 19 for the summer exhibit on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College, the college announced this week.

You are eligible to enter if you are 18 or older, and live, work or go to school in Mercer County. You may submit two entries of original work in any two-dimension or three-dimension category except photography. Prints, paintings, drawings or flat textile work must not exceed 48 inches in length.

Sculpture, ceramics, glass, jewelry or three-dimensional textiles must not exceed 75 pounds or a 50-inch diameter.

There is a $4 entry fee for each piece. Information may be obtained from 586-4800, ext. 588.

YMCA PLANS COURSE

In Landscape Painting. Learning to express one's impressions of the outdoors onto the canvas will be the goal of the YMCA's new Outdoor Landscape Painting course to be taught by Alan Taback. The class will focus on composition, color relationships, and the use of light. Oil and acrylics will be used.

Mr. Taback has studied with seascape artist Ann Packard, impressionist painter Bernard Ungerleider, impressionist painter Henry Henslie at his Cape Cod School of Art, and with Buckingham, Pa. artist Jacques Fabert. His style combines the use of the real with a clear, simply-stated impression of the subject. The course, which is geared to the beginning and intermediate painter, will take place outdoors Wednesday mornings at various locations in the Princeton area.

The course will last for eight weeks as a part of the Summer Warm-Up session, May 2 - June 25. Call the YMCA at 924-4497 for more information.

Working Woman magazine in its February issue. La Cuisine is the only shop in New Jersey to be so honored. It was started almost three years ago at 183 Nassau Street by Roberta Churchill. Ms. Churchill previously worked as a cook and pastry chef in France, Finland, Long Island and Pennsylvania, and she has also taught cooking classes and catered parties in the Princeton area. She and her staff daily prepare entrees, salads, soups, breads, croissants, pastries and many other items for customers to carry-out for many purposes. They also will take special orders for all or parts of meals for any occasion.

OBITUARIES

Michael Carnevale, 81, of 103 Linden Lane, co-founder of the Annex Restaurant, died April 4 in Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Carnevale came to Princeton in 1922 from Petroranella, Italy, with his wife, Lucy, whom he married in 1920. Trained as a shoemaker and speaking no English, he worked first in the Building and Grounds Department of Princeton University, then as a shoe repairer in a business that became Hulit's Shoes.

In 1948, with his brother-in-law John Gianantonio, Mr. Carnevale purchased the liquor license from "The Old Annex" and set up a restaurant and bar in the back of a small shop in the Allen's building at 134 Nassau Street. Two years later, The Annex Restaurant moved to its present location at 128 1/2 Nassau Street. Here, in a genial atmosphere of red-checked tables placed close together and family style Italian cooking, the restaurant served families and individuals, professors and plumbers in a notable mingling of Town and Gown.

Mr. Carnevale sold the business to his cousins Henry and Luigi Carnevale in 1966 but continued to serve as manager of the bar and grill. In 1978, on the 30th anniversary of the restaurant, he was presented a plaque "in appreciation for 30 years of untiring service."

Surviving are his wife, Lucy Gianantonio Carnevale; two sons, Anthony and Michael, both of Princeton (Michael is the Borough Chief of Police); a daughter, Mrs. Margaret DeBlase of Englewood, Colo.; three sisters, Mrs. Ergonina Menello and Mrs. Caroline Gianantonio, both of Princeton, and Mrs. Pirena DeVincent of Youngstown, Ohio; and nine grandchildren. The funeral will be held Thursday at 10 from the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue. Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated in St. Paul's Church at 11 a.m. Burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Friends may call this Wednesday from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. at the funeral home. Christian Wake services will be held Wednesday evening. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Avner R. Robinson, DPM, of Hawthorne Avenue, died March 31 at his home. He was 73.

Dr. Robinson was a podiatrist with a practice in Princeton and Trenton. He was born in Trenton and had lived in Princeton since 1932. He was a founding member of the Jewish Center of Princeton.

A graduate of Trenton High School, he attended Cornell University and graduated from the Temple University School of Podiatry in 1930. He was an active member and president of the Podiatry Society of New Jersey.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marion Spear Robinson; two daughters, Mrs. Rita Arnstein of Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Judy Corney of Berkeley Heights; a sister, Mrs. Edith Weston of Florida; a brother, Jerry Robinson of New York City; and five grandchildren. A memorial service will be held Sunday, April 24, at 11 a.m. at the Jewish Center. Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt will officiate. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 88 Lakewood Drive, Trenton.

Norton C. Jefferson, 74 of Cherry Valley Road, died March 25 at his home. He was the founder and president of N.C. Jefferson Plumbing and Heating Firm, retiring in 1965.

Mr. Jefferson was born in Germantown, Pa., and had lived in Princeton for more than 60 years. He was a former building inspector and zoning officer for Montgomery Township, as well as a member of the Montgomery Township Planning Board. He was a past president of the Princeton Lions Club and had been a member for 33 years. He was also a member of the Princeton United Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy K. Jefferson; a son, Bruce W. Jefferson, of Princeton; a daughter, Shirley A. Kreszl of Seaside Park; a brother, Robert B. Jefferson of Hopewell; and four grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 1400 Rte. 1, James H. Harris Jr., pastor of the Princeton United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Montgomery Township First Aid and Rescue Squad or to the Princeton United Methodist Church.

William Sulphin, 83, of 284 Witherspoon Street, died April 3 at Princeton Medical Center. Mr. Sulphin was born in Flemington and lived in Princeton for more than 50 years. He was a retired employee of the Belle Mead Army Depot, and he was also a self-employed gardener.

He is survived by his wife, Hattie Nelson Sulphin, and several nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held Thursday at 11 at the Hughes Funeral Home, 324 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton, the Rev. Edward Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Princeton, officiating. Burial will be in Princeton Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 9 until the time of the service.

Albert M. Lippmann, 73, of Princeton Junction, died April 5 in Princeton Medical Center. Mr. Lippmann was born in Brooklyn and had lived in Princeton Junction since 1950. He attended Columbia University and was associated with American Cyanamid Co. for 32 years before retiring in 1963.

He was former business manager and treasurer of West Windsor Township, former chairman of the West Windsor Planning Board, and former municipal chairman of the West Windsor Republican Club. He was a member and past president of the West Windsor Lions Club and was a past Lions Deputy District Governor.

PEACE GROUP FORMED
By Princeton Catholics. Roman Catholic members of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament have formed their own task force within the Coalition to address the Catholic population on the issue of the nuclear arms race. The group will meet Tuesday, April 19, at 8 at the home of Elizabeth Schorske, 106 Winant Road.

In close contact with Pax Christi, the official Catholic peace movement, the task force will deal specifically with the proposed pastoral letter of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops to be released in early May. Entitled "The Challenge of Peace," the bishops' letter, presently in its third draft, will serve as the focus of the group's work. The goal is to familiarize area Catholics and others interested in the peace movement with this letter and to spread awareness of the nuclear arms issue.

The Catholic Peace Group also expects to be useful as a resource to assist parishes with study materials, contacts with experts and speakers, and events of general interest. The meeting April 19 is open to interested individuals. For further information call Mrs. Schorske at 921-3713 or Norbert A. Wetzel, 452-7529.

'AS YOU LIKE IT'

Auction, Etc. Lovers of art, crafts, books and record plants, games, toys and gourmet foods may find these and more at the "As You Like It" Auction Etc. at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road and Route 206. The date is Saturday, April 23, from 10 to 4.

The family is invited, for as adults bid on what is offered at the auction or browse around the booths, children will find games to play on the midway. There will be plenty of food for sustenance all day.

Leonard and Sonia Shainheit are in charge of this year's event. Proceeds go to selected social, educational and environmental causes, as well as to the church itself.

CONFERENCE PLANNED

By Catholics on Divorce. St. Anthony of Padua parish center in Hightstown will be the site of the first annual regional Conference for Separated and Divorced Catholics on Saturday, April 16. The conference is sponsored by the Family Life Bureau of the Diocese of Trenton.

Virginia Clemente of El Paso, Tex., a noted lecturer on the divorce process, will deliver the keynote address. The Rev. James Young, C.S.P., national chaplain for the North American Conference of Separated and Divorced Catholics, will also speak, and the Most Rev. John C. Reiss, J.C.D., Bishop of Trenton, will celebrate a liturgy at which Fr. Young will deliver the homily. Some 12 concurrent workshops will be offered, dealing with topics such as annulments, divorce with dignity, love and intimacy, remarriage and children of divorce.

The conference fee is $15. For information and registration, call the Family Life Bureau in Manalapan at (201) 780-1297.

SLIDE PRESENTATION
At Jewish Center. Cecile Seiden will give a slide presentation of Jewish marriage certificates on Sunday evening at 8 at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street. The program is sponsored by the Adult Education Committee.

Ketubah, the Hebrew term for marriage certificate, has been used since ancient times, not so much as evidence of marriage but chiefly as protection of the wife's rights. The ketubah obliges the husband to pay his wife a certain sum of money in the event of divorce and specifies her property rights in the event of his death. The ketubah is traditionally written in Aramaic and signed by witnesses.

These marriage certificates are noted for their wealth of color and design and for their calligraphy. Mrs. Seiden will discuss the calligraphy through the ages and the modern methods of design and illumination. She is a founding member of Second Generation of New Jersey, an organization of children of Holocaust survivors. She teaches in Central Hebrew High School, specializing in Jewish history, the shetel and the art of the ketubah.

Admission is free and refreshments will be served. The community is welcome.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Witherspoon Presbyterian Church is sponsoring a bus trip to Radio City Music Center on Sunday to see the matinee performance of "Porgie and Bess." The bus will leave from the Princeton Shopping Center at noon and will return to Princeton at 6:30. The price is $35. For tickets call 921-6820 or 924-2518. The chairperson is Rhett Hoagland, the Women's Association president is Fannie Floyd.

The Jewish Singles of the Windsor will attend a performance of "The Lion in Winter" by the Princeton Community Players on Sunday at 7:30. Tickets are $4 per person. Call 448-7075 to reserve a ticket with the group.

Bill Newman, a young singer from East Brunswick who graduated from Westminster Choir College in 1981, has released his first gospel album, "In His Service." The album includes his first recorded song, "Guide Me Lord Jesus," and is available at the Lamplighter Bookstore.

The Nursery Class at The Jewish Center has appointed Barbara Cohen as head teacher of the three year old class. Ms. Cohen is certified in early childhood education and has had additional training in Piaget theory. For the past three years she has been teaching at the Magic Cottage Nursery School in Lower Bucks County.

The Nursery Class provides an enriched learning environment that includes an introduction to Jewish customs through music, arts and crafts, stories and other activities. A limited number of places are available in the three and four year old classes. For information call 799-4070.

The Nursery Class will hold a summer camp for children ages 3-5 this summer. The program will be headed by Ms. Cohen. It will begin June 20

Constitution Hill. Think of it as your personal estate in Princeton.

Constitution Hill combines the elegance of owning a separate, secluded house on the 47-acre former Morgan estate, with the carefree living of a condominium lifestyle...

You will enjoy the epitome of gracious living: classic brick construction, flexible floor plans with a variety of options, outstanding privacy and incomparable surroundings, and, of course, a swimming pool in a gracious garden setting.

The original Morgan mansion, preserved and restored, forms the magnificent centerpiece of this unique community. It simply has to be seen. One, two and three bedroom homes with garages are priced from $238,000. Realtor: N. T. Callaway Real Estate, exclusive Princeton Representative for Sotheby Parke Bernet International Realty Corp., 4 Nassau St., Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Tel. (609) 921-1050 or call Constitution Hill (609) 921-2390. Sales office open daily 10 to 5 p.m.

DOGWOOD HILL

Custom Homes By William Bucc Builders, Inc.

Dogwood Hill is a unique residential enclave on the west side of Mount Lucas Road in Princeton Township. The site is naturally rolling and covered with native dogwoods and large shade trees. Eleven custom homes will be built on lots of at least three quarters of an acre, in a cluster plan with seven acres of common open space.

William Bucc Builders, Inc., are local builders with a fine record of building quality custom homes in the Princeton area. They will build from their plans or yours. All lots are fully developed with public water, sewer and underground utilities of electric and gas.

JOSEPHINE WEBB, Executive Director of Consumer Bureau, broadcasting a Consumer Bureau announcement. Mrs. Webb personally investigates consumer complaints received by Consumer Bureau and in most cases she is able to resolve them to the satisfaction of all concerned. (For what happens to unresolved consumer complaints, see below.)

*OUR PROMISE TO PRINCETON CONSUMERS:

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT against any local business firm, just call 924-8223 and a Consumer Bureau representative will respond and investigate; then,

IF CONSUMER BUREAU'S ALL-CONSUMER PANEL AGREES WITH YOU, the business firm involved has only two choices: either satisfy your complaint promptly or lose its Consumer Bureau Registration JON'T STAY MAD at any business firm - until you first give Consumer Bureau a chance to help straighten matters out. Call 924-8223 any time of any day or night and a Consumer Bureau representative will go into action. There is no charge.

PROVINCE LINE ROAD

In Lawrence Township, an architect designed two-story Contemporary, carefully planned for passive solar energy. The entry way has an air lock; the living room and study-bedroom are oriented to the south with large areas of insulated glass; and the three spacious bedrooms also face south. Additional features include three full baths, gas hot water heat, two-car garage. Summer occupancy. $180,000

DUFFIELD PLACE

For convenience and comfort see this 12 year old Colonial on this quiet Princeton Township cul-de-sac. The entry hall leads to formal living and dining rooms. The kitchen is large with breakfast area and sliding doors to a patio. Off the kitchen there is a spacious paneled family room with fireplace. Upstairs, five good bedrooms, and three baths. Plus full basement, walk up attic, first floor powder room, two-car garage, central air. Walking distance to community pool and tennis courts and about three minutes driving time to Palmer Square. $225,000

A CONTEMPORARY CAPE COD?

Though this may appear a contradiction in terms, this architect designed country house while not without a very modern flavor, decidedly has roots in coastal Massachusetts. Narrow weatherboard, steeply-gabled roofs, slender casement windows and a massive brick chimney are all brought together in a very honest contemporary fashion with side window walls, skylights, etc. Besides living room with fireplace, dining room, and study, there is a pantry, kitchen, breakfast room plus four bedrooms and three baths. Large playroom with fireplace in the basement. Shaded deck and sparkling Sylvan pool accessible from living room and master bedroom. Two-car garage. On three quarters of a wooded acre in western Princeton Township. $275,000

LINDEN LANE

A very attractive three bedroom, one and one half bath Dutch Colonial on a double lot. Downstairs is a good sized living room with fireplace and built-in bookshelves. The kitchen has been recently remodeled to include a storage pantry and new appliances. The dining room has plenty of room for family and friends. Upstairs are three bedrooms and a full bath. Finished attic. $119,000

TWO HUNDRED YEARS YOUNG AND MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN EVER

This attractive New Jersey farmhouse on four high private acres is a lovely sight. Located in a quiet area, only five minutes from the train station and ten minutes from Princeton. Five rooms including a bedroom and full bath, two fireplaces, and country kitchen on first floor. Four bedrooms, two baths, and study on second. Loads of built-in bookshelves, plaster walls and hardwood floors. Beautiful screen porch with brick floor, brick patio, two-story barn. Magnificent mature shade trees. Immediate occupancy. $248,500

VANDEVENTER

A substantial multi-use building for an investor or user. The total of 23 rooms is divided into five apartments plus a suite of professional offices. Dating from about 1830 the building retains some of the period's architectural details such as old moldings, high ceilings, and fireplaces. The lot has a wide frontage of 89 feet, an area of more than a quarter of an acre, and off-street parking for eight cars. $239,500

BAYARD COURT IN PRINCETON

OPEN HOUSE

SATURDAY-SUNDAY 1-4 PM

Minutes from the center of Princeton: newly constructed condominiums designed for the ultimate in energy-efficiency

From full basement to the thermostatically controlled attic fan, Bayard Court condominiums have been designed and constructed with extraordinary attention to detail. Remarkable standards of energy-efficiency have been achieved through such features as Carrier SuperSaver gas burners, air-lock entry systems, Perma-Shield windows, and extra insulation in ceilings and walls. Every unit is positioned for full southern exposure with sliding glass doors to take advantage of passive solar heat during sunny, winter days. Overhanging eaves provide protection from mid-day summer sun. Four season greenhouses are also available as an optional extra.

(Mountain Ave. and Bayard Lane)

Bayard Court condominiums are priced from $152,000.

They are available for viewing now, ready for occupancy.

Variety of Shuttle Buses and Vans Proposed To Relieve Traffic Around Princeton and Rt. 1

The first shuttle bus could be starting up its engine only a year from now, "if the concept works out."

Samuel M. Hamill Jr. is a gentle optimist who says with smiling firmness that an "immediate need" exists for shuttle bus service in this part of Central New Jersey: the Route One corridor and the bisecting corridors that link Rocky Hill - Princeton - Hightstown and include Route 206, Alexander and Route 571. Mr. Hamill is the executive director of MSM - the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council. This non-profit group organizes, prods, watches, guards, promotes and creates on behalf of the farms, roads, villages, cities and people of its three-county territory.

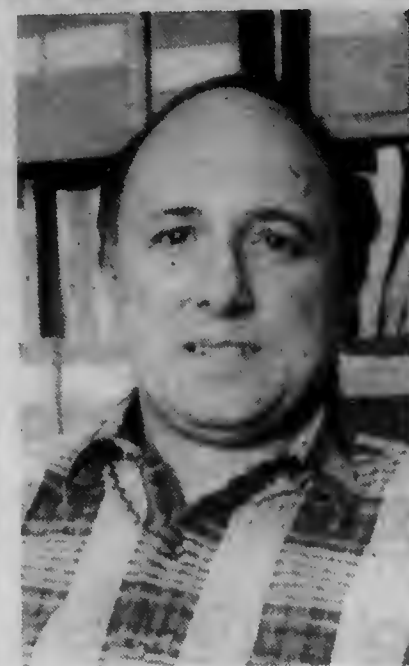

"The density of development in this part of New Jersey isn't enough to sustain a public transit system of fixed routes, using rails or buses, unless it is subsidized," Mr. Hamill explains. "And it won't be."

So MSM is thinking about an independent, non-profit organization called TMA - a Transportation Management Association. It would plan for, market and manage a variety of transportation services for the Route One corridor and its tributaries.

There would be mini-bus shuttles. Shared-ride plans. Dial-a-Ride vans. Van pools. Car pools.

Money from Many Sources. TMA would sub-contract with various operators, perhaps a taxi company, a bus company, private transportation experts. Money would come from user fees, developers, corporations and whatever public sources there might be. In fact, one of the TMA's functions would be to explore the world of funds and find out what's there for the picking.

Already, MSM has hired C. Kenneth Orski, executive director of the Corporation for Urban Mobility and a former assistant administrator with the Federal Urban Mass Transportation Association (UMTA), who has helped more than a dozen TMAs in Boston, Washington, Montgomery County (Pennsylvania), Hartford, Stamford.

"This is a national trend," Mr. Hamill says, "it's developing in response to declining subsidies - and growing congestions. A lot of developers, corporations and governmental bodies are interested in doing this kind of thing on their own, but they'd be delighted to have an expert organization run it. RCA, for example, is absolutely expert in what it does, but it's not expert in transportation systems."

A Middle System. "The concept is called 'para-transit.' It's between the fixed perts. Money would come from user fees, developers,

"Most corporations here have some kind of bus or shuttle: ETS, Squibb, McGraw Hill, RCA. The First National Bank of Princeton - a very civic-minded bank - has always been a leader in this. It has vans that bring employees into Princeton from Jadwin Gym's parking lot.

"You go down there and you see 50 cars belonging to bank employees. That is 50 cars that are not parked in the center of Princeton."

"When Carnegie Center people presented plans for their Route One complex to the West Windsor Planning Board, they proposed a shuttle system to Princeton Junction - IF there were an organization like a TMA. I think Forrestal probably could do this, too."

"The Loop bus from Princeton to Quakerbridge recognizes - and symbolizes - the fact that trip patterns are regional."

"We've discussed the concept three or four times, and everyone has approved it in concept. Several corporations have agreed to contribute financially to start-up costs."

$60,000 Budget. Right now, MSM has a budget of $60,000 a year for "serious planning." They will hire a full-time person to develop plans.

"The concept is to start with a sure winner, like a shuttle linking Forrestal, Princeton Junction, Carnegie Center and downtown Princeton."

"We might have a shuttle bus operating the Princeton Loop bus service. Princeton Community Housing has been talking about a van to bring senior citizens into town from the Elm Road apartment site. They could sub-contract with TMA."

"A lot of smaller companies could share vans through TMA - picking up two or three employees here and there."

"And the Dinky. We've proposed shuttle bus service more extensive than the present Dinky, serving more people and a greater area than simply going back and forth. (The Dinky is the shuttle train that connects Princeton to Princeton Junction.)"

Use the Dinky Subsidy. "The shuttle bus might come into downtown Princeton and perhaps have other Princeton pick-ups like the Shopping Center. The operating deficit of the Dinky is over $150,000 a year. How can that subsidy best serve the region's needs? This is the creative way to think about it."

Developing the case for shuttle buses, ride-sharing, van pools, Mr. Hamill points to the map and the figures.

Some statistics show a doubling of traffic volumes on Route One.

If Federal gas tax money and the I-95 de-designation money are used to improve intersections along Route One, roads will be obstructed for a long time during construction.

As Collins begins to build in Palmer Square, the congestion due to construction could be "traumatic."

Federal cutbacks in transit operating subsidies "probably" will affect the Dinky and Loop bus.

Growth patterns in this

"The density of development in this part of New Jersey isn't enough to sustain a public transit system of fixed routes, using rails or buses, unless it is subsidized. Which it won't be."

area, are "typically suburban" and constantly changing. It's not always possible to predict where traffic generators like Carnegie Center will appear next, so an "adaptable system" is required.

Think Regionally. Princeton residents sometimes find it hard to believe there is another world out there, unless they commute. But Mr. Hamill and his colleagues think regionally.

"The Loop bus from Princeton to Quakerbridge recognizes - and symbolizes - the fact that trip patterns are regional," he says.

The strongest traffic line, MSM research has found, is between Princeton on one side of Route One, and West Windsor-Plainsboro on the other.

"You can live in Lawrenceville and work in Plainsboro - and go through Princeton. You can live in Montgomery and work in Forrestal - and go through Princeton."

The Princeton Community Players Present A Well Acted Version of 'The Lion in Winter'

For someone accustomed to a variety of auditoriums, breathe the same air. The many of them unkink to the voices of amateur actors, the milieu in which Princeton Community Players presents as a sweeping gesture in a 'The Lion in Winter,' by larger theatre. This close association lends viewers sit so near to the particular fascination to

Director Julia Poulos has assembled an excellent cast. As to a small but perfect jewel, my minds goes back to the face of Queen Eleanor (Celia Munro-Jones). Tightly bound within a white wimple, with only eyes, nose, mouth, chin, and parts of cheeks and forehead visible, that little oval countenance is remarkably expressive. Add a beautifully articulated voice, and you have a characterization of rare quality. After one typical family quarrel Eleanor says to Henry, in devastatingly quiet tones, "I have a confession. I don't much like our children." Later, when a loss of nerve has prevented Richard and Geoffrey from stabbing their father, and Henry has let his imprisoned sons escape, she remarks softly, "Well, what family doesn't have its ups and downs?"

Formidable King. Equally admirable but contrasting in method is King Henry (Churhill Clark). Bearded and leather-jerked, a formidable figure of a warrior, he runs the gamut from violent bluster and anger to gentle tenderness, and his moods change abruptly at the goad of circumstances. Clark is a commanding presence, authentic in all his moods. The three sons are sharply individualized. Richard (Brad Manier) is instinctively the fighter, and one senses fierce emotion behind his curling lip and smoldering eyes. Geoffrey (Robert Orlikoff) is the schemer, ready to be satisfied with second place as long as he can wield power from there, but just as self-centered and ambitious as his brothers. John (Gary Braitman) is sometimes laughable and at other times pathetic. Braitman gives a plausible characterization of a real misfit in a family such as the Plantagenets.

Alais, a French princess and Henry's young mistress, exclaims to him, "I was brought up to be beautiful." Played by Cher Collier, she is both beautiful and humanly moving, the only person in the play without ulterior motives. All she wants is to love Henry and to keep her own personal pride. C. Peter Kauzmann plays the youthful King Philip of France. He is already tainted with the habit of deceit and double talk which princes had to learn, but he is not yet a match for Henry in the arts of insincere negotiation. Director Poulos has been well served by her costume and lighting designers. Displaying also a set dominated by regal banners, tapestries, and a boldly flagstoned floor, the production is visually attractive and credible. As I think back on the well-spent evening, I find that my pleasure exists on two levels. The ensemble scenes are intelligently directed, played with spirit, and altogether fine. But when Clark and Munro-Jones share the stage alone, something extra takes place. Two consummate actors, enjoying the characters they are re-creating, strike a spark that lights up and warms the little theatre. "The Lion in Winter" will play on two more weekends. The dates are April 8, 9, 15 and 16 at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. For ticket reservations the phone number is 883-4357, between 4 and 9 p.m. —William K. Gordon

McCarter Review

Friends Who Move-In. Into this tension-filled household arrive Harry and Edna (Karl Light and Elaine Bromka), neighbors and best friends of Agnes and Tobias. Having found themselves suddenly too "frightened" to stay at home, they want to move in.

They are not frightened of anything in particular, just frightened. And this is a feeling most of us can grasp. If suddenly the drug companies stopped making tranquilizers and the world booze supply ran out and all doctors quit work, the streets of America's suburbs would be teeming with people as jumpy as H & E (nobody has a last name in this play).

None of those calamities having occurred, it is not clear why H & E have chosen to move in with T & A as a nerve cure. But presumably in a puzzle-play, the more puzzles the better.

H & E are assigned the room called Julia's, which would be fine except that Julia, 36-year-old daughter of the house, chooses this same Friday evening to leave her fourth husband and come home. She is furious to find H & E in "her room" so furious she eventually orders them out at the point of Dad's pistol; but nothing comes of this. (Albee flouts Chekhov's famous dictum that a firearm shown in Act I had better be fired before the play ends, or the audience will be frustrated. Albee seems to delight in frustrating his audience.)

All "guests" are somehow bedded down except for Tobias, who sits up all night thinking over the big moral dilemma that confronts him.

McCarter Review

one suddenly recalls the similar final scene of Coward's "Hay Fever" when the unwanted guests all depart and the family can return to its own internal bickering. Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" was said to have been inspired by Coward's "Private Lives." Is "A Delicate Balance" "Hay Fever" with cosmic implications?

Paul Weidner's direction seemed first-rate, though we doubt the play says as much about Americans' lack of communal spirit as his program note asks us to believe. The fact that one would expect one's nervous neighbors to exhaust other reasonable and readily available remedies before moving into one's house does not suggest to us an inhospitable nature.

The setting by Daniel Boylen says these people are in the 50 percent bracket with sense enough to hire a good decorator, which is probably about right. Costumer Susan Rheame puts Julia in a pair of baggy gray bloomers that do nothing for her, and did nothing for us, but otherwise the costumes are fine. This is a handsome show and the actors are very good, especially Nancy Marchand who is a pleasure to watch and listen to, even though she is called on to address her husband often as "my darling" and to deliver written-sounding lines like "It would serve you right, my darling, were I to go away." All in all, and given that Pulitzer rating, "ADB" is one you should see. It just can't be as pretentious, arch, and artificial as this review suggests it is.

MUSIC

In Princeton

SOPRANO TO SING
At Woolworth. Soprano Martha Pansey will give the Sacks Memorial concert on Saturday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free. Ms. Pansey will be accompanied by Douglas Dickson, pianist, a Princeton University senior, and Benjamin Pyne, guitarist. As an undergraduate at Princeton, Class of 1982, Ms. Pansey gave several performances with the Princeton University Opera Theatre. She sang the role of the bride in "The Marriage of Figaro," Zerlina in "Don Giovanni," Aennchen in "Der Freischütz," and Marcellina in "Fidelio." She was a frequent soloist with the Chapel Choir and gave two Friends of Music recitals.

She has spent two summers at the Aspen Music School as a fellowship student of Irene Gubrud and is currently at the Juilliard School, where she studies with Ellen Faulk. For her program, Ms. Pansey will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Stravinsky, Robert Schumann and five songs by Carl Maria von Weber in which she will be accompanied by Benjamin Pyne, guitarist.

ALL-BRAHMS RECITAL. At Choir College. Brenda Smith and Frances Merritt of the Westminster Choir College voice faculty will present a concert Monday honoring the 150th birthday of Johannes Brahms.

For her program, Ms. Pansey will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Stravinsky, Robert Schumann and five songs by Carl Maria von Weber in which she will be accompanied by Benjamin Pyne, guitarist.

SOPRANO Martha Pansey will give the Sacks Memorial Concert on Saturday at 8:30 in Woolworth Center. She will sing works by Haydn, Mozart, Stravinsky, Schumann and Carl Maria von Weber.

Included in the program will be solo songs and duets by the composer. Accompanying Ms. Smith will be Janna Bruene and accompanying Ms. Merritt will be Martha Davidson.

Brenda Smith, who teaches in both the College and Conservatory Divisions of Westminster Choir College, received her bachelor's degree in voice performance from the University of Evansville in Indiana and master's degree in voice from Westminster Choir College. She studied for four years at the Church Music Institute of Westphalia in Herford, West Germany and the Staatliche Hochschule für Musik in Hamburg.

Frances Merritt has a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Rutgers University and a master's degree in voice performance from Westminster Choir College. She has also studied in Germany and the Staatliche Hochschule für Musik in Hamburg. She studied for four years at the Church Music Institute of Westphalia in Herford, West Germany and the Staatliche Hochschule für Musik in Hamburg.

degrees in Accompanying and Vocal Coaching from Westminster Choir College, where they studied with Martin Katz and Phyllis Lehrer.

This recital is free and open to the public. For further information, call the Conservatory Office at 921-7104 or 924-6359.

PIANIST SCHEDULED
For Recital, Phyllis A. Lehrer, pianist, will present a recital at Westminster Choir College on Saturday at 7 in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus.

Ms. Lehrer has concertized extensively both as a soloist and as a chamber artist in the United States and in Great Britain. Her bachelor's degree was earned from the University of Rochester, and her master's degree from the Juilliard School of Music. As chairman of the Piano Department at Westminster, she was responsible for initiating graduate programs in accompanying and coaching and in piano pedagogy.

The program will feature "Phantasie-Variations," Op. 12 of Dianne Gorkasian-Rahbee. Also on the program will be the "Variations on an Original Theme," Op. 21 of Brahms, Haydn's "Sonata in B-flat Major," Schumann's "Sonata in G Minor," and the Paganini-Liszt "Etude No. 6 in A Minor." Another work, "Virabhadra sana," was composed by Janice Hamer, a Princeton resident who recently completed a master's degree in Choral Conducting at Westminster Choir College. The recital is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

GUITARIST TO PLAY
In Concert Sunday. Benjamin Pyne, guitarist, and lutenist, will give a concert on Sunday at 3 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free. Ms. Pansey will be accompanied by Douglas Dickson, pianist, a Princeton University senior, and Benjamin Pyne, guitarist. She was a frequent soloist with the Chapel Choir and gave two Friends of Music recitals.

IN CONCERT: Benjamin Pyne, guitarist and lutenist, will give a recital on Sunday at 3 at Woolworth Center on the University campus.

An honors graduate in music in the Class of 1981, Mr. Pyne was awarded the Isidore and Helen Sacks Memorial Prize for that year. During his four years at Princeton, he performed regularly with Musica Alta, the University's early music ensemble, and gave several recitals under the auspices of the Friends of Music.

Mr. Pyne is an alumnus of the Aspen Music Festival where he worked with the guitar faculty and accompanied the students of Adele Addison and Jan DeGaetani. Last year, he gave a number of concerts along the East Coast. He is now attending classes with Eliot Fisk at the Cologne Conservatory in West Germany.

THREE TO PERFORM
In Folk Music Concert. The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature Jay Ungar, Lyn Hardy and Molly Mason in concert on Friday, April 15, at 8 at the YM-YWCA building, Paul Robeson Place. Jay Ungar and Lyn Hardy are a husband and wife team who have performed and recorded with rock bands in the 1960s and string bands in the '70s before striking out on their own. They recorded two albums and were soon taking

ARE YOU A KID?

'Shoestring' For You. McCarter Theatre has invited the Shoestring Players of Rutgers-Douglass to Princeton Inn College theatre on Alexander Street to tickle the imaginations of, as the saying goes, young and old alike. It's the "Kidstuff-McCarter" series.

The players will perform at 11 a.m., 2 and 4 p.m. this Saturday and next. (Great for a birthday party.) Seating is limited to 100, so don't just sit there.

This Saturday, they will enact four stories in which women are heroes. Next Saturday, they'll do stories for children by James Joyce, Chaucer, Tolstoy and Yeats. Call 452-5200.

AT THE MOVIES

For Over 18. "Taxi Zum Klo," the gay film by West German director Frank Ripploh, will be screened four times next Tuesday and Wednesday (7:30 and 9:15 p.m.) in Kresge Auditorium, before audiences of young and elderly. Actors will give plays that involve audience participation, so the audiences are limited to 200 people. Pam Hoffman, CTU's troupe director, estimates that by the end of May, the actors will have performed for 17,000 "kids of all ages."

their country music to audiences across the United States, Canada and Europe. Lyn is the vocalist, and Jay plays fiddle and mandolin.

Molly Mason is a bassist, guitarist and vocalist who has a special talent for the art of accompaniment. She has performed with a variety of artists and was a regular on Public Radio's "A Prairie Home Companion."

Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for students, $3 for Society members. There are no advance sales. Memberships are available at the door. For further information call 924-9143.

GUITARIST TO PLAY
At Eatery. Guitarist, composer and vocalist Jim Scott will return to the Eatery Amulet restaurant and coffee house on Monday at 8 p.m.

For the past few years, Jim Scott has been building his reputation with the Paul Winter Consort, not only as a guitarist but as a composer as well. He is most noted for his two classic songs, "A Song for the Earth" and "Hands," and for his works on the Paul Winter "Callings" LP.

Tickets are $5 in advance and $6 at the door. The Eatery Amulet is located on ridge Road in the Olde English Square Shopping Village in Monmouth Junction.

MOZART MASS SET

For Amateurs' Meeting. The final open sing for the 1982-83 season of the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will take place on Sunday, April 17, at 4 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road and Route 206.

Frances Slade, conductor of the Princeton Pro Musica, will lead the chorus, full orchestra, and soloists in Mozart's Mass in C minor. The soloists will be sopranos Judith Nicosia and Anne Ackley; tenor Steven Kreinberg; and baritone Allan Knotts.

A Musical Amateurs meeting is never a performance but instead an opportunity for all choral singing enthusiasts to join in. Choral auditions are not required, but modest sight-reading ability is helpful.

There is a small charge for those without yearly membership in the Society to cover music and refreshment costs. For further information call Mrs. Melvin Gottlieb at 921-7214.

AT SCANTICON

Music to Entertain. Three groups of entertainers, strolling and otherwise, are providing for diners and brunchers in the Tivoli Gardens restaurant of the Scanticon complex on Route One.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights, the Charlie Naylor Quartet plays "a lifetime of musical memories." Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 8 p.m. to midnight, Bob Smith's 19-piece Lamplighters create the sounds of the swing bands. Every Monday from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., and Sundays during brunch, The Continental Gypsies, a strolling Hungarian gypsy trio (in costume), provide for both dining and dancing. Reservations may be made at 452-7800.

IT'S NEW To Us

KINGSTON ANTIQUES
Home of Aunt Sallie's Barn.
For those who tire of the impersonal aspect of the larger malls or the hurried pace of crowded city shops, there is a welcome respite in Kingston. Kingston Antiques is a cozy, old-fashioned place where the shopper will find a wonderful variety of reasonably-priced antiques of all sorts and where some scarce old fashioned services are rendered.

Mrs. Dorothy Oppenheim, owner of Kingston Antiques, has lived in Princeton for 25 years. Her flourishing business, dealing mainly in antique jewelry, is housed in one of the town's old residences while Aunt Sallie's Barn features country furniture and many antique accessories as well as a separate barn full of antique clothing. Mr. Jim Smith, a cabinet maker by profession who renovated the two small barns for Mrs. Sallie Landauer also works on the premises.

There is a certain tranquility about Aunt Sallie's Barn, the kind of shop one might come upon in the country. Mrs. Landauer, a widow for many years, has lived all her life in the same home in Princeton which her father built in 1912. She happily admits that while her barn has only been opened for two and a half years, she has been a collector for more than thirty years.

"As a young person, I would and still do hound the flea markets on weekends, buying interesting pieces and refinishing them at home. I have always loved old things and finally fulfilled my dream and opened my own shop," she explains.

Aunt Sallie's Barn may be small but it is chock full of handsome large antique furniture as well as a wealth of fine porcelains, flo blue and cranbury glass, and a wide array of Victorian and other old silver pieces.

Special Requests. Aunt Sallie keeps a file for her customers and looks for things which they request. Once found she will call them to see if they still want the piece, but most often she will buy it anyway because unusual antiques sell so quickly.

COUNTRY ANTIQUES: Mrs. Sallie Landauer is proud of her English flo-blue antique plate collection here displayed in a large pine hutch from the 1700's at Aunt Sallie's Barn in Kingston. The shop, a part of Kingston Antiques, specializes in country furniture and accessories at reasonable prices.

Presently the shop has a good selection of oak furniture, including handsome large round dining tables with pedestals (one of which has 12 leaves), sideboards and the popular five-drawer dressers. One of the sideboards seen has several drawers and would nicely double as a bar or stereo unit.

A large pine hutch from the 1700's with all of its original fittings and a 1740 jelly cupboard will catch the collector's eye as will the few vanities now in stock. One such vanity in walnut is only $125, has a very large mirror and several deep drawers. Another is a light green Italian one, hand-painted with tiny flowers. A glass-top dark pine secretary from the 1930's is a good buy.

The Empire period has recently been receiving more attention in Princeton. Aunt Sallie has found a few interesting pieces from this period such as the handsome oval oak library table on display (without claws!).

Because Mrs. Landauer sells so many large dining tables she tries to keep a good assortment of antique chairs and other reproductions in stock. Rush seat oak chairs, rocking chairs from the 1800s Victorian ones, and country pine chairs will complement any style of dining or kitchen table, such as the walnut and maple ones seen recently in the barn.

Gift Possibilities. Antique ironstone plates, pitchers, and bowls are in abundance at Aunt Sallie's Barn. These or perhaps one of the English flo-blue plates would make lovely wedding gifts this spring. Small statues of children, many of which are quite old, tole trays, oil lamps, wood and

ANTIQUE JEWELRY

Dorothy Oppenheim Specialty. "People come to me because they know what I like and the kind of unusual jewelry I am always looking for," says Mrs. Dorothy Oppenheim, who has been in the antique jewelry and furniture business for many years. She often does not have to look far to supplement her exquisite collection because many sources come to her. Her customers come from all over the country, relying on her good taste and experience.

While Mrs. Oppenheim's prices are most reasonable, the more expensive pieces are naturally shown only by appointment. Because she has a telephone recording, her clients can always reach her with ease. Her wealth of antique treasures can be brought to the shop within minutes.

The jewelry display room is found upstairs in the old house full of large antique furniture of a more formal variety than found at Aunt Sallie's. The choices vary greatly in price and styles. Mrs. Oppenheim has a number of stunning antique pieces only obtained art deco, silver, gold, and elegant filigree jewelry is included in the collection.

"I encourage people to price jewelry elsewhere. They always come back to me," states Mrs. Oppenheim who specializes in engagement rings. Several students from Princeton have bought their first jewels from her and come back to see her whenever they return. Unusual settings and stones can replace an expensive diamond and look much more important according to this expert, whose taste runs to quality rather than something flashy.

Personal Referrals. That quality earmarks Mrs. Oppenheim's business is obvious. She recently acquired a collection of antique pieces worth $5000 and two thirds of it was sold in less than a week! Ninety percent of her business is personal referral and repeats according to the collector. Her collection is diverse, including, for example, an exceptional ring of natural pearls surrounded by a carat of diamonds set in gold for $1500; cameo pins and pendants from the mid-1800's resoldered and set in gold ranging from $150 to $500; and a moderately priced emerald ring in a diamond setting for $850. Aquamarines, golden sapphires, deep blue oriental sapphires (more than a carat), favorite garnets, and French-cut sapphires are among the precious stones represented in the collection.

A natural yellow diamond and a French nouveau pendant are part of the large art deco selection. One of the prettiest jewels seen is a gorgeous gold filigree ring with diamonds. The more recent pieces shown are from the empire period. Mrs. Oppenheim will repair and restore old jewelry or update an old setting.

Unusual silver jewelry which is so popular and fashionable these days can be bought from Mrs. Oppenheim, including necklaces with marcasites, silver filigree and various designs with carnelians. Modest or grandiose, all can be found at Kingston Antiques. —Susan Trowbridge

REMBRANDT'S CHRIST: In this etching, "Christ Healing the Sick," Rembrandt has rich, velvety dark tones that seem to transcend the print-maker's art. The etching is part of an exhibit at the Princeton University Art Museum.

ART In Princeton

THREE PRINT DISPLAYS

At Art Museum. Print making, or the art of making multiple images from a single surface or surfaces, has been around for a long time. In its simplest form a print can be as primitive as a rubber stamp or even a fingerprint. Developed to its most advanced state, printmaking becomes a serious method of making art.

Until recently, printmaking was a formalized technical process using traditions that had been followed for centuries. Within recent decades, however, technical advances and changes in taste and style generated newer forms of graphics that frequently had little to do with earlier processes or results.

The range of the print-maker's art, including contemporary and older traditional forms, can be seen in three concurrent displays at the Princeton University Art Museum. A good deal of the artistic spectrum is represented, including the technical virtuosity of the Japanese wood block, the exquisite classical modality of a Rembrandt etching and the innovative, often daring multimedia work of the past few decades.

The most consistent and possibly, the easiest of the prints to look at is the collection of Rembrandt etchings. The small display of work by one of the greatest masters is characterized by fine line, controlled cross-hatching, used to build superbly modulated tone, and velvety, rich darks that seem to almost transcend the technical limitations of the intaglio print.

Religious subject matter dominates the collection. Angels, visions of Christ preaching and healing the sick, versions of Abraham and other biblical figures are presented in the complex, elaborately constructed compositions that are characteristic of the artist.

There is also portraiture, genre scenes and a single landscape. Most of these are simpler and sparser yet maintain the tonal and linear richness that is to be seen in the more complex religious work.

The collection of Japanese figure painting from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, also on display at the Art Museum, includes nine woodblock prints as well as eleven paintings. Among the exhibited materials are two fourteenth century hand-rolled fragments, hanging scrolls, a fifteenth century ink painting and several screens.

First Public View. Six of the paintings, recently acquired by the Metropolitan, are on public display for the first time. These include the scroll fragment, a complex blend of architectural motifs and figurative imagery which, despite being referred to as a fragment, is well over eight feet long; a six fold Kano school screen in color and gold leaf and a sketch of a lost portrait by a nineteenth century artist.

The woodcuts in the collection are typical of the Japanese print, which has traditionally been regarded as one of the finest examples of the printmakers' art. Intricately developed compositions are created using a key block from which nearly all the surface is carved away, leaving a line so fine it is often the delicate translucent tones of watercolor and frequently the prints are resolved using an exceptional number and variety of colors.

The exhibition of contemporary printmaking offers sharp contrast with both the Japanese work and the Rembrandts. To begin with, these prints of the last decades are frequently quite large in contrast with earlier, traditional prints. Some of the Rembrandts, for example, are only a few inches square.

More recent work is also concerned with contemporary images: gas stations, fragments of the everyday and pattern and shape. And, these later works each seem consciously to be trying to distinguish themselves by being different rather than fine. The message is often, "Look at me," rather than, "Am I not beautiful?"

The work of many of the best known contemporary artists — people who have often reshaped the direction of today's art — is included in this display. Among them, Frank Stella, Robert Motherwell, Helen Frankenthaler, Jasper Johns and Willem de Kooning, all of whom are known as painters as well as printmakers.

ETS has Metal Sculptures. Speaking of her sculpture — on exhibit at the Henry Chauncey Center — Barbara L. Harrison states that this work was "meant to question the distinction between what is art and what is real." And, there is no doubt that the collection of grid-like metal work succeeds in posing said question. However, for those who like their art to extend beyond the posit of a philosophical dilemma, these unusual works may be something of a problem. There is no doubt that the wall-hung works fall within the definition of sculpture. That is, they are three dimensional and their forms change as the viewer moves. Light, shadow and space present an ever changing series of relationships.

Art in Princeton

Composed of thin strips of metal, they are, however, essentially linear. Most are grids, often superimposed one upon the other and occasionally broken by the more dynamic action of a curve.

There is also no doubt that these works use the syntax of "advanced" or postmodernist standards. And, as such, there is, for many, the lingering doubt that is established by the artist's statement and the additional question of whether art should be the words it evokes or the images in the eye of the beholder.

Photos Also. The work of seven photographers, on display in Conant Hall at ETS, is a demonstration of the wide range of effects possible with the camera. There are delicate still lifes that are almost painterly in mood, abstractions, views of real life as abstract form, and journalistic statements as well. Within the collection the versatility and variety of style and subject makes this display well worth a visit.

Included are photographs by Laura Pryde McPhee, Virginia Cadwallader Beahan, Barbara Freymuth, Eileen Hohmuth, Martha Vaughn, Heidi Jain and Margaret Morgan Fisher.

At Nassau Club. Representational drawings and paintings by Madeleine I.E. Meehan are now on view at The Nassau Club, 6 Mercer Street, and will remain through June 30. The exhibit is open to the public and the club is open from 10 to 5 daily.

Rural Princeton and surrounding farmlands are included in the collection of pen and ink drawings and pastel paintings. Ms. Meehan's work is on view also in galleries on eastern Long Island, where she maintains her studio.

The Nassau Club exhibit is one of three shows she has scheduled for the year. Others will be at the National Arts Club in New York; the Herbert F. Johnson Museum in Ithaca and Artists Unlimited, Key West.

THE MEDIA? MIXED
At Full House. Eleven artists will participate in a spring "Mixed Media" exhibit starting this Sunday at the Full House Gallery, Main Street, Kingston. The show will continue through May 2.

Artists participating are Joanne Augustine, Anna Continios, John Hopkinson, Peggy Ferguson, Helen Gallagher, Irma Holland, Fred Lehman, Marsden Morse, Kristin Nauman, Jane Terry and Robin Gary Wood.

Love of Houses as Art Leads to Publication of 'The New Jersey House' by Helen Schwartz

"I've never done anything in my life I've enjoyed so much — it's so stimulating!"

Artist and printmaker Helen Schwartz is exclaiming, not over her December and January print shows, but over her new career as a writer.

The Town Topics art critic (since 1970) is watching her first book come off the presses and exulting in her work as New Brunswick Home News "correspondent," writing a weekly architectural feature, a weekly recreation feature and various business and travel pieces.

"The New Jersey House," published by Rutgers University Press, is Helen's first book. "Lavishly illustrated" — that's what the promotion says, and it's really true — with photographs by Princeton photographer Margaret Morgan Fisher, the book is now out and for sale.

What led an artist, known for her non-representational relief prints, into the lacy charm of Victorian Cape May?

In the first place, "The New Jersey House" is about all kinds of houses, from Swedish log-cabins to Michael Graves and post-modernism. And in the second place, as Helen says, "I've always enjoyed looking at houses and art is art, whether it's a house, sculpture or a print."

"A house is more dynamic than what we put on our walls," she believes. "Houses are a true combination of function, taste and style, and are as much ornament, as function."

Besides, she adds, "I'm an inveterate tourist." Inveterate, maybe, but without a guess as to how many miles she drove — from Cape May in the south to Newton in the north, Salem to Rumson — off at 6 a.m., sometimes traveling the same ground a second time with Margie and camera.

She'd seen Margaret Morgan Fisher's work and liked it — "her sense of space, the way she looked at things. What she felt was important. I did, too. It has been a truly fortunate pairing."

The book is coming out on its fourth birthday. Helen began four years ago by writing to all New Jersey historical societies — over 100 — and architectural historians. She would telephone and ask, "What do you think are the ten most interesting towns in New Jersey?"

She read New Jersey history. She found to her dismay that until now, there has been no book on New Jersey architecture — "very sad, because New Jersey is tremendously rich in architecture."

The book is a detailed, factual history, although Helen acknowledges that she is not a historian. Buyers will not find just a pretty coffee-table book with nice pictures.

A Frank Lloyd Wright house in Millstone ... a Michael Graves addition in Princeton ... Twin Rivers townhouses ... the planned garden suburb of Radburn.

Ocean Grove cottages built in 1876-78 ... Hoboken brownstones ... Italianate "villas" like Princeton's Guernsey Hall and "Prospect" ... an octagon house in Hightstown.

In the early 18th century, Helen found, people had their houses built from pattern books, "the way you'd send away to Better Homes and Gardens today." You would point to a "villa," or a "house in the English style" and say, "Build me that."

WRITER AND HOUSE: Helen and Ken Schwartz — he's a vice-president with ORC — think their Jefferson Road house may be a Sears Roebuck pre-fab. It has sheltered son Eric, (in college) and daughter Lisa (graduated) and might well have been included in Helen Schwartz' new book, "The New Jersey House."

And in the late years of the sweep of an estate's 19th century, architects of the grounds. It was the period of Stanford White and when New Jersey resorts were Earl F. McKim were building growing, and the state was mansions for millionaires, becoming a residential area for New York millionaires. The houses were built to command the sweep of the sea, or Vernacular houses are given equal importance in the book. Bungalows from 1905 to 1930 — including an immaculately preserved one in Princeton — and those beach cottages at Ocean Grove, point up her theme:

"I was looking for houses that were typical of an American style, or a kind of architecture that was important in New Jersey at the time they were built."

Incidentally, there was always a problem of geographical balance. Helen says she could have done half the book with nothing but Princeton houses. In Mt. Holly, she found entire neighborhoods with houses from the turn of the 18th-19th centuries.

"I was impressed by the number of houses in Mt. Holly, Freehold, Flemington, Burlington, Plainfield, Bordentown, Crosswicks...the heritage is so rich!"

Margie Fisher took over 1,000 photographs with her Olympus OM-1 35 mm. camera. Forty pictures from the book will be displayed at the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton from this Friday through June.

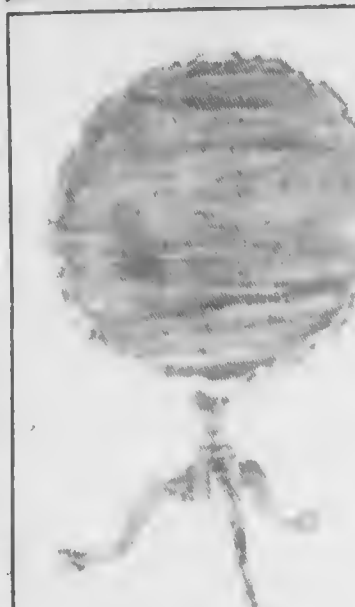

No, Helen Schwartz hasn't given up her career as artist. "I fully intend to do more art," she says with believable firmness. "But writing uses up all the available energy and time."

She's also teaching a course at the Princeton Adult School on New Jersey houses. She has ideas for other books, "but I need to recover from this one, first."

Individual Retirement Account

There's still time to cut your 1982 income tax!

A timely reminder! You can still make contributions to your Affordable IRA for 1982 income tax savings. You have time until you file your federal income tax return (to April 15, 1983). Contributions are tax deductible and earned interest is deferred until you start to withdraw from your account (between 59½ and 70½) when most people are in a lower tax bracket.

Your IRA contributions actually reduce your taxable income during a given year. Let's say you're in the 25% tax bracket and contribute $1,000 to your IRA. You deduct the $1,000 on your tax form; your tax is reduced by $250. The net cost of your IRA is $750. In effect, you keep an additional $250 of your hard-earned money.

You can still open an Affordable IRA for 1982 with as little as $10, or up to $2,000 ($2,500 if your spouse does not earn outside income). Anyone who is gainfully employed is eligible, even those covered by an employer pension plan.

Start the profitable IRA habit at the Nassau Savings nearest you with $10 or more. Follow up whenever you desire, in person or by mail — there's no minimum and no need to make contributions every week. See how fast your IRA will grow into a large retirement nest egg with highest interest compounded daily. Remember, the younger you start the greater the tax savings and the more you will have for a financially secure future retirement.

Lacrosse Team Upsets Navy, Crew Triumphs, Baseball 1 for 4 As University Spring Sports Teams End First Full Weekend

RONAN ON THE ATTACK: Princeton's Gerry Ronan circles behind the net in Saturday's contest against Navy. The senior attackman scored four goals in the Tigers' come-from-behind 14-12 victory over the Midshipmen. (W.L. Bill Allen Jr. photo)

The Princeton University heavyweight crew, which has something to prove to itself and its followers this spring, will have an opportunity to showcase its muscle again this Saturday on Carnegie Lake, as it rows against Navy in a meet that begins at the unholly hour of 8:30 a.m.

In case you oversleep, you should note that the crew, which swamped Rutgers and Drexel by four lengths last Saturday, will have no shortage of opportunities this season to perform in its home waters. Carnegie will be the scene of racing every weekend from now until May 8. Only then will the crew take to the road, first to the Eastern Sprints in Worcester, Mass., and then to the IRA regatta in Syracuse in the first week in June.

Last year, Larry Gluckman's first as head coach of the Tigers, Princeton rowed somewhat inconsistently in its dual meets, and then seemed on the verge of peaking in the big year-end meets. It placed third in the Sprints and then posted the fastest qualifying time in the IRAs.

But the crew fell short in the finals, losing to Cornell.

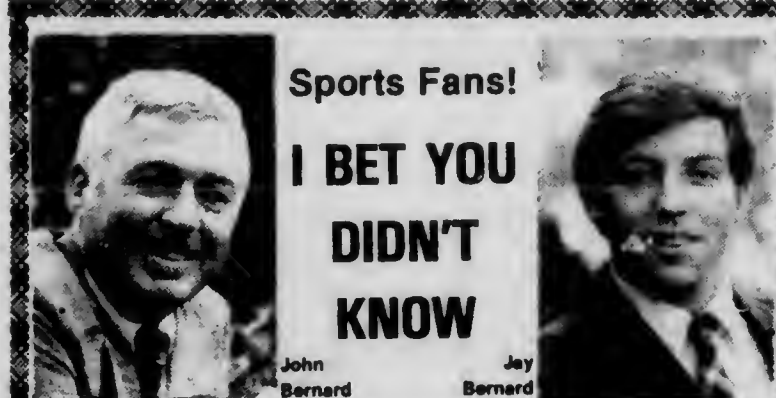

This year, proclaims Gluckman, "we're a lot deeper." With 163 oarsmen competing for places, competition for the first boat has been more intense than ever. "It may be three races before our lineup is set," adds the coach.

This Saturday's duel with the Midshipmen could be one good test. Last year Navy easily outpulled the Tigers in the regular season competition, although Princeton revenge that loss in the IRAs. Saturday, says Gluckman, "we'll be a lot more competitive. If we can be within a length with 500 meters to go, then we can win." The lightweights, who defeated Rutgers, Drexel, and Penn last Saturday, are favored against the Midshipmen.

Did you know that, surprisingly, the best golfer can hit a golf ball MORE THAN TWICE AS FAR as the best baseball slugger can hit a baseball? ... The official record in golf is held by Craig Wood who hit a golf ball 490 yards (or 1,290 feet) ... Mickey Mantle hit the longest officially measured home run of all time in baseball, which went 565 feet or 188 yards.

Of all the big league baseball players in 1982, which one made the most errors? ... Answer is Atlanta shortstop Rafael Ramirez ... He made 38 ... The only other player who made 30 or more errors was Pittsburgh shortstop Dale Berra who made 30.

seventh. The Tigers, meanwhile, advanced runners to third base three times but failed to score during these opportunities. A Columbia error enabled Princeton to narrow the margin to 4-3 in the seventh, but with runners on second and third and only one run the home team could manage only two ground outs.

Princeton took a 4-1 lead in the nightcap, but Columbia began to pummel starter Rusty Rodis in the sixth inning. O'Connell quickly brought in freshman Dan DeVinney to relieve, but he allowed a walk and then a bases-clearing triple. Three more Tiger pitchers were needed to record the final outs in the 10-4 loss.

The Tigers scored the first run in the opener against Penn on Saturday without benefit of a basehit (and managed only two the remainder of the game) but the visitors' generosity ended there. Princeton's Ed Aulisi gave up only one earned run in the 6-1 defeat.

O'Connell revamped his line-up in the second game against Penn. Sophomore starter Bill Beard struck out eight Quakers and allowed only four hits in the 4-3 win. Princeton's first in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League. The winning run scored on a double steal in the fourth inning. Neil Cable, one of the newcomers to the lineup, broke for second base as Todd Leavitt headed home. Cable drew a throw from the catcher but the return throw to the plate was off the mark.

BOWMAN LEAVES P.U.

To Coach in CFL. Ken

Bowman, assistant coach of football at Princeton University, has resigned to accept a position with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

In accepting Bowman's resignation, head coach Frank Navarro said "we are certainly sorry to see Ken leave Princeton. He has masterfully guided our offense and has been a motivating factor on our team. At the same time, we are happy that he has been given this opportunity to enter the professional ranks."

Bowman joined Navarro's staff in 1972 at Columbia University and has served the Tiger mentor for ten uninterrupted years at three different institutions. Bowman also served as defensive line coach at Princeton under head coach Dick Colman in 1968 before becoming offensive line coach under Jake McCandless in 1969. Bowman remained at Princeton until moving to Columbia in 1972.

Navarro has named offensive back coach Hank Small to be the Tigers' new offensive coordinator. Small, appointed to his present post upon Navarro's arrival in 1978, is entering his sixth year at Princeton. Prior to coming to Princeton, he had served as an assistant in the player personnel office of the New England Patriots of the National Football League for two years.

Small played football at Gettysburg College and graduated from the Pennsylvania school in 1969. He was quarterback and receiver coach at Brown University from 1973-75 and has served on football staffs at Florida State (1971-72) and Rutgers (1969-70). While at Princeton, Small has coached Brent Woods,

NEW SEASON, NEW COACHES: When the Princeton High lacrosse team begins its 1983 season this Wednesday, it will be led by new coach Peter Larsen (right) and a new assistant coach, Shawn Campbell. In the center is co-captain Scott Gabrielsen, a three-year veteran.

who last year led the nation in total offense, and tailback receiver Cris Crissy and quarterback Bob Holly, both of whom were drafted by the NFL and now play for the world champion Washington Redskins.

In Lacrosse Opener, The Princeton High School lacrosse team will open a 14-game season this Wednesday against Rutgers Prep under new coach Peter Larsen. The Little Tigers will be at Westfield Saturday and the home opener will be next Larsen, in Abington, Pa. involving three schools from Pa. and three from N.J., the Little Tigers lost two of three.

"Our main weakness now is we rush the ball too much," commented Larsen. "We don't settle down; we're too hyper. When we do settle down, we have no problem scoring."

Larsen described his squad as one with a lot of potential and one with a lot of seniors. He plans to carry 27, he said, and 17 of these are seniors.

Two seniors will co-captain the team—defensesman Alec Hoke and midfielder Scott Gabrielsen, a three-year veteran. Others include Matt Kinnan, who will be used in faceoffs where he excels, defensesman Ken Varvel and Willie Whittaker, a middy. All five were starters on the PHS football team.

Hunter Allen, the team's goalie, has been temporarily ruled ineligible because of grades and Larsen is hoping Alex Taft, who never played the sport, can fill the hole. Taft is not without experience defending a net: he was a goalie on the Little Tiger soccer team.

Chris Carrington will rotate with Whittaker on attack and two sophomores who Larsen reports look promising: Keith Greene and Tom Sheehan. Carrington is a junior.

In taking over, Larsen acknowledges that he has no idea what to expect from each of the 14 opponents on the schedule. "I know very little about lacrosse in this state," he said. Larsen did say that he was impressed with the caliber of play he found here, when he compared it to the level played in Massachusetts.

One thing he has no uncertainty about is his first attempt at head coach. "I love it," he said. "It's a great challenge. It's great to work with these kids. Cirullo (Bill Cirullo his predecessor) ran a great program."

Larsen is being assisted by Shawn Campbell who played the sport at Trenton State College. Like Larsen, it is his first year on the PHS staff.

TURNAROUND TIME?
In Lacrosse at Hun. Hun School has not been noted for its lacrosse teams but if new coach Dave Faus is able to make his predictions come true that may be a thing of the past. "I think we're ready to turn this program around," said Faus. "The biggest thing going for us is a fantastic attitude and a lot of desire."

Hun will open its season Saturday when it will be one of four teams competing in the George School in Pennsylvania. Others are Blair Academy and Academy of the Holy Spirit.

New Church. Hun will open its regular season at home next Wednesday against Montclair-Kimberly.

Progress has been tough to measure, said Faus, because the team has been idle for two weeks for vacation. "But I'm pleased with the way it's been going," Faus added. "A lot of determined average players is coming the way Faus described his 45-member squad."

Faus played the sport at Hun and then "fooled around with it" in college. His assistant, Nate Harris is also new at coaching the sport. Harris attended Hun for two years and then switched to Princeton High School when he was a standout performer in football and lacrosse.

A new staff, a large, enthusiastic squad and some hard-nosed dedication—this is the formula that Faus and Harris hope will spark the turnaround.

MIDGET SEASON SET
For YMCA Baseball. The Princeton YMCA is still taking sign-ups for its Midget League baseball season, which begins the week of April 11, and runs through June 4. The League, which is co-ed, is divided into two divisions, a junior division for 6-8 year olds, playing Monday and Wednesday evenings, and a senior division for 9-12 year olds, playing Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

The Midget League, started in 1950 by B.E. Bergstrom, has been a continuing tradition at the YMCA. A basic philosophy of the program is the understanding that everyone gets to play. Rules will be adapted, especially for the young players, to accommodate playing ability. Actual league play, as well as team shirts and hats for the younger players, are new features for the junior league this year.

Alan Taback, program director at the YMCA, and league director, is a former high school and college pitcher who coached baseball at Princeton Day School. His assistant will be Andy Sanford, a 1978 graduate of PDS, where he was captain of the

'Paratransit'

MSM has analyzed the effect on traffic of shuttles and ride-sharing. A ten percent reduction is "achievable". Mr. Hamill reports, over the whole geographic area. At key intersections, especially along the Route One corridor, the reduction could be 30 to 40 percent.

MSM also believes that a shuttle could support itself financially with fewer than 500 riders. And once started, it would pick up momentum and could expand and grow.

Tougher Rent Registration Ordinance to Be Introduced By Council This Wednesday

A stiffened Rent Registration ordinance is scheduled for introduction by Borough Council at this Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting in Borough Hall. Stiffer, but with the possibility of something Council member Richard Woodbridge called "gumming."

"Gumming"? That's jawboning without any teeth.

Borough rent ordinances have been limping along with a life span of a year or two, sometimes less. The present Rent Registration ordinance expires April 30. The new ordinance has a three-year life span. It also has a reprisals clause.

If the Rent Registration board of five citizens finds that a landlord has levied a rent increase against a tenant in retaliation, the board will have the power to refuse the increase. Also, the board will retain its power to refuse an increase if inspection of the premises shows up any violations of health ordinances.

After more than an hour of discussion at last Thursday's work session — although Council president Barbara Hill had sternly set a one-hour limit to discussion — Council turned its thoughts over to attorney Edwin Schmieler and told him to draft the ordinance.

Robert McChesney, starting things off by urging that "we fish or cut bait," proposed that Council reinstate rent control, tied to some kind of indexing. The ordinance would follow the recommendations of a 1981 citizens committee which had studied rent problems and advised rent control.

The vote on Mr. McChesney's suggestion was 3-3. He was joined by Peter Bearse and Joseph Blanc. Mayor Robert W. Cawley broke the tie with a "No" and defeated the rent-control proposal.

OK then, Mr. McChesney continued, let's follow the advice of a landlord, Leonard LaPlaca, who had suggested a jawboning provision in the ordinance.

"The Rent Registration board could pick the highest rent increases, call the landlord in and try to talk him out of it, Mr. McChesney explained. "Mr. LaPlaca felt this would encourage landlords not to try for exorbitant increases."

Karen Woodbridge — Borough

Michael Tomalin — Township

Rosemary McGee — Township

Woodbridge, Tomalin, McGee Elected, Budget Passes

Michael Tomalin, Rosemary McGee and Karen Woodbridge were elected to the school board and both parts of the new budget passed easily in Tuesday's annual school elections. Township voters approved the budget by more than three to one; in the Borough, it was more than two to one.

Turnout, traditionally low in school elections, was 9 percent in the Borough and 6.2 percent in the Township. Last year, when Princeton was almost buried under an April snowstorm, only 4.3 percent of the voters turned out.

Michael Mahoney was also elected to the board as a Borough representative, but he was unopposed.

Mr. Tomalin led in the Township with 536 votes. Mrs. McGee had 521 and Sharon Muzyk, 203. Both Mr. Tomalin and Mrs. McGee were running for a second term.

It was Mr. Tomalin's change of vote that shifted the 5-4 balance on the board and brought about the vote to close Littlebrook, and many thought voters would turn against him. He was afraid of that himself, he said after the returns were in on Tuesday.

"Yes, I did think my actions would have an impact. It didn't affect the way I campaigned, but it did mean I campaigned as hard as I could. People didn't tell me they wouldn't vote for me, but some said that although they were mad at me, they'd vote for me anyway."

"But you never know what people will do when they get in the booth!" Mr. Tomalin said many voters, as he campaigned, spoke of the elementary schools as a "weak link," and he said the board must address this.

The Littlebrook districts, which are Township general election Districts 10 and 14, approved both current expense and capital budgets. Last month, after the board had voted to close Littlebrook School, the school's PTO stated that it would not actively support the budget.

In the final tally, District 10 did cast more "no" votes against both sections of the budget than any other district, but more people voted there than in any other district, so the significance of the "no" counts is considerably diluted.

In District Ten, 89 voted for the current expense budget and 38 against it; 80 for the capital budget and 44 against it. In comparison, in the next-largest district — District Nine, in the Riverside area — the tally was 72 in favor and 13 opposed to the current expense budget, and 71 to 15 for the capital budget.

The budget vote:
Borough, current expense: 333 "yes," 161 "no."
Borough, capital outlay: 326 "yes," 160 "no."
Township, current expense: 521 "yes," 158 "no."
Township, capital outlay: 500 "yes," 176 "no."

Home Link Begins Cable TV Construction; Completion Is Expected by End of Summer

Aerial construction — hanging the first lines — began Monday morning for the Home Link cable television system that will serve Borough and Township.

Bill Heisel, general manager for Home Link, said the company hopes to finish the building of its 125 miles of cable by the end of summer. For the first month, the rate will be five miles a week; after that, 25 miles a week until it's all done. The contractor is Communications Construction Group from Pennsylvania. Borough and Township householders can recognize the crew by a uniform top and ID badge, and white trucks.

around August, Mr. Heisel said. But first, Home Link must meet proof-of-performance specifications set by the firm's own engineering department and the CCG staff.

Things began on Westcott, at the intersection with Library Place. Home Link had wanted to begin on North Harrison, near Bunn Drive, but there were performance bond complications in the Township, so ground-breaking — or air-breaking — began in the Borough instead, as CCG crew zipped to the top of a utility pole and began work.

Approval by Township Committee is important, Mr. Heisel explained, because Home Link's main run will be down North Harrison. "But Westcott is a good straight street," he said, adding that work was expected to start in the Township the next day. Borough and Township together have been divided into quadrants, and construction will go according to that plan. Home Link hopes to set up of office space shortly in Princeton Professional Park.

THE FIRST REEL: Cable television for Princeton — the first visible, public step toward cable was taken at 9 sharp Monday morning, when crews from Communications Construction Group began work at Library Place and Westcott Road. In a few days, work is expected to start at North Harrison and Bunn Drive.

Rent Registration

"It would be a sham," retorted Council member Richard Macgill. "The board would have no power. What is jawboning, if there are no teeth?"

"Gumming," Mr. Woodbridge replied. He did suggest, however, that Council try it. "If jawboning works," he remarked, "it would take the pressure off the town for more Draconian measures."

"Nationally, jawboning has been an abject failure," Mr. Macgill declared. "Hard-boiled landlords won't care, and the others won't be involved, anyway."

"I'm convinced landlords might think of their wider community responsibility," Mr. McChesney mused. Earlier in the year, he had charged that many Princeton landlords are guilty of rent-gouging.

In the end, Council decided not to require landlords to come in and submit to "gumming." But those whose rent increases are regarded as too high, will be "contacted."

TOPICS Of The Town

TWO TOWNSHIPS AGREE
On Road Maintenance.
Princeton Township and Hopewell Township have amicably agreed to a plan for taking care of the part of Province Line Road that forms the boundary between the two municipalities.

As outlined in a resolution adopted by Township Committee last Monday night, the plan splits the costs of maintaining the road according to the season. From September through March, Princeton Township will be responsible, and that means snowplowing and sanding when there are icy conditions. Hopewell Township will take over from April through September and cut the grass and fill the pot holes.

The plan suits each municipality just fine, Mayor Winthrop Pike says, because it uses the machinery and manpower of each township to the best advantage. "We have to go out there anyway with our snowplows to plow the rest of Province Line," he comments.

In other business, Committee introduced two
"housekeeping" ordinances that will have a public hearing on Monday, May 2. It postponed for a week a decision on giving back to the Board of Education space under the big meeting room in the Valley Road Building that it has not used and will not need. The Township leases space from the school board for $1 a year, but shares the costs of operating the building with the school board. Acting Administrator Douglas Bacher says that renegotiating the lease to exclude that space will save the Township $10,766
a year.

Committeeman William Cherry requested postponement of the decision to give Township Welfare Director
Dorothy Kruger time to assess the suitability of the space for the Food Coop, which is currently in the basement of the Art People Place on Witherspoon Street.

McChesney Studying Census Figures

Thinking about rent leads to thinking about people and how many there are, and Borough Council Robert McChesney, as he pondered landlords and tenants, began to dig out Borough census figures. (Although the census was taken three years ago, figures are just now emerging from the calculators. For example, Mr. McChesney expects that Borough income figures will be available "soon.")

He finds that the Borough's non-student population dropped by nine percent — from 7,846 to 7,192 in the ten years between censuses. The total 1980 population of the Borough is 12,035, but that includes 4,843 in "group quarters" — that is, students.

The number of housing units has increased from 3,274 to 3,357 — fewer people in each unit, representing split families and smaller families, generally.

In 1980, there were 1,709 families in the Borough, and 294 of them were headed by a female.

One in every five residents of the Borough is 62 years old or older. That's 21 or 22 percent. Mr. McChesney says that in comparable towns, the figure is 10 to 11 percent.

Figures show that the Borough's black population declined by 15 percent in ten years: from 1,234 to 1,044. In 1970, there were 386 housing units owned or rented by blacks; in 1980, that figure had dropped to 285 — a decline of 26 percent in black-occupied housing units. The black population figure includes students at Princeton University.

Mr. McChesney found that the vacancy rate in rentals has gone from 2.1 to 5.4 percent in the years between '70 and '80, which means 106 vacant rental units, and adds, "I have trouble believing this."

Incidentally, Mr. McChesney obtained his data from the economics section of the University's Firestone Library. Firestone is now closed to the townspeople except those who buy a special permit. He does not need a special permit: his wife works for the University.

Committee spent its work session pondering such matters as child fingerprinting in the Township (members of One Palmer Square, but seemed not to favor it) and a proposed ordinance regulating the installation of alarm systems (the Police Department has been plagued with false alarms in systems installed under the building overhang around the building last Tuesday as Collins exited into the revised plans for the forecourt of One Palmer Square. In the end, the awning still folded, the board suggested Collins go back and think it over, and bring in new ideas on Thursday, April 21. That's the evening Collins is expected with its site plans for the addition to the Nassau Inn.

STOUFFER, SEMINARY
At EDRC. A new subdivision and a new restaurant are on the agenda for the Environmental Design Review Committee when it meets this Wednesday at 7:30 in the Valley Road Building.

Princeton Theological Seminary plans 23 houses and 12 townhouses for faculty on Mt. Lucas Road. The property, known as the Habada tract from its late owner, adjoins present Seminary property where there are also Seminary faculty homes.

The Stouffer Corporation, which plans to open a Stouffer Cheese Cellar Restaurant in the rear of the One Palmer Square Building, will show how it plans to convert office space to restaurant use.

Another new Collins Development tenant, Laura Ashley, Inc., will also present plans for converting basement storage at 46 Nassau to office use.

The new fountain will be dish-shaped, like the present one, and flush with the plaza pavement. It will be designed so that in winter, when water has been turned off, pedestrians can walk through it in a short-cut across the forecourt.

The shape is irregular. In the center are several upright rectangular granite pylons, of varying height. The water will play from these.

At one side, between the fountain and the corner where the two wings of the building meet, plans show a planting of half a dozen trees and shrubs, with a mulch of oak chipping.

SIX WET WEEKS

And Fountain Sewers. It has rained at least part of the time the last six week-ends. The confirmation of what you had suspected, came this week from Science Associates.

Last week-end, 1.89 inches fell over Saturday and Sunday. At least you didn't have to rake the lawn for Clean-up Week. And at least we didn't have the two inches in a day, reported in northern New Jersey and New York City.

Quaker Bridge Road was not only closed for flooding — a fairly standard occurrence — it was partially washed out. Township Engineer Robert Kiser reports that a six-foot square of road surface simply washed away, because the water came so fast. A crew went out early Monday morning and did the repair work.

Valley Road sewer trunk line fountains were spewing forth again over the week-end, but Mr. Kiser reports no phone calls about Harry's Brook from residents who live near that sometimes rambunctious stream.

There was an overflow at Linden and Hawthorne, but the source of the leakage was traced and removed.

"Yes, overflows from the sewers do continue, and it's disappointing," acknowledges George Olexa, of the Sewer Operating Committee, "but it's these extraordinary rains that do it."

The SOC is still at work repairing infiltration and inflow in Princeton's ancient sewers and this "I-and-I" work is expected to be completed by 1985.

"When all the work is finished, we'll still have problems," Mr. Olexa warns. He says nobody knows how many basement drains, patio drains, roof leaders are connected to the sanitary sewer system — and infiltrate it unduly during heavy rains.

Also, I-and-I work is based on a 1976 report by the late Arthur Brokaw. Deterioration doesn't stop just because a report has been completed, Mr. Olexa points out. And by 1985, the sewers will be even older.

"A lot of water will have gone over the dam by 1985."

Mr. Olexa points, optimistically, to repair work like that done on the Dempsey Avenue sewer: "that pipe was one-quarter full of ground water, seeping in. By the time we were finished, there was only a trickle."

VOLKSWAGEN VS. DINKY
No...It Was A Standoff. A 1978 Volkswagen driven by a Princeton University student collided with the "Dinky" shuttle train Saturday night, bringing minor injuries to the driver and his passenger.

The Volkswagen was demolished but the Dinky was also knocked out of commission by an electrical failure and had to be towed away by N.J. Department of Transportation workers.

Township police charged the driver Richard S. Rush 3d, 21, of 51 Little Hall, with drunken driving and with driving around a flashing railway gate. He was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the face. His passenger, 20-year old John C. Stauffer of the same Little Hall address, was treated at the Medical Center for head cuts.

The incident occurred around 7 p.m. when Rush drove around the flashing crossarm at Faculty Road and struck the Dinky on the side some 20 feet from the front of the engine which was traveling to Princeton from Princeton Junction. Ptl. Robert Nielsen investigated after police were called at 7:12.

Car Skids on Curve. A Rockaway driver was issued a summons for careless driving last week after his car skidded while rounding a curve on State Road and went out of control 50 feet south of Cherry Valley Road.

The driver, Fred A. Schiller Jr., 63, told Ptl. David Funk that his wheels locked when he applied his brakes causing him to skid. His Lincoln left 160 feet of skid marks before striking a utility pole.

Mr. Schiller was treated at the hospital for contusions and abrasions of the head which he sustained following the 6:44 a.m. mishap. In addition to careless driving, he was also charged as an unlicensed driver.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Gun Possession. A Monmouth Junction man and a Humbert Street resident have been charged by Borough police with possession of a handgun and both are scheduled to appear in Borough Court next Wednesday.

FOR FUN, FOR KIDS: The troupe of strolling players — strolling all the way from New Brunswick — known as The Shoestring Players, will perform for children three times this Saturday in the theatre of Princeton Inn College (Alexander Street, opposite the University Place intersection). Actors are students in the Rutgers-Douglas department of theatre arts.

The incident began at 1:25 Monday morning when Ptl. Donald Dawson and Ptl. Ralph Terracciano observed a Ford Bronco traveling west on Nassau Street in an erratic manner near Harrison Street. The officer stopped the car near Moore Street.

When the driver, 27-year old Frank Paone of Monmouth Junction failed several sobriety tests at the scene he was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol. At the same time, Ptl. Terracciano flashed a flashlight in the car and observed a passenger attempt to place a small pistol in the rear pocket of her jeans. The officers confiscated a loaded, single shot, Derringer type .22 caliber pistol and arrested Katharine Detwiler, 27, of Humbert Street.

During a search of Paone at police headquarters, police uncovered a small plastic bag in his possession containing a sergeant to replace Sgt. Michael Koplin who retired last May. His promotion reported that the substance, becomes effective on Friday.

which has been sent to a police lab for analysis, appears to be cocaine.

Panone was charged with possession of CDS and a handgun and six motor vehicle violations: drunk driving, refusal to take a Breathalyzer test, no license in possession, improper display of license plates, use of fictitious plates and unregistered car.

Detwiler was released in $2,000 bail on the handgun charge. A bail of $3,400 was placed on Paone for the drug and other charges and $250 for the drunk driving charge. He was later released in bail, pending his appearance in court.

NEW SERGEANT NAMED

To Township Police Department. Det. Frank Boccanfuso of Clearview Avenue, who joined the Township police department in June, 1961, has been named in his possession containing a sergeant to replace Sgt. Michael Koplin who retired last May. His promotion reported that the substance, becomes effective on Friday.

Sgt. Boccanfuso will be in charge of a patrol when he assumes his new rank. For the past 12 years he had served in the detective bureau. His promotion was based on the result of a written examination and an evaluation by superior officers. Fifteen patrolmen took the test.

Chief Anthony Pinelli said that a new captain, a new lieutenant and another sergeant will be named in the near future. The latter will be selected from among the 15 who took the test with Sgt. Boccanfuso.

Members of the department had complained to Township officials earlier this year about what they felt was an undue long time in appointing a replacement for Sgt. Kopliner.

No questions asked

Township police would like its stolen street signs back with no questions asked.

A lot of the signs are missing, said Chief Pinelli this week, from locations all over the Township. It's a great expense to keep replacing the signs, he said, and many have not been replaced. "It's frustrating to visitors to try to locate a street in an area where signs have been removed."

Chief Pinelli said that he is appealing to parents and neighbors. If they should see any or have any of their possession or know where a stolen sign is to turn them into to police headquarters.

"There will be no prosecution," chief Pinelli promised. "All we're interested in is getting our signs back."

JEWELRY IS STOLEN

From Vandewater Home. Pieces of jewelry, believed to exceed $5,000 in value by the victim, were stolen last week from a Vandewater Avenue home.

The owner told police that when she entered her second floor guest room at 6:50 Friday night she noticed signs of tampering. When she glanced in a walk through closet she saw a dresser drawer open and a jewelry box upset. When a second glance revealed another dresser drawer open and an opened jewelry pouch, the victim called police.

The house, police said, was entered by forcing a side door and the upstairs bedrooms were entered. The victim told Sgt. Thomas Procaccino that the house had been vacant between 1:50 and 6:50 p.m. Police are still waiting for a report of what was taken, but they added that the victim told them she feels the loss will exceed $5,000.

A Quarry Street resident suffered a sizeable loss last week when $3,000 was stolen from his car while it was parked overnight in a municipal lot off Maclean Street.

Now Europe is closer. Most Getaway Vacations cost less than last year.

This year you can have the Crown Jewels for a pittance. Flamencos for a song. The Eiffel for a trifle. Because 90% of TWA's Getaway Europe Vacations cost even less than last year.

Getaway Europe lets you choose from 72 different vacations—fully escorted and freestyle all over Europe and the Middle East.

For example, a 14-day motor-coach tour through France, England, Germany, Switzerland, Holland and Belgium costs from only $918 to $989.

And you save even more because TWA has great low airfares, most less than last year.

So find out more about TWA's Getaway Europe. Thanks to TWA, Europe is within your reach.

Police report that in each instance, a front door window was smashed to get inside. The entries were discovered by police at 5:55 Sunday morning.

A cash tray was removed from a cash register and coins from three video machines at the Pizza Star restaurant, and a small amount of cash used to make change was stolen from the Minute Press. Desks were rifled at the Omni Travel agency but police said it is not known if anything was taken. Sgt. Robert Heacock, Ptl. John Seeley and Ptl. Renn Kaminski investigated.

INVITATION TO THEFT

Empty Car, Running Motor. Two drivers in Princeton last week learned it is an invitation to theft to leave your car unoccupied with the motor running.

A Princeton Junction resident was only absent from her car for two minutes when she left it parked in a prohibited area with the motor running to run into Verbeyst Cleaners on Tulane Street to pick up her clothes.

When she returned her pocketbook was missing. Inside was one wallet containing $75 and another wallet containing $8. The victim also lost a check book and her house keys.

Not as fortunate was an Public Service employee: he had his car stolen.

Around 4:30 Monday af-

SUMMER IN GERMANY: Princeton High School sophomore Marion Katz, left, received a perfect score on her National German Examination and has won an all-expense paid study trip to Germany this summer. She will live with a German family, attend school and travel throughout the country. Her award is from the West German government and the American Association of Teachers of German. She is shown with her German teacher, Dr. Victoria Ellis.

ternoon, the employee, police said, stopped and parked his 1979 Plymouth on Nassau Street near Chestnut, while he checked on a job that a Public Service crew was working on in a hole in the area. He left the car's motor running and its 4-way flasher lights on.

The next moment, the Public Service supervisor looked up, police said, and saw his car going down Nassau Street. Some PS employees attempted to follow the stolen car in a company truck but couldn't keep up because of sidewalk in front of Kopps traffic. As the stolen car headed south on 206 toward Street.

Police said that the bike was not locked. They identified the owner as a resident of Magie Apartments of Faculty Road and a part-time employee of Kopps.

A Princeton University student had her wallet stolen from her pocketbook last week while it was hanging near a coat room in the Elm Club on Prospect Avenue. Her brown Anne Klein wallet was valued at $15 and contained $60, a $20 traveler's check and credit cards. The theft took place between 9:15 and 9:50 Thursday morning.

A Harrison Street resident reported the theft of a steel tennis racket, tennis bag and tennis clothing with a combined value of $206.50 from her car last week. She told police that the car had been parked in several locations around town before she noticed the theft. There were no signs of forced entry.

Donation Box Stolen. A wooden coin box, painted to resemble a building, was stolen last week from a counter at the Wawa Market on lower University Place.

The manager, Alex Versfeld, told police that the box contained donations for the Eden Institute, an agency for autistic children, and held about $10 in change when it was noticed missing around 2:30 Thursday morning.

The 16 x 12 x 2-inch box was found later the same day in the vicinity of University Place and College Road. There was still about $2 inside, police said.

REPELLENT AVAILABLE
To Curb Marauding Deer. Not only has the Township's swollen deer herd—protected by an anti-firearm ordinance—raised hob with motorists, it has gardeners and flower raisers in the community gnashing their teeth. Help for the latter anyway is available—and it's free.

Township Chief Anthony Pinelli reported that two repellents are available from the state's Fish and Game Agency located in Clinton. Both liquid, one is for bushes and the second for edible fruits and vegetables.

To get the repellent sprays, however, one must go to Clinton where they are available in limited quantity. The Fish and Game telephone number in Clinton is 201-735-8793.

Chief Pinelli commented that police have received at least three complaints from residents complaining about deer eating shrubbery and gardens.

U STORE IS SITE
Of Bomb Scare. If spring is here can bomb threats be far behind?

Someone called the University Store Tuesday morning and reported a bomb had been placed inside the store. An employee of the store called police at 11:03 to report the threat.

Police and store officials searched the evacuated building but found no bomb. At 11:23 the store called police again to report that the store was back in operation.

DUMBELLS STOLEN
Four Juveniles Charged. Four Princeton juveniles, three aged 14 and one 13-year old had been charged with the theft Saturday afternoon of two dumbbells from Dillon Gym on the Princeton University campus.

Fresh Flowers Again
The Spring French Market sponsored by the Garden Club of Princeton will resume this week. Every Friday, from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m., through June 17, Garden Club members will be selling spring garden flowers, flowering branches and small flower arrangements in the mini-park opposite TOWN TOPICS, Nassau and Mercer Streets.

Proceeds from these markets are used in the club's local conservation and education activities. These include the ongoing donation of gardening and horticulture books to the Public Library and the Arbor Day tree-planting program undertaken with area schools.

The four were allegedly observed by a proctor carrying two York dumbbells, one 15 pounds, the second 25 pounds, from the gym. They were taken to police headquarters, turned over to the Borough juvenile officer Det. William Clark for processing and later released to their parents.

Trespassers Charged. Four residents from outside the Princeton area were arrested late Monday night and charged with trespassing at the Princeton Inn Annex.

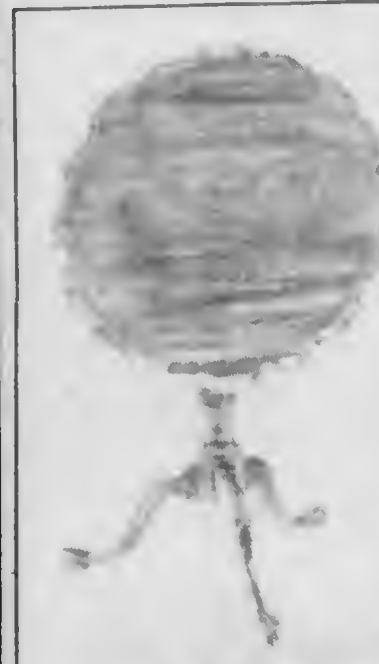

Arrested inside the annex around 11:30 were Stephen Blair, 20, and Kimberly Blair, 20, both of Ocala, Fla.; Terry Rodriguez, 21, of Centerarch, N.Y.; and Benard Edwards, 20, of East Orange. Police said that the four had been previously warned not to trespass at the Annex. After each was issued a summons, all were released on their own recognizance.

SUMMONS IS THE RESULT
Of A Bar Argument. An argument over the closing hour of a bar in the Springdale Golf Club ended last week with police issuing a summons against a Cranbury resident.

Michael Shillaber of Princeton Arms, Cranbury, was charged with simple assault after he allegedly struck a Mercer County corrections officer during an argument at the club bar at 9:20 Saturday evening. Police said that the victim later came to police headquarters and signed a complaint against Mr. Shillaber. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court April 20.

'LIBRARY WEEK'
Library to Celebrate. The Princeton Public Library will mark National Library Week, Monday through Saturday of next week, with a bow to its volunteers.

Donald Eckroyd, who gives "Readings Over Coffee" once a month, will be presented with a scroll, designed by Margaret Hastings, marking 20 years of "Readings." It will be given to Dr. Eckroyd at next Wednesday's 10:30 a.m. "Reading," by Archie Lummis, member of the Council of the Friends of the Princeton Public Library.

On Monday, 75 library volunteers will be guests of honor at a reception given by the library and the Friends. Each will receive a Certificate of Appreciation.

The library will also mark the week with an amnesty on fines. Overdue books, no matter how long overdue, will be received without question, and a prize awarded on April 30 to the longest overdue.

8,000 Volumes Gone. Robert Staples, librarian, says the library is missing 8,000 books. "People don't understand that they'll have to pay thousands of dollars, through taxes, to replace those that are not returned," Mr. Staples said. The cost for replacement books in fiscal 1982, was $6,000.

Eric Greenfeldt, of the library's staff, said that after the amnesty, the library will begin to enforce the ordinance against chronic late-returners. The Borough law calls for a fine as high as $100, if books are not returned after the ordinance's procedure has been followed.

Variety of Programs. Next Tuesday at 2, there will be story-telling for pre-schoolers. Next Thursday at 3:30, "Sound and Stories" will use words and instruments to tell stories to children.

Next Thursday at 6 p.m., the library will show "Princeton: A History," conceived and produced by Lewis Carter Cuyler and first shown last June. Using John E. Hageman's "History of Princeton and its Institutions," Mr. Cuyler covers the development of Princeton from early Quaker settlement to the present.

Princeton actor Karl Light interprets the first two cen-

Need a Day Care Center?

The Princeton YWCA is in the process of assessing the need for Princeton-based day care for children of working parents.

Information is being gathered to determine the interest and need in the Princeton area communities for a YWCA-sponsored day care center. Anyone presently in need of day care or anticipating a need in the near future should send name, address, phone number and ages of children to Ruth Melik, Princeton YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, Princeton. This information will be kept confidential and will be used solely for need assessment by the YWCA.

turies, through Mr. Hageman's eyes. Nancy Knox, of the Historical Society of Princeton, takes the narrative from 1878 to the present.

At the end of Library Week, the Friends will hold a book sale. Donated books and used books removed from the library's shelves will be on sale in the meeting room. Hours are Friday, April 22 from noon to 5 and Saturday, April 23 from 9 to 4.

Throughout the week, members of the Friends will serve coffee at the library: 10 to noon daily except Thursday; 1:30 to 4 Thursday; 7 to 9 p.m. Monday.

"Monstrosity"

To the Editor of Town Topics: What is Collins trying to do? That kiosk is an ugly monstrosity. Do they really think that is Colonial Architecture? I have always shopped in the square and along Nassau Street. The shopkeepers and salespeople are my friends; they know my needs and tastes. Whenever my mother comes down from New York City, practically her first words are, "When can we go to Clayton's; I'm so tired of Bloomingdale's and Saks."

To pay $.80 for one hour and five minutes of parking can only drive people to the malls. Mrs. Cottier in her letter of last week suggests that we, of Princeton, voice one opinion. I think we need a committee of concerned citizens to stop this desecration. I hope we are not too late.

210 Mountain Avenue

The Youngest Critic

To the Editor of Town Topics: As a citizen of Princeton I would like to share my thoughts with other members of the community. My thoughts about the kiosk are that it is a very ugly building. There are enough newsstands in Princeton as is and I do not want Princeton to turn into a tourist attraction. I think Princeton is a very beautiful community. I would like Princeton to stay the way it was.

SCOTT PETRONI

Architecture School at Fault?

To the Editor of Town Topics: It's a forlorn hope in a tasteless age, but a summation devoutly to be wished: that any school of architecture graduating the likes of the designer of the tacky Palmer Square kiosk would have its accreditation permanently revoked.

G.M. SMITH

It's Not Too Late

To the Editor of Town Topics: It is not too late for Princeton citizens to speak up now, with your own pens, about any objections you may have about the plans that the Collins Developers Inc. have for our Palmer Square. It is up to each citizen to make his or her opinions known, instead of just grumbling to friends and neighbors.

First, take a look at the model plans in the lobby of the Nassau Inn. It will be even more apparent that the Collins Developers, who have bought the space, now wish to get their money back by cluttering up the very space that we all have preferred to be uncluttered, for many years.

Most of us know how many shops have come and gone because their particular "golden dreams" did not fit in with this particular type of market. There always is a real need for apartments, especially for people, old and young who cannot afford the high rents that the Collins plans, obviously, seem determined to foist on our town.

A developer can only please the people, and pay off his own expenses, when he becomes far more sensitive to the real needs of this particular town. All concerned people should send their opinions to the Princeton Regional Planning Board and the Princeton Borough Council.

POLLY FAIRMAN

Thoughts on Palmer Square

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Must we campaign for a referendum on the question as to whether or not the purchaser for 17 million dollars of a roughly with an axe over the shopping and business habits of its taxpayers? They are the people inconvenienced by upheavals, but what is worse, are the ones to pay for increased rentals and the imposition of so called progressive business of any kind.

Do you suppose that our somnolent Palmer Square tiger and its pedestal will soon be judged in the way of progress, and hence ignominiously removed? I believe there is a law that protects works of art from destruction, but after all "Lunch Time" as well as a fountain recently gave way to a kiosk.

The last time I lived in Paris, 1932, it was already being bruted about the kiosks and pissors were anachronisms as well as obstructions.

Do you suppose our recently imposed, and highly touted, example of the former looks for academic standing because of its proximity to Nassau Hall?

Access to Firestone.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Following is the text of a letter I have written to Princeton University President William G. Bowen. As a former Princeton resident, and as an alumnus of the University, I was extremely disappointed to learn of the administration's decision to restrict public access to Firestone Library. While I understand the reasoning behind the decision, I question whether more creative and thoughtful solutions were discussed, and if so, why they were rejected in favor of the policy that was adopted.

More than ten years ago, as a high school student in search of sources for a term paper, I was referred to Firestone by the staff of the Princeton Library. In the course of looking through the stacks to find certain titles, I came

Free Cheese

Five-pound bricks of cheese from Federal storehouses will once again be given, free, to those who are eligible. Welfare Director Dorothy Kruger has announced.

If you are entitled to the free cheese and live in Princeton Community Village or in any of the units of the Princeton Housing Authority, you will receive the cheese this Wednesday from PCV or the Authority.

If you are eligible but do not live in an Authority unit, you may pick up the cheese this Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Community Park Pool building.

across a wealth of other material. I don't even remember if I ever used the books I had set out to find, but in the stacks of Firestone I discovered an incredible resource, one that I would use not only in further academic work in high school, but for my own enlightenment.

That this resource will no longer be available to local residents is deeply disturbing to me. I know that the accessibility of Firestone had a very stimulating effect on my excitement for education. It also gave me a very positive feeling about the University, that a private college was generous enough to share its resources with the public.

This positive feeling in no small part contributed to my eventual decision to attend Princeton. I am now concerned that the restriction of this generosity may be a symbol of the University as a whole becoming less accessible to Princeton area residents.

Because I have always lived in a college town, I have always been aware of the kinds of conflicts that arise between local residents and members of the college community. Here in Middlebury, despite extraordinary and continuous efforts made by the college administration and staff to make college facilities and resources available to the public, there still seems to be a lot of resentment directed against the college.

But for those who are willing to make the effort, the college is an incredible educational resource: all cultural events are open to the public; auditing of classes is easily arranged; use of college space by non-college affiliated organizations is commonplace. And as it relates to the subject of this letter, any area resident may, for a very modest fee, check out books at the college library.

And anyone may enter the library to read material on the premises. A simple security system, identical to the one used at Firestone's reserve room when I was a student, is used at the entry to the building.

While I am certain that Firestone's collection is much larger than the Middlebury College library's, I am curious why this system was not implemented. Was the final decision the only one that was considered cost effective? Was the ill will caused by the restriction of access to Firestone anticipated? Was the trade-off between theft losses and bad p.r. considered?

Yet another drawback to the restricted access policy is that, as an alumnus, it is difficult to get into the University library. While recently visiting my parents in town, I wanted to look up a community. Because I care so much for Princeton, I am writing you now to ask that the decision to restrict public access to Firestone Library be reconsidered. If there is anything that I can do as an individual to facilitate such a re-evaluation, I would consider it my duty to perform it.

S.A.V.E.'s Job Praised.
To the Editor of Town Topics: I am writing to call attention to the excellent animal shelter serving the Princeton area. The shelter is managed by Mrs. Graves, a person who truly cares about animals. It is not only that the shelter is sanitary and comfortable, but also that Mrs. Graves does a superb job of trying to understand the qualities of animals in order to match them with an appropriate new pet owner. Due to circumstances beyond my control, I had to get rid of a dog that had been part of our family for five years. My grown children were deeply upset at the thought of pushing our pet out and everyone told me how difficult it would be to find a suitable place for him. But Mrs. Graves found a loving home for our dog and, as is her usual practice, she has kept in touch with both his old and his new home to make certain that there are no misunderstandings or regrets.

I believe Mrs. Graves and S.A.V.E. should have all the support that can be given. (S.A.V.E. is a private charitable organization, and a cash donation is tax deductible.) Princeton's animal shelter is run by a dedicated person who truly loves and understands animals.

Princeton Glee Club Director for 25 Years Marks Anniversary with Unusual Concert

Walter Nollner will mark his 25 years as director of the Princeton University Glee Club this week in Alexander Hall in two performances of Stravinsky's "Svadyebka," he will be simultaneously marking an anniversary, realizing an ambition and trying out a new way of performing this infrequent heard work. "It is a bold and daring undertaking," Mr. Nollner is proud to say, "that he is not afraid to expose his students to different types of music and musical experience."

making his debut with the New York City Opera this fall as Papageno in "The Marriage of Figaro"; soprano Andrea Matthews '78, who took second prize in Boston opera auditions and won the American singing teachers competition; and alto Mimmi Fulmer '74 who teaches voice at Ithaca College and performs with various New York opera theater. Frank Hoffmeister, who has performed with Prof. Nollner in the past, will sing the tenor solo.

Mr. Nollner started his own life in music as a pianist. As an undergraduate at the University of California at Berkeley, he gradually became more interested in theory and then in composition. His studies were interrupted by three years in the Army Signal Corps during World War II in which he did some composing and some chorus conducting. After the war he returned to Berkeley and studied composition with Roger Sessions for four years while he earned his A.B. in music with highest honors in 1946 and the M.A. in music three years later.

The Glee Club begins its performances each year with joint concerts of "lighter" music with the Harvard and Yale clubs on the eve of the "Big Three" football games. Concerts of "serious" music are performed in February and April, and there is usually another "light" program for the Houseparties Concert in May or Reunions in June. This year the Glee Club joined with the Chapel Choir to sing the Brahms Requiem in February.

Tours Around the World. Prof. Nollner clearly relishes the tours on which he leads Glee Club members to various parts of the globe every two or three summers. In 1980, the Glee Club made a very successful around-the-world tour, beginning in California and then journeying to Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and India. The Far Eastern part of that tour was to have been repeated in 1982 but was deferred, and a European tour was substituted. The trip included singing in such awesome places as the Matyas Templom in Budapest, the Basilica San Marco in Venice Alumni Soloists. The soloists will be William Parker '65, a Schonberg program in baritone who sang the Bach Carnegie Hall to celebrate the "Missa Brevis" with the Glee Club's 100th anniversary Club in its first tour of Europe in 1974) and said: "I thought his senior year and who will be the Glee Club did glees."

Glees vs. the three Bs. Asked if it is not usually the province of a choir to perform the great sacred choral works and the glees club to sing sea songs, Prof. Nollner winces. He remembers the time an alumnus came up to him after singing in such awesome places as the Matyas Templom in Budapest, the Basilica San Marco in Venice and Chartres Cathedral in France.

The Far Eastern tour will be resumed this summer with the 60-member Chamber Chorus, composed of Glee Club and Chapel Choir singers. It may include a week in residence at Peking University if the "official" cultural exchanges cancelled this week by the Republic of China in protest over the defection of a tennis player do not include "unofficial" cultural exchanges by student groups.

Educational experience. "I regard this as an educational experience for the students, and so does the University," Prof. Nollner remarks. He limits the concerts to three a week so that the students can have a chance to "know where they are, who these people are with whom they are singing, and to learn something about themselves in the process."

He is openly admiring of the intelligence of Princeton University students and their ability to absorb a great deal of information in a very short time. He describes the trips as "bringing the best we can of Western music and enjoying the sort of experience I find exceptional in human experience."

Prof. Nollner sees his role as increasing a knowledge of music and a commitment to it so that it might occupy a part of his students' lives. "A life of music has been rewarding to me, and I'll be delighted if it is rewarding to them. The fact is that a great many people have sung in my choruses and have continued a relationship to music is the thing that I am the proudest of," he says.

SCIENCE DAY SET

At Littlebrook. Dancing bees, hurricanes and giant chains of DNA will all be a part of a PTO-sponsored Science Day at Littlebrook School to be held on Thursday. Each class, kindergarten through fifth grade, will have several different areas of science throughout the day. Presentations will be volunteered by scientists, doctors, a dentist and teachers in the areas of biology, chemistry, physics, math and the social sciences. Many of those making presentations are parents of Littlebrook students.

Student involvement will range from "hands on" to discussion and participation in demonstrations and experiments. Kindergartners will journey through parts of the digestive tract, as well as have an opportunity to see and talk about dinosaur bones. First, second and third graders will experiment with mealworms, learn about the special properties of air and water, explore the binary numbers, see slides on space travel, discuss fossils, probe the unknown territories of "ESP", or join a line-up of students holding different colored balloons to illustrate how DNA chains create protein.

Fourth graders may find themselves in the midst of a hurricane, at work on math puzzles, learning what "Mystery Powders" can do, understanding what lies behind the dance of the bees, or exploring the frontiers of the brain. Fifth graders will work with computers, learn about dental care from a dentist's point of view, or explore the "Ames Room" of visual illusions used to explain social prejudices and psychological phenomena. The last part of Science Day will give fourth and fifth graders the opportunity to share with the younger classes what they have learned through their own recent classroom experiments.

Science Day is a PTO-sponsored event co-chaired by Mary Degnan and Ann Kahn. Along with committee staff representatives Principal George Petrillo and teachers Sam Ishibashi and Mary Ann Hynitzke, they have coordinated the efforts of approximately 35 parent volunteers who have contributed to planning, scheduling and setting up over 20 different presentations, as well as providing lunch for school staff, participants and other volunteers.

FREE AEROBIC SESSION
At YMCA. The Princeton YMCA will offer a free aerobic trial class on Monday evening from 8-9 in the YM-YWCA all-purpose room. The one-hour demonstration will be an opportunity to see as well as participate in aerobic exercise routines.

The YMCA "Joy" Aerobics Program, developed in 1979 by a team of exercise physiologists, is a fitness program that improves cardiovascular health and muscle tone, and increases flexibility. A typical aerobics class includes a 15 minute warm-up period to loosen the muscles, 35 minutes of aerobics exercises, and a 10 minute cooldown period for relaxation. The routines are done to music.

Robin Ennis is the instructor for the course, and will begin a new eight-week session at the YMCA in May. No reservations are needed for the trial class. Tennis shoes and loose clothing are recommended. Call the YMCA at 924-4497 for more information.

ANTIQUE SHOW SET
In West Windsor. West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education will sponsor its first annual Antiques Show on Saturday at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, Route 571 and Clarksville Road.

The show will be devoted to American country and period furniture, folk art, primitives and accessories. Some 70 dealers from New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will be on hand.

The show will include tables, stands, chairs, cupboards, pewter, silver, quilts, ironware, redware, early iron, brass and other antiques. It will be managed by Geoffrey Genovese of GG Antiques Shows.

SAILING CLINICS SET

On Lane Carnegie. The Carnegie Sailing Club will present a series of free sailing clinics designed for the person, young or old, who would like to learn the basics of sailing or improve his skills in small boat handling.

Sunfish and Laser class sailboats will be available for sailing instruction. Clinics will begin Sunday, April 24, at 1 pm at the Carnegie Sailing Club boathouse (at the far end of Lake Carnegie, near the dam) and be held May 1, 8 and 22. For information please contact either Commodore Peter M. Grosz, 924-6019, or Vice Commodore Mrs. Duncan Bethune, 924-2655.

A ten-week series of Sunday sailing races for Sunfish and Laser class sailboats will begin Sunday sponsored by the Carnegie Sailing Club. Area residents who own a Laser or Sunfish are invited to participate in the CSC spring racing program. Races begin every Sunday at 1:30 p.m. EST (2 p.m. DST) at the

How to Have a "Fine"* Time Celebrating LIBRARY WEEK April 18 - 23

(*That's a joke: See No. 1 below)

1. All fines are forgiven and forgotten during Library Week, so the first thing you do, is return the gardening book you checked out in March, 1979. No questions asked. Of you, by the library. You can even sneak it into the book-drop.
2. You could win a prize. The MOST overdue book will win a prize, but the library isn't saying what the prize is. Very suspicious.
3. The most overdue children's book will win another prize. That one is just too easy: it's the "Babar the Elephant" you left at Granny's house, Christmas of '78.
4. "We are currently missing 8,000 books," says librarian Robert Staples with a dark and frowning stare. But he doesn't hold you responsible for all of them.
5. Then, you buy a book. (That way, you'll never have a fine). Books donated by the Friends of the Princeton Public Library, and things like old travel books removed from the library's own shelves, will be for sale in the upstairs reading room on Friday, April 22 from noon to 5, and Saturday, April 23 from 9 to 4.
6. Tee-shirts? One for everybody in the family, $5 each. There's this drawing by Joan Robinson that shows all kinds of interesting animals peeking out of a book, and lettering to inform anybody who looks at you, that you are emotionally and sartorially involved with THE PRINCETON PUBLIC LIBRARY.
7. Tote bag? Those wonderful white plastic ones are all gone. BUT .... new tote $8 bags will be at the book sale. After all, you've got to buy a tote bag to tote home all the books you've bought.
8. Do you have a dear friend who never returns your borrowed books? A library that can forgive fines, can forgive such a friend. (After all, the library forgave you, didn't it?) The library's tactful device is a "checkbook" called a "Book-lender's reminder." When you lend, fill out your name and the name of the book on the "check" and give it to the borrower. It then becomes the bookmark. On the check-stub is the name of the friend and the book. (Better put in the date, too.) Buy one when you buy all those books.
9. Posters! Big. Colorful. All very up-beat about reading. Buy a lot. Librarian Eric Greenfeldt has ordered Annie, Yoda, Mickey Mouse, and even more. $5 each.
10. Irene Farley is head of the Long Range Planning Committee (what a "Princeton" title!) for the Friends of the Princeton Public Library and her committee thought up all those ideas about tee-shirts, tote bags, book-loan checkbooks, a library store. She would be very happy indeed if you were to decide to join the Friends during Library Week.

8. ... but before the book sale: Throughout the week, Friends will serve daily coffee. (On Saturday — free balloons!) Coffee time is 10 to noon daily except Thursday, when coffee will be served from 1:30 to 4. There will also be coffee Monday night from 7 to 9.
9. Tuesday, April 19, 2 p.m.: pre-school, half-hour story program with filmstrip. No registration required.
10. Wednesday, April 20, 10:30 a.m.: "Readings Over Coffee." Donald Eckroby has chosen "The Importance of Being Earnest." (Can you believe it? This April is the 20th anniversary of "Readings Over Coffee.")
11. Thursday, April 21, 3:30: "Sound and Stories," with storyteller Susan Danoff and musician John Burkhalter; children can participate, as well as listen and look.
12. Thursday, April 21, 8 p.m.: "Princeton ... A History," sound-slide show by Lewis C. Cuyler, starring Karl Light and Nancy Knox as narrators.

Princeton's library is USED. (They had to lay a new carpet because of all the feet).

A regular business clientele uses Barrons, 15 business magazines and the Dow Jones News Retrieval System.

Dudley Carson, in the children's room, teaches young readers how to use the library, how to find books about dinosaurs and detectives and the home-work project.

The library is baby-sitter for many latch-key kids, who come after school and stay until daddy and mommie come home from work.

Kids just learning to read can watch a film strip that shows the printed page while they listen to someone read that page aloud. Or, if you're too little to read yet, the machine will read aloud to you. (see photo).

From early February, William Volk and Jean Whitall have been helping people with income-tax forms. Two hours every Wednesday. Lines form, waiting for the two experts to arrive. (The IRS itself referred one senior citizen to the library's Volk-Whitall team.)

And volunteers ....! 75 of them will be honored at a special reception Monday, and given a Certificate of Appreciation .... 15 men and women in the Adult Basic Reading program teach adults how to read .... other volunteers deliver books to shut-ins, sometimes reading aloud to them .... volunteers provide refreshments for library events .... a volunteer indexes Princeton newspapers ....

Well .... now you know how to celebrate LIBRARY WEEK.

If you have any questions, ask the librarians. When you take back that book on gardening.

TWO PERFORMANCES SET
By Modern Dance Ensemble. The Mercer Dance Ensemble will present two evenings of modern dance on Friday and Saturday in the Kelsey Theatre on Mercer County Community College's West Windsor Campus. Curtain time both evenings will be 8 p.m.

On Friday evening, the ensemble will be featured "In Concert," when it will present a variety of works from its repertoire. On Saturday, the group will present the world premiere of "Night Deposit: A Dance of Murder," with original choreography by Nancy Thiel, a co-director, and John Watson Stewart, a company member, and an original score by Dr. Richard Swain of Rider College.

Tickets for both evenings are on sale at $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens, children 12 and under and MCCC students and alumni with valid ID. Tickets may be purchased at the Kelsey Theatre box office between 1 and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or by calling the Cultural Events 24-hour ticket hotline at 586-4695. Tickets may be charged on Visa or MasterCard on orders of $5 or more.

The Mercer Dance Ensemble receives funding assistance from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

ON EYE RESEARCH
Talk for RP Group. Dr. Ronald Carr, a researcher in the field of retinitis pigmentosa, will speak this Thursday at 8 p.m. to members of the Central New Jersey RP Self-Help Group. The meeting will be held in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street. Dr. Carr is looking for new ways to determine the function of the retina in both healthy and diseased eyes. His research has been helpful in the early diagnosis of retinitis pigmentosa and allied retinal degenerations. Many members of the RP Self-Help Group are currently his patients.

TO HOST CONFERENCE
Of Independent Schools. The New Jersey Association of Independent Schools (NJ AIS) will conduct its annual conference this year on Friday, April 22, at Princeton Day School. Approximately 500 teachers and administrators from over 50 independent schools in the state are expected to attend the session, the purpose of which is to provide a combination of people training, inter-school enrichment, and topical professional growth. Sanford B. Bing, acting headmaster of PDS, and John Esty, president of the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS) will welcome guests prior to the introduction of the keynote speaker, Dr. Douglas Heath, professor of psychology at Haverford College in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Heath will talk about "Morale in NJ AIS Schools: Facts and Factors." His remarks will be based on the results of the 1982 morale-climate survey of NJ AIS participating schools, covering the implications of the data and a consumer's assessment of independent education in New Jersey today.

Concurrent sessions commencing at 11 a.m. will cover a broad and diverse range of topics from "Model Approaches to Teaching National Security: The Nuclear Arms Race" to "Aesthetic Education: The Lincoln Center Approach." Among other experts, Sharon Powell of Princeton will speak on "Peer Leadership Training: Problem Solving for Adolescents." In addition to the sessions, there will be a computer software exhibit in the upper library, and a books and equipment exhibit in the main gymnasium.

This year's Conference Committee is co-chaired by Pete Jaques and Jane

Princeton Regional School

HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights are sponsored and prepared by the Parent Teacher Organization of the Princeton Regional School.

John Witherspoon Students Take Pen In Hand
The John Witherspoon Middle School is conducting a Wednesday afternoon journalism program starting April 13th and continuing each Wednesday afternoon through May 18th. Students will have six afternoons from 1 to 2:30 p.m. to plan, write and design a school magazine.

Much time and effort has been devoted to this program to enable the students to learn about the world of journalism. Arnie Ropeik and Peg Carey from the Trenton Times will speak about journalism on April 13th. Through group discussions, the students will learn how to write a news story and how to organize a publication.

Pam Hersh of the Princeton Packet will advise the students on how to interview for the press as well as discuss tactics, ideas for stories and how to go about prospective assignments.

John Witherspoon students are most fortunate to have the opportunity to meet and hear Landon Jones, Managing Editor of People Magazine, Martin Griff of the Trenton Times People Poll and Kay Bretnall of Town Topics discuss, advise and edit the students' stories and interviews. Eva Kaplan will also be on hand to help the cartoonists with their illustrations.

With the help from the Trenton Times, all students will be involved in making up the dummie sheets to determine the eventual look of the upcoming magazine. As a final dimension to this diversified journalistic program, the Trenton Times has offered a tour of their Trenton plant.

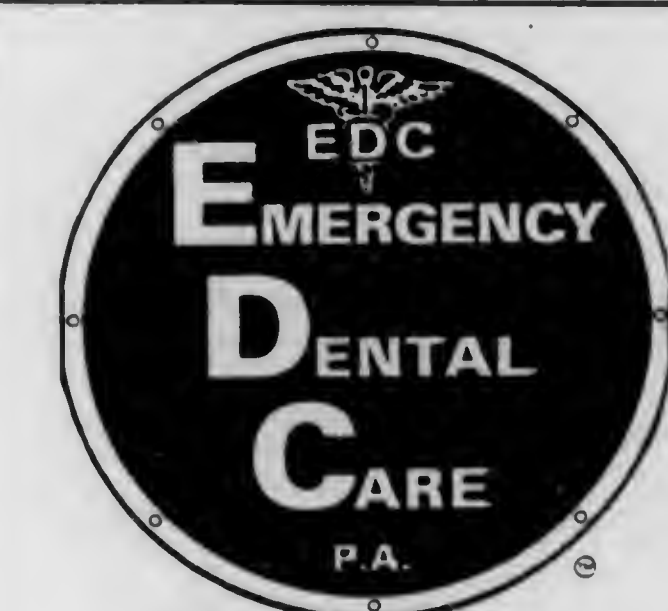

The culmination of this effort will result in a magazine to be sold hopefully to the public on SUPER SATURDAY.

The John Witherspoon Middle School will hold its second annual Book Fair on April 18-22 from 8:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and on Wednesday evening, April 20th from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Students and parents are encouraged to drop in a purchase some interesting reading material. Books will be supplied by Titles Unlimited with 20% of the sales donated to the school.

A Book Mark Contest will also be held during this time. The theme of the contest is "The Book Fair." There will be one winner per house and the winners will distribute their winning bookmarks in their houses the week of the Book Fair.

Foreign Language Week At John Witherspoon Middle School
Foreign Language week was celebrated March 14-18 at John Witherspoon. Each morning there was either French or Spanish music played in the halls followed by bi-lingual announcements. Bulletin boards were decorated with cultural pictures and information about the value of Foreign Language Study and careers which utilize Foreign Languages. The annual poster contest was a big success. The winning posters are on display in the school library. The highlight of the week was the publication of our first French and Spanish literary magazine with poems, games, puzzles, cartoons and art work by many students. Foreign Language study is alive and thriving at John Witherspoon!

'RIVER RAT' TO SPEAK

At Watersheds Meeting. Among the events listed by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association is a talk by George R. Palmier, sometimes known as The Ohio River Rat, on "Make the River Do the Work."

Mr. Palmier, who has won Princeton University's Public Service Award for river restoration projects, will speak at the Watersheds annual meeting Monday, April 25, at 8 p.m. at the Woodrow Wilson School. Details are available from 737-3735.

Another speaker, landscaper David Donnelly, will discuss "Inviting Birds to Your Garden" in a talk at the Watersheds' headquarters, Titus Mill Road, Pennington, next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Reservations are requested, and may be made by calling 737-3735.

Trustees of the Association have announced the appointment of Elizabeth J. Petrillo as Director of Development. She will set up a Development Department, and will launch the Association's first corporate membership campaign and a marketing and image-building campaign geared to the organization's annual autumn membership drive.

The annual meeting speaker, Mr. Palmier, has restored clogged rivers by planting trees on eroding banks and arranging brush piles to direct the current so that the river clears itself.

CANOE CLINIC SET

In Griggstown. A free canoe clinic, sponsored by Griggstown Canoe, on Canal Road, Griggstown, will be held on Saturday, April 23 at 10.

The clinic instructor will be Craig Ritz who is with the Department of Leisure Sciences at Rutgers University. Mr. Ritz is small craft chairperson of Central N.J.-American Red Cross.

The clinic will teach basic canoe strokes, launching, steering, turning, and safety. After the instruction period a free hour of canoeing in the D & R Canal will be available. There is a limited number of free canoes, life jackets, and paddles.

NOW YOU CAN MAKE YOUR MORNING MEETINGS IN WASHINGTON

If the toughest part of your morning meeting in Washington is getting to it, here's some good news.

Amtrak now takes you straight to downtown Washington's Union Station on "The Garden State Special." And it arrives before 10:00 A.M.

Our spacious coaches and wide,

NEW BRUNSWICK reclining seats, give you room

PRINCETON JCT. to spread out, whether you're working or relaxing.

And the Amcafe is always open for snacks, beverages and light meals.

Best of all, our round-trip fares to WASHINGTON are only $53.00 from Princeton Junction and $54.00 from New Brunswick. And if you have business in Philadelphia, Wilmington or Baltimore, "The Garden State Special" can take you there for even less.

So for more information, call Amtrak at (201) 246-1970 or (609) 921-8527, or your Travel Agent.

It's the unbeatable way to get to Washington in the morning.

CLASSES PLANNED

By Restaurant Chef, Susan Rodnon, the proprietor and chief cook at the Eatery Amulette Restaurant and Natural Food Shop, will present a series of classes called "Natural and Creative Cooking."

Designed for the student new to natural foods, Ms. Rodnon's Thursday evening classes will be held on April 14, April 21, and April 28, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The cost for the three session class is $25 and includes materials, recipes and samples. The Eatery Amulette is located on Ridge Road in Monmouth Junction (South Brunswick). For further information call 201-329-2777.

COME DO THE HAMBO

Workshop Sunday. Ruth Ann Byers will lead a dance workshop featuring the Swedish Hambo on Sunday from 2 to 5 at the Arts Council's Art People Place on Witherspoon Street.

Ms. Byers has been doing Scandinavian dance forms for nine years. The Hambo is one of the more popular couple turning dances of Sweden.

The workshop is open to the public and no experience is necessary. One may attend with or without a partner and a fee of $2 will be charged.

ARTISANS TO TEACH

At YWCA. Two members of the YWCA Artisans Guild will hold classes in their specialties this spring.

Judy Langille will lead a nine week series of classes for beginning or continuing students of quilting on Wednesdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Hope Atlee will teach smoking techniques to beginners in four sessions on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30.

For further information call the Adult Department at the YWCA, 924-5571.

STATE BUYS PINELANDS

206 Acres. New Jersey has bought 206 acres in the Pinelands National Reserve from the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a private, non-profit organization. The foundation has been holding the tract in trust since buying it in 1978. The state purchased the property for $101,517.

The Washington Township tract lies in the Wading River watershed next to Wharton State Forest, about 35 miles from Philadelphia.

BUSINESS In Princeton

FIRM TO DO STUDY
Of Financial Centers. In response to the development of financial services through mass-merchandising outlets, Response Analysis Corporation will initiate a new study of retail financial centers in Sears, JCPenney, and Kroger stores. To be entitled "Sears, JCPenney, Kroger Financial Service Centers," the forthcoming study is a follow-up to a study of consumers' reactions to Sears Financial Centers recently completed by Response Analysis. The purposes of the research are to evaluate the centers' present market penetration, to project their future penetration, and to assess their impact upon competitive providers of financial services. The study will involve telephone interviews with residents living within a five to 10 miles radius of malls or shopping centers in which the centers are located as well as in-person interviews with shoppers and visitors at the centers. Observation reports made by field observers at each of the locations will complement these data collection efforts.

HAZARDOUS WASTE
Chamber Topic. Two speakers will discuss hazardous waste, water pollution and related environmental problems for members of the Chamber of Commerce when the group meets next Thursday, April 21, at the Nassau Inn. The meeting will be from noon to 2.

Dr. Robert H. Harris is a senior research scientist at Princeton University and Richard J. Gimello is executive director of New Jersey's Hazardous Waste Siting Commission. Reservations for the luncheon meeting may be made by calling 921-7676.

Donald L. LeBlanc of Flemington has been named to the newly-created position of vice president, special markets, for Lenox China and Crystal. In his new position, he will be responsible for directing Lenox's activities in the export, military, incentive and institutional markets. Before joining Lenox, Mr. LeBlanc was with Corning Glass Works for 15 years in a number of positions, most recently vice president and general sales manager for corning designs. He received his B.S. in business and economics from Northeastern University.

OBITUARIES

Annie Shaw Watson Sittig, 63, died April 10 at the Medical Center at Princeton after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Sittig was born in Charleston, W.Va., and came to the Princeton area in 1951. She moved to Kingston from Mountain Avenue in 1970. She was active in Trinity Church, Rocky Hill, the Princeton University League and Springdale Golf Club.

She is survived by her husband, Marshall Sittig; two daughters, Mrs. Richard G. Dunlop of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mrs. Michael Cosby of Locust Valley, N.Y.; a son, Marshall P. Sittig of Santa Barbara, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Robert Halsted of San Francisco, Calif., and Mrs. Connelly Sheets of Charleston, W.Va.; a brother, William F. Watson of Charleston, W.Va.; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held in the Princeton University Chapel with the Rev. Samuel W. Ishibashi, rector of Trinity Church, Rocky Hill, officiating. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to Trinity Episcopal Church, Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, 08553.

John Potts, 77, of Fishers Avenue, Princeton, died April 10 at the Princeton Nursing Home. He was a construction foreman for Kingston Trap Rock Industries for 45 years before retiring in 1950.

Mr. Potts was born in Princeton and had lived in Kingston for more than 50 years before moving to Princeton 10 years ago. He was a member of the Kingston Presbyterian Church.

He was the husband of the late Eva MacKenzie Potts and father of the late Patricia Potts. He is survived by a brother, Chester M. Potts Jr. of Princeton.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue, with the Rev. John Heinsohn of the Kingston Presbyterian Church officiating.

Surviving are two sons, Anthony and Michael Carnevale, both of Princeton; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret DeBiase of Englewood, Colo.; a sister living in Italy; and nine grandchildren.

Mass of Christian burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mercedes Terradell Labatut, 84, died April 8 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center after a long illness. She was the wife of Prof. Jean Labatut, professor emeritus of the Princeton University School of Architecture, who survives her.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Labatut had lived in Princeton since 1929. During World War I, she and her two sisters, Mrs. Loretta Morris and Mrs. Elliot Shepard served as volunteer nurses with the American Red Cross in France. The sisters maintained a home for convalescents of the Lafayette Escadrille and the American Field Service in Chantilly, France.

A graveside service will be held Monday at 2 in Ewing Church Cemetery.

1. Leigh Wert, 89, of Mine Road, Hopewell, died April 7 in Somerset Medical Center, Somerville.

Mr. Wert was a native of the Hopewell area and attended Church officiating. Burial will be in Kingston Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home one hour before the time of the service. Memorial contributions may be made to the Kingston Presbyterian Church.

Harry Rogers Slayback, 74, a lifelong Princeton resident, died April 9 at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia.

Mr. Slayback received his B.S. degree from Rutgers University, class of 1933, and his master's degree from the Yale University School of Forestry in 1938. He retired in 1972 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Mercer County Soil Conservation Service, after 45 years of service.

He was a member of Princeton Lodge No. 38 F&AM, Princeton Agriculture Association, Soil Conservation Society and Nassau Presbyterian Church. Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth Peabody Slayback; a son, Roger J., and a granddaughter, Caitlin E. Slayback, both of Minerva, N.Y.; a sister, Margaret S. LaVigne, and a nephew, Warren LaVigne, both of Princeton.

A memorial service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 11 at the Nassau Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Donald M. Mackenzie Jr., associate minister, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery, under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to either the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad or the American Heart Association, 3490 Route One, Princeton.

Lucy Giamantonio Carnevale, 82, of Linden Lane, died April 8 in Princeton Nursing Home. She was the wife of the late Michele Carnevale who died April 3.

Mrs. Carnevale was born in Italy and had lived in Princeton for 55 years. She was a longtime employee of the Princeton University Store before retiring.

Surviving are two sons, James P. of Patchogue, N.Y., and Francis R. of Massapequa, N.Y.; two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Pettus and Alma Versfeld, both of Princeton; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian burial was celebrated at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery.

Frederick B. Burd Sr., 91, of Pennington, died at his home on April 7.

Mr. Burd was born in Hopewell Township and was a lifelong area resident. He owned and operated a dairy farm in the township all his life. He was a charter member of the Pleasant Valley Vigilante Society; a member of the American Mechanics Lodge and a former member of the Inner-State Milk Producers Association.

He is survived by eight sons, Ellsworth L. of Trenton, Frederick B. Jr., Joseph B. and Henry P., both of Pennington, Donald and Edgar T. of Titusville, Clinton of Lambertville and Carl R. of Friendship, N.Y.; four daughters, Marjorie B. Gulick of Brookville, Fla., Hazel Van Ness, Doris Wilson and Olive VanDyke, all of Pennington; 24 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren.

The service was held at a Pennington memorial home, the Rev. James Biggs, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington, officiating. Burial was in Harborton Cemetery.

Charlotte S. Morrell, of Lawrenceville, Road, Lawrenceville, died April 6 in the Lawrenceville Nursing Home.

Mrs. Morrell was born in New London, Conn., and had lived in Princeton and in Princeton Junction before moving to Lawrenceville five years ago. Her husband, the late Austin Morrell, owned and operated the Stone Acres Nursery in Princeton, and she assisted him in the operation. In recent years she had worked as a secretary for Peter Lewis, D.D.S. and had also been a volunteer worker at Princeton Medical Center.

She is survived by a sister, Florence S. Wohlforth of Monmouth Beach, and a nephew, Robert M. Wohlforth of Demarest.

The service was held in Trinity Church with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Trinity Church Memorial Fund, 33 Mercer Street, or to the American Cancer society, 88 Lakdale Drive, Trenton.

Edith C. O'Hara, 80, of Lakeview Terrace, died April 9 at Princeton Medical Center. Born in Mount Carmel, Pa., Mrs. O'Hara had lived in Princeton for the past 18 years. She had been employed by the Simon Ackerman Clothing Co. in Brooklyn until she retired in 1965. She was a member of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

Wife of the late James P. O'Hara, she is survived by two sons, James P. of Patchogue, N.Y., and Francis R. of Massapequa, N.Y.; two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Pettus and Alma Versfeld, both of Princeton; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian burial was celebrated at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Kingston Presbyterian Church will hold a Bethel Pot Luck Banquet this Wednesday beginning at 6 at the Church. The "Banquet" is to celebrate the completion of the Old Testament study by more than 45 persons who have been attending Bethel Classes since the fall of 1982.

The program will feature the Bethel Players in the "Lion's Club Celebrity Roast: The Story of Daniel," starring Herschel and the lion's chorus. Persons interested in finding out about the Bethel Bible Series are welcome. New seminars in Old Testament and New Testament study will begin this fall.

The Bethel Bible Series is an adult Bible program developed in the late 1950s by a Lutheran pastor in Madison, Wis. The series is now used by over 5,000 churches. The non-denominational study appeals to churches interested in studying the Bible for an overview. The series is especially helpful in showing how the Old and New Testaments are related by common themes and concepts.

For more information, call the church office at 921-8895.

The Society for the Performing Arts of Trinity Cathedral will continue its 1983 concert series on Sunday at 3:30 with a recital by soprano Dorothy Pinot, who will be accompanied by her daughter, pianist Cynthia Chaitin. The program, which will be presented in Synod Hall, will include selections by Puccini, Mozart, Dvorak, Schumann, Schubert, John Jacob Niles, and Hall Johnson.

The Cathedral is located at 801 West State Street, Trenton. The recital is free of charge and a reception will follow.

The First United Presbyterian Church of Hopewell, corner of Broad and Louellen Streets, will hold its annual Spring Rummage Sale on Thursday, April 28, from 9:30 - 6 and on Friday, April 29, from 10 - noon.

Depending on the weather, large items will be sold outside beginning at 9 a.m. on Thursday. On Friday there will be a $1 grab bag, all you can fill in a grocery bag for $1.

A portion of the proceeds will be used for the Rev. John H. Ginter Memorial Scholarship Fund and other mission projects.

The Harlingen Reformed Church, Route 206, Belle Mead, will hold its annual Cafeteria Supper on Saturday from 4:30 to 7. The public is invited to "enjoy a variety of home cooking at its best."

The Princeton United Jewish Appeal (U.J.A.) will sponsor a talk by Ronny Milo, a member of the Israeli Knesset, on Sunday, April 24, at 2 at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street.

The Hon. Mr. Milo is an executive in Prime Minister Begin's Herut Party. He will speak on the current situation in Israel, and a question and answer period will follow. Refreshments will be served.

The Consolata Fathers will hold a Ziti Dinner on Friday from 5 to 8 at the Consolata Mission Center, Route 27, Somerset.

A donation of $3.75 for adults and $2.25 for children 12 and under includes salad, ziti, meatballs, bread and butter, cake and coffee. For tickets, call 297-9191.

The Rachel Conover Missionary Society of Mount Pisgah A.M.E. Church will sponsor an afternoon of Gospel songs and music by The Trenton Central High School Gospel Chorus on Sunday at 3:30 in the John Witherspoon School auditorium.

The donation is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The Rev. E. Rugby Auer, director of Trinity Counseling Service will return to Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, this Sunday to preach at the 9:15 and 11:15 services and to lead the Adult Forum in between those services. Fr. Auer was an assistant minister at Trinity Church until he left to become director of the Counseling Service which he helped found.

His visit Sunday is part of Trinity's 150th anniversary celebration and there will be a reception for him at 12:30.

"Feiffer's People," sketches and observations by the cartoonist Jules Feiffer, will be presented Thursday and Friday at 7:30 in the Campus Center Theatre at Princeton Theological Seminary. The production is directed by Dr. Robert Jacks and features PTS students.

The Griggstown Reformed Church, Canal Road, Griggstown, will hold its Spring Rummage Sale on Friday, April 22, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the church hall.

Those who wish to contribute items to the sale may deliver them on Wednesday or Thursday, April 20 and 21 between 9 and 1 or 6 and 9. For pick-up of large items, call Sue Nilsen, 359-3728, Janet Slover, 359-3775, or Mary LeTard, 359-2915.

The Jewish Singles of the Windors will meet Sunday at 7:30 at Congregation Beth Chaim, Village Road and Old Trenton Road, West Windsor. Janet Rosenblum Kean, A.C.S.W., will speak on "Relationships: Do I Want What I Get, Do I Get What I Want." The cost is $4 per person and refreshments will be served. OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY-SUNDAY 1-4 PM

designed for the ultimate in energy-efficiency

From full basement to the thermostatically controlled attic fan, Bayard Court condominiums have been designed and constructed with extraordinary attention to detail. Remarkable standards of energy-efficiency have been achieved through such features as Carrier SuperSaver gas burners, air-lock entry systems, Perma-Shield windows, and extra insulation in ceilings and walls. Every unit is positioned for full southern exposure with sliding glass doors to take advantage of passive solar heat during sunny, winter days. Overhanging eaves provide protection from mid-day summer sun. Four season greenhouses are also available as an optional extra.
(Mountain Ave. and Bayard Lane)

Bayard Court condominiums are priced from $152,000.
They are available for viewing now, ready for occupancy.

TEN LUXURY TOWNHOUSES IN PRINCETON BORO

Hop, skip, jump or jog to everything from our beautiful two or three bedroom townhouses on Houghton Rd. The focal point of the interior is a spacious and elegant living room (22'x15') with a 12' high ceiling. Rooms will be bright with natural light entering from a central skylight over an open stairwell and from an expanse of insulated glass windows on either end. Well proportioned rooms include a family room (22'x15'), dining room (13'x16') and a master bedroom (15'x16'). A special feature is the two fireplaces that are standard, one graces the living room and the other gives the family room a warm and welcoming ambience. Plans also provide for 2 1/2 baths, central air conditioning, 2 decks and a private patio for entertaining and summer relaxation. A basement, 2 car garage, laundry on the bedroom level, dumbwaiter and your choice of formica or wood kitchen cabinets. Call Gilda K. Aronovic at 921-2776 to see our exciting plans for a very special community in Princeton Borough.

Trinity Church Celebrating 150th Anniversary With a Day-long Festival of Liturgical Arts

Trinity Church will be the scene of an all-day Liturgical Arts Festival on Saturday, April 23. The Festival is a first for Trinity, and for Princeton, and is part of Trinity's year-long 150th anniversary celebration.

The lawn, the nave, the chapels, parish hall, library and meeting rooms of the brownstone Gothic church at 33 Mercer Street will be the spaces where liturgical dancers, clowns, mimes, children's theatre, musicians, potters and painters will display work that to varying degrees combines art and religion.

The theme chosen for the occasion is the parable of the wedding feast (Matthew 22). The story of the king who sends his servants into the streets to "gather all whom they found," both bad and good, to fill the wedding hall with guests after the first invitees fail to show up.

In a spirit of ecumenism, Trinity has asked area churches and synagogues, its own members, and artists who are not of any church but who nonetheless view their work as a holy or religious experience to participate. The public is welcome to what has been planned as a family occasion and spring festival. Admission is $1, and there will be events that will appeal to all ages during the day.

Beginning at 10 in the George Thomas Room, Valerie Meluskey, a Princeton dance therapist, will lead a dream and movement session interpreting Old Testament dreams, while Marianne Grey, a Princeton Art Museum docent, will give a slide presentation in Flermer Library on art that is based on the wedding feast parable.

In the Lady Chapel, the Altar Guild will be showing off Trinity's collection of early vestments, altar cloths, linens and silver. John Bertalot, for children. Reed Armstrong Smith, Trinity's new organist and choir director imported from England, will demonstrate the workings of the Cassavant tracker organ at intervals during the morning.

The enthusiastic organizer of all this activity -- a sort of Art People Party for the church -- is Garnette Arledge. "This is a marvelous outpouring of the Holy Spirit," she exclaims, "where the creative impulse as caught in form can be celebrated and dedicated to the joy of the church. This Festival manifests the glorious beauty that the creative spirit can produce when it is dedicated to a higher source." The Liturgical Arts Festival is also the activity of Trinity's 150th year celebrations in which the general public can wholeheartedly participate. The theme of the anniversary is "God's Temple is Holy, and that Temple You Are." According to Juliana McIntyre, chairman, the year-long anniversary observance has been very much a "process" which has involved a great many parishioners in different kinds of activities and which she hopes will lead to a deeper understanding of that theme.

BORN YESTERDAY? WHO, ME? Billie Dawn, portrayed by Lynn Dorsey, confronts Harry Brock (Tom Mounier) in this scene from Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday." The comedy, in Theatre Intime's production, will play Murray Theatre this Thursday through Sunday and again Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 21-23.

Billie Dawn, his live-in lady friend, straight from the chorus line. Judy Holliday created the role on Broadway. When Harry decides Billie is too dumb a blonde for the Washington, D.C. scene, he hires a young reporter to show her how it all works. It doesn't take long — approximately final curtain — for the two of them to toss Harry and his cronies into the Potomac.

Veronica Brady, of the McCarter Theatre staff, is directing. University students are in the cast. Reservations may be made at 452-8181.

'WOMAN NEXT DOOR'
She's At the Movies. Francois Truffaut's "The Woman Next Door" will be shown four times next Tuesday and Wednesday (7:30 and 9:30 each night) as McCarter moves along with its Movies-from-McCarter series. Screenings, as always, in Kresge auditorium on Washington Road.

Triangle!
"Under the Influence." It's the 94th annual musical of Princeton University's Triangle Club, and it will be ready for opening night Thursday, April 28. It will play through May 1 and again June 3-4, all at McCarter Theatre.

An original revue, written, produced and performed by University undergraduates, "Under the Influence" is about "power, persuasion and politics," according to Triangle's advance man. You can buy your ticket now, at McCarter.

Stuart Ross, who did the New York production of "Not So New Faces '83," will direct. It's his first, for Triangle. Terry Rieser is choreographer and Debra Stein, costumer.

Shaw, O'Neill. But first, a new play by Joanna McClelland Glass called "Play Memory." Opening night of the '83-'84 season for McCarter Theatre will be Friday, October 7, and the play will run through October 23.

Directed by Harold Prince, "Play Memory" is a co-production of McCarter Theatre and the Annenberg Center in Philadelphia. Set in the Canadian prairie, the play is about the Anglo-Scots who settled that part of the world. It's a story about a young woman who looks back — but not in anger.

Unique Group, Orpheus Chamber Orchestra, Presents Fresh and Vivid Concert at McCarter

In the eighth event of their 1982-83 season, Music-at-McCarter presented an outstanding performance by the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra. This conductorless ensemble of 26 top-notch musicians played a memorable concert on Monday night which included works by Haydn, and Brahms, and a piano concerto by Mozart. Paul Schenly was the guest pianist.

A unique and interesting feature of this group is the fact that they perform without a conductor. In addition, they follow no set seating arrangement in either the strings or the winds. These elements are due to the communal nature of the group, by which each performer contributes to its artistic and logistical decisions.

The fresh and vivid sound of this performance can be viewed as a direct result of this uniqueness. Nuances in dynamics and phrasing were worked out with great care and attention to detail, and the expressive components of the works were played as if they were being discovered anew by each performer.

Haydn's Symphony No. 44 in E minor was a superb vehicle for displaying these qualities. The first and last movements were played with a high level of energy and absolute precision.

in the canon of phrases of the ingenious Minuet were beautifully shaped as they maneuvered around each other. The long, flowing lines of the Adagio were given a feeling of mournful serenity. Through this sensitive performance, Haydn's compositional genius was permitted to emerge as the orchestra developed on the work's marvelous expressiveness.

In closing the concert, the ensemble performed a delightful and youthful work by Brahms, his second Serenade in A major, Op. 16. This sweetly melodious work was rich in both harmony and texture, and its style of orchestration hinted toward Brahms' later symphonic works.

The winds figured prominently in the piece while the strings were largely reduced to a supporting role. Blend and balance were carefully crafted so that the strings were never pushed too far into the background.

Several movements were of special note. In the Scherzo, the rhythmic intricacies were handled with great skill and the dynamic force of the orchestra gave momentum to the movement. The Adagio was most beautiful, as the winds played over the silken texture of the strings playing in octaves. The final movement, Allegro, was replete with virtuosic solo flute, clarinet and oboe.

As good as this ensemble was when this writer first heard them in 1980, the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra has grown into an orchestra whose artistic merits are nothing short of extraordinary.

Isaac Stern's May 12 recital at McCarter are now on sale at the box office.

In addition to the regular tickets at $20, $30 and $40, McCarter has a few Sponsor Tickets at $75 and $150. With these, the buyer will be admitted to the champagne reception with Mr. Stern following the recital. The reception will be held at "Albemarle," home of the American Boychoir. Information on these tickets may be obtained by calling McCarter Associates, 452-6122.

The violinist, accompanied by Andrew Wolf, will open his recital with Handel's Sonata in D, Op. 1, No. 13, followed by the Bartok Sonata No. 1. The program will also include Mozart's Sonata in G, K.301 and the Franck Sonata in A Major.

Mr. Stern's appearance — his first at McCarter in more than a decade — is the Associates' annual spring benefit.

ON OBOE
Holliger to Perform. Heinz Holliger will play from the oboe works of Mozart, Benjamin Britten, Poulenc, Saint-Saens and the contemporary Danish composer Carl Nielsen, when he appears at McCarter Monday at 8. He will also play his own "Study in Multiphonics" for solo oboe. Stage seats and standing room are all that remain.

The Mozart work will be a Sonata in B-flat (K.378) originally written for violin but often performed on the oboe in Mozart's own time. John Steele Ritter will be at the piano.

In addition, Mr. Holliger will play Britten's "Six Metamorphoses After Ovid," Opus 49 for solo oboe, Nielsen's Two Fantasy Pieces, Poulenc's Sonata for Oboe and Piano and the Saint-Saens Sonata for Oboe and Piano in D.

"MARRIAGE OF FIGARO"
At Choir College. A fully staged production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will be presented by Westminster Choir College's Opera Theatre on April 13, 15, 17 and 19. The performances are at 8 in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus.

Glenn Parker, head of the Opera Department and the Westminster Opera Theatre, will conduct this student production. The stage director is David Gately who is present on campus for his fourth semester as a guest faculty member. Mr. Gately does work for the Paris Opera and Grand Houston Opera and is regarded by many as one of the most talented young stage directors in the country.

"The Marriage of Figaro" was written by Mozart in 1786 when the composer was 30 years old and is one of the oldest operas to remain in the standard opera repertoire. Set in 18th century Spain, this comic opera focuses on the relationship between a valet

Westminster vocalists in the roles include Suzanne Kompass as Susanna; Robert Phillips as Figaro; Randy L. Hertzog as Count Almaviva; Debra Agabiti the Countess Almaviva; Rebecca Abram and Rosanna Shyne alternate in the role of Cerubino. Jane Klinc will be Marcelina. David Dik is Don Bartolo. William Wynn will sing both the roles of Don Basilio and Don Cruzio; Steven Demorest will be Antonio, and Laura Bayless and Karen Sanford will alternate in the role of Barbarina.

The public is invited to the production. Tickets are $2 at the door.

STUDENTS FEATURED

In High School Concert. Princeton High School senior Stephen Billington, who performed the Hummel Trumpet Concerto in Boston and Atlantic City this winter with the Princeton High School Orchestra, will repeat the performance for Princetonians on Wednesday, April 20, at 8 in the PHS Auditorium.

The Haydn Cello Concerto will feature as soloist Judith Tsui, who studies at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. This will be her first performance of the work, which will be repeated on May 3 when the PHS Orchestra will present assemblies at each of the three elementary schools in Princeton.

Three student composers will have their works performed. Chris Sanderson's Elegy for Strings and Timpani, written "for Paul," will be performed by a group of advanced players. Next will be Stephen Billington's original Brass Quartet, which starts out like a Bach Chorale, and then gradually disintegrates into atonality. There is a brief middle section which sounds faintly medieval, using parallel fifths, and then the piece gradually rebuilds itself harmonically and ends as it started.

Charles Sullivan's "Standard Deviation," completed earlier this month, will be performed by the full orchestra. It is polyphonic in texture and features tritonal relationships.

This spring, for the first time, the PHS intermediate level String Orchestra will perform one piece entirely on its own. Soloists in Corelli's

SOLOIST: Judith Tsui, a Princeton High School student, will perform the Haydn Cello Concerto with the Princeton High School orchestra in a concert Wednesday, April 20, at 8 in the high school auditorium.

Concerto Grosso Op. 6, No. 1 will be freshmen violinists Adrien Finzi, Tina von Mayrauer, Ben Rosenthal, and Dan Froehlich.

The first movement of Haydn's "London" Symphony, No. 104, will be included, and the grand finale will be the March from Bizet's Carmen, performed by all of the combined orchestral classes.

The orchestral and composition programs at the high school are under the direction of Portia Sonnenfeld.

BARITONE TO SING

At Woolworth. Baritone Barry Ellison will give a concert on Saturday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the Princeton University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free.

Mr. Ellison will be accompanied by Marvin Keenze, pianist, in a program of works by Handel, Purcell, Brahms, Ravel, Wagner, Aaron Copland, John Jacob Niles, and two arias by Giuseppe Verdi.

A graduate of the Westminster Choir College and the University of Michigan, Mr. Ellison has a busy schedule of oratorio and recital work, performing with various opera companies and teaching voice at Princeton University. As winner of the Opera Company of Philadelphia-Luciano Pavarotti International Voice Competition, Mr. Ellison performed the role of Schaunard in "La Boheme" with Mr. Pavarotti last April and sang the same role with the Wilmington Opera Society. His latest role was that of Pasquale in the American premiere of Verdi's "Otello" at the Pennsylvania Opera Company.

Other operatic roles have included the lead in "Don Giovanni" and Count Almaviva in "The Marriage of Figaro," with the Princeton University Opera Theatre.

ACLU TO GAIN
From Concert Sunday. Baroque music for voice and instruments will be performed Sunday in a Spring Serenade for the benefit of the Mercer-Hunterdon Chapter, American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey.

The concert will take place at 3 in All Saints' Church, Van Dyke and All Saints' Roads, and be followed by wine and refreshments. Performers will include Glenn Jacobson, harpsichord; Charles Forbes, cello; Jayn Rosenfeld, flute; and Eleanor Clark, soprano.

Tickets are $10 per person and $5 for senior citizens and students. Checks may be made out to ACLU of N.J. and sent to 204 West State Street, Trenton, 08618. Admission is also available at the door. For information call 599-4440.

PIANO RECITAL SET

By Competition Winner. Hei-ock Kim, daughter of Mr.

Hei-ock Kim and Mrs. Nae-sup Kim of Lawrenceville, and a sophomore at Princeton Day School, will give a piano recital in the Herbert McAneny Theater on Friday, April 22, at 8.

As a junior student audition winner in a competition sponsored by The Philadelphia Orchestra, Miss Kim was a soloist with the Princeton University Orchestra in its first junior student concert this past October.

Hei-ock began her piano studies 12 years ago at the age of three. In addition to being an honors student at PDS, she also attends the pre-college division of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. She has presented three recitals in the past three years and has appeared on the Trudy Haynes Show on KYW-TV. In 1981, she won first place in the Mark Gindhart Piano Competition and the New Jersey Talent Expo.

For two consecutive years, Hei-ock has won the Edward John Noble Scholarship Foundation Piano Competition, and this past spring she was awarded the New Jersey Governor's award in arts education.

The recital is open to the public with any donations received at the door benefitting the PDS Scholarship Fund.

CONCERT AT LIBRARY

To Honor Volunteers. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a concert of Baroque chamber music performed by the King George Pro Musica on Monday at 2. The program will honor the volunteers who have worked at the library; however, the public is invited.

This program is free. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

10TH CONCERT SET

By Two Choral Groups. The Princeton High School Women's Chorus, under the direction of William R. Trego and Nancianne Parrella, will perform in its 10th annual concert with the Men's Glee Club of Pingry School, directed by James Little.

This year the concert will be held in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, beginning at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The two choruses will begin the program by joining together to sing Franz Joseph Haydn's "Missa brevis St. Joannis de Deo." This work, known as the "Little Organ Mass" will be performed with orchestra under Mr. Trego's direction with Mr. Little playing the solo organ part.

Following this, the Women's Chorus will perform "Messe Basse" by Gabriel Faure, with organ accompaniment and two a cappella selections by Orlando di Lasso: "Adeamus te, Christe" and "Ecco Song."

The Pingry Men's Glee Club will perform "Agnus Dei" by H.L. Hassler; "Repleti Sunt" by Jacob Handl and "Ain't a That Good News" arranged by William Dawson. The Button-Downs, a small group of men chosen from the Glee Club, will also sing several motets.

After a brief intermission, the two choruses will join together again to present "Rejoice in the Lamb" by Benjamin Britten. Mr. Trego will conduct the combined choruses and Mr. Little will accompany on the organ.

The officers of the PHS Women's Chorus are Annemarie Brown, Linda Fresco, Dawn Gray, Antonia Rudenstine and Deborah Sams. They have organized dinner parties and a brief tour of Princeton following the concert.

CONCERT SUNDAY

By Winds and Brass. The wind and brass players of the Little Orchestra of Princeton will be featured at the "Musical Interludes" concert on Sunday at 2 at the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place.

performed chamber works will be heard. The first will be the Concerto for Trumpet, Oboe, Bassoon, Violins and Continuo by the relatively unknown Baroque composer Francesco Biscogli, with soloists James Tuzozolo, trumpet, Martha Helms, oboe, and Roe Goodman, bassoon.

Igor Stravinsky's "Ragtime," which was performed last October at the Little Orchestra's fund-raising party will be repeated, and the "Harlem Rag" of Tom Turpin, a friend of Scott Joplin, will be paired with it.

The Quartet in D Major for Flute, Viola, Cello and Harpsichord will add a more serious note, to be followed by a late romantic piece by the Russian composer Victor Ewald, the Symphony for Brass Quintet.

A total of 19 musicians will be heard in various combinations in the course of the program. The Little Orchestra of Princeton normally performs orchestral literature written for between 34 and 42 players. The orchestra was founded in 1980 by conductor Portia Sonnenfeld and a nucleus of musicians.

CONCERT SATURDAY

By Wind Ensemble. The Princeton University Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Michael Pratt, will present a concert on Saturday at 8:30 at Alexander Hall. Admission will be free.

The program will include University Symphony Orchestra pieces by Gabrieli and DeLassus. The entire ensemble will perform "Toccata Marziale" by Vaughan Williams, "Trauersinfonie" by Wagner, and "Hammersmith" and "Jupiter" from "The Planets," by Holst. There will be an intermission.

Michael Pratt, conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra, has conducted the Wind Ensemble for the past four years. Composed entirely of undergraduate and graduate students, the Wind Ensemble gives one concert a year. In addition, this year it has been asked to play at the dedication of the new Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor at The Plasma Physics Lab, Forrestal Campus, Princeton University, on May 5.

TWO CONCERTS PLANNED

By Glee Club. The Princeton University Glee Club will give two concerts in Alexander Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 14 and 15, at 8:30 to mark Prof. Walter Nollner's 25th anniversary as conductor of the group.

The program will begin with the "Missa Brevis" in G major by Johann Sebastian Bach, (800) 631-3407. Ticket prices for chorus, four soloists and chamber orchestra. The $9.50. Student and senior tickets are available at the door on the evening of the performance for $6.50.

Music lovers are invited to the Art People Place, 102 Witherspoon Street, on Thursday, April 14, at noon with a bag lunch to hear a pre-concert lecture by John Ellis, chairman of the music department at The Lawrenceville School. Mr. Ellis will use tapes, piano, and his own background to discuss the Mahler, Prokofiev and Weber works.

Coffee and tea will be available at 11:30. There is no admission charge, but donations are welcome for the Princeton Area Chapter of the NISO League which sponsors these pre-concert lectures.

FOLK SINGERS DUE: Lyn Hardy and Jay Ungar are a husband-wife team who will be featured with Molly Mason, bassist, guitarist and vocalist in a concert sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society on Friday at 8 at the YM-YWCA building on Paul Robeson Place. Admission is available at the door.

Moseley, who teaches popular and folk guitar through the Westminster Choir College Conservatory Division, will give a concert of English and American songs in the folk idiom.

She will accompany herself on guitar and will be joined by John Macdonald, who will accompany her on guitar and mandolin. The concert is scheduled for Wednesday, April 20, at 8:30 in the lounge of Williamson Hall, at Westminster Choir College. Included in the program will be many traditional pieces plus contemporary songs and ballads. Some of the great tunes of Bob Dylan, Paul Simon, Joni Mitchell, and Lennon-McCartney will be performed.

The recital and all programs in the Conservatory Series are open to the public and free of charge. For further information, call 921-7104 or 924-6359.

CONTRALTO TO SING

With N.J. Symphony. The Canadian singer Maureen Forrester will be the guest soloist with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra on Saturday evening, April 16, at 8:30 in the Trenton War Memorial Auditorium. Roger Nierenberg, music director of the Pro Arte Chorale, will conduct.

The concert is the last in the Orchestra's current subscription series at the War Memorial. The program will consist of Weber's "Oberon Overture," Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," and Prokofiev's "Alexander Nevsky" cantata. Miss Forrester will be heard in the Mahler, and both she and the Pro Arte Chorale will be featured in the Prokofiev work.

To reserve tickets and charge them by phone, call the box office at (201) 624-8203 or (800) 631-3407. Ticket prices for chorus, four soloists and chamber orchestra. The $9.50. Student and senior tickets are available at the door on the evening of the performance for $6.50.

ALL-BRAHMS CONCERT

At Lawrenceville. The music department of The Lawrenceville School will present an all-Brahms program celebrating the sesquicentennial of the composer's birth on Wednesday, April 20. The program is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Edith Memorial Chapel on the school's campus.

The performers are cellist Norman Fischer of the Concord String Quartet and Dartmouth College; pianist Jeanne Fischer of Dartmouth; and Marilios Kierman, the organist at the Lawrenceville School.

Their program will include the cello-piano sonata in F Major, three organ chorale preludes, four songs, and a new arrangement for organ and piano of the famous "Variations on a Theme" by Haydn ("Saint Antoni's Chorale").

Another feature will be Mr. Fischer's debut as a singer of art-songs. In addition to his work with the Concord String Quartet, he has given concerts at Rider College and is scheduled to appear at McCarter Theater next season. He has played a good many cello-piano concerts with his wife, and has appeared as guest conductor with the Dartmouth Symphony. During the past year he sang in two operas, Gian Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and Mozart's "Così fan tutte."

At the Lawrenceville concert he will sing four Brahms lieder.

IT'S NEW To Us

SCANDINAVIAN CRAFTS Displayed at Nordcraft. The refreshing contemporary lines of Scandinavian hand crafts are beautifully displayed in Nordcraft's new shop now located at 246 Nassau Street. Handsome green and white ticking on the walls and a seafoam green carpet offset the shop's diverse artifacts which now include a line of antique furniture from Sweden as well as artisan crafts, handmade crystal, silver jewelry, and woolsens from the north countries.

Mrs. Anne-Marie Woodrow and her three partners, Mrs. Berit Marshall, Mrs. Monica Anestam, and Mrs. Elsa Granade, all natives of Sweden, are thrilled with their new location in Princeton. Not only is it more visible, being a bit further "uptown," but far more spacious as well. A small staircase leads one downstairs to a roomful of gorgeous woolsens for knitting where a weekly workshop will be held in the near future.

More than 40 brilliant colors of yarns in an acrylic mixture washes well and will make cool sweaters for babies or ladies this spring. Baby yarns are found here in soft pastels or a bright red or blue. A super-fine Danish yarn which comes in seven colors is ideal for the knitter who prefers big needles so the work goes quickly as in knitting a lovely shawl on display in the shop. The Pingouin French mohair and wool yarns are favorites at the shop, where knitters meet to receive advice and assistance on their knitting projects. A particularly elegant silk and wool yarn in rose, black, white and a few other shades will soon be in stock.

Mrs. Anestam has recently joined Mrs. Woodrow at Nordcraft, which has been acquainting Princeton residents with the fine artisan crafts of Scandinavia for the past 12 years. Before moving to the United States, Mrs. Anestam spent many years in Sweden in the art and antique business, which is why we are now so fortunate to see fine quality country antiques in natural pine right here in town.

Country Furniture. "We think that this is a very SCANDINAVIAN ANTIQUES: Mrs. Monica Anestam has recently joined the three other Swedish owners of Nordcraft which has moved to an attractive new location at 246 Nassau Street. She has brought a handsome line of Swedish country antiques made of natural pine to the shop's excellent collection of crafts from the north countries.

desirable line of furniture. There is a renewed interest in primitive country pieces. We are getting away from the more formal dark wood antiques and the demand for natural woods is increasing," explains Mrs. Anestam, who has a bookful of color pictures of pieces available in Sweden. The choices are varied and the simple lines of the furniture will blend in with almost any decor.

The country pine antiques from the turn of the century or the late 1800s include an exquisite corner cabinet, a washstand, a butter churner, a baby cradle, a handsome secretary, buffets, chests, and tiny cupboards to hang on the wall. An 1800 style sofa trimmed in handcarved natural pine and upholstered in a textured white cotton pulls out to make a double size bed. Collectors might enjoy seeing one of the antique spinning wheels on display in the shop's window. A reproduction of an old yarn box accompanies the spinning wheel and would double nicely as a magazine holder.

Many of us associate the Scandinavian craftspeople as leaders in the most advanced contemporary designs. Their work is usually utilitarian as well as beautiful as are the birch plates and platters from Finland which come in five sizes. When treated with mineral oil, they can be used for serving all kinds of foods, ideal for wedding gifts.

Mindful of the cost of fresh flowers, Nordcraft has wisely

Hostesses will be happy to hear that Nordcraft has a 25-color selection of cocktail and luncheon size napkins with candles to match for entertaining. The new Nordcraft welcomes all to stop in and browse.

Handcraft embroidery kits from the Danish Handcraft Guild are a great feature at Nordcraft, the only store where they are sold. The flower thread, a cotton floss, made by the same group is also available there.

PRINCETON DOORWAYS Project of the Door Center. ## It's New to Us

Georgian entryways in that city. Mr. Charles Huebner owner of the Door Center, has made the poster a truly Princeton project.

The handsome color photographs of 24 doorways in Princeton such as those of Trinity Church, the Nassau Inn, Drumthwacket, Bainbridge House, and many of the University's eating clubs, to mention a few, are credited to the fine work of Mrs. Tim Matlock and Josh Raymond. The graphics were done by artist Miss Fairfax Hutter. This joint effort at $10 has met with great success in town, where it is sold in many shops.

"For me, a drive through this town is like a walk through an art gallery. It is a gallery of doors created by many unheralded artists and craftsmen who have made statements which will forever echo the history and feelings of their times," muses Mr. Huebner. In his opinion, a doorway to a building or a home can make a strong first impression, revealing much about its occupants even before entering.

Now that spring has come it might be wise to reflect on one's own front door not just from the aesthetic point of view, but for practical reasons as well. The Rocky Hill Door Center is expert in the sale and installation of handsome interior and exterior wooden doors, armadillo storm and screen doors, designer series doors, as well as shutters, thermal glass doors, and roof windows.

Patio Doors. When the rains let up, homeowners will soon be carrying out patio furniture and cushions anticipating the pleasurable months ahead. The Door Center has a fine selection of patio doors if yours need an uplift after the wet winter weather. A skylight in the roof of a porch will bring more sunshine into that room and its adjoining living room or library all year.

While security is a necessary evil everywhere in the home, it does not have to be unattractive. The Door Center, which will come to the home and give free estimates concerning security or lack of same, as well as advise on energy conservation, specializes in door lock and window installation.

PRINCETON DOORS: The colorful new poster, "The Doorways of Princeton," published by the Rocky Hill Door Center is displayed here by the shop owner's mother, Mrs. Louise Huebner. The shop is busy selling and replacing doors, windows, shutters, skylights and patio doors and sliding screens in preparation for the homeowner's spring clean up.

Their fine brass lock, mostly made by the Baldwin company, are decorative yet safe and durable. The solid forged brass and steel construction of the narrow backset lock originally designed in France is carefully engineered to withstand leverage and torque. The tamper-resistant armored front plate insures security because the lock cylinders have a five or six pin tumbler operation. Many of the models of backset locks with a deadbolt made by Baldwin are on display at the Door Center located in the Village Shopper in Rocky Hill. The stylish exterior lock designs can be carried out throughout the home's interior.

Unwanted night visitors are often said to come through a window, so it might be good to check the window locks in your home or think about replacing old windows in favor of the trim new thermal ones seen in the shop. Andersen and Marvin casement and double hung windows and awnings will add a new fresh look to the home and minimize its upkeep while enhancing security.

Leaded Glass. A return to the handsome leaded glass door popular at the turn of the century is seen now at the Door Center, where a fine assortment of handcarved wooden doors with colorful Tiffany-style glass can be viewed. Beveled glass panes etched with a delicate design tracery, the original Chantilly style in stained glass, or the Victorian motif typified by a fanlight over the entry offset by handsome panels are among the selections made by Simpson.

Solid hardwood doors in mahogany and oak or the insulated steel replacement doors which look just like wood are good considerations. Mr. Huebner has lately seen a great interest in French doors which change the whole appearance of an entryway.

If you are tired of the upkeep of wooden shutters, go to the Door Center to see the handsome Cellwood shutters, molded in natural woodgrain

ART In Princeton

CELEBRATE THE AUTO
At Squibb Exhibit. It's a wide track view, says Squibb, of the power, sleekness and pure fun of the automobile. "Free Wheeling," described as "an artistic celebration of the automobile," will be on view through May 16 at Squibb's gallery on the Lawrenceville Road. Hours are 9-5 weekdays; until 9 p.m. Thursdays and from 1 to 5, weekends.

The oldest works in the show are Ernest Montaut's hand-colored lithographs dating from the early 1900s. One of the newest is by William Motta, contemporary American artist. Other artists represented are Walter Gotschke, early German classicist, and Peter Heick, who is regarded by many as having been America's leading automobile illustrator for the past 40 years.

Art styles in the exhibit range from impressionism to photo realism. Paintings and photographs portray both the historic and the avant-garde. There is a paper sculpture of a rear-view mirror, a painted mahogany rendering of a crunched fender, a detailed cutaway drawing of an Alfa Romeo and an historic painting of the 1908 New York-to-Paris race.

... AND PRINTS
With "Rape of Sabine," approximately 100 drawings from 16th to 18th-century France are on view in the Princeton University Art Museum in conjunction with the exhibit of Nicolas Poussin's "Rape of the Sabine," on loan from the Louvre.

The drawings, from the museum's permanent collection, have been assembled to draw attention to the extent of the museum's holdings from this period, and the results of recent research. The exhibition will remain through June 12.

Included are finished presentation pieces, studies for larger works, sketches for engravings and illustrations and copies after old masters, produced by artists whose range in time extends from the late 16th century to Jacques-Louis David, in the late 18th and early 19th century.

PAINTINGS ON VIEW

By Morse, Corboy, "Landscapes and Flowers," a collection of oils by Marsden Morse, are on view in the Western Electric Corporate Education Center, Carter Road. They will remain through April 29. A group of oils by Ms. Morse is also on view through April 29 at The Aquinas Institute, 65 Stockton St.

Watercolors and pastels by Rocky Hill artist Terri Corboy are in the Lobby Gallery of the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center, Route 206, Lawrenceville. They will remain through April 22.

FESTIVAL, AT PEDDIE

Art, Music, From April 18 through 22, The Peddie School in Hightstown will hold a Spring Arts Festival. The public is invited to attend. Printmaker Stefan Martin will exhibit in the North Gallery of the Annenberg Library through April 24. Next Monday, from 10 to 2, potter Connie Bracci-McIndoe will demonstrate throwing techniques, and show her pottery and sculpture. Her exhibit will

Other events include a concert by music groups of the school next Monday at 7:30 p.m.; mime on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.; an illustrated lecture on Mexico and Central America Thursday, April 21 at 7:15 p.m.; Dixieland music the same night at 8:15 and, to conclude the week on Friday, April 22 at 8, a one-man presentation by Frank F. Fowle based on The Iliad.

AT GEORGE SCHOOL: Princeton Artist, Jane Teller, Princeton artist whose four sons are all graduates of George School in Newtown, Pennsylvania, will be featured in an art show at the school during the month of April.

Over the last 20 years, Mrs. Teller has exhibited in over 50 solo and group shows in the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum of Art, the Newark Museum, Rutgers, the Gallerie Claude Bernard in Paris and the American Embassy in Tokyo. Her works are in collections at Firestone Library of Princeton University, the New Jersey State Museum and the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

The George School exhibit is open every weekday between 9 and 5. Those who wish to see the exhibit on week-ends should call 215-969-3811 during the week to make an appointment.

AFTER 40 YEARS

Retrospective Planned. A 40-year retrospective of the work of George Greene will be on view at Art Masters of Princeton, 44 Spring Street, from May 13 to 31. An opening reception will be held Friday, May 13 from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The exhibit will include five plexiglas constructions, 14 paintings and collages on canvas, 15 ink drawings and paper collages, five sculptures and several maquettes for sculpture projects.

One of the first artists to use plastics as a medium, Mr. Greene exhibited in 1949 at the Addison Gallery, Andover, Massachusetts, in the first show of plastics in the United

Lacrosse Team, in pursuit of Cornell, Faces Penn and Brown; Baseball To Host Harvard and Dartmouth, Crew Here Again

Although the very best of the University's spring sports teams will be traveling this weekend, most of the others will compete at home in what could be the first full weekend of spring sports at Princeton.

The lacrosse team, which doubled Yale, 13-8, in its first Ivy League match last weekend, faces Penn this Wednesday at Franklin Field and then hosts Brown Saturday at 2 on Finney Field.

Gerry Ronan and David Chang scored three goals each against Yale, while Charlie Stillwell registered four assists, in addition to scoring a goal.

Last year Princeton whipped both Penn and Brown enroute to a showdown with perennial champion Cornell for the Ivy title. Coach Jerry Schmidt expects tougher games this year, particularly against the Quakers, who are ranked in the top 10 nationally this year.

ANCHORS AWEIGH: Navy's varsity heavyweight crew (in dark shirts) was better suited to the choppy waters and strong headwind on Carnegie Lake Saturday morning, defeating Princeton by 5.3 seconds over the 2,000-meter course. Tigers will row against Columbia and Penn on Carnegie Saturday afternoon. (Wickrey G. Pinard photo) notched the victory. Princeton record is now 5-12-2.

Coach Tom O'Connell's crew may be able to start from the ground floor this weekend with doubleheaders against Harvard and Dartmouth on Saturday and Sunday, each beginning at 1 on Clarke Field.

Track Team Rolls. Princeton's track team, which has quietly re-established itself as the dominant Ivy League team, will host Yale Saturday at Palmer Stadium, starting time: 1 p.m.

The Tigers, last year's IC4A champions outdoors, were upset by Penn, 81-55, in an indoor meet earlier this year. Two weeks ago the Quakers returned to Palmer Stadium and Princeton — at full strength after being hampered by several injuries during the winter — and drubbed Penn, 101-67. Last weekend Coach Larry Ellis's

Dan Arendas smacked a home run in each contest, as well as pitching for Princeton in the nightcap. He gave up just three hits. Tom Kates had a big first game with a double and a homer as Scott LaForest team won again, defeating Army at West Point, 94-69.

Princeton's heavyweight rowers, losers but still encouraged by their effort against Navy last Saturday on Carnegie Lake, return to those waters this Saturday to face Columbia and Penn. Penn, rowing in its first regatta of the spring, is the unknown quantity. Races should begin shortly after 3 p.m.

Although the Tigers fell to the Midshipmen by 5.3 seconds, Coach Larry Gluckman was impressed by his crew's surge in the final quarter of the race. "Princeton closed about 4.5 seconds in the last 500 meters," said Gluckman. "Being that far behind it would have been easy to fall down."

Gluckman added that the Princeton boat, averaging only about 182 pounds, suffered a disadvantage rowing into the strong headwind against the heavier Navy crew. Still, the margin of defeat was not nearly as great as it was a year ago against Navy. "We're two weeks ahead of schedule," said Gluckman. "By the Sprints (May 15 in Worcester, Mass.) we'll be a better crew."

Lightweight Crew Cruises. This past weekend the fastest Princeton boat on the lake was not the varsity heavyweights but rather the lightweights. Coach Gary Kilpatrick's varsity light, which includes six men from the team that competed in Henley, England, in 1981 cruised to a 16½-second victory over Navy. The lightweights' time of 6:25.3 was only two seconds off the mark of the Navy heavyweight boat.

ruled that the time Chamberlain spent training for the 1980 Olympic cycling team would not count against his inter-collegiate eligibility, thus making him available for one more year of crew.

The first major test for the lightweights will not come this Saturday, when they travel to Ithaca to face Cornell and Rutgers, or next week, facing Penn on the Schuylkill. The big race will be Saturday, April 30, when Harvard and Yale gather on Carnegie. "It will be the best three crews in the nation, racing head to head," says Kilpatrick, whose crews have never defeated Harvard at home. "It will be a showdown."

As expected, Princeton's outstanding shot putter, P.J. Young easily won that event with a winning put of 52-11½ — more than eight feet longer than the second-place mark of 44-10½ — and doubled in the discus, capturing that event with a toss of 142-11.

In other field events, Eric Rapp finished second in the javelin, but Hamilton swept the pole vault and took a second and third in the discus.

PHS Dominated the Races. Stephan Fletcher led a PHS sweep in the 100 meter dash, while Bill Bushnell, who has been competing in invitational meets during the winter along with Fletcher, led another Little Tiger sweep in the 1,600 meter run. Bushnell's time was 4:40.

Mike Schwab won the 400 meter in 53.2 and the 800 meter in 2:03.0, besting teammate Tom Perkins in the latter. Perkins was clocked in 2:11.0.

The 3,200 meter run fell to Princeton's Peter Kellogg in 11:01.2, and PHS also won the 1,600 meter relay.

The 3,200 meter run fell to Princeton's Peter Kellogg and PHS also won the 1,600 meter relay with a clocking of 3:41.

Depth A Concern. PHS coach Marc Anderson, while conceding that PHS has back from last year such standout performers as Fletcher, Bushnell, Young and Ken McKellar, is concerned about a lack of team depth that carried PHS to its impressive record over the last two years.

Observed Anderson, "We have a few stars. But we don't have that many outstanding athletes to pull us through."

When you're six runs behind you can't do a lot of things," observed Becham. "You can't steal, you can't punt as in normal situations. You don't have these options."

Hamilton added two more in the second to make it 8-0 before PHS pushed two runs across in its half of the second. But nothing could silence the Hornet bats this day. They ripped Sherin for six runs in the fifth inning and came back to plate three more off second reliever Matt Tamasi in the seventh.

For PHS, catcher Ralph Carnevale had two of Princeton's seven hits. Chris Hoover, Dino D'Angelo, Phox, Drew Bienkowski and O'Grady also hit safely, the latter stroking a double for Princeton's lone extra base hit.

Princeton's only edge came in defense where it was guilty of two errors while the Hornets were committing six. The game was the first of the season for both teams.

OPENER WEDNESDAY For Hun Lacrosse Team. After participating in the George School Tournament last week, the Hun School will open its regular season this Wednesday when it will entertain Montclair Kimberly at 3:45.

Two days later on Friday, Hun will host Bridgewater East High School. "We're going to have our hands full with Bridgewater," commented first-year coach Dave Faus. "Bridgewater is a large school and they have a lot of kids out."

Hun played three games in the George School tournament and lost all three. In its opening game, it was edged by PHS. PHOX ROUTED In Baseball Opener. The led the assault against opening game with Hamilton Hamilton, winning three last week isn't what Princeton events. Rice captured the 200 high baseball coach Ed meter dash in 24.3 seconds Becham had in mind when he (teammate Jim Moice was said it was important for his sweep in the high jump with a Hamilton raked three Little leap of 5-8. Mike Schwab was Tiger pitchers for 17 hits in second in the high jump, also routing PHS, 16-7. "We got our with a mark of 5-8, while Tim cars boxed," agreed PHS Howard was third with 5-6.

Rice uncorked a winning making his debut as head jump of 20-3½ in the long coach. "Hamilton is a fine jump, almost two-feet farther from the opening inning and 18-4.

Weather permitting, the Little Tigers will play seven games over the next two weeks. They will entertain Notre Dame Thursday at 3:34, travel to Trenton High the following afternoon, oppose rival Hun School Saturday at 2:30 at Hun and then play host to Lawrence High in a league game Monday in a burst of activity.

"We should know by next Thursday what kind of a team we have," said Becham. "If we're 5-2 by then, I'll be pretty happy."

For Becham, who said at the start of the season that it was important for his team to get off to a fast start, the result of the Hamilton game was not what he had in mind. "We scored seven runs," he pointed out. "If we score seven runs in every game, we're going to win a lot of games."

But how the Hornets could hit, Becham said later that after the carnage was over, he figured that Hamilton had a team batting average of .555. The blood-letting started early. PHS starter Terry Phox got two out in the first but then he gave up a single and a triple. "He just sort of folded," commented Becham. Before reliever John Sherin got the third out, Hamilton had scored six runs.

George School, 3-2, and then came back to lose another one-goal decision to Blair Academy, 5-4.

In its final game, Hun lost to Academy of New Church, 4-2, when the victors scored three goals in the final period. ANC won the tournament by also defeating Blair, 9-1, and George School, 13-2. Hun lost all three games in the final period.

"It's not quite as bad as it looks," commented Faus.

"Obviously, I'm not as pleased as if we would have won, but nobody blew us out and at the same time we were able to hold our own. With a few adjustments, I think we'll be ready for our opener with the loss to George Montclair."

Against George School, Chris Black scored on assist sophomore Chris Goodyear, a transfer student from Princeton High, scored two of Hun's three goals. "He's a great stick handler," said Faus. Goodyear plays crease attack.

Dave Zimmer added a goal and an assist for Hun. All games in the tournament were abbreviated 10-minute running quarters, Faus reported.

Goodyear scored two more goals in the loss to Blair while Zimmer and Greg Secrest each added a goal and an assist. Blair scored the winning goal with 1:50 left to play. "We have a good idea of where we are and where we have to go," summed up Faus.

HUN NINE ALL EVEN

Three Games Next Week. A 5-4 victory over West Windsor last week enabled the Hun School baseball team to even its record at 1-1.

That was far as the Raiders got. The weather erased games with Hopewell Valley and Montclair-Kimberly. With Hun scheduled to play an average of three to four games a week, the postponements are going to raise hob with a schedule. "All the schools are in trouble," observed Hun coach Bill McQuade. "It's going to be tough later in the year."

Hun will play host to Peddie on Friday at 3:45 and will be at Lawrenceville School on Tuesday. In between, the Raiders added a new contest to the schedule — a Saturday game with town rival Princeton High. The game will be played at the Hun diamond.

Against West Windsor, Hun scored the winning run in the fourth inning when Martin Summers singled, stole second and advanced to third on Chris Hunninghake's infield safety. With two down, Hun then engineered a double steal. Summers crossing the plate before the Pirates were able to put the tag on Hunninghake.

Pete Stam went the distance for Hun, giving up six hits — two and walking only — striking out two and walking only. "It was a normal game for Pete," said McQuade.

McQuade added that the Raiders played a good defensive game behind Stam all the way. "We had three errors but they were not costly, which is normally the case," observed McQuade.

Hunninghake and Pintella, the two leading hitters on the club last year, each had two hits to pace Hun at the plate.

Hun scored three in the first to take an early lead. Pintella singled, was forced at second, but Rich Stout and Hunninghake followed with singles to drive in the game's first run. A walk to Dean Forman, a fielder's choice and a Pirate error led to two more runs.

After West Windsor pushed one run across in the second, Hun also scored one in the same inning when Stam walked, Pintella singled and Summers was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases. Stout was walked to force in Hun's fourth run.

West Windsor plated two more runs in the third and tied it at 4 with another run in the fourth before Hun scored the winning run. There was no scoring in the final three innings.

Stam got the win — his first — while WV senior Todd Hillpot, who was 4-6 for the Pirates last year, took the loss.

HOW GOOD IS PHS?

Columbia To Test Stickmen. For new coach Peter Larsen, the lacrosse season for Princeton High begins this Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m. PHS will entertain a strong Columbia team.

"From a couple of coaches I've talked to they say I'm crazy to think we can stay on the same field with them. They're that good." But Larsen is not about to back down from any challenge. "We're going out with the idea of beating them," he said.

The Little Tigers have not had too much activity yet this season. Saturday's scheduled game with Westfield was a victim of the weather and the opener with Rutgers Prep last week, first billed as a scrimmage and then described as a bona fide game, has been downgraded again by Larsen.

PHS won the contest easily, 14-3. "We looked real well," said Larsen, "but it was not much of a game; it was more like a scrimmage. It was not a full time game so to speak."

Larsen was pleased with two aspects of the Little Tigers' performance: its ball movement and defensive play.

"We moved the ball around very well," he said. Particularly in the second period, when the Little Tigers had 15 shots on goal and turned the game around. On defense, Larsen cited the play of Peter Gager, Norman Calloway and George Fox.

Goalie Alex Taft, making his debut in front of the net, was tested only 10 times. He stopped seven. "It's taking a little time but he's coming along," said Larsen.

PHOX IS INVITED

To Participate in Classic. Terry Phox, a standout player for the Princeton High School basketball team the past three years, has been invited to participate in the Joint Effort Colorado Seniors Basketball Classic which will be held Saturday at Montebello High School in Denver.

The PHS senior, who also excels in football and baseball, will join 29 other outstanding players from Colorado in the tournament.

Joint Effort was originally started in Princeton and Terry was one of its charter members. It is a youth development organization which provides cultural and recreational activities for young people. Today there are five Joint Effort groups in the country.

John Bailey, a former Princeton resident and fine basketball player himself and one of the organizers of the Classic, commented of Phox, "He's earned it. He's got the coaches out here interested in him and I can't think of a better honor."

Clearance for Phox to play in the tournament was obtained from NCAA officials, Mr. Bailey said.

HUN ONE HIT VICTIM

'Monetary Action' by School Board Induces Retirement of One Principal

MORRIS DANCING was one of the many performing activities that went on non-stop from 1 to 8 p.m. last Sunday at the International Fair on campus. Some 2,000 people attended this year's event which is an undertaking of members of the multi-national International Center at Princeton and was held in Dillon Gym to accommodate the crowd. Morris dancing is described as an English dance of spring, but it didn't help the weather the first part of the week.

Eugene Biringier, principal of Riverside School, is retiring at the end of this school year and George Petrillo will succeed him as Riverside principal. Mr. Petrillo is now principal of Littlebrook School, which will be closed as a public school in June.

The moves resulted from what school board president Ann McGoldrick calls "monetary action" on the part of the board to encourage one of the district's four elementary school principals — it didn't matter which one — to leave the system. Mr. Biringier will receive $20,000 in cash plus $7,000 over a period of time, probably 18 months. He can use that money to buy back into the school system's insurance plans, Mrs. McGoldrick said.

The whole package, points out Superintendent Paul Houston, is much less than one year's salary for a school principal. The district not only saves that full year's salary, it also saves the next year's salary raise. Principals in Princeton are paid about $43,000.

"The taxpayers benefit and so does Gene Biringier and nobody goes away a loser," Dr. Houston remarked.

The school board began by extending the offer to the junior elementary principal in terms of seniority, then moving up to the next-junior and so on.

"We were trying not to do that," Dr. Houston says, "and we were very successful."

In another, similar policy, the board is giving $1,000 to teachers who announce by April 15 that they are planning to leave the system. It is illegal to offer money to induce retirement, and this $1,000 applies

WHAT PAGE IS THE WEATHER REPORT? The Newspaper Reader near Borough Hall asks a pertinent question. (See page 3)

Citizens' Committee Formed to Fight Collins' Proposals for Square

When Planning Board members settle in this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. (Valley Road Building) to hear Collins' plans for expanding the Nassau Inn, they will be confronted with a group of citizen opponents, many of whom have signed petitions against the proposals.

"The protesters are too late," observed Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week.

Mayor Cawley, who sits on the Planning Board, reminded citizens that Collins already has preliminary site plan approval from the Planning Board.

The plan establishes the general location and size of the buildings, so some issues are already decided," the mayor explained. "So long as Collins conforms to what's already approved in a preliminary way, they're in. The protesters are too late."

On Thursday, May 5, Borough Council is scheduled to act on the municipality's agreements with Collins. These concern the lease of Borough-owned land for the Chambers Street garage; air rights over Palmer Square East for construction of the bridge connecting old and new Nassau Inn buildings and a pledge about ride-sharing.

The chief group of protesters calls itself The Princeton Area Committee to Save Palmer Square, and committee organizer Polly Fairman said the group added "Area" to its title because several people signing its petition are from surrounding communities, such as Rocky Hill.

The group first met at the home of Mrs. Janet Cottier. Key members are Susan Morey, Susan McCabe, Kay Strong, Gordon Waldron, Ashley Montague and Harriet McLaughlin.

"Our basic concern is that Collins is removing the free space we all like," Mrs. Fairman said. "We are entirely opposed to the bridge. We feel the addition to the Nassau Inn on the east, crowds the whole area and isn't good-looking."

She added that members had polled shop-keepers who are tenants of the Square and found them "very upset" about the plans. In addition, she said, she had talked with shoppers in the Davidson's area and found a consensus of opposition.

Trinity Festival

of Trinity Church has been published in pamphlet form and may be expanded into a book. Oral history is being collected in the form of taped interviews with the former rectors and staff and with members whose memories are long.

Dramatized history of the church has been offered in humorous form in an evening cabaret by and for members of the parish. A more serious improvised play that will illustrate the changes in the church will be given in the fall. Memorabilia and photographs have been collected and organized as proper parish archives and much of this material will be on display from May 8 - 29th in the parish hall. Trinity's actual birthday date is May 11.

A Liturgical Arts Festival is common in England, Mrs. McIntyre says, and has also been done in New York City at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. But it is something new for Trinity, and for Princeton, and she is not quite sure what to expect -- or how many. There will be lunch, but that, she says with a twinkle, may parallel another parable -- the loaves and the fishes.

His Raiders were deluged with a rain of Hamilton hits Monday as the Hornets pounded Hun, 17-1, clubbing four Hun pitchers in the process. In contrast, Hamilton hurler Steve White was virtually untouchable, as he mowed down Hun with one hit.

"Super Steve," as he is known by his teammates, struck out 12 Hun batters, five of the first 10 he faced. The lone Raider to solve White was Marty Summers who singled off White in the fourth. He struck out at least one Hun batter an inning and issued his only walk with two outs in the seventh.

Hamilton turned the game into a rout when it scored 10 runs in the second inning off starter Rich Stout. Fred Langevin had three hits in three at bats for Hamilton and batted in four runs. Teammate Jeff Dougherty rapped two hits, scored twice and drove in five runs.

Stout took the loss, his second without a win. Hun's record dipped to 1-2, while Hamilton is now 2-0.

ND TO TEST PHS

In Girls Softball. The Princeton High School softball team, which lost its opening game to Nottingham last week, will entertain Notre Dame Thursday at 3:45. Notre Dame and McCarristin are being touted as the teams to beat this year in the Colonial Valley Conference league. Hightstown is the defending champion.

On Monday, PHS will play host to Lawrence in another CVC contest.

New coach Doug Snyder has no illusions about the outlook for the Little Tigers this season. The past record is dismal: PHS has not won a game the previous two years. "This year we'll be lucky to win one or two games," admitted Snyder. "The way I look at it, I'm going to try to Divine. But it is something new for Trinity, and for Princeton, and she is not quite sure what to expect -- or how many. There will be lunch, but that, she says with a twinkle, may parallel another parable -- the loaves and the fishes."

To teach and maintain discipline but at the same time to have some fun, is his goal, Snyder said. "When it's no longer fun, that's the time to get out."

In the first couple of weeks of practice -- severely restricted because of the wet weather -- Snyder had to handle his 30-member squad by himself. Now he has an assistant, Nancy Pesce, and has been able to split the team into varsity and jayvee squads.

A former standout athlete at PHS in three sports, including softball, Pesce is currently attending Trenton State College. "She's helped out tremendously," said Snyder. "A lot of girls are getting a lot of work now."

PHS Takes Lead. Against Nottingham last week, PHS jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning when freshman rightfielder Tomi Morton tripled home a pair of runs and scored on an error. "The girls were shocked; I think it was the first time in two years we had a lead," said Snyder.

PHS couldn't hold it, however. The North Stars, which won their first game ever, reached PHS pitcher Marcy Murray for four runs in the fourth inning and went on to post a 10-3 victory.

Murray is Snyder's pitcher. A sophomore, Murray is getting used to throwing the ball a little harder, Snyder reported. "She's a little green yet but she is coming around."

Catching for Murray is junior Monica Greenland, whom Snyder describes as a "good steady influence. She has a strong arm."

At first is senior Elena Lucullo, starting her fourth year on the team. Junior Martha Gilham is at second base and a junior up from the jayvee team, Diana Schmidt, is at short. "A nice surprise. She has a nice glove," said Snyder of Schmidt.

Sue Hendrickson, the team's leading hitter, is at third. Patrolling the outfield with Morton are sophomore Annie Heard in left and veteran Cora Sloan in center.

A senior, Sloan was one of the stars on last year's team which was coached by Marvin Trotman.

REGISTRATION NEAR For Youth Baseball League. The Princeton Youth Baseball League will hold registration for its 8-10 year old league and 11-12 year old league next Sunday, the 24th, and on Saturday, the 30th, from noon to 2:30 at the Community Park ball fields. Those interested should bring a baseball glove and a photo copy of their birth certificate. There is a $15 fee for the season.

The regular 12-game schedule will begin May 23 and continue through July 7. All games will be played at the Community Park fields on Monday and Thursday evenings, starting at 6.

For more information, call Doug Davis at 921-2362 or Clark Lennon at 924-7242.

CYCLISTS EXCEL

In Two Weekend Races. Princeton cyclists of the Century Riding Club performed well in races held during the weekend.

Matt Willis finished second in the Junior 12-mile race held at Drew University in Madison, while the team of David Lafleur, Nils Dennis and Scott Hodder, captured second, fifth and sixth places in the senior 50 kilometer race promoted by the Somerville Recreation Department at Jockey Hollow.

TWO TO COMPETE

In YMCA Nationals. Two swimmers from the Princeton YMCA Swim Team coached by Loraine Wood have qualified to compete in the YMCA Nationals to be held in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. from April 20-23.

Libby Bolster, age 18, will be competing in the 100 yard free with her time of 56.91, while Whitney Barringer, age 17, will swim three events -- the 100 Back (57.63), the 200 Back (2:11.55), and the 200 IM (2:04.90).

By establishing these times, Whitney not only broke the Princeton Swim Team's records, but his 100 Back time makes him eligible for placing among the YMCA top 25 times in the country. The final rankings will be announced in September.

Another Princeton swimmer, Danny Tapiero is also eligible for the nation's top 25 in the 13-14 50 Free with his time of 24.61. In addition, he has tied the team's 13-14 100 Fly record of 1:00.4. Danny and Whitney are joined in setting records by Anamaria Baralt, who broke the 11-12 Girls 50 Back record with a time of 32.89.

TO HOLD BENEFIT
At Drumthwacket. The Drumthwacket Foundation, which has been charged with completing the furnishing of Drumthwacket as the official Governor's residence, will hold an art show and sale at the mansion this weekend.
There will be an invitation only reception for 300 people on Friday evening, and then the exhibit and sale will be open to the public from Saturday through Tuesday between 11 and 3 each day.

On display will be paintings, American bronzes, wood carvings and rare book: especially assembled from nearly 30 New York and New Jersey galleries. Among the featured works are paintings by Grant Wood, Andrew Wyeth and Grandma Moses; Bollinger bronzes; marine paintings by Montague Dawson; and paintings by the American impressionists Hassam and Prendergrast. Admission to the exhibition is through a $5 donation.

New York and New Jersey participants in the exhibition show include Ackerman, Hirshl & Adler, J.N. Bartfield, Coe-Kerr, David Findlay, Hammer, Kennedy, Kent-shire, Smith, Whistler's

Finn M.W. Caspersen, chairman of the Drumthwacket Foundation, notes that "the exhibition gives the opportunity to the public to view in one place an exciting collection of works." The Foundation has made some purchases for the mansion, including a walnut lowboy acquired for $41,800 at a Christie's sale in New York City, but the bulk of the period furnishings are expected to be acquired through loans and gifts.

TO HONOR PHYSICIST
On 85th Birthday. The 85th birthday of internationally known physicist Henry DeWolf Smyth will be marked at Princeton University with a symposium in his honor on April 29. He was born in Clinton, N.Y., on May 1, 1898. Dr. Smyth's role in the development and regulation of nuclear power has brought him international recognition. He wrote "Atomic Energy for Military Purposes," the official report on the development of the atomic bomb, popularly known as the "Smyth Report." He was a member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission from 1949 until 1954 and U.S. Ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency from 1961 until 1970.

In 1967 Smyth received an Atomic Energy Commission citation for outstanding service in the nation's atomic energy program. The following year he received the Atoms for Peace Award for his contributions in promoting international cooperation in the non-military development of nuclear energy.

Smyth retired from the Princeton University faculty in 1966 after 42 years of service. He is Joseph Henry Professor of Physics, Emeritus, and chairman of the University Research Board, Emeritus.

The 85th Birthday Symposium in Honor of Henry DeWolf Smyth will be held in Room A-10 of Jadwin Hall beginning at 2.
Eric Rogers, professor of physics, emeritus, at Princeton, will speak on "Where Shall Wisdom be Found? And Where is the Place of Understanding?" Robert R. Wilson, director of Fermilab from 1967 to 1978, will discuss "The Uranium Project at Princeton." "How Harry Told the World" will be the topic for Datus C. Smith Jr., director of Princeton University Press from 1942 to 1952.

The final address at the symposium, "The International Atomic Energy Agency," will be delivered by Sigvard Eklund, director general of the IAEA from 1961 to 1981.

NO FRATERNITIES ...
...or Loan Replacements. Students at Princeton University who decide not to register for the draft and who thereby forfeit any Federal financial aid, can't expect the University to fill the gap with more scholarship money or subsidized loans.
The trustees of the University reached that decision at their April 16 meeting. They also said "no" to national fraternities.

It is not the question of registration, emphasized President William Bowen. "It is the general problem of intrusiveness and of diverting the University from its fundamental educational mission, NOT the question of registration itself," Bowen said.

"We do not think it is wise for the government to start down the path of conditioning eligibility for financial aid on what could turn out to be any number of non-educational considerations," he continued. He said there could be a law tying eligibility to compliance with other laws, or to pledges or direct statements of political belief. "Such things have happened in other countries, and they could happen here," he said.

Princeton students who decide not to register will, however, continue to be eligible for campus jobs and loan programs. They will also continue to receive the same University scholarships they would have received if they had registered. They simply will not be able to obtain University money to replace the Federal aid they have lost.

President Bowen also reminded the trustees that the constitutionality of the law has been challenged by a Federal district judge in Minnesota, who issued an injunction forbidding colleges from im-

SNOWDROPS BLOOM
Latest Snow? No. "No, it wasn't a record late snow — but it was pretty good," said Science Associates' weatherman David Ludlum, watching flakes begin to fill an outraged tulip.
The latest snow — well, the latest since weather records for this part of the world began in 1865 — was on Monday, May 9, 1977. Just yesterday. And just a trace. Some skeptics didn't believe it had really snowed at all. But it had.

The snow that drifted down Monday and Tuesday treated Princeton with gentleness. Brush a little off your car, but nothing to shovel away.
What doesn't seem to treat Princeton with gentleness, is rain. So far this month, through April 19 — this Tuesday morning — we've had almost six inches. The precise amount is 5.97. In New York, April rainfall records have already been broken.

During Saturday, and until 8 a.m. Sunday, we had 1.91 inches. That's the most in one day. So far. The runner-up is April 3 with 1.35 inches.
Ahead? It will be "unseasonably cool," Mr. Ludlum predicts. He doesn't see any more snow. For awhile.

Is Brooke Shields 'In' or 'Out'?
The Princeton University trustees answered two major questions over the weekend (see accompanying article), but not even they know the answer to a third that is the subject of much speculation on campus at the moment: has Brooke Shields been admitted to the Class of 1987?

Letters of admission or rejection were mailed last Friday by all the Ivy schools, so presumably Brooke, who applied here last fall, now knows the answer, but she hasn't yet made it public. However, her letter had to travel a little further than the others sent out by Princeton.

According to "The Daily Princetonian," it was mailed from somewhere in Florida by University admissions director Jim Wickenden. Mr. Wickenden made the final decision on admitting Brooke while vacationing there, because of "security reasons," said Associate Admissions Director Spencer Reynolds. Not even the University's admissions staff knows for sure.

"Ultimately, it's his decision. He took into account what the staff had to say and then made his decision," said Mr. Reynolds. He said that Mr. Wickenden took two letters, one admitting Brooke and one rejecting her with him to Florida, and was to mail one to her home in Englewood. The teen-age movie star expects to graduate from the Dwight-Englewood School in June.

Efforts by reporters on "the Prince" to confirm Brooke's admission by repeated phone calls to her home and to national publications such as "People" magazine have so far been unsuccessful.

plementing the law. It is not yet known, he added, whether the government will appeal.

The University is not asking about registration status in financial-aid material sent to new students.

Regarding fraternities and sororities, the trustees reaffirmed "the longstanding tradition of Princeton opposing the formation here of local chapters of national 'Greek letter' social fraternities and sororities."

This opposition has served the University well, and is regarded as a sound policy. Such organizations, therefore, will continue to be ineligible for University recognition.

STUDENT IS ATTACKED
On Pine Street. A 19-year-old Westminster Choir College student was the victim last week of what Borough police labeled an act of criminal sexual contact.
The victim was walking down Pine Street last Wednesday night, police said, when someone came up behind her and pulled her hair. As she turned around, she was punched in the face by the assailant who then grabbed her breast. The victim, in turn, managed to strike her attacker in the face and ran off. No words were exchanged, according to Chief Michael Carnevale.

The suspect has been described as a white male in his early 20s, about 6-1, thin, with short, dark hair parted in the middle. He was wearing a light colored windbreaker with silver colored snaps, blue jeans and white Nike sneakers. Ptl. Randy Sutton investigated, assisted by Ptl. Anthony Federico.

LESKO DECISION

Rights Group Upset, Unhappy over Borough Council's decision not to take action against public works superintendent Bernard Lesko for alleged racial slurs, Princeton's Civil Rights Commission may take the matter to the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights or the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, according to Joan Hill, executive director of Princeton's Commission.

In the second of two closed hearings last week, Council agreed, 4-0, that the testimony of nine witnesses was "conflicting and inconsistent." Council members determined, therefore, that "they were uncertain as to whether or not racial slurs had been used" by Mr. Lesko.

It had been charged by four white public works employees that Mr. Lesko made racial remarks about two black employees. It was said that the remarks were not made to the men themselves, but about them.

Ms. Hill said she was disturbed that Council came to its conclusions when only four members of the six-member body were present. Those present were Barbara Hill, Richard Macgill, Richard Woodbridge and Joseph Blanc. Mayor Robert W. Cawley was present but did not have a vote.

"It is a serious enough charge for them to have waited until they had a full body," she stated, adding that "people have been calling me both white and black people - saying that they are so upset."

"Council members are showing Princeton they don't care about how bosses speak to their employees."

When the matter first came to light in the Borough, the allegations were considered by Mr. Lesko's supervisor, Borough engineer George Olexa. Mr. Olexa essentially reached the same conclusion as Council, and in a letter to Mr. Lesko warned that any language which could be construed as being a racial slur would not be tolerated in his department.

In effect, Council affirmed Mr. Olexa's decision. His letter to Mr. Lesko will presumably go into the superintendent's personnel file.

Council also directed Administrator Mark Gordon to hold a departmental meeting within the next week to reaffirm the Borough's policy "that all persons are to be treated properly and with dignity" and to discuss anything else of concern to public works employees.

251 TAPES STOLEN

From Choir College Room. Two hundred fifth-one musical cassette recording tapes, valued at $2,639, were reported stolen last week from a storage room in the Westminster Choir College.

Taken, according to police, were 169 tapes of Christmas songs sung by the WCC, 33 of folk songs, 34 of the Menotti Mass, and 15 Bach tapes. They were taken sometime within the past 30 days and were the property of the college. Police report there were no signs of forced entry.

New Bus Schedule

The Princeton Loop bus has begun a new schedule, copies available at Cox's Store (180 Nassau) and the Princeton Public Library.

The bus will now run every half-hour, not every hour as formerly. There will be only seven stops, instead of the old 14-stop schedule.

The Princeton "M" bus to Quakerbridge Mall will run on the same schedule as before. Additional information is available from Molly Jacobs in the bus transportation office, 924-6162.

truder apparently, police said, tried to enter without success. He then kicked in a front door. Police said that a trail of blood led from the room down a hallway and into a bathroom.

"He apparently cut himself pretty badly," commented Chief Anthony Pinelli. Police, however, were unable to follow the trail of blood from the bath room and the suspect escaped.

CAR ENTERS STATION

When Driver Has Heart Attack. A car went out of control and struck three parked cars in a Nassau Street service station last week after the driver suffered a heart attack.

John P. Servis, 84, 30 Harrison Street, was driving south on Maple Street, when he suffered his heart attack shortly after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. His 1967 sedan continued through the intersection of Nassau and Maple Streets, struck a light pole and entered the Exxon service station.

Mr. Servis was taken to Princeton Medical Center and admitted to its coronary care unit. A hospital spokesman described his condition Tuesday as satisfactory. There were no charges by the investigating officer, Ptl. Victor Fasanello.

Lucky Rabbit, Unlucky Jeep. A driver and his passenger sustained minor injuries last week after the Jeep in which they were riding swerved to avoid a rabbit and overturned on Quaker Road.

The driver, Brian P. Kelly, 17, 265A Canal Road, told police that as he swerved, his Jeep went partially on the right shoulder of the roadway between Parkside and Stockton Street, began to slide and struck a large tree which caused it to tip over on its side.

Kelly and his passenger, Joseph Mackin, 16, of Trenton, both refused treatment for bruises to their knees. The Jeep was extensively damaged. There were no charges by Ptl. Mark Emann.

Car Fire. The engine compartment of a 1970 Volkswagen caught fire last week at the intersection of With Marianna are (from left): Christine Crosby, Carol Paul Robeson Place and Bayard Lane.

Police used two chemical extinguishers on the fire before it was ultimately put out by firemen arriving on the scene. The car, owned by a Trenton resident, had to be towed to a service station.

Police said that the cause of the fire was unknown.

MORE DRIVERS CHARGED
With Drunken Driving, Five more drivers have been charged by Township police with driving while intoxicated.

At 2:02 Sunday morning, Patrolmen Peter Savalli and Anthony Gaylord observed a car in front of them weaving on Mercer Road. They stopped the car three tenths of a mile down the road and charged the driver, Jacqueline Tkacs, 19, 404 N. Harrison Street, with driving while intoxicated.

As the officers were transporting Miss Tkacs to headquarters, they observed another car driving erratically on Route 206 near Birch Avenue. They stopped it in front of Township Hall.

The officers as they approached the car allegedly observed a roach holder on the dashboard and some rolled papers in an ash tray.

Ptl. Gaylord charged the driver, Kevin Harland, 26, of Iselin, with driving while intoxicated and driving while under the influence of a controlled, dangerous substance.

Henry R. Richardson, 38, of Princeton Arms Apartments, Cranbury, was arrested early Thursday morning (3:39) after he was observed weaving from side to side on Witherspoon Street. After pulling into a drive on Witherspoon, he was checked by Sgt. John Hammond and Ptl. Robert Buchanan and found to be under the influence.

Brian K. Yates, 20, 187 Scotch Road, Trenton, was charged with driving while intoxicated last week after Township police received an alcohol content report of his blood from a police lab.

Yates had been involved in an accident April 1 on Route 206 near Edgerstowne Road. His car had gone out of control at 2:32 in the morning, struck two signal posts and overturned. At the time of the investigation, Yates had been charged with careless driving and operating an unregistered vehicle.

DRIVERS CHARGED
With Drug Violations, Borough police stopped two cars last week for motor vehicle violations and ended up charging the drivers with drug violations.

Gregory Pollack, 20, of East Brunswick was stopped on Bayard Lane at Stanworth late Thursday night by Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Dennis McManimon. Pollack, police said, had a very youthful appearance and it was questionable if he had a valid driver's license.

In questioning Pollack and his passenger, Wynt Ondash, 19, of East Brunswick, the officers saw several marijuana roaches on the car floor, and after the two had agreed to sign a voluntary search form, the officers found two hand-rolled marijuana cigarettes.

Both were charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana, issued a complaint summons and released. They are scheduled to appear in court here May 4.

The next day, Ptl. Michael Taylor stopped a car on Nassau Street near Princeton Avenue. He noticed a small, clear glass bottle containing marijuana on the car's console and a subsequent search revealed an envelope containing more marijuana.

A further check revealed that the driver, Larry Berry, 23, of Trenton, was driving while on a revoked list and he was issued a summons for that violation. Berry's court date is also May 4.

Hashish Possession. Two employees of the Maritas Cantina Restaurant, 138 Nassau Street, have been charged with possession of less than five grams of hashish.

Identified as Timothy Collins, 24, Hunters Glen, Plainsboro, and Hertz Smith, 32, of Lytle Street, the two were arrested in the restaurant at 2:21 Monday morning as they were working at a second-floor table on receipts.

Ptl. Sutton and McManimon on foot patrol heard an alarm sounding at 1:36 in the morning and traced it to the restaurant. A check of the exterior of the building revealed the doors were locked, but as in all such alarm soundings, police notified the owner.

Police and the owner entered the building and Ptl. Sutton found the two suspects seated at the table. The officer then noticed the hashish on the table.

THEFT REPORT
Knapsack Stolen. The knapsack of a Princeton University student was among items reported stolen last week by police.

It was taken Monday morning while the owner had left it unattended in the damage which police Princeton Savings and Loan Bank on Nassau Street. Inside were a calculator, Swiss Army Knife, books and other items with a combined value of $218.

Another university student lost $15 when her wallet was stolen early Saturday morning from her purse which was in a coat room in the Cottage Club on Prospect Avenue. Replacement costs for a meal card and U-Store card added another $18 to the loss.

In a late report last week, an employee of the YMCA told police that $106 had been stolen from her purse which she had left unattended at her desk.

Two bicycles were stolen last week from the east side of Princeton High School along Walnut Lane. Both victims were PHIS students. One bike, a 10-speed Schwinn, was locked and valued at $205; the second, a 10-speed Raleigh, was valued at $179. Its lock was not working, police said.

In The Township, a Pardee Circle resident lost $108 when her wallet was removed from her shoulder bag.

$75,000 RAISED

At Fantasy Auction. The Fantasy Auction last Saturday for the benefit of the Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped topped $75,000. This is $23,000 more than last year's total and includes a "match" from Merrill Lynch that will cost the New York headquarters close to $11,000.

Merrill Lynch had agreed to match dollar-for-dollar any increase in funds raised during the live auction with Art Buchwald as auctioneer. Last year, with Mr. Buchwald also wielding the gavel, the live auction raised $12,930. He agreed to serve again, providing the agency found him a challenge.

According to Ann Lachs, Merrill Lynch had expected to have contributed a match in the neighborhood of $3,000 to $4,000. "They are absolutely delighted we did so well," Mrs. Lachs said.

Some 600 people, including volunteers were at the event at Conant Hall at ETS which featured a silent auction and treasure chest give-away during cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. A $100-a-plate dinner, with Mr. Buchwald as host, followed at Prospect Hall on the Princeton University campus.

KOCH IN BENEFIT

For Emergency Food, Lynn Arthur Koch, music critic for Town Topics, who is also a guitarist and folk singer, will perform with a colleague, Corina Velit, in a benefit for the Forum Project, the emergency food program in Trenton.

The event will be next Wednesday, April 27, at 8 p.m. in Bethany Presbyterian Church, Chestnut and Hamilton Streets in Trenton. There will be a $3 donation.

Mr. Koch teaches music at three elementary schools in Trenton-Stokes, Washington and Parker. Ms. Velit is an aide in the bi-lingual kindergarten program at the Parker school. The two have given several concerts together in the Trenton schools.

AUCTION AND MORE

At Unitarian Church. The Unitarian Church's annual fund raiser, Auction Etc., will take place Saturday from 10 to 4. Because the date coincides with Shakespeare's birthday, the event has been given the theme, "As You Like It," to call attention to the numerous and varied offerings available.

In addition to an auction and silent auction, there will be a flea market, a plant booth, a clothing boutique and a gourmet table. Many books and records will be for sale, and many artists and craftspeople have contributed items for the event. There is even a sports and equipment booth and a computer booth.

There will be a midway for children, and "As You Like It-Shakespeare '83" will be held rain or shine. The Unitarian Church is on Cherry Hill Road off Route 206.

10TH ANNIVERSARY SET

By Association of Black Alumni. A number of Princeton University's most prominent and successful black graduates will return to the campus on Friday and Saturday for a series of special events to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Association of Black Princeton Alumni (ABPA).

A highlight of the occasion will be the ADPA's presentation to the University of a specially-commissioned bronze and marble bust of Frederick Douglass, the 19th-century black leader who epitomized in his life the revolution in the status of his race.

The Douglass Service Award is presented annually to that Princeton student who exemplifies "the courage, integrity, intellectual honesty, and moral behavior that gives dignity and sense of purpose to Negro youth across the nation, and in so doing acts in accordance with the academic tradition of preparation for service embodied in the Princeton education."

Established by black students in the late 1960s, the award has been presented to 19 students in the years since. Speaking at the ceremony presenting the Douglass bust will be the first two winners of the Douglass Service Award.

The opening session Friday will include remarks by Princeton President William G. Bowen, and the principal address will be delivered by Michael J. Calhoun '70, first president of the ADPA and former vice chairman of the International Trade Commission, now in private law practice in Washington, D.C.

On Saturday morning, the Association is sponsoring a series of eight workshops to be held in the Woodrow Wilson School from 9 to noon. The participating panelists and moderators, all successful, black alumni, will focus during the workshops on their obligations to minority communities and on the impact that their Princeton experience has had on their lives and their careers.

Among the participants, in addition to Mr. Calhoun, will be Badi Foster who earned his Ph.D. at Princeton in 1974, president of the Aetna Institute for Corporate Education, Aetna Life and Casualty Company of Hartford; The Honorable Henry H. Kennedy, Jr. '70, judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia; Baron Jones '73, a real estate investment counselor with Marsh & McLennan of Los Angeles; James Shepherd '78 of General Electric; Deane Buchanan '68, chief counsel to the governor of Ohio; Dr. Reggie Peniston '69; and Rod Hamilton '69, president of MCA's new ventures division.

SEMINAR THIS SUNDAY

PHS 20th Reunion Planned
The Princeton High School Class of 1963 will hold its 20th reunion Saturday, June 18 at Terhune Orchards, home of Pam (Hazenthal) and Gary Mount.

Current addresses of class members are needed by Margie Leitch, 737-2370, or Nancy Sullivan Tryzelaar, 15 Coyle St., Portland, Me., 04101, who will give further information.

Seminar of the spring to be held at the Writers' Center, 10 Nassau St., this Sunday, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Editors from leading New York publications will be on hand to discuss "Breaking Into Print with Magazine Articles and Short Stories."

Featured speakers will be Helen Del Monte, fiction editor of "McCall's" Magazine, and Adam Moss, associate editor of "Esquire" Magazine. They will outline present needs and preferences of their publications and will discuss current trends in overall markets as well.

ON PEACE AND WAR
Slide Lecture, "Princeton Chile," a slide lecture on peace and war, will be given this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the 185 Nassau Street studios of the Princeton University art department. The lecturer will be ceramist Jeff Schlanger.

Described as "a contemporary attempt to demonstrate our global connection in the universal language of the ceramic medium," Mr. Schlanger's work includes "Chile New York," a wall of 400 glazed clay faces facing war, starting with Santiago and ending with Nagasaki. Three monumental covered jars, "El Salvador," "Poland" and "Chile" stand before the wall. An architectural construction in glazed brick, "Majja Peace Shrine," is in process.

HEART HEALTH FOCUS
Of Program at Merwick. The Department of Community Health Services of the Medical Center at Princeton is offering a series of classes on heart health. The five-week program, held at the Merwick Unit of the Medical Center, Bayard Lane, will begin on Tuesday at 7:30.

The program is particularly designed for past coronary patients, individuals with risk factors for coronary disease and their family and friends. The classes will discuss what is coronary artery disease, the risk factors associated with it, exercise, diet and stress. Participants will have opportunities to gain knowledge, share experiences, and to ask questions.

There is no fee for the program. For further information or to register, contact the Department of Community Health at 734-4626.

WORRY IS TOPIC
of YWCA Program. "Taking the Woe out of Worry: Strategies for Minimizing Worry and Stress" will be presented by the Adult Department of the YWCA on Thursday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. This is the second in the "Healing the Inner Ache" series.

Darlene Prestbo, ACSW psychiatric social worker in private practice in Princeton, will discuss the impact of worry in one's life and present a six step program for coping effectively with worry and stress.

Further information on this and other spring programs is available by calling the YWCA Adult Department at 924-5571.

The Garden Tent committee, working in conjunction with the Contemporary Garden Club of Princeton, will offer for sale such items as miniature gardens in Featherock planters. Featherock is a volcanic material which is easily carved and permits plants to retain a dwarf habit. Ambleside Gardens on Route 206 will provide a small garden, outside the Garden Tent, with plants in bloom. They will be offered for sale.

The tent interior will be a blaze of color with tables of salmon pink, red and white geraniums; hanging baskets of roses and of grapes; clematis and fuchsia. Blue and white ageratum, pink begonias and bronze-leaved begonias; yellow marigolds; mixed zinnias; heaths and heathers; white cascading petunias and near-white marigolds will be offered for sale.

There will be both culinary and scented herbs. Several varieties of tomatoes, lettuce, parsley and peppers will be featured among the vegetable plants. Some unusual garden supplies, planters and a new series of garden books will be available.

Clare P. Sperapani, Somerset County Agricultural Agent, will be available from 10 until noon to advise individuals on proper horticultural techniques and how to solve plant problems.

The Tent of Spring Shops will offer for sale a wide variety of items, including pictures, baked goods, home-made goodies, clothing at bargain prices, donated treasures from past and present, gift wrapping materials, handcrafted items by the clients of NJNPI, decoupage watering cans and pottery animals.

Also, folk art, primitive paintings and sculptured ornaments; hand-painted

THE SCOTTS DIFFERENCE™

Our grass seed is guaranteed even after it sprouts.

Once a grass seed sprouts, the real battle begins. The new seedling faces dry spells. Heat and cold. Weeds and insects. Wear and tear. That's when the superiority of Scotts® seed really pays off.

What superiority? Well, unlike "bargain" brands, Scotts screens out the small, weak seeds, the empty hulls and stems, the weed seeds. All you get are big, plump seeds that germinate faster, get established faster. So with Scotts you don't plant problems, just grass.

And Scotts premium-quality mixtures like Family® contain improved varieties nobody but Scotts can give you.

Giving you grass seed this great is hard. But then guaranteeing you it'll grow, survive and thrive is easy.

This spring get the Scotts difference—and get it for less, with this refund offer.

portables; dips and dressings; one-of-a-kind handmade items; summer fashion and home accessories; jewelry, belts and bags; flower gifts; kitchen gifts and gourmet gadgets. For summer; stationery for all occasions; Bermuda ultraviolet bags; and gifts for everyone.

In order to supplement the basic facilities provided by the state, the Association of the NJNPI, comprised of volunteers, raises money annually through dues and benefits. Among the many donations made to the institute are the greenhouse program, funding for the summer day camp program, a swimming pool, stereos, televisions, washers, dryers, musical instruments and recreational equipment.

Tickets for the Spring Annual are $15 per person, $9 of which is tax deductible. Checks should be made out to The Association of NJNPI and sent to Mrs. A. B. Vincent, Jr., 1 Bayard Lane, Princeton, N.J. 08540 (609-924-6544). Tables of four are available meeting, and those wishing to sit together must enclose their self-addressed envelope.

KOREAN LEADER DUE
For Talk on Campus, Kim Dae-jung, former presidential candidate of the Republic of South Korea, will discuss "Prospects for Democracy in Korea in the 1990s" in a lecture at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School on Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m. in Bowl L.

As a prominent leader in South Korea's New Democratic Party, Kim ran for president in his country's 1971 election. He was narrowly defeated by Park Chung-hee, who was later assassinated.

Kim was kidnapped by the Korean Central Intelligence Agency during a visit to Japan in 1973 and was imprisoned in Korea as a political dissident. In 1980 the government charged him with playing a key role in the uprisings in the provincial capital of Kwangju and sentenced him to death.

Kim's sentence was later commuted and following his release in 1982 he was allowed to leave Korea. He now resides in Alexandria, Va.

The lecture is sponsored by the Program in Chinese-American Relations and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, and is open to the public.

Palmer Square
The petition says "No, it is not too late!" and declares 1 Bayard Lane, Princeton, N.J. 08540 (609-924-6544). Tables of four are available meeting, and those wishing to sit together must enclose their self-addressed envelope.

Plans have included Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander; the two vice-chairmen, Sydney Taggart for the Borough and Elizabeth Hutter for the Township; Richard Henkel and Alma Field.

"We've had three sets of plans for the whole addition to the Nassau Inn," Mrs. Taggart says, "and it's hard to keep up with the changes. For example, the bridge appears to have had its position changed slightly. At one time, there was an indentation; now, the bridge seems to be even with the southern facade of the existing building, and to go straight across the street."

"Not all the small changes are identified," she continued. "We asked them to re-design the bridge, but it doesn't seem to have been re-designed the way we all agreed on."

"We also asked them to re-design the facade of the addition, but we seem not to have the irregular roof line we wanted, at least from the plans we saw at a Preview Committee meeting. Maybe there is a new set of plans for this Thursday."

"Also, we have questioned the long, blank wall on the Witherspoon side of the addition."

Landscaping Not Reviewed. Landscaping plans have not been discussed in detail by the Preview Committee, Mrs. Taggart said. "We did discuss the fact that there seem not to be many green areas. The terrace at the back of the Inn, is not for the public and we did not count it as public space. Now there's a gazebo, or bandstand there. But it is not public, usable, open space."

Mrs. Taggart said she also has second thoughts about the Seward Johnson sculpture of the man eating a sandwich. Originally on the rim of the fountain, it has been approved to sit at the top of the concrete steps. Mrs. Taggart now feels that perch will hamper elderly or handicapped people who will have to reach across the statue to the hand rail.

Mr. Oleksa, in a February memo, has also pointed out changes made by Collins. The addition to the hotel, originally 60,000 square feet, is now 61,805; its retail area originally 15,000 is now 15,222.

The 85-foot Inn courtyard is now 65 feet wide, Mr. Oleksa has found and the northwest addition to the Inn, near the present Greenhouse, was 4,467 square feet of hotel and 1,800 square feet of retail. It is now 4,689 and 2,600, respectively.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED
To Area Students. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has released the names of winners of two categories of scholarship winners.

The winners of the corporate-sponsored, renewable four-year Merit Scholarships have been announced, as well as the winners of National Merit $1000 Scholarships, which are one-time awards and largely sponsored by corporations, foundations and businesses. Still another category, the college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships, will be announced in early May.

Jon Firester of Princeton Day School and Kenneth P. Leedom of South Brunswick High School are among 17 students nationwide who have been awarded four-year RCA Merit Scholarships for children of employees. Jon is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Firester of Lakeview Drive, Skillman, and Kenneth the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Leedom of 26 Cleveland Lane, South Brunswick Township.

Other area residents who have been awarded four-year corporate sponsored Merit Scholarships are Giselle Ondetti of 79 Hemlock Circle, a senior at Princeton High School whose scholarship is sponsored by Squibb Corporation; and Patrick Murphy of 12 Norchester Drive, Princeton Junction, and Thomas K. Wang, 41 Slayback Drive, Princeton Junction, both seniors at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School.

Patrick's award is supported by Western Electric Fund for children of Western Electric Company employees, and American Cyanamid is the sponsor of Thomas's Merit Scholarship offered to children of employees.

In the next category, National Merit $1000 Scholarships, area winners include Ariella J. Gross, 264 Hartley Avenue, of Princeton High School, whose scholarship is sponsored by the estate of the late chairman of the board of Pfizer Inc.; Rachel Leader, 9 Monroe Court, RD 4, Princeton Day School, sponsored by Texaco Philanthropic Foundation; Eve C. Ostriker, 33 Philip Drive, Princeton High School, Continental Corp.; Erica Weeder, 132 Drakes Corner Road, Princeton Day School; unrestrict Merit program funds; and David Litton, 8 Carnation Place, Lawrenceville, The Lawrenceville School, also unrestricted merit program funds.

Raymond K. Ryan of 62 Platz Drive, Montgomery Township, and a senior at Montgomery High School, Skillman, has been awarded a four-year corporate-sponsored Merit Scholarship by the Atlantic Richfield Foundation.

A 1957 WONDER: Convenient place to park your 1957 gas-guzzler while you shopped across University Place at the brand-new building of the 53-year-old Princeton University Store (light-colored facade, rear). The new parking lot was part of the excitement and convenience of the new location for the U. Store. Now, 25 years later, the U. Store is marking its silver anniversary in the "new" location.

U-Store Marks 25th Year at Present Site

The Princeton University Store, now in its 78th year of operation, is celebrating its 25th anniversary in its present location, 36 University Place.

In 1957, when Princeton men wore crewcuts and there were no Princeton women, when frisbees were the latest rage (the crew created a campus sensation selling them to finance a trip to Henley Regatta), the U-Store moved out of its cramped basement quarters in West College and into a new store on University Place.

After 53 years in one spot, the store badly needed the extra space the new location provided. The convenient parking lot, shown in the picture above on opening day in 1957, was a wonder in itself.

According to one long-term employee, the store did not close down at all for the move. Instead, the employees worked nights transferring stock and readying the store.

At the time of the opening, the store had only two floors of merchandise. The main floor, now devoted entirely to books, housed books, stationery, gifts, food and tobacco, as well as a jewelry counter. The other departments were all located on the front part of the upper level. The back part of the upper level was at that time occupied by the offices of the "Daily Princetonian" and other campus publications.

Over the years the store's merchandise mix has changed. For example, in 1957 the men's clothing department sold haberdashery and an "Ivy League Tuxedo", and, since Princeton was not co-ed, there was no women's clothing department at all.

Today, under the leadership of store president Donald Broderick, both men's and women's clothing departments have greatly expanded. Although there have been many changes in the Princeton University Store over the past 25 years, there has been continuity, too.

The store's 1957 catalog lists many things which are still available through the U-Store, including glassware with the Princeton seal, Princeton chairs, button-down Oxford cloth shirts, sporting goods, and, of course, frisbees.

Response Analysis Corporation. Dr. Fishburne has been employed by Response Analysis since October 1975 and has directed a variety of research projects, including several nationwide surveys of the use and abuse of illicit and illicit drugs among U.S. households. She has spoken at a number of workshops and seminars on the subject of drug abuse. She was the senior author of "National Survey on Drug Abuse: Main Findings 1979" and has directed the current phase of the study.

Anthony J. Manna of Lillie Street, Princeton Junction, has been appointed director, marketing and advanced planning for RCA Astro-Electronics.

In his new position, Mr. Manna directs the marketing and advanced planning functions for the business unit, which is a major manufacturer of satellite systems. Prior to this appointment, he was manager, NASA Market Development. Before joining RCA in 1962, he was with the Philco-Ford Corporation.

Terry Lewandowski of Princeton has been promoted to senior research assistant at Response Analysis. An employee since May 1977, Ms. Lewandowski is currently conducting research to assess business reactions to fraudulent invoices. She is also involved in a study of the comparative effectiveness of three direct mail advertising campaigns.

BUSINESS In Princeton

EARNINGS CLIMB
For N.J. National, Earnings for New Jersey National Corporation in the first quarter were ten percent higher than in the same period last year, the bank-holding company has announced.

Net income rose to $2.74 million, or 93 cents a share, from $2.49 million, 85 cents a share in the first quarter of 1982. Shareholders voted to raise the number of authorized shares from 3 to 10 million, and preferred stock from 500,000 to 3 million.

FOR STUDENT LOANS
Bank Makes Commitment. Horizon Bancorp., parent company of Princeton Bank, has committed itself to increase student loans by $30 million over the next two years, the company has announced.

Interest rates for the bank's PLUS program — designed for parents of undergraduates — have dropped from 14 to 12 percent since last year. The program is also available to self-supporting graduates and undergraduates. Dependent students can borrow up to $3,000 a year, and independent students up to $2,500.

The GSL — Guaranteed Student Loans — program has an interest rate of nine percent and a maximum of $2,500 a year for undergraduates and $5,000 for graduate students.

RCA Labs Discontinuing Solar Research Group; Difficulties in Finding Needed Capital Cited

To obtain the venture capital it needed for the commercial development of its amorphous silicon solar cells, RCA Laboratories has decided to discontinue its Solar Research Group.

The announcement was made last week at the Labs at the same time that some 30-35 technical staff members or associates were laid off in an across-the-board reduction affecting all divisions. A single sentence statement about the lay-offs from the RCA public relations office declares that "most of the solar energy personnel will be reassigned to other work in RCA Labs."

In a slightly longer statement for the press, RCA confirmed that it is "seeking a buyer for its amorphous silicon photovoltaic cell research project. RCA has made major advances in this technical area, capped last year by 10 percent efficiency in laboratory cells. The decision to discontinue the program was made because energy conversion is not one of RCA's mainstream businesses." The mainstream businesses are said to be electronics, communications and entertainment.

RCA established its Energy Research Laboratory in 1977, the year that RCA scientist David Carlson received a basic patent on the use of amorphous silicon for solar cells. It was early in the Carter administration, the heyday of OPEC, and there was a drive on to find alternative sources of energy for electricity and to lessen the country's dependence on foreign oil. Government funding was plentiful.

RCA became a pioneer in the development of amorphous silicon solar cells, reaching gradually higher conversion efficiency of sunlight falling on an amorphous cell. In 1982 RCA scientists achieved a record 10 percent conversion efficiency, which was considered a major step toward large scale power production.

Two Allied Groups. The work was carried out by two closely allied groups that make up the solar energy project that is being discontinued and for which a buyer is being sought. There is the Photovoltaic Device Research Group, headed by Mr. Carlson, and the Photovoltaic Processes and Applications Group headed by Arthur Firester.

According to Mr. Firester, RCA has been for some time seeking a joint venture with another company to pursue the efforts of the Energy Laboratory. "We have not been as successful as we would have liked, and David Carlson received a management has elected to sell our position in solar energy," Mr. Firester said. There is a lot of proprietary technology, patents, and specialized equipment available, he added.

"We were very close in negotiations in our equity search, so we know there is a genuine interest on the part of a number of companies." But the emphasis has shifted from seeking an equity interest to a "for sale" position.

William Webster, RCA vice president and head of the Laboratories, described the Solar Research Group as "a good program — we did a good job technically." However, he added, it is a technology for the year 2000 — not for the 1980s. "Especially when it comes to finding somebody to put up the necessary capital," Mr. Webster estimated that it would require $100 million to make solar cells commercially viable and $400-$500 million to take the project of what he called "the next sensible milestone."

In addition to the 30-35 people laid off last week, some 15-20 are expected to take advantage of RCA's reworking of its retirement plan, which could bring the total reduction in employees to 50. There are about 1550 David Sarnoff Research Center employees, including about 800 directly engaged in research — 400 members of the technical staff plus an equal number of associates.

Forty-five have been involved in the solar energy project, and of these, seven have been laid off. The rest are expected to be absorbed in other areas within the Labs or at other RCA divisions.

RELIGION In Princeton

HUB TO MARK BIRTHDAY

With Open House, The Princeton Hub will hold an Open House-Birthday Party to celebrate its fourth birthday Sunday, April 24. Interested members of the community are invited to join the celebration between 2 and 4 p.m. in the Social Hall of the Princeton United Methodist Church, located on the corner of Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

Four years ago representatives from four Princeton churches perceived a need for a community center for a deinstitutionalized area. The result of their concern was the establishment of The Hub as a drop-in center, sponsored by Princeton's religious community, and open to all area residents who feel isolated because of mental or emotional disorders. The United Methodist Church was asked to contribute space for The Hub because of its central location.

DEAN TO RETURN

For Service at Chapel. The Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, who for 25 years was Dean of the Princeton University Chapel, will be the preacher this Sunday evening at an Ecumenical Service of Worship to be held at 7 p.m. in the University Chapel. Music for the service, which is being sponsored by the Ecumenical Council, will be program was initiated, and this past summer a Sunday afternoon program was added. The Sunday program is more structured, with crafts available and an exercise group, but still with a relaxed, low keyed, non-competitive atmosphere.

The Hub's director is Arianne Kassof and the associate director is Tina Kwass. Volunteers from the community are essential to the ongoing program. They provide a vital link between church members and the community. Their presence not only establishes friendships on an individual basis, but is a continuing affirmation of the community's concern and care.

Nine religious organizations in the Princeton community, including the University Chapel, now sponsor The Hub through monetary contributions and volunteer hours. The Princeton Clergy Association has also been actively supportive of The Hub. Additional organizations have helped with The Hub's annual Christmas dinners, gala affairs for people who sometimes have no other holiday celebrations.

BAT MITZVAH BY PROXY

For Soviet Girl. Zoya Shabashov of Moscow, U.S.S.R., will become bat mitzvah in a centuries-old ceremony in West Windsor's Congregation Beth Chaim. Zoya is one of an estimated three million Jews in Soviet controlled nations prohibited by law from open practice of their religion. She recently received a letter from Allison Lach of East Windsor saying that Zoya will make her rite of passage into Jewish adulthood by proxy on Saturday.

Allison, age 13, has been studying Hebrew language and literature for six years in preparation for her own bat mitzvah, but when she stands at the pulpit to chant the Torah, she will be doing it for Zoya as well as for herself.

Zoya, the daughter of Leonid Shabashov, is an epileptic and spends much of her time in hospitals. Her father is an active member of the Moscow refusenik community, who has applied for permission to leave the Soviet Union and been refused. He has signed appeals and open protest letters. In 1978 he was among 12 Jewish activists who were caught by the police, taken to the woods and beaten up. On another occasion, he was detained for 15 days in Serpukhov prison.

Zoya's mother, Olga, teaches mentally handicapped children. Many times the family has been put under house arrest and their correspondence has been checked by the KGB.

The Bat Mitzvah by proxy is an attempt by the American Jewish community to alert the world to the plight of Jews in the Soviet Union and to help them identify themselves as Jews.

Allison's parents, Barbara and Irwin Lach, are encouraging other families to send greetings by letter to other refuseniks and to make a positive statement against tyranny by joining in the proxy bat-mitzvah ceremony. Mrs. Lach is chairman of the social action committee of Congregation Beth Chaim.

CRANBURY TO BE SITE

Of Antique Show and Sale. The 13th Annual Antiques Show and Sale will be held April 30, from 10 to 4 at the United Methodist Church, 21 N. Main Street, Cranbury. The event is hosted by the United Methodist Women.

Twenty dealers set up displays of antiques and collectables, including furniture, jewelry, silver, glass, pottery, and woodenware. A wide selection of hand-made gift items and seasonal decorations will be available, plus homemade pies, cakes, and breads.

There will be flowers, hanging baskets and garden plants for sale, and throughout the day there will be a variety of craft demonstrations in the church library. The luncheon corner will be selling a selection of hot and cold snacks and beverages. Ample parking is available; admission is $1.25.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Westerly Road Church will show the film "Hudson Taylor" on Sunday at 6:30. The film is a prelude to the 14th annual missionary conference to be held at the church April 28-May 1.

The film depicts the story of evangelical outreach in China. It describes Taylor's early China years, from his arrival in Shanghai to the death of his wife. The church is on Westerly Road.

The youth of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Hightstown Road, have rescheduled the car wash that was rained out last Saturday to this Saturday at 10. For information call 799-1753 or 799-1783.

The Princeton United Methodist Church will hold two orientation classes for prospective members. The first will be this Sunday at 7, the second on Sunday, May 1. Both will be held in the Sanford Davis Room of the church on Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, will sponsor a lecture this Thursday at 8 in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn. Edward G. Karst of California will speak on "Our God-given Courage."

Frank H. Ewing of Hopewell will introduce Mr. Karst. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

TO PERFORM ORATORIO

At Seminary. The annual spring concert by the Princeton Seminary Chapel Choir will be held on Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Miller Chapel, on the campus of Princeton Seminary. The oratorio, "The Conversion of St. Paul," by Felix Mendelssohn, will be performed by the choir under the direction of David A. Weadon.

Guest soloists will be Judith Nicosia, soprano; Mary Westcott, alto; William Mayo, tenor; and Alan Seale, baritone. Ms. Nicosia and Mr. Seale are faculty members at Westminster Choir College. Brenda Arnold, organist of the First Presbyterian Church in Freehold, will be the accompanist. There is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

Nassau Presbyterian Church, 61 Nassau Street, will hold an Inquirers' Class on Sunday at 11:15 in the office of Dr. Wallace M. Alston, Jr., senior minister.

The class is for anyone who is interested in learning about the programs and activities offered at Nassau Church. It will last approximately one hour.

LANDFALL

An Old World Estate of extraordinary quality secluded on 23 acres of formal gardens and meadows midway between Princeton and Lawrenceville. The interior plan includes a raised entry hall with balcony overlooking a baronial living room with carved panelling and massive stone fireplace, an oak paneled library with marble fireplace, five additional fireplaces, dining room with three pairs of French doors opening to stone terraces, an octagonal breakfast room with antique tile floor, a large contemporary kitchen with pantry, eight bedrooms, seven baths and four half baths. Over a three-car garage there is a caretaker's apartment with seven rooms and a bath and a half. Outside features include a cobblestone courtyard surrounded by high stone walls and a 20 x 40 swimming pool with stone terraces. All is grandeur and livability combined.

Price and brochure on request.

PRUNING A MAINTENANCE FREE SHRUB - with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Yews do make an excellent formal hedge or topiary plant.
Wide adaptability, shade tolerance, slow growth and ease of pruning are some of the characteristics that make yews so valuable. Few residential landscapes need the formality created by precisely trimmed yews. Most of us want a natural look and this is accomplished by selectively cutting back the most vigorous shoot to a cluster of side branches. In spring before new growth emerges, use pruning shears to trim the long, previous season's terminal shoots back to lateral branches.
A neat, informal appearance is the goal.
If you intend to do heavy pruning, cut back into the center of the plant to major branches.
Allowing light into the center of the plant will stimulate adventitious buds to develop. Those buds, not normally found on the branch, are promoted by heavy pruning and will quickly fill in the area. Heavy or severe pruning should be done in mid-to late April. Generally, light pruning twice a season, once in midspring and again in early July will keep yews looking neat and informal.

It is suggested in the northern regions to leave spreading yews a bit shaggy going into winter so that if the tips are browned or "burned" by winter winds the tips can be removed in early spring and have a full growing season to get back in shape. Don't forget deep root feeding at this time of year.

"Born Yesterday," A Wise and Funny Play, Skillfully Produced by Theatre Intime Group

LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT THE JUNK-YARD BUSINESS: Harry, the junk dealer (Tom Mounier, left) shares his street smarts with the idealistic young reporter Paul (Randy Castleman). In Theatre Intime's "Born Yesterday," Harry has hired Paul to "educate" his dumb blonde girl-friend Billie Dawn, with unexpected results for all.

The losers were the people who might have been, but weren't, sitting in four-fifths of Murray Theatre's seats on opening night of Theatre Intime's production of "Born Yesterday" by Garson Kanin. They missed seeing a wise and funny play, skillfully directed by Veronica Brady and furnished with a superior set by Rafe Scheinblum. Fortunately they have another chance, for the comedy can be seen again this week. What is the appeal of "Born Yesterday"?

It is always satisfying to watch a wheeler and dealing crook get his comeuppance. It is especially gratifying when it is the "dumb blond" whose brain power he constantly belittles who delivers the knockout blow. And since it was his own not very bright idea that she should learn to get smart, the outcome is poetic justice at its best.

News Of The THEATRES

Harry Brock is a junkyard magnate who has come to Washington to buy a senator or two as insurance for a deal of considerable advantage to himself. Harry is a sort of street-language czar; if someone is slow or reluctant to obey his order, a peremptory shout usually ends the argument.

In his duplex hotel suite we find his cool-headed lawyer Ed Devery, his cousin Eddie, a sort of ill-dressed man Friday, who pads around filling glasses, picking up shoes, doing small favors for the boss; and Billie Dawn, Billie's formal education apparently stopped a few minutes after it began, but with her intuitive knowledge of how to use her platinum-blond good looks, the other kind of education hasn't up to now been missed.

When Charlie Smith went down to the border, he found more than a line between two countries. He found a line within himself.

The Border is the most controversial and emotionally gripping film of the year.

As Charlie Smith, Jack Nicholson delivers one of the most powerful performances of his career.

The Border is an intense film both in its use of language and depiction of violence.

Players to Celebrate 50th Anniversary With Scenes from Past Performances

It was only 49 years ago that Herbert McAneny, as Dunois the Bastard in Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," played that scene with Betty Van Dyke. So it won't take long, after a brief rehearsal to brush off a speck of dust, to have it ready for the 50th Anniversary Party of Princeton Community Players. Curtain-time: this Saturday at 8 in the 171 Broadmead theatre.

And Mrs. Van Dyke herself will do that splendid speech of Joan's to the Inquisitors.

"Saint Joan," given by the Players in 1934, is the oldest production of the six that will be represented at Saturday's Party. Six, because Mr. McAneny wanted only the original actors who had played the parts Back Then.

And so the program of readings will also present Peter Cook and Joan Cook as Tommy Turner and his wife in Thurber's "The Male Animal." You'll recall that "The Male Animal" is about a teacher headed for trouble because he's about to read a letter by Vanzetti in class. Mr. and Mrs. Cook have chosen what Mr. McAneny describes as one of the "scenes of misunderstanding" in the Thurber comedy.

In the mid-'50s, The Players gave a Chekhov one-act called "The Boor," and Lois Cohen and Trevor Owens from that original cast will also be on the program. It was in 1954, on the stage of Murray Theatre that Emily ("Cissy") Stuart played The Madwoman of Chailot. Stuart Duncan, who was Pierre in that production, will join her in — again Mr. McAneny — "a sort of love scene."

Newest of the lot will be "The Child Stealer," an old-time mellerdrammer with four of the original cast: Jim Hopkins, Irving Van Zandt, Lorin Zissman and Mrs. Stuart. It was directed, incidentally, by Marguerite McAneny, Herbert's wife.

Along the way will be songs from 1948 and "Along the Road," first of the three original musicals presented by the Players. All three had music by the late P. Mackay Sturges (who later became mayor of the Borough) and book and lyrics by the late Munroe Wade.

Songs will be sung by Bonnie Brook and William Lippincott. Of the original cast, of course.

All members and former members of the Players are invited to the Party. The Players is the oldest continuing community theatre group in the area. Its first production was the mystery, "Cock Robin," presented at McCarter on May 22, 1933.

manicurist, bootblack, assistant hotel manager as well as those more closely involved with him, and as Billie provides counterpoint with her cheerful errors. But as Paul progresses with her re-education — and there is much to enjoy in Billie's troubles with her grammatical strictures and adult ideas — a new element begins to foreshadow the clash of principles which will finally erupt between awakened

Billie and unbelieving Harry. There is nothing didactic in the development of this theme. The play remains pure comedy, with humor in the dialogue and in the contrast of characters.

Although there would be no dramatic conflict without Harry, the play belongs to Billie Dawn. Intime is fortunate to have Lynn Dorsey play the part. Her Billie is one of the all-time delightful characterizations in this reviewer's memory of Intime shows. (A share of credit might go to costume designer Steve Saden for Billie's eye-catching wardrobe.)

Tom Mounier lets you both dislike and laugh at the essentially stupid Harry. Kevin Groom is convincing as Harry's hard-pressed lawyer. Michael Abramson is amusing as the deadpan cousin Eddie. A.J. Pape gives a controlled satirical picture of a politician open to offers, and Kristin Branson gets well-deserved laughs as his hearty wife. As Paul Verrall, architect of Billie's rebirth, Randy Castleman is persevering and an opportunist as well. He gets his reward.

Director Brady's influence on the production is seen particularly in the solid characterization of every actor. She also has the gift of making actions say as much as words. A classic example is Harry and Billie's gin rummy game, in which scarcely a word is spoken for five wonderful minutes.

"Born Yesterday" will play at Murray Theatre on April 21, 22 and 23 at 8:30 p.m. The box office number is 452-8181.

—Herbert McAneny

AT THE MOVIES

"The Border," Jack Nicholson dominates every frame of "The Border," according to McCarter Theatre's advance publicity, playing a disaffected, cynical U.S. border guard married to a wife for whom he feels only contempt and lust. Valerie Perrine plays the wife.

His dormant idealism surfaces when he tries to help a Mexican woman (Elpidia Carrillo) who has lost her baby to an adoption ring. There is a violent climax, and a lot of tension and anger along the way.

"The Border" will be screened twice next Wednesday (7:30 and 9:30) at Kresge Auditorium. It's part of the Movies-at-McCarter series.

and costumes by architect Michael Graves and choreography by Geulah Abrahams, Igor Stravinsky's "A Soldier's Tale" will be presented on two May weekends at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. Dates are May 5-6 and 12-14. Curtain each night will be 8:30. Sponsors are the University's Program in Theatre and Dance and the undergraduate theatre organization, Theatre Intime.

James May will dance the role of the Soldier. A member of the Theatre and Dance faculty, he is a soloist with the Daniel Lewis Dance Company and soloist-assistant to Anna Sokolow. The role of the Devil will be played by Mark Metcalf. He appeared at McCarter Theatre in "The Tooth of Crime" and "The Tempest," and has appeared with the New York Shakespeare Festival. He was also in the film, "Animal House."

The Narrator will be Elisabeth Pederson, a graduate of the University who was active as an actor, dancer and choreographer during her student years. She is now in "Drums in the Night" at the Horace Mann Theatre, New York, and was a resident member of the Yale Ensemble Company last summer.

Kiku Loomis will dance the Princess. She is currently a student in the Theatre and Dance program. Others in the cast will be Carmen Baker, Kit Boyatt, Arlene Calhoun, B.B. Conger, Howard Gordon, Cathy Lane and Stuart Tsubota.

PERFORMANCE ART SET
At University. There will be an evening of Performance Art at Princeton University on Sunday, April 24, at 8 in 185 Nassau Street. Iona Granet, Vanyne Green, and Martha Wilson, three New York artists, will perform.

Performance Art has its precedents in the early 20th century avant-garde theatre and the 1960's Happenings. It is expressed through narrative, dance, gesture, slides, film, costumes, props, and music. This will be the first such event at Princeton.

The three artists have been selected on the basis of the high quality of their work and the diversity of their approaches to the medium. The

CONCERT SCHEDULED

For Young String Players.

The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra's String Training Ensemble, with Portia Sonnenfeld, conductor, will present its annual Spring Concert on Sunday, May 1, at 2 in Edith Memorial Chapel, The Lawrenceville School. Admission is free.

Student composer Istvan Feher, age 11, will premiere his "Fantasy for Violin and Strings." Istvan is a member of the first violin section of the String Training Ensemble.

Mrs. Sonnenfeld will also conduct the Suite from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Jean Baptiste Lully, Divergence in Major by Leopold Mozart, Overture to "La Rosaura" by A. Scarlatti, and Psalm and Fugue for String Orchestra by Alan Hovhaness. The Ensemble's 10-year old concert mistress, Denise Stillwell, will be heard in solo passages in both the Feher and Mozart works.

The String Training Ensemble offers professional guidance to young musicians in grades three and up. They rehearse weekly to learn the fundamentals of music, acquire the skills of ensemble playing and broaden their orchestral repertoire.

FLUTE SOLOIST TO PLAY

In Final JCC Concert.

This Saturday evening at 8 the Jewish Community Center Concert Series will conclude the season with a concert featuring a performance by Carol Winenc on the flute.

This will be a premiere appearance in the Trenton area by this prize-winning flute soloist. She has participated in many music festivals, including the ones at Marlboro and Spoleto, and has been featured as soloist in the mostly Mozart, Medea Bach, Santa Fe, Newport and Cape Islands Chamber Music Festivals.

She was guest artist for four consecutive seasons in Lincoln Center's "Great Performers" Series. As winner of the prestigious Naumburg Prize, Carol Winenc recorded a solo album which was cited by Stereo Review as "Recording of Special Merit."

A coffee and cake reception to meet the musicians is included in the $6 - $7.50 admission fee. There is plenty of free lighted parking on the premises at 999 Lower Ferry Road, Ewing Township.

IT'S NEW To Us

FINE DECORATING
Service of Arthur's Interiors. Spring is a time for new beginnings, a time when most homeowners cannot resist the urge to make necessary or cosmetic improvements to their homes. A splash of paint, a few pieces of furniture reupholstered, a new carpet, perhaps some handsome new window shades or a major renovation project can give a house a totally new look while increasing its value considerably.

According to two merchants on Route 1 in Lawrenceville, due to higher interest rates many people are deciding to stay in their present homes rather than risk the high cost of moving. Jacuzzi's, hot tubs, and solar sunhouses are the specialty of the Energy Warehouse as well as hand-some passive solar additions.

Next door Arthur's Interiors offers fine decorating services to its customers featuring wall coverings, window treatments, carpeting, a huge selection of fabrics brought directly from the mills. The renovation and decorating ideas available at these two shops will assist homeowners in making their homes much more attractive and energy efficient this spring.

Mr. Arthur Hutkin, owner of Arthur's Interiors, has steadfastly adhered to a policy of caring and personalized service for his clients for the past thirty years. The fact that once they have come to Arthur's, they keep coming is attributed to the unusual service rendered there. It is not unusual for Mr. Hutkin to go to five or six houses a week

TOTAL DESIGN SERVICES: Putting his products into the right environment is important to Mr. Arthur Hutkin, owner of Arthur's Interiors on Route 1 in Lawrenceville where he and his staff, including Mrs. Barbara MacGuire, a designer, assure customers of personalized service. Fabrics and reupholstery, wall coverings, carpets, and window styling are part of the total design services found here. An exclusive new "design-a-blind" service, hand-painted custom designs on blinds, is being offered.

To help his clients mix the right color of paint, hang a window shade or a set of drapes properly, design a lighting system (which he does not sell) or do a number of things to help achieve a harmonious total look.

Many of his first-time customers are incredulous that he will take back rolls of wallpaper, if it does not look right after some was hung, or a large bolt of fabric which somehow misses, even though a few yards have been cut off. One customer interviewed said that Arthur had discovered that she was overcharged for an item by a small amount a year after the fact. She received a check in the mail a year later and has been coming back ever since.

Customer Satisfaction. The positive attitude that a customer must be satisfied no matter what, is appealing to Arthur's clients -- especially those who hail from New York where the pace does not allow such patience. In fact, he believes that the negatives usually turn into positives when it comes to marketing.

"There is no ulterior motive here, just good business. I'm a consumer, and I know how I like to be treated. I find it easy. When a person becomes our account or she has a right to personalized service," explains Mr. Hutkin, who is told by the wholesale trade that his shop is one of the busiest in the northeast. Arthur has been known to refuse to upholster a sofa because he just felt it was not right for the room. His client, who had insisted on covering a large sofa with yellow ultrasuede, called him a few months later after it had spotted badly and said, "I'll listen to you next time."

Arthur's Interiors is a family operation where Mr. Hutkin's wife, Ethel, tends to the bookkeeping, and his daughter, Mrs. Susan Fast, who is presently on maternity leave, is an experienced decorator. Her husband, Mr. John Fast, and her brother, Michael Hutkin, are in charge of production. The shop tries to control their inventory prices by buying their fabrics directly from the mills, thus avoiding the middleman cost. Decorators and interior designers use the shop's vast selection of samples as well.

The atmosphere here is unhurried and pleasant. A large oval table was designed by Arthur for the front of the shop so people can come in, sit down, and look through books in a leisurely fashion, perhaps enjoying a cup of coffee or afternoon tea.

Take Those Samples Home. Arthur's Interiors encourages people to take home their samples. It is important to the company that the final upholstery fabrics by the major fabric houses such as Schumacher, Greef Duralee, and Waverly. Wall-coverings by Wall-tex, Sanitas, van Luit, Katzenback and Warren, most of those found in New York's D and D building, are available here. Carpet samples by Aldon and Patcraft plus a new Berber line by Stratton can be coordinated with the upholstery fabrics and the vast assortment of fabric for draperies seen in the shop.

Mr. Hutkin is especially proud of his window styling department where verticals, woven wood shades, mini-blinds in aluminum and wood and handsome macramés are on display. Pleated romans, traditional shades and balloon shades are popular.

Arthur's is featuring a creative new idea in window shades. Hand-painted blinds with a logo for companies, or flowers taken from fabric or wall covering are painted right onto the blinds, which may look plain or non-descript otherwise. The effect is terrific and found exclusively here. The "design-a-blind" service is new and welcomes suggestions from the consumer. One newly-married couple had the music of their favorite song, "Send in the Clowns" painted on their shade while a large colorful football helmet lives up a young man's bedroom. Balloons, rainbows, and abstract designs will lend color and interest to any room where blinds are appropriate.

ENERGY SAVINGS

From Energy Warehouse. Mr. Richard Davis of the Energy Warehouse agrees that the renovation market is very active. What started as a small business marketing solar heat products on Moore Street in Princeton has mushroomed into a large, successful contracting business and warehouse full of energy efficient products on Route 1 in Lawrenceville. Mr. Davis, now in his fourth year of business with his partner, Mr. Lawrence Bailey, attributes their growth to the diversity of the products and services found at the Energy Warehouse.

The combined talents of Mr. Davis, a solar specialist, and Mr. Bailey, a builder, have brought to this area a specialized service, renovation with the cost efficiency of solar energy. The Energy Warehouse will not only make a home more beautiful with a passive solar addition, bringing the beauty of an outdoor environment right into the home, but it will cost less than a traditional addition and provide an

New Water Heater from Nassau Oil

A virtually unlimited hot water supply and drastically reduced hot water heating costs are available with a new hot water heating system being offered by Nassau Oil/Whaleco, Route 206. The efficient new system allows owners to run the washing machine, dishwasher and shower simultaneously -- with no shortage of hot water.

In the past, a huge hot water supply demanded a large energy expenditure. The new system can actually reduce hot water heating costs by as much as 60% in the summer and from 25% to 40% in the winter.

The latest energy saving technology enables the Circle Combustion heater to save energy throughout the hot water heating and storage cycle. Most ordinary boiler units must be kept at a high temperature 24 hours a day. Whether the hot water is used or not, the boiler has to come on continuously to reheat the water to compensate for heat lost up the flue or to the cellar.

The Circle Combustion System uses only one-fifth of the energy required by ordinary boilers. The secret to this extraordinary high recovery rate and high operating efficiency is a unique heat exchanger. It dissipates heat quickly, turning cold water hot almost instantly.

The hot water flows to the top of the boiler where it's ready to use the minute it's needed. The system uses less fuel to heat the water, and saves fuel by reducing the boiler water temperature. Nassau Oil/Whaleco can easily integrate the system into any oil and gas operation.

SOLAR POWER: Mr. Richard Davis, co-owner of the Energy Warehouse, offers a vast array of products which not only enhance the beauty of the home but offer creative ways to capture comfortable and cost efficient solar energy. Passive solar greenhouses and sunspaces; Jacuzzis, hot tubs, wood and coal burning stoves; window quilts and film; ventilating fans; skylights; and custom-made doors and windows are all on display in the shop's ample showroom on Route 1 in Lawrenceville.

Mr. Davis, mindful of the ongoing demand for alternative energy technology and knowledge, offers a variety of products -- all of which can be seen in his ample floor space. These include cast iron wood and coal stoves; all kinds of efficient heaters; solar panels; skylights; wind generators; thermal windows and doors; window quilts and shades; ventilating fans; stove pipe; insulation products; and even bagged coal. For those who have not yet invested in a wood burning stove, the Energy Warehouse has a wide selection of excellent prices this spring. A renewed interest in replacement doors and windows and roof fans which will carry the summer's hot air out of the house is keen at this time of year, but perhaps the most notable addition to the shop's inventory is the fabulous Jacuzzi.

New Jacuzzi Line. The company recently acquired the Jacuzzi whirlpool line as an outgrowth of the hundreds of passive solar greenhouses which it installs in this area yearly. What could be a better place to use a Jacuzzi all year long than in a greenhouse filled with flowers and plants?

Unlike most products, the price of the Jacuzzi whirlpool has actually gone down this year. The spas may be installed right in a bathroom to replace an old fashioned tub or in any room in the house which will accommodate a few splashes of water, or better yet outside in the garden or at a poolside. Prices begin at $1,900. The acrylic fiberglass spas come "pre-plumbed," that is, with all equipment and Skylight Popular. Another source of solar energy is the skylight which seems to be popping up on roofs all over town. Velux, Insula Dome, Wasco, and Paeco roof windows are all on display at the warehouse in a variety of sizes, shapes, and operational features.

Marvin doors and windows offer a new concept in this market, where so much heat is lost. Mr. Davis believes that this brand is far superior to any other. "Super energy efficient" and beautifully crafted with wood frames, the windows and doors are all custom made within ten days. Rather than being inhibited by the pre-fabricated sizes, this company will make a window of any size to accommodate the customer at competitive prices.

The Energy Warehouse practices what it preaches. The solar spaces installed in the southern corner of the store, plus the hot tub which bubbles all day long at 103 degrees, as well as the solar panels and tubing installed to catch the sun, account for most of the shop's heating. The owners will gladly demonstrate the uses and storage of solar heating, which can be confusing to a layperson. The hot tubs come in cedar, redwood, even mahogany and can be placed outside or inside.

Warm weather promises to come soon and people will begin to think of how to stay cool rather than warm. The Energy Warehouse has some fine products for sale which will make these months more comfortable, such as the Hunter, or Sexton and Whitcombe ceiling and ventilating fans, the latter being quite well priced.

For those lucky enough to have a pool but who find the cost of heating it exorbitant, go to this shop and purchase the new solar pool heating system from Sunworks. Four by 10 foot panels or collectors, a Sun Symm control module, and a solar sensor are part of a relatively simple system which warms the water in a pool so that it can be used six to eight weeks longer than the usual three months.

Other services found at the unique store include terrace, porch and deck work and the masonry work necessary to install a solar system; storm windows and doors; and awnings and a removable window film which will deflect heat off windows in the summer.

ART In Princeton

SCHOLARLY EXHIBIT
Of Rape of the Sabines.
There are many ways to look at a painting. For most of us, considering art is a relatively uncomplicated process. For the more scholarly, however, examining a painting is frequently a complex, highly intellectualized experience that assumes a good deal of prior knowledge and evidences concerns which are often essentially technical.

The exhibition that accompanies the painting, "The Rape of the Sabines" by Nicholas Poussin, which is on display at the Princeton University Art Museum, presents an unusual opportunity to share in an in-depth study of a major work of art. The exhibit, which consists of the painting and a series of didactic panels including an X-Ray of the painting, photographs of comparative works and analytical diagrams, explores the noted work from historical, literary and technical points of view.

In the process of studying the series of illustrated book and white panels the viewer has a chance to learn something about the story that inspired the large (157 x 203 cm.), dramatically developed canvas in conjunction with a good deal of precise mechanical analysis of both the complex structure and the technical aspects of this famous painting.

Although this graphic display of scholarship seems a bit labored at times, it is useful not only as a guide to understanding the painting, but as a description of the type of thought and analysis that frequently goes into the consideration of a work of art.

From the Louvre. This exhibition was first shown in the Louvre in 1979. It was organized by Israeli artist Avigdor Arikha as part of a series of displays that focused attention on a single work or a group of works from that museum's collection. Before it was shown in Princeton, it was on display at the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, Texas. This marks the first time that Poussin's best known painting has been exhibited outside of France.

The painting from the Louvre is accompanied by an exhibition of "French Drawings from the Sixteenth through Eighteenth Centuries" from the museum's permanent collection. The extensive display includes the work of such well known artists as David, Callot, Boucher and Fragonard as well as drawings by lesser known artists who produced works of equal beauty.

Although drawing is often considered the most simple and direct art form, many of these works are as complex as paintings. There are also simpler, more casual sketches in chalks, inks, watercolor and mixed media. Subject matter is also varied. Figure studies, portraits, landscape and work in classical, religious and genre themes, rendered in several styles and varied media include finished presentation pieces, sketches for larger works, sketches for engravings and illustrations, and copies after old masters.

This is a demanding collection. Because of the fineness of detail, variety of elegant, often intricate technique and complexity of subject and style there is little room here for casual viewing. Instead, looking at this display requires effort and concentration. In exchange, there is a good deal of viewing pleasure to be had.

Thomas George at Gallery of Fine Art. Thomas George uses color to make his statement. In the latest collection of this artist's work, oils, pastels and gouache are used to create complex paintings that are richly developed without the use of a single line. Instead, a sense of space, movement and great depth is created from incredibly rich color overlays and active tonal relationships. Surfaces often appear almost three-dimensional because of an almost voluptuous application of color.

The included works are given names such as "The Ridge," "Sea Stones," "Dawn at Red Hill" and "White Mountains." And, while there is no specific imagery or even abstracted forms, there is a

Losses End Title Hopes for Baseball and Lacrosse Teams But Both Heavy and Lightweight Crews Keep Theirs Alive

With any kind of luck, the Princeton heavyweight crew will be rowing on the waters of Lake Carnegie this Saturday, against Harvard and MIT, and Sunday, against Yale.

That is hardly news, since rowing is what crews are supposed to do—come rain, or sleet, or hail, or even hell and high water. The real news, then, is that last Saturday the crew did not row, not just because of the heavy rains but more because of a staggering runoff that made the lake seem more like a swirling river.

"When a lake looks more like a river, you know something's not right," said Tiger coach Larry Gluckman, surveying the cold, brown waters that were rushing past within 20 feet of the boathouse. "We closed the lake because we couldn't guarantee a fair course, because the wind was against the flow creating wakes and roll, and because," he added, mindful of the University of New Hampshire oarsman who drowned when his boat swamped in cold waters earlier this month, "we didn't want to get anyone too sick."

So, instead of rowing they stood around soaking up warmth from the old steam boiler in the back of the boathouse and talked about the oddity of having a crew race postponed by weather. Princeton's chances in eastern rowing circles, and the three skinny Yale kids who were tapping a keg of beer in the rain in the middle of the boathouse parking lot.

"I can't remember it ever happening before," said Frank Bozarth, who is serving his eighth year as boatman for the Orange and Black. "I've seen higher water than this but it's been during the week, not on a race day." Bozarth pointed to a line drawn on a boathouse wall 18 inches above the ground. That was the high water mark on September 28, 1971. Last Saturday the water was still 24 inches or so below that.

Memory Lane. "It's not as frequent as you would think," said Fred Schoch, whose time of service in the boathouse exceeds that of anyone else on the Princeton staff. Schoch's father, Dutch, coached crew from 1938 until his death in 1970. Fred was the cox on a four-oarsman boat that competed in the Olympic trials in 1960. He later rowed as a heavyweight at the University of Washington, and then began teaching and coaching.

He returned to Princeton two years ago to coach the women. This year he works in the admission office (as of Saturday not even he knew whether or not Brooke Shields had been admitted) and continues to serve as a volunteer crew coach, working with the third team varsity. "Rowing is in my blood," Schoch said, and he recalled vague memories of other races being postponed. But still, this was remarkable.

By this time on Saturday, Princeton had expected to have some insight on the quality of its heavyweight crew, and how it would fare in the races this weekend against Harvard and Yale. The test was to have been provided by Penn, a strongly regarded crew which was making its inaugural race of the season. But the treacherous waters postponed the test on Saturday, scheduled for Sunday by athletes from both schools prevented racing that day, and so the regatta was held late Monday afternoon.

Again the weather was not very accommodating, with unseasonable cold, but the lake was calm, and the Tiger varsity oarsmen rowed a fine race, beating Penn by three seconds with a time of 5:58.1. Columbia was a distant third at 6:28.7.

A ferocious start gave the Quakers an early lead, but by 500 meters the Tigers had a one seat advantage. They stayed ahead the rest of the way, despite several challenges by the Red and Blue.

In other races, the varsity, JV and second freshman boats all triumphed, while the first freshman and fourth varsity were beaten.

One thing was certain about the results: They did not alter Coach Gluckman's belief that these were just preliminary tests and that the final examinations would be at the Sprints and the IRA.

What about the Yalies? The Yalies drinking beer in the rain in the boathouse parking lot were another story. They were lightweight rowers who were scheduled to row against Penn and Columbia in Philadelphia. The waters of the Schuylkill were worse than the waters of the Delaware. The coaches there called Princeton, to see if their meet could be relocated. At that point Carnegie was open and the teams were told to come ahead.

Meanwhile, the women crews from Syracuse, Northeastern, and Penn tried the same strategy and they, too, descended on Carnegie, only to find it closed by the time they arrived. By the end of the day the parking lot and boathouse were filled with about three dozen boats. The only ones on the lake were some canoes, shooting the miniature rapids that the storm had created under the Dinky bridge.

Princeton's lightweight crew had relatively clear sailing on Lake Cayuga in Ithaca—just a little bit of rain, a headwind above and a favorable current below, and about an inch and a half of snow on the ground the morning of the race. The Tigers won decisively, defeating Rutgers by 10 seconds and Cornell by 22.

The margin of victory was astonishing, given the shaky start of the Tiger lightweight and the wavering hand at the rudder as the boat negotiated the two turns on the Cayuga course. All three of the coxswains at the varsity are sophomores and steering has been a concern of Coach Gary Kilpatrick throughout the season.

said Kilpatrick, who indicated he might juggle his oarsmen's assignments for the Penn race. "It's nice when you're able to take guys from the 2-V (the second string) and get them to make the 1-V go. I'm still looking for the ultimate combination."

And Kilpatrick's opponents should be looking out for Princeton.

—Richard K. Rein

TIGER TEAMS SCRAMBLE
Because of Rainouts. If the crews can't row on Lake Carnegie don't expect many other teams to compete either.

Last weekend Princeton's baseball team was rained out of its doubleheader with Harvard, and the track team cancelled altogether its planned meet with Yale, after six events had been completed. The one team that did compete in Princeton over the weekend may now wish that it hadn't. The Tiger lacrosse team, which just a week ago was harboring hopes of another confrontation with Cornell for the Ivy League title, instead saw its record drop to 1-2 in the league and 3-4 overall.

The Orange and Black lost to Brown, 8-4, after suffering a midweek setback against Penn, 13-10. The loss to the Quakers was not unexpected; the loss to Brown was a surprise and that much greater a disappointment.

At Franklin Field Princeton rallied twice to keep the Penn game in reach. The Quakers jumped to a 4-0 lead after the first quarter. Then Bob Flippin and Paul Hollis, who each had three goals in the game, and Mike Wiczorek and Gerry Roman scored to reduce the margin to two at the half. Princeton tied the score at 6 all, before falling behind again, 12-8. Penn didn't put a back on the game until 51 seconds left.

The Tigers let Brown race off to a 4-1 lead after the first quarter, but this time no rally materialized. Brown led 4-1 at the half and held that margin, despite being outshot by Princeton, 28-19. Roman and Flippin both scored twice for Princeton. The Tigers will face Harvard Saturday at 2 on Finney Field.

which will be on the road this weekend and next at Navy and Cornell, finally resumed action on Sunday, with a doubleheader against Dartmouth on a sun-drenched, but still water-logged Clarke Field.

True to recent form, coach Tom O'Connell's nine managed to win just one game out of four, losing both ends of the Dartmouth twinbill, and splitting a pair at Harvard on Monday. This left the Tigers with an overall record of 15-2, and 3-1 in the Eastern League.

The lone victory was provided by Steve Kordish, who turned in his first solid performance of the spring with a two-hit shutout in the first game against Harvard. Freshman Marc Goldenberg led the Tigers on offense, scoring the game's first run in the third, and walloping a bases-loaded double in the fourth to drive in three more. He later scored on a single by R.A. Labell. Freshman Dan Arendas knocked in the final run of the game for a 6-0 triumph.

In the night cap, Tiger bats were silenced by the Crimson's Charlie Marchese who almost duplicated Kordish's feat with a 6-1 triumph, allowing just four hits along the way. Arendas started for Princeton and suffered his third loss, mainly due to poor control. He walked eight batters. Labell's triple in the sixth led to the Orange and Black's only run.

On Sunday, the Tigers chose one of the few beautiful days in six weeks around here to play possibly their worst baseball. After leading on two different occasions, they managed to lose the first game, 8-7, when they could not successfully complete one of the simplest plays in the sport.

With the score tied 7-7 in the final inning, two out and a Dartmouth runner on second, the Green's Pete Lavery hit a slow bouncer right back to relief pitcher Scott LaForest.

His toss to first was low, but catchable, but could not be handled by Tom Kates. It rolled far enough away to allow the runner to come around from second with the winning run.

One of the umpires felt so sorry for Princeton that he made one of the worst calls in the history of Clarke Field, declaring a Tiger batter safe at first instead of becoming the game-ending out. It mattered not, however, as Labell's line drive to right was caught for the final out. The loss overshadowed some fine hitting by the Tigers, but fielding by both teams was pretty bad.

Princeton had no such pretensions of winning the second game, spotting the visitors a 5-0 lead with more sloppy play. It managed to score three runs later on, but never caught up, and lost, 5-3. Bill Beaulieu started the first game and Ed Aulisi the second, with Scott LaForest called in to relieve both.

Fate smiled on the Tigers earlier last week when a ninth inning rally last Wednesday gave it a come-from-behind win over Villanova, 5-3. The two-out rally was aided by a walk and a two-base error by the Wildcats. Steve Kordish subdued Villanova, striking out nine in nine innings.

BUMPY START
For PHS Stuckmen. The time for rosy predictions is over for Princeton High lacrosse coach Peter Larsen. Larsen, starting his first year at the helm, had commented before the start of the season that he felt his team could win every game on its schedule. Any coach who did not feel that way, he added, had no business coaching.

Asked if he had any comment on how he felt his Little Tigers would do in upcoming games against Hunterdon Central this Wednesday and perennial power Montclair at home this Saturday (1:30), Snyder replied, "Not really. Not after our first two performances."

The Little Tigers were beaten in back-to-back contests last week, dropping its opener to Columbia, 10-4, and bowing the next day to Westfield, 5-2.

Two things have to be eliminated, Snyder reported, if PHS is to win. "We have to eliminate our mental mistakes and work on getting the ball out of our own end," he said.

The game with Columbia was close until the fourth period. With eight minutes to go, the Little Tigers trailed the favored visitors, 6-4, and had a man up. A good position to make a run for it, Snyder figured.

What happened instead, is that the Little Tigers made a costly series of mental errors, according to Snyder, and were outscored, 4-0, in those final eight minutes. Junior attack Chris Carrington scored twice for PHS, while Matt Kinnan and Tony Alexander added single goals for the losers.

Great Expectations. Losing to Columbia is one thing. The next day, Snyder said, "We went up to Westfield kind of expecting to walk all over them. They took it to us—right to our face."

Not that PHS didn't have enough problems on defense. Ken Varvel, a tested veteran, was sick and missed the game. Alec Hoke, another veteran, was hurt in the third quarter and had to leave.

"Two-thirds of my defense was gone," said Snyder. Then when Westfield began to stall, PHS had to rush the ball, Snyder recalled, and in its haste, made mistakes. "The main problem was we couldn't get the ball from the defensive end to the offensive end; we had trouble with our transition game," said Snyder.

Carrington scored again and Chris Gabrielsen scored to account for both PHS goals. The up-shot of the rocky start was a tempering of Snyder's early optimism. "I'm not," he said, "going to take any team lightly after Westfield."

PHS STILL STRUGGLING
On Baseball Diamond. Playing baseball at a .333 percentage isn't going to win any league titles and that is the best the laboring Princeton High Baseball team accomplished last week.

The Little Tigers started off on the right foot with a 2-1 win over Hopewell Valley. Dino D'Angelo spinning a three-hitter and driving in all three PHS runs.

On Thursday, visiting Notre Dame capitalized on some ragged base running by the Little Tigers and some inopportune walks by pitcher Matt Tamasi to fashion a 6-2 victory. PHS then fell below .500 for the week when it was not able to spoil the varsity debut of Trenton High's 16-year-old pitcher Dan Onorati.

In fact, made his first start a memorable one, as he limited PHS to three hits in fashioning an 8-3 victory. The Little Tigers will be busy this week -- weather permitting -- playing host to South Hunterdon this Wednesday and Montgomery on Tuesday. Both games have a 3:45 start. In between PHS will be at Hightstown Thursday and Ewing on Monday in a pair of Colonial Valley Conference league games.

Against the visiting Tornados from Trenton High, PHS scored its only earned run of the game in the first when D'Angelo walked, stole second and rode home on Ralph Carnevale's double.

In the fourth, PHS lofts the bases on a walk and two THS errors. One by Onorati was a wild throw to third which allowed Ralph Carnevale to score Princeton's second run.

The rally fizzled when Mickey Carnevale was thrown out at the plate on an attempted double steal. Mark Shapiro's pop punt was caught in front of the plate, and pitcher John Sherin's bouncer forced Jason Petrone at third.

After scoring three in the first inning, Trenton put the game on ice with four more runs.

runs off Sherin. Two singles, a walk and another single sent two runs across and a two-out dropped fly ball by outfielder Doug Thompson allowed two more runners to score.

2 RBIs for Carnevale. Ralph Carnevale drove in both PHS runs in the loss to Notre Dame with a single and a double. D'Angelo, first baseman Chris Hoover and Carnevale, the second, third and fourth batters in the lineup, each had two hits to account for the seven yielded by Irish hurler Len Navarro. Thompson had the seventh.

PHS hurler Tamasi twice walked the eighth and ninth batter in the Irish lineup and it cost him the game in the fourth when the visitors went on to execute a double steal and score four runs before the inning was over.

His teammates failed him on the base path. In the third, Hoover and Carnevale each belted their second hit of the game but Hoover was picked off attempting to reach third on Carnevale's single and Carnevale was thrown out attempting to steal. Three innings later Carnevale was doubled off after Mickey Carnevale had lined out to center field. "We took ourselves out of those innings," said PHS coach Ed Beacham.

Beacham said after the game that he had tried to cross up the hard-hitting Irish club by starting Tamasi whom he said "throws a lot of junk."

"We knew these kids were going to hit the ball and I figured if we threw someone at them who throws a little slower and a lot of junk it might throw them off because all they've seen are fast ball pitchers."

Thompson started Princeton's last inning by getting on base on an error by the ND third baseman. But Navarro bore down and got pinch-hitter Joe O'Grady on a fly to center and retired Gavin Hulsman and D'Angelo in order to seal the win, his second in two starts. He struck out seven.

Beacham cited D'Angelo for his fine defensive play at

Ken Bowman Replacement Named

The latest and possibly the last hole in Princeton's football coaching staff has been plugged with the announcement this week that David Barton, currently an assistant varsity football coach at Colgate, has been hired.

Barton will have responsibility for the Tigers' offensive line, replacing Ken Bowman, who left last month to accept a coaching position with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League. Bowman is the third out of six assistant coaches on Frank Navarro's staff to depart since last season ended.

Barton has coached at Colgate University since 1978, handling responsibilities in both the offensive line and linebacker areas. Prior to going to the Hamilton, N.Y. school, he coached the offensive line at Amherst College from 1974 to 1977. Both at Amherst and at Colgate, Barton had coaching responsibilities in lacrosse and baseball and his experience on the high school level includes football coaching duties at Fulton High School in New York and at Clifton High School in Clifton, N.J.

He graduated cum laude in 1967 with a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education from Ithaca College. He was a standout athlete at the Ithaca, N.Y. school, lettering in football, basketball, and baseball and captaining all three teams his senior year. He was selected for the National League Baseball draft four times.

The Little Tigers will try to keep its record intact this week at the expense of Hightstown Thursday, powerful Moorestown Friday and Ewing on Monday. All three matches are away.

Although his number one and two singles players, Jacob and Mark Leschly, had been given the day off to participate in a Middle States Tournament, PHS still had no trouble with Trenton. Safi Bahcall, Keith Goldfield and Andy Phillips all won their singles matches easily, Bahcall winning 6-1, 6-1.

In doubles, Tim Kingston learned with David Prockop to win the number one doubles, 6-1, 6-1. Sophomore Matthew Mack and Andy Fillo captured the second doubles, 6-1, 6-0.

PHS was at full strength for Notre Dame. Jacob Leschly, one of the top high school players in the state, dispatched John Singer, 6-1, 6-0, while younger brother Mark, shedding the opening match jitters he had displayed against Hopewell, was just as effective in the number two singles, posting an easy 6-0, 6-0, victory over Bill Elek. Bahcall won, 6-2, 6-2.

In doubles action, Goldfield and Michael Elliot triumphed, 6-2, 6-0, and Phillips-Kingston Friday--both by 5-0 scores.

coasted past Chris Walton and Chad Casamento, 6-1, 6-0.

"We look strong in the doubles where we have three seniors and a junior," commented coach Joe Diefenbach. "We have a lot of experience there."

Balcal, he added, is a good steady player at the number three singles. Couple that with the dominating play of the Leschly brothers and it seems as sure as anything can be in the uncertain world of sports that PHS will be a strong contender for a state title.

PHS IS A-1 VICTOR
In Tennis. It lost its first set of the season but the Princeton High tennis team had little difficulty in winning its fourth match of the season Monday, handling Lawrence, 4-1.

The Leschly brothers, Jacob and Mark, won the number one and two singles easily, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2. In doubles play, Keith Goldman and Rob Dunham won, 6-1, 6-1, while Andy Phillips and Tim Kingston claimed the number two doubles, 6-2, 6-3.

Princeton's lone setback came in the number three singles where Sofi Balcal lost to the Cardinals' Raleigh Chiu, 6-3, 6-4.

HUN LOSES TWO
In Lacrosse. One tournament and two games into its present season, the Hun School lacrosse team is still looking for its first win. Coach Dave Faus thinks he knows the answer.

"The way I look at it," said Faus, "it is just a matter of putting all the pieces together. It doesn't matter who we play; if we can put it together, we can win every one of our remaining games. The potential is there."

PHS LACROSSE CO-CAPTAINS: Sylvia Greenspan (left) and Rita Sweeney are co-captains of the 2-0 Princeton High girls lacrosse team which defeated Summit, 8-4, Monday and opened with a 26-3 victory over Columbia.

The pieces did not fall together last week. Hun lost a 10-2 decision to Montclair-Kimberly when it fell apart in the final period and then bowed, 9-2, to Bridgewater East two days later.

Hun will try to get into the win column this Wednesday afternoon when it hosts Fair Lawn High—described by Faus as the toughest opponent on the schedule this year. "Definitely."

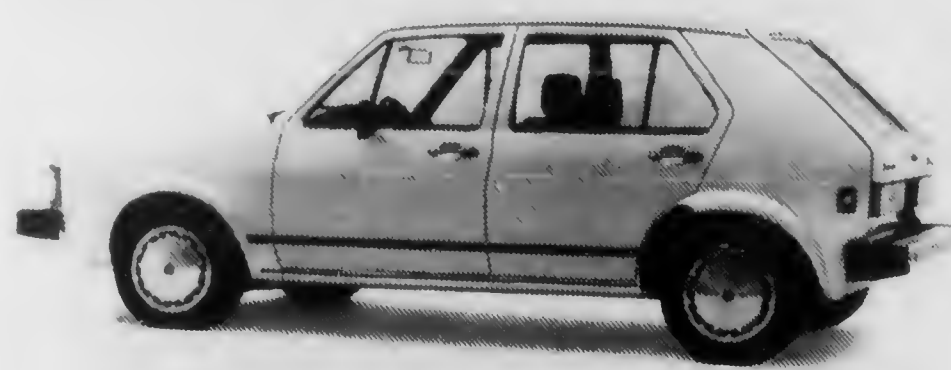

Then it will start a series of games against prep school opponents, starting with Rutgers Prep on Monday at Rutgers.

The game with Montclair was still up for grabs midway in the third period with Hun trailing, 4-2. Hun picked this time to fall apart, said Faus, "and they just kind of exploded." Penalties, he added, played a factor in Hun's collapse.

Craig Secrest scored for Hun and then had an assist on a goal by Chris Goodyear.

Faus said beforehand that Bridgewater would be a formidable opponent and the visitors wasted little time in proving it, scoring in the first 30 seconds. "That didn't do our confidence any good," recalled Faus. "They were noisy and physical and we were pretty intimidated."

Hun goalie Dave Peary played well in front of the net, stopping at least 30 shots, Faus said. Goodyear and Wes Lofgren scored for Hun.

"We showed some moments of playing some good lacrosse," summed up Faus, "but they were outweighed by mental breakdowns."

HUN NINE WINS PAIR
As Stam Gets No. 3. The Hun School baseball team won two games last week to raise its record to 3-2, and pitcher Pete Stam won both to raise his to 3-0.

Hun will try to improve its record further with games this week against Trenton High, Ewing and Princeton Day School.

The 3-2 victory over rival Peddie Friday was a typical Stam game, commented Hun coach Bill McQuade. "He threw a lot up to the plate to try and hit the ball, he hit it and we caught it," said McQuade.

Stam, who serves up an assortment of off-speed and junk pitches rather than try to overpower batters struck out four and walked one.

McQuade observed that the rubber-arm junior has a perfect attitude for a pitcher. "He never gets down on himself."

As it was, Hun had to scrape for its runs because Peddie hurler P.J. Horgan was just as effective as Stam, limiting Hun to three safeties.

Hun scored two in the third on a Barry Landis single, sacrifice, fielder's choice, a steal of second and third by Paul Pintella, an infield hit by Marty Summers and a wild pitch. Summers dashed for home and made it even though the ball had only gotten away some 10 feet from the Peddie catcher. "Speed one that run," said McQuade.

The Falcons tied the game at 2 in the seventh on an error by Hun's Lorenzo Mendoza and a pinch-hit bloop single.

In the bottom of the seventh, Pedro Brache led off for Hun with a walk. He sacrificed to second by Mendoza and advanced to third on a fielder's choice. After Landis had walked, the two pulled off a double steal, sending Brache across with the winning run.

"We were able to pull it out without hitting the ball hard," said McQuade.

12 Hits for Hun. The 12-run, 12-hit victory over Pingry earlier, marked the first time this season that Hun hit the ball well, commented McQuade.

Leading the attack for Hun were Chris Hunninghake who had three hits in four at bats, including a two-run triple in the first inning when Hun scored three runs, and drove in four runs, and Martin Summers, who rapped two hits, stole three bases, scored three runs and batted in two. "They both had an outstanding day," said McQuade.

Pingry raked Hun starter Rich Stout for four runs in the first, taking advantage of some Hun errors to plate three unearned runs. When the score read 7-6, Hun, after three innings "I thought it was going to be one of those 20 to 18 games," recalled McQuade.

In the third when Hun was scoring four runs, Stout was hit on the elbow by a pitch and had to leave the game. Stam came on in relief and shut Pingry down the rest of the game on two hits.

WINNERS NAMED
In Skillman Bike Race.

Mary Martin of the Century Riding Club of Princeton won the third bike event in the N.J. Ladies TT League held last week at Skillman.

Martin's time was 15 minutes, 03 seconds. Two other bike riders from the Century RC finished second and third. Carol Tate was clocked in 15 minutes, 11 seconds and Lesley Bienen in 15 minutes, 23 seconds.

Martin leads the point competition with six points, while Tate heads the handicap competition. The next event, 25 miles in length, will be held Sunday at Allentown.

HOPEWELL OUTCLASSED

By PHS Track Team. For a team that is supposed to have trouble living up to its achievements the past two years, the Princeton High School track team is off to an impressive start.

Last week coach Marc Anderson's Little Tigers swept aside Hopewell Valley, as Stephen Fletcher and P.J. Young combined to capture five firsts.

Considered the premiere high school hurdler in the state, Fletcher won his specialty, the 400 meter hurdles, in 60.5 and came back to win both the 100 and 200 meter dashes. His times were 11.46 and 23.47.

Young spread-eagled the opposition in the shot put and discus. His winning put of 52-3½ was 11 feet farther than teammate Ken McKellar's second-place effort of 41-3¼ (PHS swept the event) and he won discus by more than 15 feet. Young won with a toss of 133-9, while Dave Astatt of HV was second with 116-1½.

Also capturing firsts for PHS were Eddie Rice in the long jump, Mike Schwab in the 400, brother Steve Schwab in the 800, Bill Bushnell in the 110 hurdles, Mike Bender and Eric Rapp of PHS tied for first place in the pole vault, and the Little Tigers also won the mile relay 3:40.6 to 3:46.1.

The Little Tigers will compete in the annual Mercer Relays this Wednesday and will host Ewing Tuesday afternoon in a conference dual meet.

PHS ROUTED TWICE
In Softball. "I have my thesaurus out looking up synonyms for crushed, annihilated, hammered, routed," said Princeton High softball coach Doug Snyder this week, after his girls softball team was routed twice last week, first by Notre Dame, 25-0, and earlier by Hopewell Valley, 27-5. It was the Little Tigers' third loss without a win.

Earlier, Snyder had predicted his team would win one or two this season, but added: "I don't know if even that prediction is going to come true. We're going to take it one game at a time."

"I'm doing my best to keep us all together but it gets difficult at times."

Princeton will entertain South Hunterdon this Wednesday afternoon and then will be at Hightstown Thursday and Ewing on Monday.

The game with Notre Dame was ended after the fifth inning when the 15-run rule was invoked. The rule brings to a halt any game in which a team has a 15-run or more advantage after five innings.

The Irish led 19-0 after three, as Mary O'Rourke tossed a no-hitter for the victors.

Sophomore Marcy Murray started for PHS but had control problems and had pitched the entire game the day before against Hopewell.

Elena Lucullo came on in relief and did a nice job, observed Snyder, "but by then we had already been hammered."

Undeclared Hopewell used a 20-run fourth inning to turn its game with PHS into a rout. PHS had taken a 2-0 lead in the first on singles by Diana Schmidt, Sue Hendrickson and Monica Greenland. But it was short lived as the Bulldogs came right back in their half of the same inning to score seven runs.

"They have a nice program over there," observed Snyder about Hopewell Valley. "They're just a well-coached unit."

The Audi 5000 Turbo Diesel

Its performance has never been better. And now the cost of owning one has never been better.

Audi Unquestionably, one of the most desirable luxury cars today is a German-engineered turbo diesel. It offers a rare blend of turbo power, diesel efficiency, and German craftsmanship.

The Audi 5000: the best value in a luxury German turbo diesel. Yet, there is a question of price. You can spend more than $30,000 for the least expensive Mercedes turbo diesel. Or, if you have a keen eye for value, you can invest $17,780 in an Audi 5000 Turbo Diesel.

Because you spend less doesn't mean you get less. Our Bavarian engineers have built imaginative and expensive technology into this luxury Audi. Extraordinary fuel economy. The 5000's high efficiency five-cylinder power plant delivers remarkable fuel economy for a full-size luxury car: 28 EPA estimated mpg and 36 estimated highway.

In an Audi, efficiency doesn't mean boring. The 5000 is a joy to drive: zero to 50 in 10.1 seconds. Its smooth turbo passing power and sophisticated front-wheel drive give it the lively performance you expect from an Audi.

Considering the Audi 5000's reasonable price, premium-quality German engineering and outstanding performance, this automobile is, indeed, one of the best investments in a luxury turbo diesel today.

Audi: the art of engineering.

Palmer Square

put together like a doll house. It was like that in front, but you'd look at the back of the buildings and they were modern stucco, just like any 1930s house.

"There were many people who liked the character you find with the old, and that just wasn't there, in the new Palmer Square."

Two decades later, when the grassy corner of Nassau and Palmer Square East was plowed up to make room for the One Palmer Square Building and its forecourt, there was even more protest.

It was the first really big building to be built in the Borough in modern times, and it shocked the eyes of many. It was perceived as not fitting in with the rest of the town. It was "modern," compared to the 18th-century reproductions the Borough had now become accustomed to on Palmer Square.

The color of the brick offended many, Mrs. Stuart recalls. There were letters-to-the-editor bemoaning the loss of the green and grassy lot.

Fake Old-Ness. Mostly, in the earliest days of the Square, the protest seems to have been over the "fake oldness" of the "18th-century" buildings. Mrs. Stuart remembers over-hearing an elderly woman showing her small grandson around the 1938 Nassau Inn. She turned to an employee and asked, "Now, where is the old part of the Inn?"

"I wanted to say to her 'Madam, there is nothing here that is older than the mid-1930s.' Because the oldest thing was the lintel on the fireplace in the lobby, and maybe a few old tables."

In August, 1937, Borough Council and PMI concluded several land transactions, including transfer of municipally-owned land on Hulfish Street for $8,000. In addition, PMI bought 19 feet of Hulfish frontage from Mr. Griggs for $17,150, and Hulfish was to be widened with WPA money. The restaurant was razed, and rebuilt farther north.

"Contrary to reports heard in various parts of town," wrote The Herald's editorial writer, "the Borough was not sold down the river on the transaction."

Merchants Skeptical. By the time August came, the unhappy feelings of April had apparently quieted. A poll showed that 75 percent of Borough residents felt the new Square would benefit the town. But merchants were more skeptical: only 63 percent felt that way.

Merchants objected — as they are doing today — to what they regarded as high rents. They also thought the Palmer Square stores were too small, and doubted the Square would be "a powerful magnet" for business. There was, for example, no convenient parking.

"A clear-cut, die-hard minority say it's economically unsound," declared one merchant, whose name was not given. Another: "the fellow who goes down there, will be stuck for his rent."

Hope Gibbons, whose sister, Mila, is still a Borough resident, declared she was not in favor of the Square because "it is badly planned and is not being solidly built. You notice they are drying out the walls with artificial heat so they can get tenants in sooner. But watch the walls crack."

The Herald itself noted that

The Beer was Free for One and All The Night They Closed the "Nass"

They closed the old "Nass" with free beer. At a raffle for the privilege of having the last drink in the 168-year-old tavern, 100 townspeople collected $25 for Princeton Hospital. Beer stopped flowing at midnight, but it was 1 a.m. before they could get anybody to leave. Sadly, manager Buster Lewis watched them go.

The first guests moved out of the old Nass and into the new on a late June day in 1937. While digging for the new, workers found an artesian well, 30 feet under ground, right below the new dining-room. A concrete floor was planned to go over the five-to-six-foot deep spring, and a pump was installed.

As stores were demolished, second-hand dealers began to appear. Plumbing and electrical fixtures, pictures, clocks, pin games, mantel pieces, radiators, books, even crutches were offered for sale.

A staff member of The Princeton Herald — it was Donald C. Stuart Jr., later the co-founder of Town Topics — wrote: "As buildings are removed, it will be as if a curtain were being drawn on a new scene. Palmer Square will be revealed as the setting for the Princeton of the future. But contrary to the possibilities of drama, there can be no revival, depicting Princeton of the past."

August that there was more support for the Square than the "vague dissatisfaction" expressed earlier over architect Thomas Stapleton's plans. But the next year, in March of 1938, merchants and townspeople were again unhappy. Merchants wanted lower rents, improved traffic conditions — including the opening of Greenholm, the street that dead-ends off Bayard Lane and would, if opened, intersect with Chambers.

Business Poor. "Business conditions have not lived up to expectations since the Square's opening last September," The Herald of March 4, 1938 noted. "One has gone out of business, another left a corner store and moved to a cheaper place in the center of the block. Several stores opposite the Tavern have never been rented. Completion of construction is expected to remedy this, but merchants want an immediate answer."

In the 1937 editorial, The Herald expressed the view that critics of the plan were in a minority, and the community as a whole "gratefully accepted the project." And the editorial concluded: "To those who feel that they could improve upon the results now being achieved, we suggest a cessation of verbal hostilities until the PMI can present a finished product which we sincerely believe will appeal all of Princeton's would-be architects."

PCH Wins 3-Way Victory; Court Backs Zoning Board

Princeton Community Housing had a three-way victory this week. Last Friday, Superior Court affirmed both the decision of the Borough Zoning Board granting a use variance to Princeton Community Housing, Inc., and Borough Council's own action in upholding the Zoning Board when opponents of PCH appealed to Council.

On Monday, Township Committee unanimously upheld the Township Zoning Board's decision to grant a variance for PCH's detention basin. PCH hopes to build apartments for the middle-income elderly on Borough-owned land on Elm Road. The property is on the Borough-Township line, and PCH plans call for a storm detention basin across the line in the Township.

If voters had agreed to consolidate Borough and Township, "we wouldn't be here tonight," commented Township Committee members Gail Firestone and Richard Schoch.

In Friday's decision, Superior Court Judge Paul G. Levy ruled that the legal criteria for use variances had been properly met, and dismissed the suit against the Borough.

Later, Borough attorney Edwin Schmierer and the law firm of McCarthy and Hicks, representing PCH, filed a motion asking the Appellate Court to instruct William Barr, the chief opponent of PCH, to file any appeal on an "expedited basis," sooner than the 45 days normally allowed between a Superior Court decision and the filing of an appeal. PCH faces a June 30 deadline with Federal Housing and Urban Development officials for completing plans for the apartments.

If an appeal is filed, it will be by Mr. Barr acting as his own attorney. He is no longer represented by the Gordon Strauss firm.

On Monday night before Committee, Mr. Barr asked Committee to send the question back to the Zoning Board on the grounds that the Board had not addressed the merits of the housing project. Christopher Baker, attorney for PCH, replied that it was "quite impossible" for the Township Zoning Board to consider the merits of something outside the Township's boundary, and Zoning Board attorney Ivan Bash agreed.

No News Is Good News From Township Police

In baseball it would have been a perfect game — no hits, no runs, no errors; for the Township police it was a perfect week — no break-ins, no thefts, no arrests.

"Gentlemen, you aren't going to believe this," Chief Anthony Pinelli told reporters at his weekly Tuesday morning news conference. "I have absolutely nothing."

Even Chief Pinelli was startled. To make sure it was a zero crime week, he double-checked the crime reports and crime docket. The only thing he could find, he said, was a domestic argument — and information of that nature is never released to the press.

There it was: the first crime goose egg in at least two decades of reporting Township crime. Suppose they had a police force and nobody committed a crime ....

Richard Woodbridge to Run For Post of Borough Mayor

Borough Council member Richard Woodbridge announced this week that he will run for mayor of the Borough as the Republican candidate. He was elected last fall to his third term on Council.

He will run against either Barbara Sigmund or Barbara Hill, whichever one wins the Borough Democratic primary. Last week, Borough Democrats chose Mrs. Sigmund by a 4-1 margin over Ms. Hill in the endorsement vote by members of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization.

In the tally, Mrs. Sigmund received 37 votes from Borough Democratic members of PCDO and Ms. Hill received 9. Township members gave Mrs. Sigmund 27 and Ms. Hill 84.

At the end of the evening of votes, Ms. Hill declared that she was still in the race.

For Council, Democrats will run Irv Urken and John Huntoon. The two incumbents, Robert McChesney and Joseph Blanc, will not run. Mr. McChesney is completing his first term. Mr. Blanc was appointed to fill the one year remaining in the term of Nelson Van Den

Coalition of Residents Hopes to Buy Development Rights to Institute Land

A loosely-formed coalition of Princeton residents is negotiating with the Institute for Advanced Study to buy the Institute's development rights.

"It's worth a try," says James Sayen, one of the group. If the coalition is successful, their efforts could forestall the Institute's plans to build 400 houses and apartments on its Quaker Road land.

Institute plans were on the Planning Board agenda for this Tuesday.

According to Mr. Sayen, Harry Woolf, executive director of the Institute, was scheduled to announce to the Planning Board that he is negotiating with a coalition of environmentalists for acquisition of development rights. Dr. Woolf was out of town during the day on Tuesday and not available for confirmation.

A letter from Mr. Sayen to J. Richardson Dilworth, chairman of Institute trustees, was favorably received.

"We've had tremendous interest expressed by Institute trustees," Mr. Sayen stated.

Dr. Woolf is said to agree to hold back for 90 days, while the coalition tries to find backers. The coalition itself is asking the Institute to wait for one year.

A representative of the National Farmland Trust, Douglas Wheeler, met this week with the coalition, and later with Dr. Woolf and with Samuel M. Hamill Jr., executive director of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council to discuss possibilities. Mr. Sayen said the group has also been in touch with the Nature Conservancy, and "other sources."

"We might even go public," Mr. Sayen speculated. "Invite people to buy an acre of rights for $10,000. If we could get 50 people .... And there may be state Green Acres money. The Institute needs between $8 and $10 million."

These particular environmentalists are not the only ones concerned about Institute plans. Historians of the Revolutionary War say they are worried about the proposals as they relate to a planned expansion of Battlefield Park, or even Battlefield Park as it now stands.

Also, the Institute woods adjoin the Charles Rogers Wildlife Refuge and the property of the Elizabethtown Water Company. There have been reports that Elizabethtown may give up that facility — although the company will go before the Planning Board next week with plans for an addition to the building there — and other environmentalists are concerned about the fate of the Wildlife Refuge if Elizabethtown leaves. The company leases the property to the municipality.

Henry S. Patterson II, president of Elizabethtown, said this week that the company wants to leave the Wildlife refuge as a bird refuge, and will continue to lease it to the town.

In addition to Mr. Sayen, the coalition includes William Starr, Peggy McNeill, H. Philip Minis, Denyse Reid, Lawrence Norris Kerr, Rosemary Blair, Lee Merrill and Stanley Updike, of the Updike Farm, adjoining Institute lands.

David Dodge Still Missing; Kidnapped in Beirut in July

Last week's bombing of the United States Embassy in Beirut, Lebanon, reminded Princeton residents that David S. Dodge, former acting president of the American University, is still missing, following his kidnapping in Beirut last July. Although he has not been seen, it is thought that he is still alive.

Mr. Dodge, whose family lives in Princeton, was kidnapped July 19 as he walked to his home on the university campus for dinner. According to Western diplomats, the only message from Mr. Dodge was received in September by the Lebanese Red Cross. It is believed by many that he was spirited out of Beirut when Palestine guerrillas and Syrian troops left the capital at the end of last summer.

Nobody knows exactly who his abductors are, but they are thought to be Shiite Moslems who are followers of Ayatollah Khomeini, the Iranian leader. Lebanese newspapers have said that his kidnapping was linked to the disappearance two weeks before of the Iranian charge d'affaires and two members of his staff.

Another opponent, William S. Greenburg of 164 Hunt Drive, pointed to use of the Borough-owned property as a sewer field.

"From the 1880s to this very hour," he declared, "there has been no control from dawn to dusk on what has been disposed of there. I suggest you are sitting on a toxic time-bomb of chemicals that do not break down, never go away, that have been under the surface for 40 years."

He cited arsenic, cadmium, chrome, zinc and potassium, "all of which are part of sewer sludge."

Blink when she resigned from Council last year.

Republicans expect to run Hank Abernathy for Council. He ran unsuccessfully last year. His running-mate was scheduled to be chosen by Republicans this Tuesday in time for the filing deadline at the end of the week.

Mr. Woodbridge, a lawyer and engineer who has a practice in patent law in Princeton, said he felt he could bring a "systematic, business-like approach" to Council business.

"Because I grew up in Princeton, I have a somewhat traditional approach," he said, "but professionally, I am in the 'new-ideas' business — my specialty is getting new ideas off the ground."

As mayor, he said, he would

BYRNE TO SPEAK

To Red Cross. Former New Jersey Governor, Brendan T. Byrne, will be the guest speaker at the 69th Annual Meeting of the Princeton Area Chapter of the American Red Cross. The meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 10, at 7 at the Nassau Inn. A cocktail hour will begin at 6.

The chapter, the oldest Red Cross Chapter in New Jersey, is expecting a capacity audience to hear the former Governor address the subject of "Volunteerism in Today's Society." The report of the chapter's activities during the past year will be in printed form and there will be a brief business meeting for the purpose of electing officers and board members. Volunteers will be recognized for past service to the chapter.

The meeting is open to all members of the Princeton Area Chapter including active volunteer workers and all those who have supported the American Red Cross financially through its partner organization, the United Way of the Princeton Area Communities. Reservations are limited and should be made through the American Red Cross at 182 North Harrison Street or by calling 924-2404.

Hearing on Palmer Square Relatively Quiet, Despite Large Turnout of Opponents to Plans

The protestors were there, and a petition bearing 861 opposing names, but the three-hour Palmer Square hearing before the Planning Board last Thursday went calmly with less fire and steam than had been expected.

The matter is not ended, and the board will continue the hearing on Thursday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Valley Road Building.

Collins Development, owners of the Square, said they are carrying to a later meeting revised plans for the forecourt of One Palmer Square. It had been expected that a revision of the awning design would be discussed.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, who sits on the board, reminded the audience of the 1978 citizens Steering Committee meetings and decisions on the downtown.

"Their plan, in general concept of density and height, is the equivalent of this Collins plan," the mayor said. "It has been a long-term process, in which many citizens were engaged."

Collins' master architect Do Chung told audience and board that the roofline of the addition to the Nassau Inn across from the present Inn on Palmer Square East, is now a "broken roof," with gable ends, and a facade with indentations and projections; the Witherspoon side of that addition is varied also, he said, with gable ends, chimneys and recesses. Borough zoning regulations prohibit windows on this side of the addition because it is on the property line.

The four-story bridge across Palmer Square East, linking the two parts of the Inn, is now 48 feet wide, Mr. Chung said, down from the original 65. Commenting on a memo from Borough engineer George Olea citing many changes from the original plans, Mr. Chung remarked that such changes were not unusual in a "pre-pre-schematic" drawing.

Landscape architect Arthur Collins Jr., described a "garden feeling" he wants to provide, with columns, lights, and a "richly paved" area in front of the Inn door.

"What does 'richly paved' mean?" Mayor Cawley inquired.

Gravel or flags, with a darker edging of brick, Mr. Collins suggested, and perhaps lighter stone in the middle.

The bridge drew the most in comment and criticism. Mayor Cawley explained that the Borough owns the air rights over Palmer Square East and has been negotiating with Collins about use of them.

Board member Margen Penick said she was afraid of granting air rights because it might set "an unfortunate precedent."

The mayor announced this Monday that Council hopes to adopt resolutions on air rights, the lease of land to Collins for the Chambers Street garage and various other agreements, at the regular Council meeting Tuesday, May 10. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

A glass bridge connecting the two buildings has been discussed, but never presented in plans. Township Mayor Winthrop Pike, who also sits on the board, remarked "I don't mourn the loss of a closed glass box."

But his colleague, Elizabeth Hutter, questioned the need for the rooms that will be incorporated into the bridge. "Is there need in town for that many hotel rooms?" she inquired.

With a projected 250 rooms, the Nassau Inn is at "the lower end of feasibility," replied Collins vice-president James Harvie. "We are now 83 percent occupied, and that is incredibly high, hotel people tell us."

Questions about redesigning the bridge for more openness were raised, and it was not certain whether the under part of the bridge would be 14 or 16 feet from the street. The difference, apparently, is due to the downward slope of the street.

One questioner asked whether Collins might be required to provide more open space in return for permission to build the bridge. Mayor Cawley told reporters Monday that Collins is already providing more open space than required.

The Borough's open space requirement is 81,529 square feet, the mayor said, and Collins plans show 98,370.

Kay Strong, from the audience, quoted the Environmental Design Review Committee's criticism of the bridge, and the EDRC's comment that Collins either be denied the right to build it, or be required to give something in return.

Sewerage questions were also raised. Olivia Applegate of Random Road protested that "not once" had the Planning Board showed any interest in the health problems posed by Princeton's ancient sewer system, and she warned about the amount Collins' expansion would add to the system.

Mayor Cawley reminded her that Collins must put $400,000 into Princeton's sewer trust fund, to which Borough and Township are each contributing $500,000 for sewer repair.

Everett Garretson, co-owner of H.P. Clayton's, protested removal of some parking spaces in the stretch of street south of the post office. Plans show Tiger Park extended 10 feet north, with a one-way-east route in front of the post office.

"We need open spaces, not a cutie-type park with a lot of clutter," Mr. Garretson declared, in comment on Mr. Collins' landscape ideas. "We don't need trees along Palmer Square West — there is no space for them. We're not a suburban square."

"Whatever you're going to change, you're going to make people upset," Mr. Garretson continued. "You should minimize these extraneous, cutie changes, and make only the changes that must be made, because it has to work."

The owner of the property on which the Alchemist and Barrister Restaurant stands, and the owner of Chuck's Cafe on Spring, both said they would be glad to see buildings on parking lots.

Commenting on "the 27,000 architects who live in Princeton," Stanley C. Smoyer advised opponents to "accept the Planning Board's decisions in good grace — they are qualified, dedicated people. In a few years we'll be as happy as we are now with this beautiful Square."

EXTORTION ATTEMPTED
Township
Victims. Two Kendall Park youths are free on bail after arrest by the FBI last week in an extortion attempt against S. Lester Block, Parkside Drive.

Joseph Prestifilippo, a freshman at Trenton State, and Scott John Previte, a blacksmith in Stockton, both 19, are charged with mailing a letter to the Block home in which they threaten the family with "elimination" unless they received $50,000 in cash.

The typed letter said the family had been "extensively watched. We have had the opportunity to observe your children down south. They are SAFE as of now, but are being watched and observed carefully. Killing is an art also, but should be used only when needed."

The youths are charged with following up the letter with four telephone calls to the Block home telling the Blocks how the money was to be paid. In the end, Mr. Block went to a specified public telephone to wait for instructions. He took a package, of undisclosed contents, to an apartment in Kendall Park.

Young Previte was arrested by the FBI at Barrett Garden Apartments the night of April 19, when he allegedly came to get the money. Prestifilippo was arrested soon after, following a search by Princeton Township and South Brunswick Township police using a K-9 squad from the Middlesex County sheriff's office.

According to the FBI, both youths admitted the accusations and implicated a third person.

For each defendant, U.S. Magistrate John Devine set $50,000 surety bonds, which require full payment in cash or property. The youths were held in a New York City detention center for two nights while their parents raised the money. The lawyer representing the pair asked that they be released on their own recognizance but Magistrate Devine refused, calling the charges "nasty, vicious and terrible."

This Monday, Borough Ad-

Brooke Is Admitted to Princeton

For more than a week, it was just between Brooke and Jim, a secret that neither wanted to share with the public. Teen-age movie star and model Brooke Shields and Princeton University dean of admissions Jim Wickenden knew whether or not she had been admitted to the Class of 1987, but neither was telling. Wickenden had taken the unprecedented action of mailing the answer to Brooke from his Florida vacation spot, so that word would not leak out through members of his staff. Brooke, who received the news one or two days after the April 15 mailing date, made no public announcement, nor returned any phone calls.

The Daily Princetonian, which criticized the admissions office in an editorial last Friday for "encouraging rumor and speculation," and "losing its cool over this model-actress," finally collected its cool long enough to ferret out the answer. Brooke had passed along word of her acceptance to classmates at the Dwight-Englewood School, where she is a senior, and the Prince checked with a few of them, including younger siblings of current University students.

It broke the story on the front page of its Monday edition, and University officials confirmed the news later that day. Brooke is one of about 2,200 high school students to be offered admission in next fall's freshman class, and has until May 1 to make up her mind. In the past, the 17-year old actress has said Princeton is her first choice. About half of those accepted are expected to matriculate in the fall.

The Blocks said the FBI has instructed them not to comment on the case.

Preliminary hearing has been set for this Friday. Under Federal extortion laws, mailing a threatening letter carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

'SLAP IN FACE'

Rights Group Tells Council. "Our Commission considers your ending result of this (Lesko) case a slap in the face," the Joint Commission on Civil Rights told Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council members in a letter this week.

The group also states that it has advised men in the public works department to carry the case to state or Federal civil rights agencies.

The letter, signed by chair William H. Scheide and director Joan E. Hill, refers to Council's 4-0 decision on April 12 that they were "uncertain as to whether or not racial slurs had been used" by Bernard Lesko, public works superintendent.

It had been charged by four white employees that he made racial remarks about two black employees, out of their hearing.

Magistrate Devine refused, calling the charges "nasty, vicious and terrible."

administrator Mark Gordon, Mayor Cawley, Borough engineer George Oleksa — Mr. Lesko's boss — and Jim Lawrence of the engineering department, met with public works staff. Council, in the Lesko decision, had directed Mr. Gordon to hold such a meeting.

"It was very productive meeting," Mayor Cawley told reporters afterward. He cited several morale problems among the work crews, and said they were chiefly related to equipment.

"For example, the street sweeper was on the road only two days in a two-week period because it was out of order," the mayor said. "It's the equipment down-time that really bothers the men."

The mayor also revealed that no additional men have been hired for the public works crew for 27 years — since 1956.

"It's a small force, and this was underscored often by Oleksa and the men. We've got some problems to solve, to make it a more efficient department."

"Next to the police, this is the most visible arm of government and maybe we've taken them for granted for too long. Hopefully, things are going to improve."

The Borough's position on race was made very clear in the meeting, the mayor said. "Mark told them Council took any racial slurs, or any racial discussion very seriously, and told them we will not tolerate it."

In its letter, the Civil Rights Commission reminds Council that the group has asked "on many occasions over the past few years," that Council follow the Township and implement an Affirmative Action plan, with a role for the Commission written into the plan.

If there had been such a plan, the Commission says, "this obvious miscarriage of justice might have been avoided."

In its own meeting, on February 1, the Rights Commission concluded that Mr. Lesko had indeed made the racial remarks. The Commission recommended to Council that Mr. Lesko be suspended for one month without pay, and reduced in title to "Acting," with the proviso that if he behaved in a similar way in the future, he would be fired. "Council ignored this Commission as having no role in the matter," the letter states.

THEFT REPORT
Leave it, Lose it. Leave something unattended and expect it to be stolen is a general rule that several residents flouted last week to their dismay.

A Princeton University student had $120 stolen last week from a pocket of her coat which she had left unattended in Dillon Gym, and another student lost an unattended gym bag from the same gym. It contained $130 in clothing and $10 cash. Both thefts took place between 2:30 and 4:20 in the afternoon.

Between noon and 1 p.m., another university student lost $70 the following day when his wallet was removed from his book bag which he had left unattended on the floor in Dodd Hall.

On Sunday, another victim told police that $10 had been stolen from his wallet in his coat which he had left hanging unattended on a chair in Firestone Library. A woman's blue Head ski jacket, valued at $300, was stolen last week from the locker of a Princeton High School student. Although the locker had been locked, police report there were no signs of forced entry.

Anything on wheels was also a favorite target for thieves last week, as a motorcycle, two 10-speed bicycles and a baby stroller were stolen. The motorcycle, a 1974 blue and green Honda valued at $500, was taken from the rear parking area of the Terrace Club, 62 Washington Road. Locked, it bore a Pennsylvania license plate 016M3.

An unlocked bicycle valued at $160 was reported stolen Monday from the yard of a FitzRandolph home, and another bike was taken from the east side of Princeton High School. It was valued at $130. A $60 baby stroller was taken between 5:30 and 6:30 Thursday night from in front of a Witherspoon Street restaurant. No police report there was no baby inside the red, white and blue stroller.

Four hubcaps worth $50 each were stolen from the car of a Princeton resident while it was parked Saturday night in the Nassau Inn lot off Hulfish Street.

A new portable stereo cassette radio valued at $109 was shoplifted Monday afternoon from a Spring Street store. Two youths, described as 16-year old teenagers are suspects.

The clerk told police while one engaged her in conversation, the other placed the radio in a red duffel bag. One suspect is described as having blonde hair and was wearing a ski vest and jeans. He was carrying the duffel bag.

The second was described as 5-11, with dark brown hair, wearing a green jacket.

METERS ARE PAINTED

By Vandals. Five Borough parking meters on Nassau Street between Tulane and Vandewater near Hulfish's Shoes and the new Laidlaw building were painted last week by vandals. It was discovered Saturday morning and police said they were painted in such a manner that it would be impossible to tell when they were in violation.

Two tires of the car of a Nassau Street business employee were punctured Monday between noon and 6 p.m. Police added that prior to

Nassau Inn to Close This Summer For First Phase of its Renovation

The Nassau Inn will be closed this summer so that work can begin on the first phase of its renovation. Max Lowe, general manager, said this week that the hotel would probably be closed during July and August, but that it was too early to give specific dates.

The Inn will be open for Princeton University's Commencement and Reunion Week-end. Switchboards will continue to be open while the Inn itself is closed, Mr. Lowe said, so that reservations and conference meeting dates can be scheduled.

If you have already made plans to use the Nassau Inn this summer, Bari Boone of the sales office says that her staff will help you find another place.

Plans call for redecorating some of the public spaces, like the dining rooms, laying new carpeting and buying new furniture. Guest rooms will be fitted with new furniture, linens and appointments coordinated by dePolo Dunbar of New York, Mr. Lowe said.

The Inn must be closed, Mr. Lowe explained, because some of the construction involves changes in the infrastructure: re-designing the kitchen, installing new stairwells and putting in a new boiler plant. Renovations will continue after the Inn re-opens.

Chief Michael Carnevale declined to reveal the name of the church or the location of the mailbox. "The church," he said, "is still standing." The initial investigation by Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Det. William Clark is continuing.

The passenger side window of the car of a Princeton resident was shattered last week by a blunt instrument while it was parked in a lot off Nassau Street.

CHURCH IS TARGET Of Bomb Threat. A Nassau Street church received a call last Wednesday afternoon at 2 from a person who wanted $250 to be placed in a mailbox or the church would be blown up by 2:30.

The caller was believed to be a young male, police said.

head. Mr. Friedeborn told Ptl. Robert Buchanan that he was traveling 30 miles an hour when his car went out of control at 1:50 in the morning. His skidding car caused some grass and ivy damage at the property of 19 Greenhouse before striking the pole. There were no charges.

Cyclist Charged. A bicyclist was charged with passing on the right after he was involved in an accident last week on State Road the intersection of Cherry Valley Road.

Eric P. Rose, 21, of New Brunswick, was treated at the Medical Center for minor injuries. According to the report by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord, Mr. Rose was passing a stopped line of traffic on State Road at a fast rate of speed when he collided with a car that was allowed to make a left turn through the line of traffic into a driveway at 873 State Road. Ptl. Gaylord noted that there was no improper driving by the driver, Merry L. Madover, 873 State Road.

The line of traffic had been backed up by a traffic light at the time of the mishap 4:05 Friday afternoon.

CLUB MEMBER PUNCHED By Trespasser. A member of the Elm Club, 58 Prospect Avenue, was punched in the face late Saturday night by one of three juveniles who were trespassing at the club.

According to police, the club member had asked the juveniles—who were not members and were helping themselves to beer—to leave and when they refused he went to the telephone to call police. As he was calling, he was punched in the face by one of the three who then left the club. The victim refused medical treatment.

The three were described as all about 16 years old. One was 5-11, 140 pounds, with long, straight blonde hair and wearing a red jacket. The second was 5-9, 160, with short, dirty blonde hair wearing green army fatigue trousers and the third as 5-9, 140, with a thin face and long nose, wearing a green shirt. Ptl. John Reading investigated, after police received the 11:20 call.

MAN IS JAILED

For Theft of TV Sets. In Township criminal court last week, Judge Sydney Souter sentenced Anthony K. Bailey, R.D. 4, Lincoln Highway, to 30 days in the Mercer County Correctional Center for the theft of television sets. He was also sentenced to 10 days for contempt of court, the two to run concurrently.

Bailey had also failed to pay fines totalling $250 stemming from previous court appearances. As a result, Judge Souter vacated two previous suspended sentences and re-imposed two 30-day sentences on Bailey on each charge. Bailey was to serve them consecutively for a total of 90 days in jail.

In Township traffic court, Elmer P. Bean, Princeton Arms Apartments, Cranbury, and Georgios N. Kessidis, 159 N. Harrison Street, were each fined $85 for speeding. For careless driving, Edward F. Crane, Cherry Brook Drive, and Lothar B. Sander, 111 Harris Road, each paid $65.

Paulette J. Esposito, 14-06 Quail Ridge, Plainsboro, paid two fines: $265 for driving while intoxicated and $65 for leaving the scene of an accident.

Kim Tyler, 145 Linden Lane, paid $65 for illegal backing or turning in a street.

Borough Court. In Borough court Monday, Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. fined James J. DeRose, 422 Wood Mill Drive, Cranbury, and Peter G. Cano, 26 Woodlane Road, Lawrenceville, $60 each for red light violations.

Veronica A. Brady, 8 Hamilton Avenue, and Elizabeth A. Kennedy, 120 Leigh Avenue, were fined $60 each for making illegal U-turns. Speeding cost Joan M. Trombino of Hopewell, $60, and Robin R. Lattanzio, Revere Road, Belle Mead, $70.

Paying fines for careless driving were Carl F. Skelton, 28-05 Quail Ridge Drive, Plainsboro, $75, and William G. Aust, 161 Franklin Corner, Lawrenceville, $60.

Others: Teena Cahill, 185 Clover Lane, $20, and Gerald F. Boutcher, 100 Stockton Street, $15, both no license or registration in possession (Ms. Cahill pleaded guilty with an explanation); and James R. Hagadorn, Jr., 891 Mount Lucas Road, $15, failure to have inspection.

EXHIBITION: Montgomery Arts Council Board members Gloria Westlake and Rosella Petito have arranged the crafts and art exhibit at the Montgomery National Bank on view through Saturday. There will be a chair caning demonstration by Diane Dickson Thursday from 10-11:30 and a spinning demonstration by Grace Evans Friday from 11 to 1. Next on the Council's calendar is May in Montgomery, Art and Antiques, May 6 and 7.

The driver was later released, pending his appearance in Borough court; the four juveniles were turned over to the Borough juvenile Street, has been charged with selling alcoholic beverages to a minor. Additional disciplinary action by Mayor Anthony Federico had been pending. Chief Michael Carnevale said.

Shortly before 8 p.m., Ptl. Saturday morning from Randy Sutton and Ptl. Holder Hall on the university campus.

While Sgt. Peter Hanley and served a car on Lytle Street with five persons inside. After Ptl. Charles Davall were they witnessed one of the occupants go into Tash's and Nassau and Chamber Streets emerge with two cases of beer, the officers stopped the car on Franklin Street.

Police have charged the 18-year old driver, a resident of Laurel Road, and all four away. The person he was juveniles in the car as minors chasing had tried to steal a bike with the aid of another, he said.

The officers put the student in their patrol car and searched the area. One of the suspects was arrested a short while later in the Palmer Square area; the second was arrested after a further search.

The student told the officer that the two suspects had been seen by students in Holder Hall acting in a suspicious manner. They continued to watch them and when the pair tried to wheel a bike out of Holder Hall there was a confrontation between students and the two youths. A fight erupted and the suspects ran off. One of the students observed the officers as he was chasing them.

Water Company plans Addition to West Drive Plant. The Elizabethtown

Water Company will ask the Planning Board for a conditional use permit to construct an addition to the water company building on West Drive, off Alexander Road. The request, to be heard next Tuesday at 7:30 before the Planning Board, also includes a building to be erected for storage.

The board will also hear the request of Beck and Call for conditional use permission to have a business in a Township residential zone. The property is at 165 Valley Road.

The Department of Environmental Protection Wants to Know When Harry's Brook Overflows

Municipal officials in Borough and Township have no way of knowing whether sewers linked to Harry's Brook are overflowing.

"Unless somebody calls up to inform us, we never know," says George Olexa, Borough engineer and secretary of Princeton's Sewer Operating Authority. "It is especially hard on week-ends."

The state Department of Environmental Protection is now "insisting" that Princeton inform the DEP and the Federal Environmental Protection Agency of all Harry's Brook overflows as soon as they appear, first by telephone and then by letter. The directive comes in a letter sent to Mr. Olexa last week by Alfred W. Valencia, in the enforcement branch of the DEP.

He also asks that "the tops of overflowing manholes be equipped with a screening device to prevent the discharge of fecal matter and various other material associated with raw sewage, and that a chlorination procedure be developed to disinfect this polluting discharge."

All material on the ground as a result of past overflows, must be removed and the area disinfected, Mr. Valencia writes.

"We clean up, as we always do," is Mr. Olexa's reply.

Mr. Olexa said he would refer the letter to the next SOC meeting, scheduled for May 17. Mr. Valencia asked for a reply within 15 days of receipt.

Overflowing sewers on Valley Road are visible to the traffic along that road. Township road crew offices are on Valley Road near the spouting sewers, but Mr. Olexa says there is no "mechanism" for letting municipalities know about the overflow.

The Sewer Operating Committee consists of Borough, Township and University representatives. J.B. Smith, a Township representative, is chairman. Members are Richard Schoch (Township); Richard Macgill and James Combs, Borough; George Glahn and Michael McKay, University.

operations master plan. Trap Rock decided to wait until after Franklin Township's new planning board members were installed rather than begin an application before a board soon to change its composition. Originally, Trap Rock proposed to go before the board in December, then decided to wait until after the first of the year.

The Company has held numerous public information sessions, beginning last November, Mr. Holt said, and part of the delay is to give the planners an opportunity to revise the plans to reflect changes suggested at the meetings. The 92-Bypass is one issue still in the air.

The state DOT is scheduled to make its recommendation in early June about how to use funds freed by not building I-95. If the 92-Bypass is included in the list, Mr. Holt pointed out, the issue will be "clearer."

of Conference. "The Nuclear Arms Debate: Ethical and Political Implications" is the topic for a day-long conference Thursday, May 5, sponsored by the Center of International Studies, Princeton University. The talks will be held in 10 McCosh Hall.

There will be three sessions to the conference. The first, chaired by Dean Frederick H. Borsch of the University Chapel, will address the topic, "Under what conditions are the possession and use of nuclear weapons morally justified?" Father Bryan Hehir, of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, Committee on War and Peace, will give a presentation on the Bishops' Pastoral Letter on War and Peace. James T. Johnson of Rutgers University and Gibson Winter of Princeton Seminary will be the discussants.

The second session, chaired by Archibald Gillies, president of the World Policy Institute, will focus on "Restricting the Use of Nuclear Weapons." Speakers will include Cyril Black, director of the Center of International Studies, Robert C. Tucker, author of "The Soviet Political Mind" and "Proposal for a No First Use of Nuclear Weapons: Pros and Cons."

OXFAM TO GAIN

From Hunger Run. The second annual Princeton Hunger Run will be held on Saturday, April 30. The 10 kilometer run will again be sponsored by Princeton Theological Seminary, and a record turnout is expected. Net proceeds of the event, plus the one mile fitness run which will precede it, will be turned over to Oxfam America, a world hunger relief organization.

The principal event, the 10K run, will be over a certified course and will be electronically timed. Area clubs, in addition to interested individuals, are encouraged to participate. Entry fees are $6 per person if paid in advance, $7 on the day of the race. All runners will receive a Princeton Hunger Run T-shirt. Basic awards will be made in accordance with sex and age.

The main event will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday; the physical fitness mile will precede it at 8 a.m. For further information, call 683-4320 or 683-0440.

HOUSE TOUR SUNDAY

In Hopewell. Six houses and a barn in the Hopewell Valley will be open to the public Sunday from noon to 5. Included in the tour is an opportunity to watch crafters at work and to browse through antiques. "House Tour in the Valley" is sponsored by the Hopewell Valley Historical Society. Tickets may be purchased at all the houses the day of the tour. Pink tulip signs will serve as house markers.

The first house, on Fiddlers Creek Road, is a mid-19th century frame dwelling with 20th century fieldstone addition. Emily West of the Prallsville Spinners Guild will demonstrate spinning here.

The second house, on Beaver Tavern Road, is believed to be the original Bear Tavern operated in mid-to-late 18th century by Andrew Mershon. Interesting artifacts have been found by the present owners. Stencilling will be displayed here by Barbara Sandler.

On North Main Street, Pennsylvania, is a house that was built around 1780 by Moses Baldwin on the street where he ran a tanyard. Honey Hollow Herb Garden will display herbs in the yard. The tour was built in 1839 by Conrad, the first purchaser of an insurance policy in Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania Dutch scratched eggs by Elizabeth Meyer will be on view here. House No. 5, on East Curtis Avenue, also in Pennington, was built in 1772 by John Hart, cousin to Hopewell's famous John Hart, and is on the national and state historic

SALE PLANNED

By Rhododendron Society. Home gardeners seeking something different in rhododendrons and azaleas will want to attend the annual plant sale held by the Princeton Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society on Saturday, April 30. At the sale will be many hybrids and species not normally available from regular sources.

The old-fashioned rhododendrons with their dusky lavender-pink flowers have been surpassed by newer hybrids with larger blooms having bright clear shades of white, pink, red, lavender and purple. There are even a few yellows that can be grown here. The newer azaleas have larger flowers and some are even striped with other colors.

The sale will include a wide selection of these newer superior hybrids that have been chosen for suitability for the growing conditions of New Jersey. Included in the offering will be a group of rare Rhododendron species that have been obtained from the Rhododendron Species Foundation. There will be a range of plant sizes from "yearlings" to landscape sizes. Prices will be attractive and will vary according to the size and rarity of the plant.

The Princeton Chapter is a group of people from all walks of life who have a common interest in rhododendrons and azaleas. They use the proceeds of the sale to support their various activities including the display garden at Mercer County College and their annual flower show which will be held at Quaker Bridge Mall on May 21 & 22. Membership in the chapter is open to all interested persons and information will be available at the sale.

The sale will be held next to the display garden located at Mercer County College, 1200 Old Trenton-Edinburg Road, West Windsor Township. Sale hours are 8:30 to 2, rain or shine. There will be no advance sales or reservations and all plants will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

POLLUTION IS TOPIC

Of Rocky Hill Meeting. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill and AIM, the Association for the Improvement of Montgomery Township, will jointly sponsor a public meeting on "The Presence of Pollution in Our Community" on Tuesday at 7:30 at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Route 518, Rocky Hill.

The program includes a panel discussion on the problems of hazardous waste and ground water contamination. The panel includes Hugh Houghton and Grace Singer from the Department of Environmental Protection; Michael Gallo, toxicologist from the Rutgers Medical Center; Charles Searfoss, Rocky Hill and Montgomery Health Officer; Jim Gaffney, director of Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association; and Tom Van Leeuwen, resident of Montgomery Township.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

MAY IN MONTGOMERY

An Event. Antiques and arts will be the focal point of May in Montgomery '83 on Saturday, May 7, when the Van Harlingen Historical Society sponsors an antiques show, crafts exhibit, outdoor concerts, and a vintage car exhibit in the historic crossroads village of Blawenburg.

For a single admission ticket of $3 visitors will be able to browse from 10 to 6 among the displays of country antiques, primitives and quilts, fine porcelain and glass, early American furniture and accessories, miniatures, dolls and toys, clocks and watches, silver, paintings, and Victorianiana assembled by more than 15 antiques dealers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

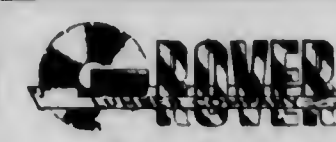

There will also be a show of fine crafts and artwork created by area residents, and, weather permitting, a gathering of antique automobiles. The Blawenburg Band, New Jersey's oldest musical group, will be on hand to play selections, and an ensemble from Montgomery High School will also perform. There will be a lunch buffet featuring homemade breads and desserts, salad bar, and sandwiches available during the day.

All activities will take place in and around the Christian Education Building of the Blawenburg Reformed Church, located on Route 518 midway between Rocky Hill and Hopewell. Ample free parking will be provided.

Tickets are also available for a dessert party Friday evening, May 6, from 7 to 10, offering an opportunity to preview the antiques show while hearing musical selections by pianist Billie Nastelin and by strolling band and guitar players. The $7.50 ticket also includes a chance in a drawing for an antique and free admission to all Saturday events.

For advance reservations and ticket information, call (201) 359-2272. Proceeds will aid the Van Harlingen Historical Society in its restoration of the early colonial Gulick House.

The chairman of May in Montgomery '83 is Kathryn Stryker. Clara Kennedy, Virginia Ridolfi, and Barbara Staats are organizing the antiques show. Gloria Westlake and Barbara Rutt are sponsoring the Parents Association. The event will be held Sunday, May 7, at the William Doremus the vintage car show; and Lois Pauley the preview party.

For Dubrovsky

A "Mid-May Merriment" party to raise funds for the Democratic Freeholder campaign of Gertrude Dubrovsky will be held Sunday, May 8, at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau.

Sue Stember will sing a program of folk songs and Joel Frankel will perform on the guitar. Linda Oppenheim is directing the event.

The party is open to all, including non-Democrats. Tickets are available from 924-7527 or 771-6971.

Other volunteers include Patty Cahill, tickets; Virginia Doremus, artwork; Bill Pauley, parking; and Margery Ward, decorations.

As Fundraiser. The 6th annual Peddie School Auction sponsored by the Parents Association will be held Sunday, May 8, at the William Doremus the vintage car show; and Lois Pauley the preview party.

Bidders will have a chance to take home an Atari game, certificates for dinner-for-two at Princeton restaurants, a porcelain bust of Moses valued at $600, a fishing trip for four, 20 pounds of local asparagus or a weekend at Shelter Island, New York. Celebrity items include a scenic print of Colorado from former President Gerald Ford, two soccer balls signed by Pele, autographed pictures of John Schneider or Al Pacino or a Dallas Cowboy pennant from Tom Landry.

There will be a silent as well as a voice auction, a flea market and box (Chinese) auction. Admission is free and there is abundant free parking.

NEW FEMINISM TOPIC OF Rocky Hill Talk. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill and the Princeton Area Douglass Alumnae Club as co-sponsors will present a Women in the Community program on women's studies on Thursday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the library. Dr. Catherine Stimpson, Director of the Institute for Research on Women at Rutgers University, will speak on "The New Feminism: A New Consciousness: Women's Studies Today."

Dr. Stimpson, professor of English at Douglass College, currently serves on the editorial board of Ms. magazine and is the vice chair on the New York State Council on the Humanities. She has written prolifically on women in literature and has been a pioneer in developing and teaching courses on black literature, the avant garde women writers and sexuality and literature. Dr. Stimpson is the author of "Class Notes" (1979) and several published poems and stories.

This program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will follow. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

DESIGNER SHOW HOUSE. In Lambertville, A Designer Show House of 21 designer-furnished rooms, landscaped grounds and a boutique will be open to the public the month of May. The house is the Massey Mansion at 42 York Street in Lambertville.

The house was designed by C.E. Schermerhorn and Wilson K. Philips, Philadelphia architects, and was built for George W. Massey, a wealthy coal, grain and seed dealer, and his wife, Hannah Carver Massey, whose family founded Carversville, Pa. The Massey mansion was a featured home in the December 11 issue of House and Garden magazine.

The Designer Show House will open Sunday at 11. A Patrons' Party will be held on Saturday and will include a cocktail hour beginning at 6:30 followed by a tour starting at 7 and ending with a buffet at 8:30. Patron tickets are $25 per person.

MAILBOX

Institute's Plan Opposed.
The Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have sent to the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

I am writing to express my deep love and concern for the Princeton community; as I have lived here all my life.

What incites my concern to be voiced is the proposal for a massive cluster housing project on the land presently "owned" by the Institute for Advanced Study. My writing to you, as Chairman of the Planning Board, is indicative of my belief that upon you have been conferred, by the community, a certain responsibility to keep this town within the margins of balanced development.

This requires mercy, economy and humility. It also demands a hearty degree of dialogue between the citizens, and their representatives, although neither discipline nor compassion can be legislated.

That we have strayed woefully to the extreme of over-development is at once evident in nearly every sector of this region. Until we attain a respectable measure of integral equilibrium, we have no right -- any of us -- to add significantly to the problem.

What is needed is enough discipline to uphold the welfare of the whole; regardless of how much power or money is vested in the interests of any given part. This is the very quality which enabled George Washington and all the true forefathers of this country to settle this land for western culture.

Who were these men who fought at the battle of Princeton and why were they fighting? They were farmers, essentially. And I believe that they fought for this land with the intent to settle down afterwards and farm it; thereby preserving a heritage for both their ancestors, and the families to follow, by enacting a responsible stewardship of sublime sustenance, which was grounded in the proper use of the land.

Nothing has since changed. We are all forefathers, all stewards of this land, perhaps now more than ever. What I am urging in this writing is not a judgment as to whether or not such a development is right or wrong; but something entirely more immediate.

I am asking, indeed pleading, that the Planning Board rally to the cry of discriminating discipline by responsibly representing the needs of the local people. This means mustering the strength to say no when a proposal does not meet our true needs, and to defend our needs vehemently, in the face of all violators.

Clearly, very few of us want the development; fewer still could maintain that we need it. The land behind the Institute is perhaps the last vestige in this area which affords ample representation of the Sacred Source. Whether we abuse our rights as nurturers of this Source in the name of Progress or uphold the righteousness, we are still stewards -- no more, no less.

BAKRY SMITH

Re: 'Open Sewers'

To the Editor of Town Topics:
(The following is a letter to the Planning Board.)

It has been a year since the first time I appeared before this board to express my concern and to make you aware of the serious health hazard our town has been facing and continues to face due to what we can easily call "Open Sewers."

During this year my neighbors and I have brought to the attention of our elected officials the need to do some serious repair work on our town's trunk sewer lines. I have brought before this planning board pictures of manholes surcharging. I have made references about the kind of sewage debris this municipality continues to dump in our streams and the lake. We also have letters from the state addressed to this board that supports our fight.

Not once has the planning board as an entity expressed concern or even shown interest of looking into the serious health hazard caused by the "Open Sewers." Nor are you coordinating your planning efforts with the Sewer Operating Committee, to make certain that the satisfaction you give to developers by approving their proposal does not further exacerbate the surcharging of the sewer system all over town to the complete dissatisfaction, not to mention the destruction of property values, of people who already have settled on the land and have a right to enjoy their lives unmolested.

Now that I have become aware that a strong committee of concerned citizens has been formed to Save Palmer Square and to save the "air rights" of this town, I believe this is the right time to educate our community and to form another strong committee to "Save Princeton's Environment."

My fight to protect our rapidly declining environment will continue with the support of those residents who truly care and with the support from the State. It is sad and hurts to know that members of this planning board who as residents of this town are neglecting the deplorable condition of our sewer system and ignore the serious health consequences this entire community faces in case of an epidemic.

The problem begins every time anyone in this town flushes a toilet, runs a garbage disposal, empties herbicides, fungicides and chemical substances such as cleaning fluids down the drain. All this plus many more discharges run through the dilapidated trunk lines of Princeton. In wet and dry weather these combinations of toxic chemicals plus the sewage exfiltrates into the streams and the lake. The sewer problem is not a community problem. It is the number of polluted streams surrounding us plus the close proximity of Carnegie Lake that appears to be dying that constantly reminds us of the seriousness of this health hazard.

I strongly believe that the dumping of raw sewage by such a wealthy and educated municipality as ours is illegal and immoral, not to mention unsanitary and embarrassing.

Time to Rise and Fight.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter sent to members of the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

In talking to a cross section of Princetonians concerning the Institute's development program, I am astonished to find attitudes ranging from apathy to total ignorance that any such plan exists. Mainly there is disbelief. "It can never happen there in the flood plain." But it can and will if an enlightened populace doesn't rise and fight.

To bring the issue forcefully before the public, a landscaped site model of the entire area should be created showing in detail conditions as they exist today and the proposed changes. Ideally this should be an animated model. Press a button. Water flows. See what happens when it storms.

The exhibit should be prominently displayed in the center of town, preferably with a ballot box along side, and reaction thereto should govern the Planning Board's decision. The developers may balk at the cost of meeting this condition, yet it would approximate but one tenth of one percent of the $5 million profit they anticipate, a diminutive figure considering the magnitude of the proposition.

Princetonians virtually en masse shudder in shock at sight of the kiosk. Let them not one day awaken to a fait accompli infinitely more catastrophic and irreversible.

No More 'College Town'?
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Princeton: do you know who you are or who you want to be now?

After reading Kay Bret-nall's story in last week's TOWN TOPICS (pages 1 & 2; April 20, 1983), and viewing that distasteful kiosk at Palmer Square, I signed a petition of the Princeton-Area Committee-to-Save-Palmer-Square (Kay Strong, 921-8076), requesting the Princeton Regional Planning Board to stop further expansion and change of Palmer Square.

Then, after going to the Planning Board meeting last night, I concluded again that our local government bodies here have perhaps reached another crossroads in deciding whether or not we want Princeton to continue being a college town or to become a regional business center?

Over the last 20 years, I have felt that the trouble with Princeton geographically is that it is too close to Trenton (state government and state capital), and not far enough away from New York City (materialism, largeness, aggressiveness, rudeness); last night's meeting made some of us feel this even more than ever!

Mr. Collins and his group appear to be running counter to the wishes of many citizens of this town, as this group appears to be doing in the City of Summit, Essex County, N.J. (pop. about 21,000). Perhaps we should question in greater detail here the accuracy, the motives, the values, of the Collins Development Corp. The city of Summit, N.J. will probably do this, by the way, with a "public presentation" by the Collins group on Wednesday, April 27, "after 7:30 p.m." in the Summit High School, Kent Place Boulevard.

But, in the last analysis, perhaps we should ask ourselves the following questions: do we want and/or can we handle the additional burdens that go with this proposed project by Collins for central Princeton?

If we think that we, with a total borough-township population of 25,718, when the various colleges are in session, do not want and/or cannot handle these additional burdens, with greater volumes of sewerage; fire and police protection; and traffic of people, cars, and trucks, then perhaps we should not take any of this on in the first place.

Show House hours will be Monday through Saturday from 10 to 4, Thursday from 10 to 8, and Sunday from 11 to 5. A donation of $5 is requested for admission. Bulk sale rates will be available; call the Designer Show House office at 397-0194 for prices.

Proceeds will benefit community-based programs in the Lambertville area and assist in providing vocational training for the handicapped. The sponsors are Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church and Fisherman's Mark, a private non-profit organization with an all-volunteer staff which provides an occupational training program for handicapped adults, a commercial printing program and an outreach program.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED To Ecology Camps. The Washington Crossing Audubon Society is holding a scholarship competition for two one-week scholarships to an Audubon Ecology Camp.

The scholarship for $375 will pay for one week of housing, meals, instruction and field trips, but will not cover transportation to and from the Audubon Ecology Workshop in Greenwich, Connecticut, or Audubon Camp in Wisconsin. Both camps provide participants with an opportunity to study first hand the major natural habitats of the area.

These include meadow, deciduous forest, hemlock forest, freshwater and salt-water communities in Connecticut, or glacial lakes, deciduous forest, coniferous forest, freshwater and bog communities in Wisconsin.

If the scholarship winner wishes, the scholarship money may be put toward the enrollment fee for attending Concert, Gordon Bok, Ann Audubon Ecology Camp in May. Also on the camp in Maine ($640) or the camp in the West (Wyoming's Wind River Mountains $640) with the remainder of the money to be paid by the participant. The money could also be put toward other Audubon programs such as the Chesapeake Bay Ecology Camp ($575), Boundary Water "A Soldier's Tale," Theater Canoeing ($340), Nature Intimate and the Program in Photography, Wyoming Theater and Dance; Murray Theater. Also on Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:30. Applicants must be at least 18 years of age by this summer. The deadline for application is April 30. Further information and application

WILDFLOWERS ARE TOPIC of South Brunswick Talk. Wildflowers of the Mountains will be the topic of a program to be held at the South Brunswick Public Library on Thursday, April 28, at 8. This slide-lecture presentation will focus on 9 distinctive wildflowers and their adaptations for survival at high altitudes.

Guest speaker will be John F. Gyer, a research engineer at Mobil Oil and past chairman of the Delaware Valley Chapter of the American Rock Garden Society. He is also active in the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and has published several articles in the "Green Scene."

This event has been arranged by the South Brunswick Garden Club in cooperation with the public library. It is free and open to the public, but pre-registration is necessary. To sign up, call the library, (201) 821-8224.

POETRY READING
At Art People Place. Grace Schulman, visiting poet in the Creative Writing Department at Princeton University and Director of the Y-92 Poetry Center in New York, will read her poetry on Wednesday, April 27, at 8, at the Art People Place, 102 Witherspoon Street. The Poetry Series is sponsored by the Arts Council of Princeton and funded by a grant, in part, from the Mercer County Cultural & Heritage Commission.

Ms. Schulman's book of poems, "Burn Down The Icons," was published by Princeton University Press. Her poems, essays and translations have appeared in many publications, including the New Yorker, American Poetry Review, Poetry and Antaeus. She has been poetry editor of The Nation since 1972. Her poetry is included in several anthologies including A Geography of Poets, A Book of Women Poets from Antiquity to Now, and New American Poetry into the Eighties.

Introducing Grace Schulman, and reading some of her own poetry will be Janet M. Wittler. Her poems have won a first place award from the American Association of University Women and have enabled her to work for Poets in the Schools in New York. Her poetry is most recently found in the book, "The American Poetry Anthology," published this spring, as well as in other anthologies and many small magazines including the Strand in England and The Shore Poetry Anthology in the U.S.A. Ms. Wittler has been responsible for coordinating and directing the series.

NURSES ARE FOCUS
Of PMC Exhibit. The nursing department at Princeton Medical Center will observe National Nurse Day with an open house in the Medical Center lobby, Friday, May 6, from 9-6.

Nursing personnel will be on hand with exhibits and displays in the lobby. The displays will focus on the current trends in the nursing profession, the place of the nurse in hospital practice and areas of specialization for the professional nurse. The public is welcome to visit the lobby and discuss with members of the nursing staff the expanded role of the patient advocate, the nurse.

THREE PROMOTED
At University. Three personnel actions involving members of the Princeton University administrative staff have been announced following the regular spring meeting of Princeton's board of trustees.

Eugene J. McPartland, 49, has been elected vice president for facilities, effective July 1. Associate Provost Richard R. Spies, 38, who is also a lecturer in economics, has been named vice provost, and Associate Controller Christopher McCrudden, 37, has been given the additional title of director of the budget. Both appointments are also effective July 1.

Mr. McPartland had recently completed service in the Civil Engineer Corps of the Navy when he joined the Princeton administrative staff as general manager of plant in September, 1976. Two years later, upon the resignation of Vice President John P. Moran, he assumed his present position as general manager of planning, plant and properties, and his new post encompassed many of the responsibilities previously held by Mr. Moran.

He has had administrative oversight of the departments of engineering and construction, maintenance, physical planning, real estate and services. In addition he serves as secretary to the trustees' committee on grounds and buildings and has primary responsibility for representing the university's real estate interests before governmental bodies.

Mr. Spies, a 1967 graduate of Amherst College who received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in economics from Princeton in 1972, has held his present post since 1976. He previously had served as assistant provost (1972-76), assistant to the provost (1971-72) and teaching assistant (1968-70). His responsibilities have covered a wide range of functions performed by the Office of the Provost, but with special emphasis on budgeting and resource allocation.

He serves as the executive secretary and chief staff person for the Priorities Committee, a faculty-student-administration committee charged with making recommendations to the president about the university budgets. Working with the provost, he has special responsibilities for the university's computer center, library, space allocation, major maintenance, and the planning and budgeting of capital construction and renovation projects.

Mr. McCrudden spent two years in the budget review division of the Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. before joining Princeton in 1973 as assistant controller for budget and long-range planning. Working closely with the Office of the Provost and the financial vice president and treasurer, he has responsibility for the preparation and analysis of material summarizing the University budget for use by the Priorities Committee. He also oversees the implementation and execution of the approved operating budget.

In 1977, Mr. McCrudden was promoted to associate controller and assumed the additional responsibility of assuring compliance with various government regulations pertaining to the accounting for direct and indirect costs of sponsored research.

TWO CLASSES OFFERED

By Artisans Guild. The YWCA Artisans Guild has scheduled two one-session classes on two succeeding Thursdays.

A class in machine knitting will be taught by Pat Varvel, a member of the Guild, on Thursday, May 5, from 10 to 2. Students will learn to operate both fine needle and bulky home knitting machines. Basic knitting techniques will be taught, along with fancy stitches, lace patterns and suitability of various yarns. Students should bring a notebook, pencil and bag lunch.

PEER GROUPS TO SHARE

Workshop this Saturday. Regarding each other sometimes with suspicion, other times with indifference, public and private school students nevertheless belong to the same age group and have the same concerns.

From Princeton High and Princeton Day School, students in the Peer Leadership Training Program will join with their teachers to sponsor a workshop this Saturday at PDS. Students and teachers will come from schools as remote from each other as Hotchkiss School, Red Bank Regional High, Wardlaw Hartridge Preparatory and South Brunswick High — among the dozen or that will attend — to share experiences in Peer Leadership Training.

"PDS and PHS are very involved in the same objectives," according to Sharon Powell, who runs Peer Training in both schools. "They want to reach out to freshmen, they're concerned about drug problems expressed last June by David Toma, they're concerned about misconceptions about each other and how these can be changed."

PEER EXERCISE: These Princeton High students, Peer Leaders selected to be role models for freshmen, hold out their arms to receive another Peer, in an exercise designed to build trust. Shown are Laura Lareuse, Chris Sanderson, Paul Knoepfelmacher, Mary Marson, Sylvia Greenspan and Rita Sweeney.

There will be 24 Peer Leaders and four staff from PHS, 20 Leaders and four staff from PDS. Mrs. Powell is coordinator.

In both schools, Mrs. Powell continues, there are black students, members of other minority groups, a cross-section of socio-economic strata. PDS draws students from Trenton and outlying districts and so has more diversity than public school students realize, she added.

In recruiting Peer Leaders, Mrs. Powell says that she strives for diversity: kids deeply into sports, officers of student government, those who write poetry. "I think we've achieved that, in both schools."

The idea behind the Peer Leadership Training Program is that students respond to their peers who are leaders. At Princeton High, Peer Leadership is a credit course which meets five days a week. At PDS, it is a voluntary, three-day course with no credit.

At PHS, it's voluntary for freshmen; at PDS, it's required and is part of the freshman curriculum.

What works at one school, may not at another: the "Give Me Your Best" exercise was very successful at PHS, a flop at PDS. But parent nights have been "hugely" successful at both schools, Mrs. Powell reports.

Students chosen for Peer Leadership are warned that there must be a commitment of time and responsibility. Students are to be in the Peer class every day — "only a fever of 102 will excuse you," Mrs. Powell says — and if you don't attend the fall retreat, then you're out of the group. "In four years, there has only been one student who left."

School Guide for ages 9-14 uses some original maps, tavern signs and artist's sketches of her in action as she "mist nets" and bands birds in the field on Sunday morning, May 15, at 8.

Created by Constance K. Escher and printed on paper which replicates 18th century linen rag, the guide's cover features an original drawing by Gillette Griffin. Richard Waldron, Assistant Director of the New Jersey Historical Commission, has ordered the guide for the 1983 Teachers Workshop co-sponsored by the Commission and the Society, to be held in the fall.

Prof. Griffin has captured the flavor of 1783 Princeton, which had changed from "a little obscure village" to a capital of America bustling with wagons, coaches and chairs. The famous "sign of the Huddibrass" tavern, formerly located where the Louise Nevelson sculpture now sits on Firestone Library's lawn, was much more than a place for college trustees and delegates alike to "tipple" grog, flip or punch. Taverns as centers of communication, commerce and entertainment are examined by students at the Museum.

Hands-on activities include writing names with quill pens, grating nutmeg — a treasured spice, trying on tricorn hats and aiming a fowling piece. Gallons of hot spiced cider have been consumed by happy visitors.

A second, simplified guide encourages pre-school to second-graders to color a period drawing of the facade of Bainbridge House and the accessories to the taproom. Both guides were funded by two grants from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the New Jersey State Council of the Arts.

Besides guides to take home, the Museum also offers books, graphic materials, hands-on objects illuminating the 18th century. Teachers or Scout leaders may sign out for these classroom enrichment materials through the generosity of a Princeton Youth Fund grant awarded to the Children's Museum last March.

The Exhibit will continue through the fall with several special open house events scheduled to celebrate the five months our hometown was the capital of our new country. Teachers are invited to call Bainbridge House, 921-6748, any morning for a class appointment.

TWO PROGRAMS SET

By Watersheds Assn. Solar energy can be collected without fancy equipment and costly capital or operating expenses.

John Hutchinson, associate professor of industrial education at Trenton State College, will explain the principles of Passive Solar Design and show slides to illustrate how these principles have been implemented in new and old homes in New Jersey. This program will be conducted on Thursday, May 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association's Headquarters located on Titus Mill Road in Hopewell Township.

Hannah Suthers, ornithologist and researcher, will deliver an interim report on the changes in birdlife diversity and numbers which she has observed and recorded in aging farm fields located on the Sourland Hills of Hopewell. The report, entitled "Old Field Succession and Changing Birdlife," will be given at the Watersheds' Headquarters on the evening of Thursday, May 12, at 7:30.

Ms. Suthers has also invited interested persons to observe her in action as she "mist nets" and bands birds in the field on Sunday morning, May 15, at 8.

Both members and non-members are invited to attend these programs. A nominal registration fee will be charged. To register call 737-3735.

FINAL TWO WORKSHOPS

In YWCA Series. Continuing its series "Healing the Inner Ache," the Adult Department of the YWCA will present two further workshops, April 28 and May 5, Thursday evenings.

This series, moderated and coordinated by Darlene Prestbo, ACSW, presents a variety of ways to cope with the more painful aspects of life. Family members and concerned friends are invited.

The workshop this Thursday features Nancy Seaman, RN, MSN, of the Princeton Medical Center, who will help participants deal with managing loss and grief. Well known for her ability to help the group arrive at individually helpful strategies and emotional response to their situations, Ms. Seaman will discuss the area of loss of many kinds — through death, changing relationships and circumstances.

JUDGES ANNOUNCED

For Photo Contest, Judges have been announced for the Princeton University Store's ninth annual Amateur Photo Contest. Deciding who wins the six prizes will be City professional photographers James Alan Colman, Betsey Lewis, and Grant Peterson.

The three are professionals who have expertise in three different aspects of photography. Mr. Colman maintains his own studio in Rocky Hill, and teaches photography there. He has also taught at Rutgers University and Mercer County Community College, and has had a number of shows, including one at the New Jersey State Museum.

The work of Ms. Lewis, currently with Phars Studios, has appeared in many publications, including the New York Times and her work has been shown at the School of Visual Arts in New York City.

Mr. Peterson is a commercial photographer who maintains his own studio in New York City. He studied at Parsons School of Design, and specializes in still-life photography for advertising.

The deadline for entries in the contest, which is open to all amateur photographers, is 5 p.m. Saturday. Entry forms are available at the U-Store's camera department.

The show will open with a reception Thursday, May 5, at 7.

PLANT EXPERT TO SPEAK

At Squad Benefit, Ralph Snodsmith, host of "Garden Hotline," a WOR Radio talk show, is coming to the Montgomery High School in Skillman on Wednesday, May 4, at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Snodsmith is a TV and radio authority on horticulture, who has given over 2,000 lectures to various organizations and written articles for many papers, including the New York Times Garden Section. He is a professional consultant to major corporations, municipalities, estates, horticultural businesses and private individuals.

The program includes "Humor in Horticulture," giving points on how to select, care for, diagnose problems and enjoy plants and gardening. There will also be a question and answer period. The audience is encouraged to bring in sick and dying plants and seek his advice on how to nurse them back to health.

This program is sponsored by the Montgomery First Aid Squad Auxiliary. Tickets at $4 can be purchased by calling Pat at 359-2272 or Kathy, 359-1897, or at the door.

SCULPTURE RUN

On Campus. The Student Friends of The Art Museum, Princeton University, will sponsor the Fifth Annual Sculpture Run on Saturday, April 30, at 3. Prof. Eileen Guggenheim will lead a group of students and townspeople on a running tour of the John B. Putnam, Jr., Memorial Collection of contemporary sculpture.

The Sculpture Run has become one of the rites of spring on the Princeton University campus. It provides a way to gain insight into the works of art that are part of the University. Starting at the gates in front of Nassau Hall, the Run moves from sculpture to sculpture, stopping for remarks on each work. Some of the artists represented are Jacques Lipchitz, David Smith, Louise Nevelson, Gaston Lachaise, Alexander Calder, and Pablo Picasso.

The Fifth Annual Sculpture Run welcomes all who are interested, regardless of athletic prowess or knowledge of modern art; comfortable attire is recommended. There will be a reception on completion of the Run in front of the Museum. Commemorative T-shirts are on sale for $5 at the Museum sales desk. For further information, call JoAnn Carchman, Director of Community Relations, at 452-3762.

PLAYGROUND TO GAIN

From Road Race. The first annual Hilltop Road Race will be held Sunday at 1.

The starting point for the five-mile event will be the Princeton Shopping Center. The $5 entry fee will benefit a new 11-acre public park and playground off Bunn Drive. Each of the first 150 entrants will receive a free T-shirt.

Applications may be picked up at a number of locations around town, including Thomas Sweet Chocolates, Nautilus, Hinkson's and The Athlete's Foot.

Pierre Bellocq, of Princeton-Kingston Road, has been awarded the title of Chevalier dans l'Ordre des Arts et des Lettres by the French Ministry of Culture. An artist and cartoonist, Mr. Bellocq's sketches appear in the Daily Racing Form, published in Hightstown, Los Angeles, Chicago and Toronto.

He began his career by drawing political sketches for France Libre in Paris at the end of World War II. He soon switched, however, from politics to horses, a passion inherited from both his father and grandfather.

In 1952, Mr. Bellocq was commissioned by the Laurel Race Track in Maryland to do the advertising, programs and posters for the newly established Washington International Race. Not long after, he was hired by Walter Annenberg as a cartoonist for the Philadelphia Inquirer and, upon the sale of the Inquirer, by Annenberg's Daily Racing Form.

Mr. Bellocq is also kept busy by his own company, which produces posters that he designs and sells. His sketches and murals decorate walls at Meadowlands, Giant Stadium, L.I. Aqueduct and Arlington track outside Chicago.

Some of his cartoons on politics were a part of the personal collection of President Lyndon B. Johnson, who invited Mr. Bellocq to some of the barbecues at the LBJ ranch.

His most recent award is not his first. In 1961 Mr. Bellocq's posters were judged best in a Paris competition sponsored by the International Advertising Art Council. Then, in 1968, he received a prize at Montreal's fifth International Salon of Cartoons.

More recently, in 1980, Mr. Bellocq received a Special Eclipse Award, an award presented to persons having made extraordinary contributions to the sport of racing. His latest honor as Chevalier dans l'Ordre des Arts et des Lettres is in recognition of his contribution to French art and culture.

John J. Morris, president of Nassau Broadcasting Company, has been appointed president pro-tem of the Armed Forces Broadcasters Association.

Mr. Morris was a soldier and later a civilian employee of the American Forces Network, Europe, for several years prior to his association with Nassau Broadcasting.

earned a M.S. degree at Rutgers University in 1953.

Mr. Applegate was vice president, government relations, for the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce and executive director of the Chemical Industry Council of New Jersey for nine years, retiring in 1981. He also worked 23 years with the New Jersey Education Association as director of public relations and as director of government relations.

A native of Asbury Park, Mr. Applegate is a former president of the National School Public Relations Association. He earned the Distinguished Service Award from Rutgers University; the Service to Education Award from the New Jersey Education Association and the Legislative Achievement Award from the New Jersey Retired Education Association.

Dr. Linda Lederman of Southern Way has organized the 74th annual convention of the Eastern Communication Association (ECA), which meets this week in Ocean City, Md.

More than 500 communication educators will attend the convention, with the theme "Communication in a Complex Social Reality," and 300 academic papers will be presented.

Dr. Lederman is an assistant professor in the Department of Communication, a unit of the School of Communication, Information, and Library Studies at Rutgers University. As first vice president and president-elect of ECA, her responsibilities include selecting the convention theme, coordinating the four-day schedule of the convention, and compiling a 90-page program book which lists all papers presented by communication scholars and researchers.

ECA is the oldest professional communication association in the country, with a membership of over 700 scholars from northeastern states.

Dr. Lederman is the author of the college text "New Dimensions: An Introduction to Human Communication," and numerous journal articles. With Dr. Lea Stewart of Rutgers, she has completed the participant's manual for a simulated administrative program called Simcorp, in which students learn how to communicate within a large organization.

Staff Sgt. Alexander H. Busch, son of Alexander O. and Maria Busch of Pennington, N.J., has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal at Fort Bragg, N.C. The medal is awarded to soldiers for achievement or meritorious service and acts of courage.

Sgt. Busch is an infantryman with the 82nd Airborne Division. He is a 1975 graduate of Hopewell Valley Central High School, Pennington.

Michael M. Bolster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bolster Jr. of Parkside Drive, has been selected as one of the six Outstanding Peace Corps Volunteers of 1983. He was honored by President Reagan and Peace Corps Director Loret M. Ruppe at a ceremony at the White House this week.

The six winners of the award were chosen from approximately 5,200 volunteers serving in over 62 countries. A graduate in architecture from Tulane University, New Orleans, Michael was chosen for his outstanding work in re-establishing water systems in the Arab Republic of Yemen for thousands of citizens after last winter's devastating earthquake.

In nominating Michael, the Peace Corps country director for Yemen said that he "adjusted well to one of the greatest hardship countries in the world. His ability to communicate in Arabic and his acculturation to the Yemen mores and mentality complemented his tireless efforts to assist engineering and construction of vital water systems."

Tink and Joe Bolster attended the White House ceremony on behalf of their son, who is still in Yemen.

Air Force Reserve Airman 1st Class Charles J. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fischer of 174 Opossum Road, Skillman, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance training course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Airman Fischer will now serve with the 51st Military Airlift Wing at McGuire Air Force Base. He is a 1978 graduate of Montgomery High School.

Carmen Prezioso, chairman of the Foreign Language Department of Princeton High School, was presented a plaque by the New Jersey Foreign Language Association for his outstanding contribution to the study of foreign language in New Jersey.

Ingrid W. Reed, an assistant dean at Princeton University, is one of 47 outstanding young American professionals chosen for Class IV of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation's National Fellowship Program.

The Fellowship Program, initiated in 1980, is aimed at helping the nation expand its pool of capable leaders. The program is structured to increase individuals' skills and insights into areas outside their chosen disciplines so they can deal more creatively and effectively with society's complex problems.

A member of the Princeton staff since 1975, Ms. Reed is assistant dean for planning and administration in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. She is also administrative director of Princeton's Rockefeller Public Service Awards program. She has worked for the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, the Educational Testing Service, and the Life Insurance Association of America in New York City.

Ms. Reed is chair of the Mercer County Planning Board and serves on the Governor's Task Force on the Future of the Tri-State Regional Planning Commission.

Each Kellogg National Fellow receives a three-year grant of up to $35,000 to pursue a professionally broadening self-designed plan of study. Participation in Foundation-designed seminars that focus on issues facing leaders in domestic and international settings is also required.

CORRECTION

Because of a typographical error, a word was omitted from the lead sentence in the story about RCA Laboratories in the April 20 issue that changed the meaning of the sentence.

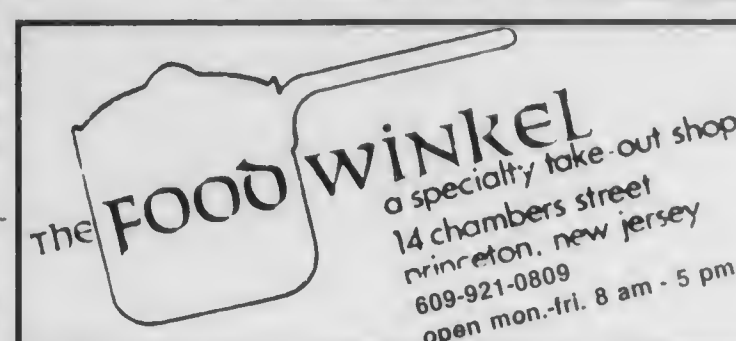

The sentence should have read: Unable to obtain the venture capital it needed for the commercial development of its amorphous silicon solar cells, RCA Laboratories has decided to discontinue its Solar Research Group.

Emma Epps Named Outstanding Volunteer By Council of Community Services for 1983

At first, you're tempted to call her "feisty," but you realize immediately that the word does not convey the dignity, sinew and strength of this remarkable woman.

Emma Epps celebrated her 82nd birthday April 11, ten days before she walked into The Nassau Club — where she would not have been allowed to enter not too many years ago — to receive the 1983 Council of Community Services' Robert E. Clancy award for outstanding service as a volunteer.

Her maternal grandfather was a Masai, seven feet two inches tall. Her paternal grandfather was part Seminole Indian.

Two aunts and an uncle were born in slavery. "The last man who owned my grandmother ..." she will remark.

Mrs. Epps herself often seems seven feet two inches tall, although she has to raise her eyebrows to achieve five feet. She spoke out against injustice to blacks in days when it was a fearful thing for a black to do. "Anyplace there's a fight going on, I'm usually in it," she says with cheer.

Recounting her fight against Princeton University and the removal of black homes in the mid-'30s to build Palmer Square, she remarks, almost as an aside:

"I'm kind of fiery and I can't take that kind of thing ..."

Somebody added up the years she has served as a volunteer, and came up with 294. Starting with 56 years on the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, 50 years with the NAACP, 49 years on the Auxiliary Board of the Neuropsychiatric Institute in Skillman, 44 years with the Friendship Club, 28 years on various migrant worker boards, 26 years as a Friendly Visitor at Skillman, 19 years as a Friend of the Public Library, 11 years as a Pink Lady and Auxiliary member of the Medical Center at Princeton, and others. It's her Pink Lady years that probably bring the wryest smile to her face. The hospital, at that time, wasn't much interested in the black ladies of the Friendship Club.

So Friendship members called up the white women they knew in town.

"They talked to the Auxiliary and they took us in," she smiles.

Born in Princeton, sent to school in the south because the high school here did not accept blacks, she was Valedictorian of her class at Danville (Virginia) High School. She started at Lynchburg Theological Seminary and College, but her mother was ill, here in Princeton, and young Emma Greene returned in 1919 to help her mother. Mrs. Joseph Greene died at the age of 35.

It was Mrs. Greene who had started the "Witherspoon Branch" of the YWCA, in 1920, with 15 young black girls as a start.

"The 'Y' concentrated on girls entering high school, to help them choose their courses," Mrs. Epps remembers.

She herself, musical, with a lovely voice, began to take singing lessons at Westminster Choir College.

"But they cost $5 an hour. I couldn't afford that! So I left."

She remembers with pleasure those early years of the 'Y,' years also when she served on the board, along with her mother. The girls learned to make kid gloves, and learned to type.

They would hike to Devil's Cave — "Route 206 wasn't here yet" — taking their folding tin cups, drinking from the spring, picking flowers. In the winter, there were skating parties on Carnegie Lake, with hot-dogs and marshmallows.

It was in 1948 that she married F. Douglas Epps. He died three years ago at 91. "I still miss him," she says quietly. In the house they shared on Birch Avenue, Mrs. Epps has his photograph, taken by former Princeton photographer Ulli Steltzer. Near it on the wall is a photograph of Martin Luther King Jr.

On the coffee table is a copy of Freeman Dyson's book "Disturbing the Universe." Dyson, a member of the faculty at the Institute for Advanced Study, was a colleague of Mrs. Epps when both served on the Borough-Township citizens committee to study DNA research, and he has inscribed her copy, "to my friend."

It was Princeton University that was chiefly involved in DNA, although the committee had to consider the possibility that other institutions might do DNA research in the future. Always flinty and tough where the University is concerned — there are those Palmer Square memories, and the relationship between Douglas Epps and the University during his years as chef — Mrs. Epps voted "no."

"My conscience tells me to say no," Dr. Dyson quotes her as saying.

At last Thursday's luncheon, Mrs. Epps received the small abstract sculpture in silver that is the Clancy award, and stood to acknowledge the award and say "thank you."

"I'm not going to say much," she began, and then paused. "My friends will be surprised to hear me say that." Because Emma Epps is renowned as a talker.

ARBOR DAY — with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
As Spring slowly unfolds, we approach a holiday which should become more and more important in today's world ...

ARBOR DAY is the last Friday in April. In the light of the whole catalog of modern-day environmental ills, the need for maintaining trees and green areas becomes most essential. New Jersey has thousands of acres of idle land ... land not suited to crops, other than trees. On these acres landowners are planting over a million trees a year, for forest products and soil and water conservation. Additional thousands are being planted for ornamental purposes. Some towns have acquired land for community forests. These wooded areas are managed mainly for recreation, but forest products and water conservation are useful byproducts.

Why not join others all over the country and give a tree to someone you love? What a thoughtful way to say you care! Why not call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your tree care needs? P.S. The creepy crawlies are coming — it's time to have your trees sprayed!!!

RELIGION In Princeton

CELEBRATION PLANNED
To Honor Israel's Independence. The Jewish Center invites the community to a weekend celebration of Israel's 35 years of independence. The celebration is sponsored by the Center and Jewish organizations in the community.

On Friday evening, Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt, spiritual leader of the Jewish Center, will lead the congregation in Sabbath services, followed by a performance by the Center Choir of Israeli music. An Oneg Shabbat will follow.

On Saturday at 9:15 p.m. the celebration will continue with "Food, Fun and Frolic, Israeli Style." Traditional Middle Eastern foods will be served, and the Doron Maigners Continental Orchestra will provide live entertainment. A fee to cover costs will be collected at the door.

A bus will leave the Jewish Center Sunday at 9:15 a.m. for the traditional Israeli Day Parade in New York City. Transportation is available on a first-come, first-served basis. The community is welcome to all these activities. For more information call the Jewish Center at 921-0100.

FELLOWSHIP DAY SET
By Church Women. Church Women United will celebrate May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 6, at noon at All Saints' Church. Luncheon will be served.

The theme this year is "There's a Balm in Gilead." The service was written by women from black denominations, and the singing of spirituals will be featured. Music will be provided by Gloria Frederick and Sarah B. Harris.

The program will also feature speakers from four different programs in the community in which women are working to help others. These include the Witherspoon Jackson Development Corporation, the Crisis Ministry, centered at Nassau Presbyterian Church, and Princeton Community Housing. In addition, Loy Carrington will speak on youth needs in the area. Church Women United is a national movement of Christian women from Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox backgrounds. It invites women to come together for worship, study, action and prayer.

Reservations may be made through area churches, or tickets may be purchased at the door for $3.50.

PIANIST TO PLAY
At Nassau Christian Center. Vincent Di Mura, pianist and composer, will present a piano concert at Nassau Christian Center on Saturday, May 7, at 7:30. The program will consist of Toccata by Bach-Busoni, Sonata by Beethoven, Preludes by Debussy, Passacaglia by Copland, and Sonata by Grieg.

Mr. DiMura, 22, a resident of Middlesex, is a pianist, composer, transcriber, and teacher. A graduate of Manhattan School of Music, he is currently a student of Constance Keene and Marc Silverman in New York and a composition student of David Noon's. The winner of many awards, he has performed several times at Carnegie Recital Hall. In 1977 he attended a special seminar on piano performance with Jean Paul Seville in Perpignan, France, where he also performed.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is free—an offering will be taken. Nassau Christian Center is located on the corner of Nassau and Chambers Streets. For more information call 921-0981 or 452-2828.

GROUND-BREAKING SET
By Jewish Center. The first major renovation of the 24-year-old Jewish Center of Princeton will begin with a groundbreaking ceremony Sunday, May 8. The public is invited to attend the 1 a.m. ceremony.

Changes in the Center, located at 457 Nassau Street, will include construction of a new sanctuary and doubling of the size of the religious school. Cost of the project will be $2 million.

Among the changes will be a resurfacing of the brick-faced structure with Jerusalem stone. The project also will include a new library of Judaica and the building of a senior citizens' "drop-in center."

Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt, spiritual leader of the congregation, noted that "the renovation marks the evolution of our Center as a focal point of religious and community life for the growing number of Jewish families in the Princeton, East and West Windsor, Lawrence and Montgomery Townships. Not only do we look forward to better serving our members, but to an enhancement of our role in the broader community."

Alvin E. Gershen, general chairman of the development committee and a past president of the Center, commented that the project reflects the steady growth of the congregation from a membership of 80 families in 1959 when the facility was erected to its current membership of 485. Dr. Zola Horowitz is co-chairman of the Development Committee.

An important aspect of the project will be the selection of a number of art works for display in the Center. The arts inclusion committee is headed by Judith K. Brodsky, an area artist who also is acting associate provost of Rutgers University in Newark.

Edward Enourato & Sons of Trenton is the general contractor. Abraham Goodman of Linden is the architect.

MISSION CONFERENCE
At Westerly Road Church. Westerly Road Church, 37 Westerly Road, will hold its 14th Annual Missionary Conference beginning Thursday evening, through Sunday evening.

The theme of the conference is "Faithful To Teach Others Also," (II Timothy 2:2). The main speaker will be the Rev. Les Thompson, director of Logoi, Inc., with headquarters in Miami, Fla. Logoi's goal is to train national pastors in Central and South America to minister to their own people. Six other missionaries and two missionary candidates will also participate.

The conference goal of $4000 will be used in part to assist the staff of the Word of Life Bible Institute in Brazil, assist the training of pastors in Central America, and to renovate a library for a Bible College in Zimbabwe, Africa.

For more information on the missionary conference, call 924-3816.

CHINA DECORATING
At Cranbury Church. St. David's Episcopal Church, Cranbury, will present a China Decorator's exhibit and sale on Saturday from noon until 5 in the newly complex church building, located on Cranbury-Hightstown Road. Work by artists from the Central New Jersey-Delaware Valley area will be featured.

The art of decorating on porcelain and bone china is an ancient one that flourishes today, among a relatively few, dedicated artists. It was a popular pastime for women in the Victorian and Edwardian eras, but with World War I, the necessary materials became scarce and it wasn't until after World War II with the advent of new and plentiful materials that the art began to grow in popularity once again.

A variety of porcelain pieces will be exhibited, including traditional plates, tea and coffee pots, pitchers, vases, decorative boxes, trays, pictures and jewelry. Antique examples of china painting will also be displayed.

Refreshments, prepared by the women of St. David's, will be available at the tea table. Admission is a $2 donation.

A Unique Stone Front Cape Cod On the Princeton Side of Lawrenceville

What a beautiful setting for this unusually attractive Cape Cod overlooking a brook in a wooded glen just west of Princeton. From its front to back living room with fireplace to its country kitchen with parrot and breezeway with barbecue and cathedral ceiling there is a feeling of a special home. There's a master bedroom with back stairway to a sewing room above on the ground floor, and two more Cape Cod family bedrooms up above, one with a cedar closet. Custom built on 3 1/2 acres of beautiful land with an additional building lot available with a scenic brook at a reasonable lot price. Call us at Firestone and see this lovely home tonight. Offered at $178,000

The Princeton League of Women Voters Marks 50 Years of Involvement in Community Affairs

Fifty years ago... it was held a job without being in still, in Princeton, the era of clear violation of that protocol, even if she were writing calling cards. In this "sleepy country town," there was a closely-knit upper class, and its focus was Princeton University.

In the home of Mrs. William Meredith one afternoon there was a gathering of ladies. Most were faculty wives. Those who were, had all experienced that wet-palmed day when, as a new faculty wife, they had been called upon by the wives of professors in their husband's department, ladies in hat and white gloves who remained for 15 minutes, left engraved cards, and departed.

The call had been returned. Dinners were exchanged, sometimes a harrowing experience for a young wife without a butler or maid, perhaps without even a full set of dishes.

For these bright, but frustrated young women, the meeting in Julia Meredith's house opened a new world. The proposal: to form a chapter in Princeton of the Social Club Also. Although the stated purpose of the group was "to help educate citizens," the League was described as "a social club with some intellectual aspirations," and the 1933 roster included an Entertainment Committee.

Mrs. Karl Pettit closed the 1934 annual meeting by announcing that those who wanted to remain for bridge, would be accommodated in the lounge.

League President Dorothy Riefler, who took office in 1938, has been credited with "making the ladies of Princeton take the League seriously," and gradually the social atmosphere faded away.

One of the League's first projects was a public meeting where candidates for office mobilization. Almost from the first, there had been a rubbing, a friction, between the concepts of study, and of action. By the end of the war, however, the League no longer had that "lady-like idea of studying, without pressing for action."

Post-War Changes. Princeton had changed. The town was growing. Ridicule killed the stilted protocol at the University. The Borough elected Minot C. Morgan Jr., its first Democratic mayor, in 1948. (He was later to be an important supporter of the League's housing committee.)

The League, grew, too. By 1947, it had 273 members, most of whom wanted action. Membership was still weighted on the side of faculty wives. Working women had little time, although Firestone librarian Hazel Benjamin became a League president. Women who were not well-educated sometimes admitted privately that they found the League rather intimidating.

There were few black members, although in the 1940s, a few black teachers joined.

In those post-war years, the League sponsored lectures in economics and inflation by John Kenneth Galbraith, who was living in Princeton at the time, and by Paul Strayer. It was suggested by these speakers that perhaps League members might write their views to Congressmen for "action."

In 1948, the League began "Know Your Town," another League tradition which has continued over the years.

Consolidation Supporters. League members came out of their shell fighting, with the issue of consolidation of Borough and Township.

Consolidation was the League's tradition prime, driving interest of the League from the late '40s until the smashing defeat of November, 1953, and even that defeat, many members felt, brought League members closer together.

It began, in a way, with a proposal in 1946 for a joint Borough-Township planning board. The Township was outraged: "We don't want a lot of outsiders (from the Borough) coming in and doing our planning for us," one objector said.

The proposal was eventually voted down.

Throughout 1952 and 1953, late '30s, the first serious subject of a single notice the Princeton community gave the League came structure, and by 1952, almost through a group formed to 100 League members had mobilize support for low-cost volunteered to work on the housing. The need for such campaign.

"Be as stubborn as your opponent by most of Princeton, ponents, but avoid bitterness although Gerard B. Lambert and controversy," was the had built ten low-cost apartments with his own money in 1938.

It was a subject the League would return to with vigor Benjamin, Margaret Sprout, after World War II. Margaret Alice Tucker.

Citizens Group Formed. On December 11, 1952, the League invited other groups in town to form a citizens group. Bernice Miller chaired the meeting. Those present included yet to come out of their shell," she remarked.

During World War II, the League moved into an empty building on Nassau Street—address unknown—and set up a Consumer Information Center, advising residents on rationing, conserving, buying. They held a series of forums, "Democracy at Work," and studied the role of women in

'A SOLDIER'S TALE'
Combined Talents. In a production combining the musical abilities of the Princeton University Orchestra, the architecture talents of Michael Graves and the choreographic skills of Geulah Abrahams, three Princeton University entities will join to sponsor a production of Igor Stravinsky's "A Soldier's Tale" May 5-8 and 12-14. The ballet will be given in Murray Theatre, with an 8:30 curtain each night.

Sponsors are Theatre Intime, the Friends of Music and the Program in Theatre and Dance at the University.

A seven-piece instrumental ensemble chosen from the Princeton University Orchestra, will play the landmark music Stravinsky composed in 1917. Michael Pratt will conduct.

Costumes and sets have both been designed by architect Michael Graves, who recently designed the Joffrey Ballet's production of "Fire." Ms. Abrahams, dancer and choreographer as well as teacher in the Program in Theatre and Dance, is directing and choreographing the production.

The Narrator will be Elisabeth Pedersen. An alumna of the University who danced and acted during her undergraduate years, she was a resident member of the Yale Ensemble Company last summer.

"A Soldier's Tale" is about a soldier on leave who meets the devil. He is offered the chance to give up his present life for the life of a rich man. He decides to change, but complications disrupt his newfound happiness and he is finally left with nothing of value.

James May, a member of the Theatre and Dance faculty and also a soloist with the Daniel Lewis Dance Company, will dance the role of the Soldier. Mark Metcalf, who has appeared in the New York Shakespeare Festival and in productions at McCarter Theatre, will play the devil. The part of the princess will be danced by Kiku Loomis.

Tickets, ranging from $6 to a $3 student admission, may be reserved by calling 452-8181.

WATCH OUT, BELLE!
Vampires in Chicago. For its 50th anniversary production, Princeton Community Players will delve into the trunk and bring out "Belle the Typewriter Girl, or The Vampires of Chicago."
The curtain will go up Friday, May 6 at 8:30 at the Playhouse theatre, 171 Broadmead. "Belle" will play again that Saturday and Sunday and again May 13-14 and 20-21. Sunday curtain-time is 7:30.

C.P. Cabaret!

A surprise solo by Principal Norma Gumbiner, a PTO chorus line of parents and teachers in precision organization, music by Assistant Superintendent Jamie McKenzie, known to be a dynamo on guitar, and Superintendent Paul Houston in some kind of role, not yet revealed — well, you get the idea.

It's a Cabaret, presented by the PTO of Community Park School to raise money for the playground. Date: Friday, May 6; curtain-time: 8 p.m. sharp (you know how school teachers are); place: Community Park School — where else? Admission: $5 per couple, which includes all the wine you can drink. Comestibles will be available for purchase.

This old-fashioned melodrama was originally produced by the Players in their first season in 1933. This is the third time it has been revived as an anniversary production — first for the silver anniversary in 1958 and again ten years ago for the 40th.

Director Herbert McAneny will have old-timers and newcomers in the cast. Jim Hopkins will play again the part he played 25 years ago, and Marie Miller will recreate her role of a decade ago.

Between the acts, the Players will revive the custom of the Olio of musical interludes. Tunes from the turn of the century will be directed by Earl Carhart.

The performance is open to the public and free of charge.

PROMISE: SURPRISES

With Momix Company. "We reserve the right to change our minds," says the head of the Momix dance company. Hence: no advance program information.

Momix, which grew out of the Pilobolus, includes two veterans of that pioneer company in addition to the Momix founders, Moses Pendleton and Alison Chase. In fact, one of the Pilobolus veterans is Princeton senior Mariann Taylor Company.

Other "surprise guests" are anticipated because Gulliver and all the other characters are played by women. Although Pendleton says "we never know for sure exactly who or how many people will take part in a given performance. Some of the works to be seen will be drawn from various duets, solos and ensemble numbers which the company has presented since its founding in 1980.

'GULLIVER'

Experimental Style. Using a giant grid where actors follow and then shatter communication patterns, as they are bombarded by dance, music, synthetic sounds, masks and a wide variety of other stimuli, a cast of Princeton University students will present this weekend a workshop project based on "Gulliver's Travels."

Four performances will be given, from this Thursday through Sunday, and will return for the week-end of June 3-4.

Princeton University's Triangle Club continues a tradition begun in 1889, when the first Triangle musical was presented by University undergraduates. ## News of the Theatres

"SECAUCUS SEVEN"
At Kresge. It's a summer week-end reunion of friends who grew up together in the activist '60s. Ten years later, they gather for a house party of basketball, nostalgia and skinny-dipping.

"Return of the Secaucus Seven" will be shown at Kresge Auditorium, Washington Road, next Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:30 each evening. This is a return for "Return", whose booking date last year coincided with the April blizzard that closed Princeton down for a time.

In the film, the 30-ish subjects find that their former idealism has shifted, as they face a practical world. They try to face their future, and hold onto their shared visions of the past at the same time.

THE ACTING COMPANY
In "Tartuffe," Actor John Houseman started The Acting Company in 1972, when he was head of Juilliard's drama division, because he felt that the actors in his first graduating class were too good to disband. He formed them into a professional company, which has since become the touring company of the Kennedy Center in Washington. They will play McCarter Theatre next Thursday, May 5 at 8 p.m., in a single performance of Moliere's comedy, "Tartuffe." The play will be presented in the English verse translation of poet Richard Wilbur.

Alumni of The Acting Company include Kevin Kline, Patricia LuPone, David Ogden Stiers and Leslie Geraei.

Audition for Singers
A cast which encompasses singers of all ages—a community theatre's delight, "The Sound of Music" will be produced by the Pennington Players in June at Washington Crossing State Park, and auditions have been scheduled for this week-end.

They will be held Saturday from 1 to 4 and Sunday from 5 to 8 in the Playbarn, West Franklin Avenue, Pennington, off Route 31. Singers are asked to bring a song from the show to sing for the director.

In Princeton

ANNIVERSARY CONCERT

At Trinity Church. In celebration of Trinity Church's 150th Anniversary, a concert will be held at the church on Sunday at 8 as part of the Trinity-All Saints Concert Series.

The program will consist of Bach's "Magnificat" conducted by John Bertalot, Mozart's "Coronation Mass" under the direction of Irene Willis, Erik Routley's "Sing We Triumphant" and Vaughn Williams' arrangement of "All People That On Earth Dwell." All the choirs of Trinity will be participating in the program, and soloists will be Ann Ackley, soprano; Mary Wescott, mezzo-soprano; William Eichorn, tenor; and Daniel Pratt, bass.

John Bertalot, the new organist at Trinity Church, will be conducting his first major concert in Princeton. Prior to coming to Trinity, Mr. Bertalot was organist and master of chorists at Blackburn Cathedral in England and senior lecturer at the Royal Northern College of Music in Manchester.

Space is limited so early reservations are advised. Tickets are $4 and $3 and may be purchased at Trinity Church. For further information call 924-2277.

CHAMBER MUSIC SET

By University Students. An evening of chamber music will be presented by the Friends of Music on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room of Woolworth Center. The performers will be Fred Chang and Valerie Vigoda, violins; Laurie Smith, viola;

Martin Pollak, cello; Hobart Earle, clarinet; and Douglas Dickson, piano.

The performers are Princeton University students and have been participants in a music department course called "Projects in Composition and Performance." Part of the course was a weekly chamber-music coaching session with Geoffrey Michaels, violinist and violist.

The program will be Mozart's Trio for Clarinet, Viola and Piano, K. 498; Brahms: Quintet for Piano and Strings, and the senior thesis of Douglas Dickson, a quintet for clarinet and strings. The concert is open to the public, admission free.

TO DEDICATE VIOLS

At Special Concert. Musica Alta, Princeton University's group for the performance of early music, will give a free concert in the University Chapel on Wednesday, May 4, at 8:30 to dedicate the receipt of a valuable collection of viols donated by Peter Benoit of the Class of 1953 and member of the Music Department Advisory Council.

Under the direction of Mary Anne Ballard, six students and faculty members of the Music Department have been working with the instruments since last fall, and will present a program of works by Taverner, Gibbons, Du Tertre and Dowland for viol consort and voice. Lute virtuoso, Ronn McFarlane, will join Musica Alta for the consort pieces and will perform solo works and lute ayres by Dowland, using authentic Renaissance playing techniques.

Viol performers include graduate students David Crook, Melissa Bohl and Janet Palumbo; faculty members, Margaret Bent and Paul Brainard and director, Mary Anne Ballard. The singers will be members of Musica Alta.

GUITAR WORKSHOP SET

At Music Celler. Jerry Silverman, a guitar instructor and folk singer, will give a workshop in guitar playing on Friday, May 6, at 7 p.m. Mr. Silverman majored in music at City College of New

The University Orchestra Under Michael Pratt Gives Impressive Performance of the 'Eroica'

This past weekend the Princeton University Orchestra performed the last of this season's concerts at Alexander Hall on the university campus.

Under the direction of Michael Pratt, the orchestra played a varied program which included the world premier performance of a work by Princeton University graduate student Lee Blasius, three Mozart arias sung by Richard Mellon and Jacquelyn McNeill, also students at the university, and culminating with a stunning performance of Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony.

Lee Blasius is currently a Ph.D. candidate in composition at the university. His piece, "Hold/Darken Slowly," was written specifically for Pratt and the orchestra. The work is an interesting mix of tonal and atonal elements infused with much chromaticism, and sounding at times like a bridge between Mahler and early Schoenberg, but still distinctly Blasius.

The work takes its name from stage directions found in the score of Mozart's Don Giovanni, at the junction of the last two scenes of the opera. The composer felt that Mozart's chromatic setting of the penultimate scene is not allowed to meld smoothly into that of the next. Thus, Blasius' music is an attempt to carry the feeling developed musically in the earlier scene over into the finale, or as the composer put it, to "flesh-out this sense of what lingers on when the old music ends and the new begins."

Pratt's reading of the piece was fluidly executed, although one was left with the feeling that subsequent hearings were necessary to grasp the full impact of the work's intent.

The set of arias which followed Blasius' piece served both to contrast and complement that work. Pratt drew on the talents of two university undergraduates to perform three arias from operas by Mozart. The first, "Ilai gia vinta la causa" from Le Nozze di Figaro, featured haritone Richard Mellon, a geology student who will soon be doing graduate work in opera.

Mellon does not have a particularly powerful voice, and it was sometimes overshadowed by the orchestra in loud passages. However, his tone was rich and well focussed, and he projected a good sense of the aria's dramatic essence.

Next, Jacquelyn McNeill, a biochemistry major, took the stage singing "Ach, ich fühl's" from Die Zauberflöte. Her delicate soprano voice was consistent and very controlled throughout her range, and carried well within the hall. The final aria was a lyric duet, "La ci darem la mano," from Don Giovanni.

Most impressive in this concert was the orchestra's performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 in E flat (the "Eroica"). This piece posed a great challenge to Pratt's fine young orchestra, and this challenge was met with fortitude and determination. While there were moments when the ensemble suffered slightly from strings which pushed the tempo, the overall effect of the performance was one of heroism and grandeur.

The orchestral sound in this work was full and colorful. The strings had a pleasing, polished sound which was somewhat lacking in brilliance but solidly unified in tone and ensemble. The winds were superb. The first-chair soloists could not have performed more expressively, especially in the second movement, and the horn trio in the Scherzo was truly magnificent.

The Finale of the symphony was played very skillfully with painstaking attention to every detail. One could not help but savor the long and exquisitely paced crescendo in the closing bars of this movement's slow section.

Pratt has a way of getting young performers to aspire to great musical heights. His work with the Princeton University Orchestra in this concert demonstrates his commitment to providing musical experiences of the highest calibre for these students.

BELL CHORUS CONCERT
At Choir College. The Concert Bell Chorus of Westminster Choir College will make its annual pre-tour campus appearance on Monday at 8 in the Playhouse at the Choir College. The Choir is under the direction of Donald E. Allured, associate professor in church music.
A new handbell composition by Timothy C. Shepard, a senior at Westminster, will be featured. The piece is entitled "Giubileo," and was composed in honor of William and Catherine Payn, alumni of the Choir College and prominent nationally in the world of handbells.

Assisting in the program will be the Concert II Handbell Choir, a second performing group organized in January. The choir has appeared jointly with the Westminster Chapel Choir and will play at the Kemp Children's Choir Festival on May 7 in the Princeton University Chapel. The Concert II Choir will be joined by 10 members of the College's advanced handbell class in a performance of a composition for double bell choir, "Jubilate for Bells," by Prof. Allured. Both of Westminster's five-octave sets of bells will be used in this piece.

The concert is open to the public and admission is free.

SPANISH MUSIC DUE
Concert in New Brunswick. The Opera Theatre of New Jersey will present a concert of Spanish vocal music and classical guitar on Monday at 8 at the Nicholas Music Center on the Douglass College Campus. Tickets are $3 each and will be sold at the door.

The program will include folk songs, works by such classic composers as Turina and Obradors, and selections from the operatic work of Manuel Gonzales, a young Puerto Rican composer, and the more traditional operetta "Zarzuela."

Joining resident artists Stephen Mosel, baritone, and Janet Stewart, soprano, for this concert will be three guest artists: Cesare Ulloa, tenor; Ralph Centrone, guitarist; and Richard Bower, pianist.

A GARDENER'S DELIGHT
Obal's on Alexander Rd. At long last the time has come to dream of warm sunny days, lazing alone in the hammock or entertaining good friends in one's treasured garden, whether it be a tiny terrace garden or a beautiful spacious one. Spring is the gardener's delight. There is a certain joy and romantic feeling about choosing flowering plants, shrubs, and trees, a never-ending challenge of timing and care for the novice and seasoned horticulturist alike.

After several consecutive weekends of rain, people are now flocking to Obal's Garden Market Inc. on Alexander Road to select from the wonderful array of perennials, annuals, ground covers, flowering trees, and hardy shrubs that await the shopper. The Obal family has been assisting Princeton customers in planning their gardens for the past 40 years so clients know they can always count on their experienced advice.

Mr. Walter Obal, his son, and the market's fine staff are always willing to spend time planning a garden with their customers though they may have to wait their turn during these busy spring weeks - especially on the weekends when the crowds are heavy. Obal's is however almost a social event during April, May and June where friends meet each other after the long winter months.

"We have never charged for our advice, even when we go out to various private homes and plan a garden or tree plantings. Our people know by now the kind of work we do, that we won't sell them something that isn't appropriate for their garden," explains Mr. Obal, who manages the market with great expertise. His uncle, Mr. John Obal, has worked as a landscape architect here in Princeton for many years. The market offers complete landscaping and contracting services and free consultations to steady customers. However, no job or gardener's problem is too small to merit undivided attention. Business has quadrupled for the Obals since they moved to Alexander Road 18 years ago.

Planning is crucial. Any novice gardener who has had a few failures such as a tree or shrub dying or a mismatch of sizes and colors in the flower garden will know by now that gardening takes a great deal of knowledge and planning. Beautiful gardens seen all over town do not just happen, but evolve slowly over the years with experimentation. Obal's has a good selection of paperback books to study and a fine collection of gardening tools to make the wearisome task of spring clean-up and garden maintenance more pleasant.

The Wilkinson Sword tools are the finest made, according to Mr. Obal who recommends their trowels, clippers, hand forks and cultivators to mention a few as gifts for the avid gardener who will appreciate the finest quality. A good assortment of every imaginable tool at reasonable prices can also be found in the shop, along with a wide array of handsome containers for indoor plants which will soon be put outside on the terrace or porch. Plant hangers, window shelves, and plant tracks will display lovely flowering plants purchased this spring or those which have been nurtured through the winter.

There is always a temptation in April to rush to Obal's and buy quantities of colorful geraniums, begonias, and pansies (which were covered by snow last week!), but first things first is the advice of Mr. Obal. The rains have inhibited the springtime clean-up for many weekend gardeners who might have finished these necessary chores already. Soil preparation is key to successful trees, shrubs, flowers, vegetables, fruits, lawns, vines and even houseplants.

Obal's Garden Market is filled to the brim with bags of indoor and outdoor fertilizers, soil conditioning organics, lime, sand, peat moss, charcoal and humus, potting soil, and cactus mix so essential to hardy planting

TREE MAINTENANCE
Specialty of Woodwinds. The purchase of beautiful new trees and shrubs to enhance the appearance of one's home can be an exciting experience, but perhaps a more important exercise is the care and maintenance of the property's existing landscape. There is a company in town which provides professional expertise in this field, and which has enjoyed great success since its inception 16 years ago.

Mr. Sam deTuro began his aptly named business, Woodwinds, after several years of training and experience with the Bartlett Tree Expert company, a national concern which he helped to expand into several representative offices across the country after graduating from Penn State University in forestry and horticulture. There he learned his trade and became convinced that preventative maintenance is enables trees and shrubs to resist many types of insects the desired goal in this field, rather than the business of "hacking down trees and knocking off limbs."

TREE SAVER: Treating the causes of the infectious diseases which attack trees in the Princeton area is important to Mr. Sam deTuro, President and owner of Woodwinds of Kingston.

"I believe that this is how we differ from other firms. We identify and diagnose infectious diseases which harm trees and shrubs and treat their causes rather than their effects. We are into prevention and control here," Mr. deTuro explains.

Preventative maintenance can include many stages of treatment. A tree must be fed, according to Woodwind's president. When it is well-fed, it is much more disease-resistant and better able to withstand attack. The Woodwinds method of liquid feeding is a slow-release fertilizer which provides up to two years of continuous feeding and can be applied at almost any time of year. Special equipment is used to apply the fertilizer efficiently, thus cutting the cost of feeding in half.

Year 'Round Protection. Woodwinds, located in Kingston, is by no means a seasonal business. The company's trucks are seen all over town all winter long spraying a non-toxic anti-desiccant spray which protects evergreens from the cold, dry winds which evaporate moisture and thus dry leaves and needles. It is now too late in the year for dormant spraying with the non-toxic oil base spray which geared to jobs and plants beyond the norm. We might have to go to Maryland, Virginia, Connecticut, or Long Island for a specific type of tree. We don't sell them but deal with many sources, including nurseries which sell mature trees, he says. One example of an unusual tree procured by Woodwinds are two matching sterile pear trees, three stories high which flank the entrance to a foundation building in town.

Many customers feel comfortable with the expertise they find at Woodwinds and only want the company to assist them in landscaping their property. Mr. deTuro emphasizes that it is a custom service only. He and his staff spend many hours visiting homes and commercial properties, however, consulting and working out a program for maintenance for their customers.

Mr. deTuro usually plans a study trip twice a year in conjunction with courses he takes at the National Arborist Association's conferences. Like most fields, knowledge of forestry and horticulture is ever-expanding and there is much to learn. Woodwinds runs a ten-week seminar in mid-winter for its staff members and invited guests to keep abreast of new developments.

THE AUTO AS ART
Display at Squibb. The automobile is probably the most significant of all the major inventions of the past hundred years. The near-miraculous turn-of-the-century machine has changed the way we live, reshaped everything from recreation to business and its use patterns have played a major role in determining how America looks today.

Until recently, the auto was not a dominant theme in our art. Although it has been a favorite subject for illustrators and photographers ever since the first vehicle chugged down the road, it is only in recent years that fine artists, painters, sculptors and printmakers have looked upon the car as a suitable subject for their work.

The attraction of the automobile as both subject and art form is easy to understand in the exhibition, "Free Wheeling," a display of nearly 100 auto-related works on view at The Squibb Gallery. It is not necessary to care about cars in order to enjoy the mixed media collection that provides a wide track view of the thundering power, classic appeal and pure fun associated with the prized possession of so many Americans. For the unusual show offers such a rich mix that it is practically guaranteed to be an interesting and, frequently, artistically valuable experience.

THE FIRST MERCEDES by Walter Gotschke, noted German illustrator, is one of nearly 100 paintings, prints, sculpture and auto-related artifacts that combine to form "Free Wheeling, an artistic celebration of the automobile at The Squibb Gallery through May 16th.

Paintings, photographs, sculpture, and artifacts from the automotive past reflect aspects of the auto, starting with the days when you needed a crank to get it going. Like their subject, the included works are an assemblage of bright and shiny colors; a display in which the interaction between the exhibited works creates the same sense of drama, movement and power that we often associate with their subject.

Eight Decades. The display spans eight decades of interest in the automobile. There are several early lithographs and drawings among work that conveys the romantic excitement of the great moments of early auto racing. Among them are a series of etchings recording the Vanderbilt Cup Races of 1905 and 1906 and a pencil drawing marking the 1931 Le Mans 24 hour race. Although there are several other works executed before mid-century it would seem, from this collection, that artistic interest in the auto is a relatively recent phenomenon. The majority of the exhibited pieces, made after 1960, lean heavily towards the real, photoreal, surreal and superreal, styles that are popular among contemporary artists.

There are also three dimensional works including a working miniature of a Simplex Speedcar, a wooden carving of a crushed fender that is amazing for its veracity and the skill of the carver, and a collection of mascots, the original metal figureheads which once graced the hoods of such splendid vehicles as a Hispano-Suiza and a Pierce Arrow and a Rolls Royce.

Although there are no sound effects in the gallery, the assembled works create their own dynamics and it almost seems as if you can hear the traffic, listen to the roar of the motors and share in the sense of energy that characterizes this interesting and entertaining display.

Photos at the Historical Society. An exhibition of photographs and measured drawings from the Historic American Buildings Survey brings attention to the significant and attractive architecture that exists in this state. The display describes itself as "an introduction to a small gleaning from the rich harvest of the... Survey in New Jersey." The small collection spans over one hundred years of style including the distinctive early Dutch and Quaker built houses as well as significant churches and other public buildings. Clearly written captions complement the fine architectural drawings that are part of the Survey. And, the photographs of such structures as Nassau Hall, the ornate Chalfonte Hotel in Cape May and taverns, churches and barns that reflect our history, combine nicely with captions and photos to allow an appreciation of New Jersey buildings, frequently overlooked despite their quality and their importance.

Photos of Spain at Western Electric. A collection of color photographs, "Spain: Reflections of the Land, the People and the Wine" by Gerry Dawes create a multifaceted and often pleasant view of life on the Iberian peninsula. The essentially journalistic collection includes images of daily life, and architectural landscape as well as intimate studies of objects, small details and the grape, itself, that form nearly abstract arrangements. Scenes taken in Seville, Granada, Cadiz and Jerez as well as other winemaking areas combine to form an aesthetically pleasing portrait of a way of life that has continued undisturbed for centuries.

Joined Photos at McCarter. A wider range of both subject and style can be seen in the Seventh Annual Juried Photography Exhibition of the Princeton Art Association. The varied collection includes still life, portraiture, landscape, journalistic work and the interesting abstraction of detail that is done so well with the camera. The collection is a mixture of original and exciting images and a fair number of fairly ordinary clichés. The more creative work, however, is in the majority and offers some interesting examples of creative camera use.

At Art Masters
The juried exhibition of pastels, watercolors and oils sponsored by the Tri-County Art Association seems to have attracted only traditional artists. With one exception, the pair of larger-than-life studies of machinery and pipes by Larry Chestnut, the display deals with familiar subjects. Within the collection there are a few works that are outstanding for their craft. Most, however, are extremely conventional and, for those that favor tradition in a big way, this might be a satisfying display.

Lightweight Crew's Undefeated Record Will Be Challenged By Harvard and Yale Saturday; Heavies to Race Here Also

The waters of Carnegie Lake will be churning this Saturday morning and that prediction should hold true regardless of the weekend weather that descends on Princeton.

The one sure source of turbulence this week will be the Princeton crew team, competing in critical meets in both the heavy and lightweight divisions. The highly regarded Princeton lightweight crew, who struggled to preserve their undefeated record last Saturday against Penn, will face the biggest challenge thus far this season, rowing against perennial powers Harvard and Yale in a race that should begin at about 11:45.

Fifteen minutes later, the Orange and Black heavyweight boat, which last Saturday defeated Harvard for the first time since 1957, will row against Cornell, the defending IRA champion.

Past performances of the crews suggest that the lightweight race could be a three-way battle, stroke-by-stroke, from start to finish. Last year in Derby, Connecticut, Yale, Harvard, and Princeton finished in that order with only one second and one quarter of a length separating the three boats.

Last week the Tigers have been looking forward to the Big Three meet. Coach Gary Kilpatrick's crew had defeated the Quakers handsily several weeks before, and the rowers claimed to be confident, but not cocky. "We can't afford to get cocky," captain John Andrews told a student reporter prior to the race.

But something happened by race day and the Tigers found themselves a length behind halfway into the race. Princeton moved three seats ahead at the 1,600-meter mark and then clung to that margin, winning by less than half a second.

Cornell Winless, But... The heavyweights had no reason to be cocky entering their race Saturday against Harvard. Princeton had edged the Crimson last year in the Sprints but had not defeated them in dual lightweight divisions. The meet in 25 years. Moreover, Harvard was ranked No. 1 nationally this year, and Princeton's practices were upset by the loss of two rowers to illness.

The visitors stroked to a half boat lead midway through the race. Then the Orange and Black, with Clay Hunt substituting for George Koehler, rallied to post a 5:47.2 time, 2.7 seconds ahead of Harvard.

SPORTS In Princeton

Princeton's good fortunes ran out the next day, as Yale opened water between the two boats halfway into the race. The Tigers mounted one of their customary charges and closed the gap in the final 300 meters but finished 2.3 seconds off the pace. Yale's winning time was nearly a half minute slower than that of the previous day — an indication of the adverse conditions that plagued the course on Sunday.

This Saturday's opponent, Cornell, lost to Navy by about four seconds last week, and has yet to win a race. Princeton, in comparison, lost to Navy by five seconds and has been gaining strength since then. Coach Larry Gluckman expects a close race. "Last year at this time Cornell hadn't won a race against Cornell and then either it went on to win the IRAs," he said. "Cornell is a crew that gathers momentum during the season."

On the Road. While the crews or mother nature or some combination keep the Carnegie waters roiled, the other University sports teams, most of which are in the throes of disappointing seasons, will be traveling.

The baseball team, which endured two losses at the hands of Navy last Saturday and was scheduled to play at Rider this Tuesday, will face Cornell and Army in back-to-back doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday. The team returns to Clarke Field next Monday and Wednesday, May 2 and 4, for single games against Lafayette and Fairleigh Dickinson, both starting at 3 p.m.

The lacrosse team evened its record at 4-4 by defeating Harvard, 13-9, last Saturday. This weekend the Tigers travel to Ithaca to face powerful Cornell — not to mention the prospect of a losing season in the overall record and also within the Ivy League.

The track team, which had to win the final event, the mile relay, to salvage an 81-81 tie against Dartmouth, will compete this Friday and Saturday in the Penn Relays in Philadelphia.

The tennis team defeated Columbia and Penn last weekend to run its record to 9-6. It has a chance to add two more wins this weekend against Cornell and Army, but it will require a win over Harvard, next Thursday, May 5, on the University Courts to regain some measure of respectability in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Association.

Kordish Falters. Probably no Princeton athlete suffered more — psychologically if not physically — than senior pitcher Steve Kordish, who has been considered the one bright light on an otherwise lackluster pitching staff for the Tiger baseball team.

Earlier in the season Kordish turned in consecutive complete game victories, including a two-hit shutout against Harvard. Drafted in the 21st round of the professional baseball draft last year (by the Cleveland Indians), Kordish declined the invitation and remained at Princeton. As his record showed improvement, his professional prospects mounted. Major league scouts were spotted at Clarke Field. Kordish and his coach, Tom O'Connell, began to speculate with reporters about how high in this year's draft he might be selected.

By the time he took the mound against Navy on Saturday, Kordish was the central story in the Tigers' 1983 baseball team, which had thus far posted a 7-15-2 record. The righthander was named the student newspaper's "athlete of the week," and was spotlighted as the "senior survivor" in a feature on the youthful baseball team that appeared in the alumni magazine.

On Saturday the Midshipmen blew Kordish and the Tigers away, scoring 10 runs against him in less than four innings. As Kordish faltered so did his team, its record dropping to 7-17-2 overall and to 5-10-1 in EIBL play after the loss of the doubleheader. One can presume that fewer scouts will be on hand when Kordish pitches again, probably

LAWRENCE S. SINGER, D.D.S.

Not that the Little Tigers would mind that much. Poor weather conditions permitted just one game last week, that a 4-2 league loss to Hightstown — Princeton's fourth in five games.

"We can't get anything going," commented Becham. "It's just like pre-season. Every game we go out, it's a week in between. The hitters get something going then it's three to four days off."

On Thursday, for which there is a forecast of probable showers, PHS is scheduled to host McCorristin in a Colonial Valley Conference contest. Saturday at 10:30 there will be a makeup game with visiting South Hunterdon and on Monday the Little Tigers will be at West Windsor in another league game.

PHS is going to have to start winning or face early elimination for league honors. The ironic thing, Becham noted, "...with the exception of Hopewell Valley and Hightstown — which we split — the teams that we've played are the teams that could beat us; the teams that we haven't been able to play."

Sports in Princeton

Against Hightstown last week, PHS had the tying runs on with no one out in the last inning. Trailing 4-1 (Princeton's lone run coming on a solo homer by Terry Phox in the fifth) Mickey Carnevale led off the inning with a double. After a walk, Phox cracked another double for Princeton's fourth hit, scoring Carnevale and leaving runners on second and third.

Ram hurler Tim Dey then bore down and retired the next three batters, the tail end of the lineup — on three consecutive pop ups. Dey ended up firing a four-hitter.

Dino D'Angelo took the loss for PHS, yielding seven hits. He gave up three in the first inning, including a two-run home by Ross Contilliano. The loss evened D'Angelo's record at 1-1, while the win was Dey's first without a loss. The win left the surprising Rams with a 3-0-1 record.

DOUBLEHEADER SPLIT
By Hun School Nine. The Hun School baseball team stayed above .500 last week when it split a double header for a 4-3 record.

In the morning the Raiders lost a 4-3 decision to Ewing and then came back in the afternoon to top town rival Princeton Day School, 6-4. "It was a beautiful day (Saturday)," said Hun coach Bill McQuade. "We should have played four games to make up our rounouts."

With only one healthy veteran on its pitching staff, Pete Stam who figured in both decisions Saturday-Hun will host Pennington School this Wednesday, entertain Lawrenceville School Friday at 3:45 and Peddie the next day at 2:30. Tuesday, the Raiders will travel to Rutgers Prep. There will be stretch in May. McQuade reported, when, weather permitting, Hun will play eight games in 11 days to get in makeup contests.

Against Ewing, after the Blue Devils had scored the game's initial run in the second on a double and an error, Hun tied it in the third when Paul Pintella singled, stole second, advanced on Martin Sumners single and came on a ground out by Chris Hunninghake.

Post 76 Registration

All candidates interested in playing Princeton Post 76 American Legion baseball should report Monday, May 2, at 7:30 p.m. to the Princeton Post 76 Legion Hall. All returning players must also attend.

All boys born on or after August 1, 1964 and who play for Princeton, West Windsor or Montgomery High School with a 921 or 924 phone number, or for private schools in the Princeton area, are eligible.

Things went smoothly for Hun, recalled McQuade, until the sixth. With one down, Hun pitcher Pete Stam misplayed a routine bunt for an error. A pinch-hit double was followed by a two-run single and another double. "Instead of getting out of the inning without scoring a run, they scored three," said McQuade.

Hun got to back in the last inning. After Owen Cane had stroked a single for his second hit, Pintella belted a two-run home. "Paul really tattooed one; it must have gone 380 feet," said McQuade, "but we fell one run short."

Pintella, Sumners and Cane each had two hits to account for six of the eight Hun collected off Ewing's Mike Viella who went the distance for his first win. Pintella also scored two runs, drive in two and stole two bases in a solid performance.

"Neither team could put the other one away," commented McQuade. Ewing (4-2-1), he added, is a big, physical team. "They got their licks in; they hit some shots—luckily some right at our players." The loss was Stam's first in four decisions.

Hun Takes 3-0 Lead. Against Princeton Day, Hun jumped to a 3-0 lead, scoring one run in the first on a Pintella triple and a single by pitcher Rich Stout, and plating two more in the second on a two-run double by Sumners.

Stout, making his first start after being hit on the elbow by a pitch, survived a shaky first inning but settled down in the second. In the third, Stout twisted his knee. It seized up on him and he had to leave the game, prompting McQuade to comment, "He must have a black cloud over him."

McQuade called on Mark Okamoto and the junior making his second appearance failed to hold the Panthers. A walk was followed by two hits. Two runs scored.

In the next inning, PHS scored two more to take the lead, combining three singles and an error by Okamoto. With two out in the fourth, Stam turned to McQuade and said, "Hey, coach, my arm feels fine." "So I tested him," said McQuade.

Over the next three and a third innings, Stam yielded only two hits and walked one. In its half of the fourth, Hun tied the game at 4 when sophomore Seth Wheaton—the last of the Wheatons to attend Hun—got on base on an error by the PDS left fielder. Brother Matt Wheaton singled to center and Seth then scored on a passed ball.

Hun won the game with a pair of runs in the sixth. Seth Wheaton ended up on second after the Panther shortstop made a throwing error on his grounder. After two flyouts, Pintella came through with a single to right field, scoring Seth, and Sumners followed with a single to score Pintella with an insurance run.

"It was a nice game to win," said McQuade. "PDS has a nice, scrappy ball club." Rubber arm Stam got the win in relief. How many pitches are left in Stam's arm may be answered when Hun enters that eight-games-in-eleven day period. "If Stout doesn't come back, I may be paying for more rain," McQuade said.

HUN VS. PERKIOMEN

In Lacrosse. The Hun School lacrosse team is scheduled to entertain Perkiomen Saturday at 2, but The Raiders will need an assist from the weather.

Coach Dave Faus reported that Hun's low lying field near Stony Brook is so saturated with water that unless there is a spell of dry weather, Hun may have to play its home games on some other field. Last week, he said, the field was under a couple of feet of water.

With the Fair Lawn High game a victim of wet grounds last week, the only game the Raiders were involved in was a 4-3 loss to Edison — Hun's third without a win. "We showed some signs of coming Here's an example of how a person can overcome what seems to be a hopeless obstacle... Back in the 1930s, there was a promising left-handed baseball pitcher named Ed Head... But before he could reach the majors, Ed was in a bus accident and his left arm was crushed... He could never pitch effectively again with that left arm... What could he do? ... With fierce determination and constant practice he taught himself to pitch right-handed... And he practiced long enough, and became so good that he was able to pitch in the big leagues! ... Here's a surprising fact about one of the most under-rated big league baseball players of all-time, Harmon Killebrew... Many fans don't realize that Killebrew hit MORE career home runs than Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams, Ernie Banks, Mel Ott, Lou Gehrig, Stan Musial or Joe DiMaggio... Despite that, Killebrew is NOT in the Hall of Fame and is not often mentioned when great sluggers are discussed... Killebrew played in the majors from 1954 to 1975 and hit 573 homers.

along," observed Faus. "We'll have to just keep plugging away and try to keep our heads up."

Hun was leading Edison, 3-2, into the fourth quarter on a pair of goals by Chris Black and one by Chris Goodyear until the home team scored with three minutes left to tie the game at 3.

The with the clock winding down, Edison took the ball out of bounds, brought it up field and scored with seven seconds left to play. "Penalties hurt us. They scored twice with a man up," said Faus.

SHOT PUT TEAM WINS
At Highland Relays. At the annual Highland Park Relays held Saturday, Princeton High won the shot event with a combined distance of 133-6.

The Little Tigers' standout P.J. Young uncorked a toss of 54-4. Ken McKellar contributed a 44-11 effort and Elliott Liverman added a 34-2. Princeton High competed in the Group I and Group II school division.

PHS also grabbed two third places in the competition. Brothers Steve and Mike Schwab joined Tom Perkins and Bill Bushnell to win the two-mile event with a clocking of 8:14.9. A combined time of 3:40.1 earned Stephan Fletcher, Ed Katz, Eddie Rice and Mike Schwab a third in the sprint medley.

The Little Tigers will next be at West Windsor Tuesday for a league dual meet starting at 3:45.

MAKE OR BREAK TIME
For PHS Softball. Still looking for its first win, the Princeton High School lacrosse team will play three home games this week in what could well be make or break time for new coach Peter Larsen and the Little Tigers.

This Wednesday afternoon, PHS will entertain George School at 3:45 and Summit on Saturday at 1. Then on Monday, Lawrenceville School — always a formidable opponent for the Little Tigers — will be here for a 3:45 contest.

In its last outing on Saturday, PHS lost its fourth straight to Montclair, 10-7. Junior attack Chris Carrington led the PHS attack with three goals and an assist. Scott Gabrielsen contributed two goals and an assist and Willie Whittaker had a goal and two assists for PHS.

FOUR GAMES AT HOME
For Girls Lacrosse Team. The Princeton High School girls lacrosse team, the only public high school in Mercer County to play girls lacrosse, will play four home games this week.

The Little Tigers, which raised their record to 4-0 following two wins last week, will entertain Princeton Day School this Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 (the two town rivals split a pair of games last year) and Morristown Thursday at 4.

Saturday morning at 11, PHS will host Montville and on Monday Chatham will be here for a contest at 4. The four games will carry the Little Tigers half-way into their 17-game schedule.

Against Montclair Thursday, PHS junior Alison Fraker scored four first-half goals to stake the Little Tigers to a 6-1 halftime lead, as PHS went on to win, 8-5. Lisa Blair added a pair of goals and Harper Hoff and Erica Gabrielsen one each for the victors, who have outscored the opposition 58-16 in its first four games.

Senior Ann Sutphin playing her first year as goalie had 16 saves for PHS, while another senior, Connie Clohosey, played an excellent game on defense for the Blue and White. Montclair had made a game of it by scoring three quick goals in the second half against the PHS reserves.

Two days earlier, PHS routed Peddie, 16-4, leading 11-1 at the half. In all, 10 players joined the PHS scoring parade against the 2-2 visitors.

Scoring two goals each were Hoff, Blair, Gabrielsen, Anna Navarro, Adriane Vandenhuevel and Jaunnie Parsells. Sylvia Greenspan, Jenny Pickens, Pam Jennings and Fraker all added single goals.

95 On Squad. Off its early showing, it seems certain that coach Joyce Jones has assembled another contender in a long line of fine PHS teams. At last count she reported that she had 95 players on her varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams.

Last year, PHS compiled an 11-4 seasonal record and qualified for the state tournament where it was defeated by Moorestown in the semifinals.

In its second game, after a 26-3 rout of Columbia in its opener (this is only Columbia's second year in the sport) Jones commented, "we defined the talent and the potential we have — plus our weaknesses."

"As a coach of three sports, I would say this is my most improved team as far as stick work and concepts. I'm not sure we're ready psychologically." She described this year's squad as a "very young team."

EVENING TENNIS STARTS
On Sunday. As of this

Sunday evening, evening tennis will be available at Community Park Tennis Courts, and season ticket holders will be eligible to play under the lights.

Courts may be reserved from 7:30 - 9 a.m. or 9 - 10:30 p.m. Reservation sheets are posted 1½ days in advance at 4:30 p.m. at the tennis courts. Those persons wishing to purchase season tickets may do so at the Recreation Office (Monday-Friday 9 to 5) or at courtside by check only.

For additional information, call the Recreation Department at 921-9480.

for PHS, as the Little Tigers scored three runs to take a 3-0 lead.

Once again, however, the lead was short lived. Hightstown (3-1) answered with nine runs in its half of the first inning, scored seven more in the second and six more in the third off pitcher March Murry. The 15-run rule was invoked after the fifth inning, bringing the game to an end.

Ram pitcher Barbara Malloy tossed a one-hitter as Monica Greenland had the only hit for PHS. Lisa Byrne and Gail Zeilen each hit homers for the Rams, who pounded out 11 off Murray.

PHS NETMEN ARE 6-0

Top Moorestown, Hightstown. The Princeton High School tennis team kept its record perfect at 6-0 with wins over Moorestown and Hightstown last week. Moorestown, which has given the Little Tigers all they could handle in previous years, fell meekly Friday, 4-1.

As expected, Hightstown was no match for the powerful Little Tigers and bowed, 5-0.

The Leschly brothers remained undefeated with impressive wins against Moorestown. Junior Jacob Leschly, playing the number one singles, defeated Jon Dubrow, 6-2, 6-2, while number two singles, Mark Leschly, a freshman, handled Jeff Zeiger, 6-4, 6-2.

The visitors' Howard Snyder defeated Princeton's Safi Bahcall, 7-5, 6-4, in a close match for Moorestown's only point. In doubles play, Keith Goldfield and Rob Dunham were extended to three sets by Rob Hanson and Spencer Levin before winning, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. Tim Kingston and Andy Phillips won, 6-3, 6-3.

Against Hightstown both Jacob and Mark Leschly won 6-0, 6-0, and Bahcall triumphed, 6-2, 6-4.

Goldfield-Dunham coasted past Brian Fagan and David Roth, 6-2, 6-2, and Kingston-Phillips won, 6-1, 6-2.

PHS will be at West Windsor Monday in a CVC match in its next outing.

FUNDS ARE SOUGHT

By Princeton Soccer Club. For the first time since it was founded 10 years ago, the Princeton Soccer Club has announced a spring fund-raising campaign.

The campaign began in March to coincide with the opening of its season of play in the Central Jersey Soccer League. The season runs through December.

The Princeton team is comprised of high school and college players from Princeton and the surrounding area. It has been a valuable aid to college players who need a place to play off-season and as a training opportunity for younger players.

Until now, the cost of maintaining the club — uniforms, transportation, balls and nets and referee and linesmen fees — has been met by the players and interested private individuals. The club now seeks wider support from the Princeton business community as it tries to increase the visibility of soccer nationally and continue to offer an opportunity for many young people in the Princeton area to grow in the sport.

Those interested in supporting the team can send their tax-exempt contributions to the Princeton Soccer Team care of Albert Kren, 172 Alexander Street, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Princeton Babe Ruth and Princeton Youth Baseball Leagues.

Registration for the Youth Baseball League (boys and girls 8 to 12) will be held Saturday from noon to 2:30 at Community Park. There is a $15 fee and those interested should bring a baseball glove.

Parents are needed as coaches and to assist the program. For more information, call Doug Davis, 921-2362, or Clark Lennon, 924-7242.

Registration for former members of the Babe Ruth League will be held next Wednesday, May 4, from 4 to 5 at the Valley Road School ball field.

Tryouts and registration for all new members will be held next Saturday, May 7, from 1 to 3 at the Valley School field and in the event of rain it will be held the same time the following day.

To be eligible, players must be 13 years old but not more than 15 on or after August 1. Coaches and assistants are needed for the Babe Ruth League, too. For more information, call Bob Rumer, 921-6521.

COMPETITIVE SWIM AT Y
For those 6 to 18. The Princeton YMCA will offer a competitive swim training program for swimmers 6-18 who want to prepare for summer competition during the pre-season. The program will run May 2 through June 25.

Loraine Wood, head coach of the YMCA Flying Fish Team, will coordinate the eight-week session. Included in the training will be stroke instruction, conditioning work, inter-squad competition, and lap training. Two groups will be formed according to age and ability.

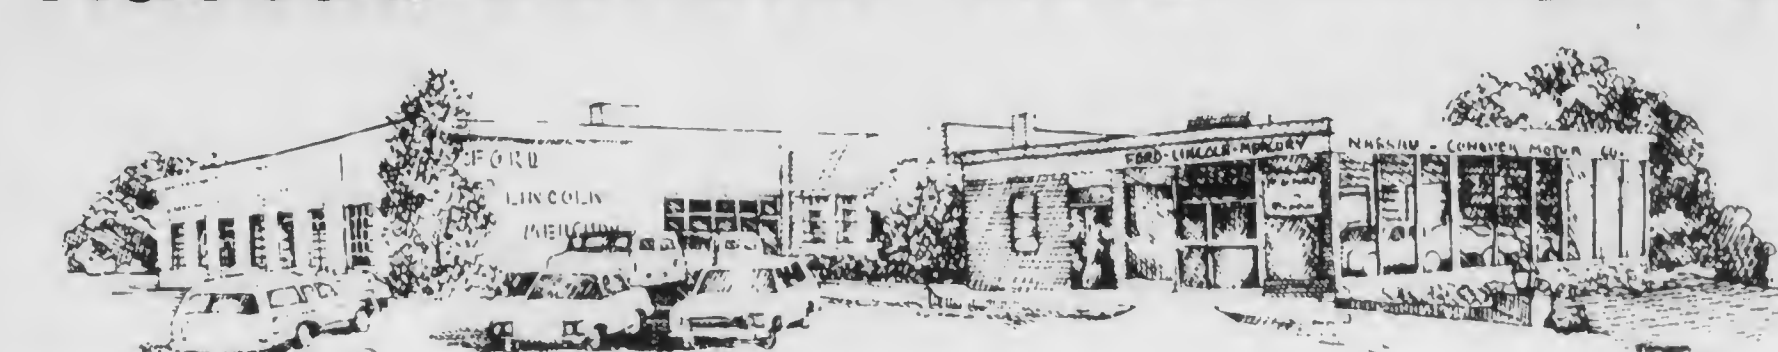

Other aquatic courses available during the Summer Warm-up session include the parent-tot, pre-school and progressive aquatics courses. Adult courses are swim training and water fitness. For more information, call the YMCA at 924-4497.

League

anticipated the furious opposition that erupted. "Who wants a bunch of women telling us what to do?" was a frequent remark. There were charges of undue pressure by the League, charges that the League had abandoned its traditional non-partisan stand.

Jean Labatut, respected architect and professor of architecture, found a footnote error in a meticulously researched report on consolidation which the League had prepared.

"Probably as a result of overenthusiasm for their crusade," Professor Labatut wrote in a letter to the editor of the Princeton Herald, "the charming emulations of Eleanor of Aquitaine went as far as using the art of camouflage in which the practice of deception is an indispensable tool."

League members were furious. They retorted that Professor Labatut had missed the point, and that if he were objecting to women working for good government, "he lost his battle 33 years ago!"

In turn, an anonymous letter-writer called the League's rebuttal "unjustified vitriolic sarcasm."

Becomes Area League. In the '60s as the area began to grow, the Princeton League became the "area League," including members in Lawrence, West Windsor and Montgomery.

The peak of membership in the Princeton League came in 1972, with 400.

Two years later, the count had dropped to 200. League officials had asked inactive members to drop out because it cost too much to keep them on the rolls. Today there are about 200.

And today there is a growing demand to take on more and more issues. Priorities are essential. Financial problems are vexing.

But it is the conclusion of Ms. Griffin, and of many League members that the organization has been an important training-ground for career oriented women who needed experience in leadership, needed practice in building self confidence.

"I used more skills in the League than in any of my jobs," one member says. "I learned 'way over and above' what I had from my masters degree."

It is a new way of looking at an organization, so long respected in Princeton for its involvement in serious community affairs.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

Oppenheimer Letter Revealed Concerning Institute's Plans

In a letter written in 1960, the late J. Robert Oppenheimer, then director of the Institute for Advanced Study, assured the owner of the Updike farm that the Institute wanted to buy the property to protect it from development.

Rosemary Blair, speaking for the Delaware and Raritan Canal Coalition, read the letter to the Planning Board last Tuesday as the board listened again to plans the Institute has for building 400 to 600 housing units on land which includes the Updike farm.

Mrs. Blair said Mr. Updike sold the farm to the Institute in 1969 in order to keep it from being developed, and the Institute had agreed to this.

The Planning Board was scheduled to continue its Institute hearings this Tuesday.

At last week's hearing, members of a coalition of Princeton residents which hopes to acquire the Institute's development rights, expected Institute director Harry Woolf to announce to the Planning Board that he is negotiating with the group.

Barbara Hill Lists Reasons For Dropping Out of Race

Hinting at dissatisfaction with the internal workings of the Democratic party — in the Borough, at least — Barbara Hill talked this week about her reasons for withdrawing from the mayoralty race.

Having announced that she would run, before Barbara Sigmund made her own announcement of candidacy, Ms. Hill decided last week that she would not file. If she had done so, there would have been a June primary contest with Mrs. Sigmund for the Democratic nomination for mayor. Ms. Hill was re-elected to Council last year for a second three-year term. She is Borough Council President.

Both parties, in Borough and Township, filled their slates for the November elections.

"In all I've been involved in, in the Borough," Ms. Hill said, "We've prided ourselves on what I'm going to call 'genteel' politics, but in this particular race, that's not the case. You'd have had to be a good street-fighter, and this is not my forte."

Dinner, Symposium Mark 85th Birthday of Henry DeWolf Smyth

The 85th birthday of Henry DeWolf Smyth, one of Princeton University's most distinguished alumni and member of its faculty for 42 years, was marked last weekend with a symposium and a dinner organized by the Physics Department. Dr. Smyth was born in Clinton, N.Y., on May 1, 1898, and has lived in Princeton almost continuously from the time he was seven years old.

The birthday was a time for colleagues to note his accomplishments as a physicist and physics teacher, longtime chairman of the Physics Department who took part in the war time research here and in Chicago that led to the making of the first atomic bomb. It was an opportunity for Datus Smith, former director of the Princeton University Press, to tell again the story of how the first official account of the development of the bomb written by Dr. Smyth was released to the public five days after Hiroshima and published within a month by the Press-becoming known the world over as the "Smyth Report."

The symposium was also a forum for Sigvard Eklund, director general of the International Atomic Agency for 20 years, to give a substantive speech on the agency, a branch of the United Nations headquartered in Vienna to monitor nuclear developments around the world. Dr. Smyth served as the U.S. representative to the IAEA for nine years and is credited with obtaining international agreement on a system of safeguards to prevent diversion of peacetime nuclear facilities to military use. These negotiations paved the way for the Non-Proliferation Treaty of 1972.

After the tributes and the toast, Dr. Smyth responded with a talk of his own. In a light vein he reminisced about his early career, noting, however, that the stages of it were punctuated by war, and more somberly, he offered his current views on the bomb he helped develop and publicize.

"Make no mistake," he told the gathering, "those who worked on the bomb hoped to find a principle that would make such a bomb impossible. This hope was not realized. The test at Alamogordo was spectacularly successful."

Anticipating that success, he wrote in his report, "the future possibilities of such explosives are appalling, and their effects on future wars and international affairs are of fundamental importance. Here is a new tool for mankind, a tool of unimaginable destructive power. Its development raises many questions that need to be answered ... These questions are not political and social questions and the answers to them may affect all mankind for generations."

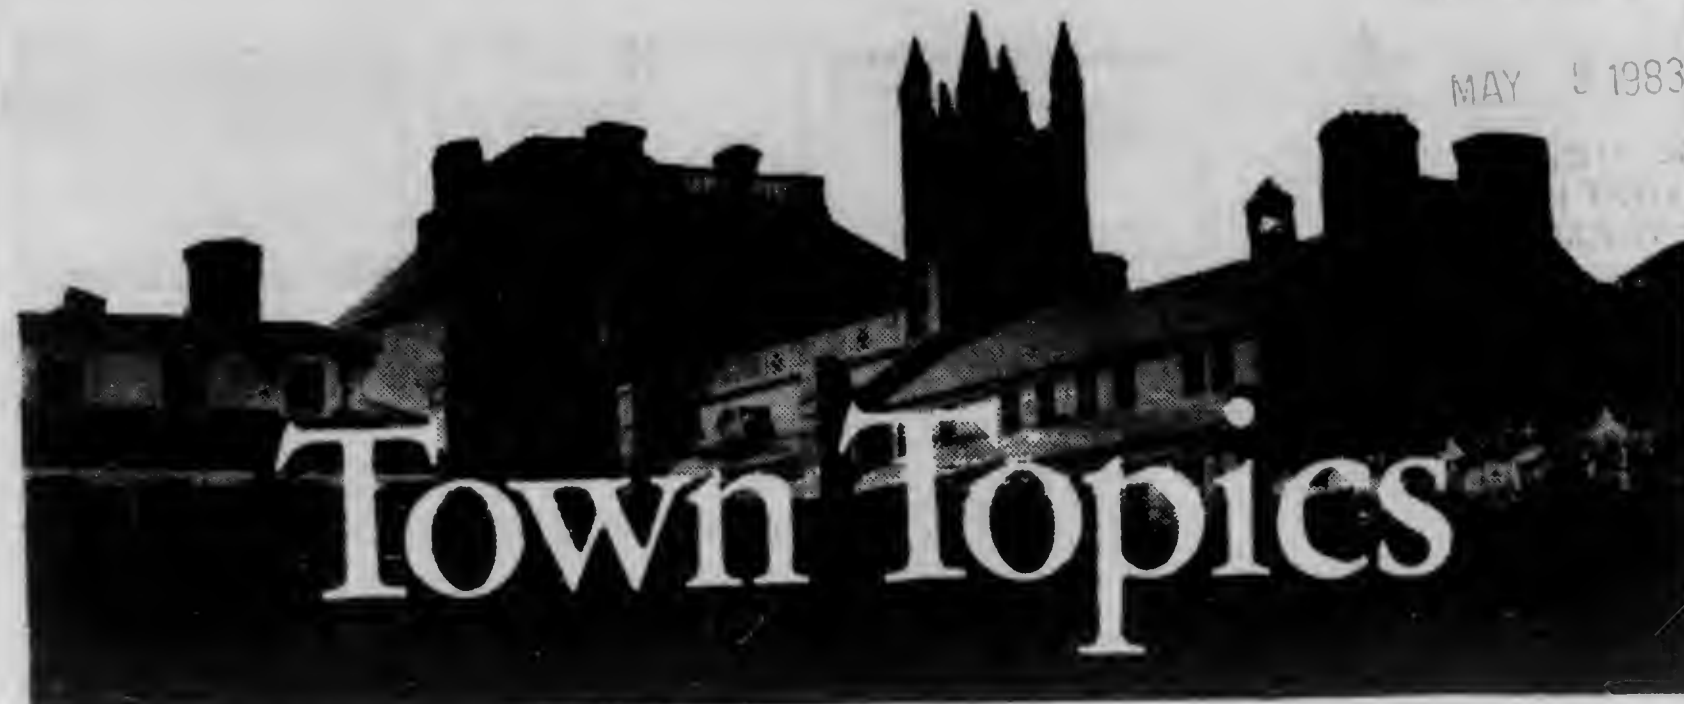

Asserting that the questions have only been partly answered, he gave five specific recommendations:

- the nuclear freeze movement should be "vigorously supported as a first step";

She spoke of "a series of unfortunate incidents," but declined to be specific.

"My strength is good government, not politics," she added.

"It's important to me to come out of it with my integrity intact, and this is not the kind of race in which I wanted to be involved."

"There's a song, about knowing when to run and when to fold, and it's really true."

Mrs. Sigmund's running mates will be Irv Urken and John Huntoon, seeking the Council seats vacated by Joseph Blanc and Robert McChesney.

The Republican candidate for mayor is Richard Woodbridge, re-elected last year to his third term on Council. His ticket will have Henry Abernathy and Robert Cook as Council candidates.

In the Township, Democrats will run Eleanor J. Lewis and Bernard P. Miller for Committee. Republican candidates Winthrop S. Pike and William H. Cherry have already been announced.

Bond Issue

Public tours of the schools will probably be held in the fall, Mr. Cooper said, and there will be public meetings.

As consultants, BRAC used Arnold Associates (fields and grounds); Viron Corporation (energy) and the architects firm of Collins, Uhl, Hoisington, Anderson, Azamy (CUH2A). The $83,000 consultants' fees included $49,000.

for the energy studies alone. Money was in the current capital budget.

"If there is no bond issue, these things will not be done at all — they are so major," Mr. Powell stated.

Institute

However, in his presentation to the board, Dr. Woolf did not mention the negotiations. Later in the evening, James Sayen a spokesman for the coalition, described the proposal to the board and asked Dr. Woolf for comment.

"It's an attractive, interesting proposition and we're taking it very seriously," Dr. Woolf remarked.

The coalition hopes, by finding backers, to make a sufficiently attractive package so that the institute would be content with only 173 housing units in its upper meadow.

Henry DeWolf Smyth

• the various treaties relevant to arms control should be ratified after review;

• the U.S. government should announce a no-first strike policy;

• pressures should be brought to bear on countries such as Israel and South Africa to sign the non-proliferation treaty;

• the U.S. and the Soviet Union "must stop snarling at each other like cats in the dark of the night." Recalling the "extraordinary cooperation" that produced the nuclear bomb in this country, and no doubt in Russia as well, he called for similar cooperation across national boundaries.

"Only by cooperation between the Soviet Union and the U.S.A. can we avoid the probable destruction of both countries and much of the rest of the world besides," Dr. Smyth declared.

Consistent Views. The need for international cooperation and wide dissemination of information to permit peoples and governments to make informed political decisions are themes that are evident throughout Dr. Smyth's career. Son of a chemistry professor at Princeton, he attended the Lawrenceville School and was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Princeton University in 1918. He worked in the chemical warfare laboratory in Washington, D.C. and at Aberdeen Proving Ground until the end of World War I, when he returned to Princeton and earned his M.A. degree in 1920 and Ph.D. in 1921.

He spent two years as a National Research Council Fellow in England at Cavendish Laboratory, Cambridge University, where he earned a second Ph.D. Among his lab Brooke Shields will be one of the 1,100 members of the freshman class next year at Princeton University.

The 17-year-old model, who has appeared in such films as "Blue Lagoon" and "Pretty Baby," informed the University in advance of the May 1 deadline, that she would accept the offer from the director of admissions to join the Class of 1987.

"She'll be just like any other freshman," according to Dorothy Lupichuk, in the University's office of communications. "Whether she gets a double or single dormitory room will be the luck of the draw."

MEETING NEXT TUESDAY

On Nassau Inn "Bridge." Negotiations between Collins Development and Borough Council over air rights for the Nassau Inn "bridge," the lease of Borough land for a garage on Chambers, fire protection, security and ride-sharing arrangements will be discussed with the public at Council's May meeting next Tuesday. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

Opponents of Collins' plans said this week they now have at least 1,500 signatures on petitions. They presented 861 at the Planning Board's most recent hearing on Palmer Square.

Asked by reporters at his Monday press conference whether citizens had called him with protests, Mayor Robert W. Cawley grinned. "Not many," he said. "I think they've given up on me."

He then repeated his views on the "real merit" in Collins' plans. "Their plan is based on a Planned Commercial Development Ordinance we adopted before Collins appeared," the mayor said. "The floor-area-ratio can be 2.5, and Collins has slightly under 2.1. They're required to provide 81,000 square feet of open space, and they show 98,000. The average height of their buildings is two stories, and that's pretty small, compared to what we have now."

The mayor cited town-planning meetings in 1971, the Central Business District ordinance in 1974, 1981 Master Plan amendments and the planning ordinance of 1981, and stated: "People who oppose this are too late. This is the extension of a continuing planning process."

Mayor Cawley said that, in his view, "When Collins gets finished, we'll have a super downtown — much, much better than it is now. I am very upbeat."

APPEAL, ON PCH?

Supreme Court May Have Word. Justice Allen Handler of the State Supreme Court has summoned Borough attorney Edwin Schmierer and Princeton Community Housing attorney Christopher Baker to come to his chambers this Wednesday. Mr. Schmierer said this week. The justice did not give a reason; however, lawyers say it is possible that Justice Handler may want to talk about last week's ruling by the Appellate Court that PCH opponents, led by William Barr, must file an appeal within 10 days, rather than the usual 45 days.

The Appellate Court, at PCH's request, cited PCH's June 30 Federal deadline as the reason for requiring the tighter appeal schedule. The ten-day deadline would be this Friday.

Opponents may want to appeal the April 29 dismissal of their case by Superior Court. That court affirmed both the decision of the Borough Zoning Board granting PCH a use variance, and Borough Council's action upholding the Zoning Board when opponents took their case to Council.

SQUARE CHANGES

Milady, Jolie, La Jolie Coiffures, 69 Palmer Square West, and Milady, on up the street at 45 Palmer Square, have been informed by Collins Development Corporation that they will be given only month-to-month leases, starting in July. A long-term, three-year lease has been offered to Arthur De Core, owner of Jack Honore's Barber Shop at 39 Palmer Square, according to Collins, but he has not yet said whether he will accept.

Collins is discussing lease renewals with all the shops on the west side of the Square. Claudette Adams, marketing director, said that she and her staff have been talking with "three or four" shop owners in Princeton and the surrounding area about possible Square tenancies, believing that local enterprises would be appropriate in the small, 1,000-square-foot shops. "We want an infusion of new life into the Square," she said, adding that possibilities include a bakery, a sporting goods shop and a "Conran-style" shop with housewares. She denied a rumor that Elizabeth Arden had been invited to become a tenant.

Collins would like to have an eating establishment of some kind on Palmer Square West, she added, perhaps a tea-shop. She also said the firm hopes to have, somewhere in the Square, a delicatessen with eat-in capacities.

BICYCLIST INJURED

Motorcyclist, Too. A bicyclist and a motorcycle driver were injured last week in separate accidents in the Borough.

An 18-year old university student, Mitchell J. Schwaber of Brookline, Mass., was riding south on Washington Road Tuesday morning when a passenger in a car stopped in a line of traffic opened the door to get out. Schwaber collided with the open door. He was treated for lacerations of the mouth and right hand at McCosh infirmary on campus and released. Sgt. William Fitch charged Schwaber with passing on the right and the driver, Russell B. Spencer III, 22, 311 Cuyler Hall, with improper discharge of passengers.

Cycle, Car Collide. Russell H. Shangle Jr., 25, 446 Nassau Street, was injured last week when his motorcycle collided with a car turning from Nassau Street into Larry's Sunoco service station at the corner of Murray Place. The impact threw Shangle over the hood of a car operated by Theresa L. Smith, 51, Ridge Road, Kingston.

The victim was taken to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated for a fractured left foot and multiple abrasions and contusions. Shangle told P.I. Joseph Wilhelm that he had just driven out of the Exxon station and turned right on Nassau when the collision took place.

Mrs. Smith was issued a summons for failing to give a proper signal. The accident took place at 3:47 last Wednesday afternoon.

Caddy Is Totaled. The 19-year-old driver and his two 17-year-old passengers were injured last week when their 1978 Cadillac went out of control on Route 206 between Provincetown Road and Quaker Road.

The driver, David J. Stonaker, 30 Bainbridge Street, later told P.I. Mario Musso that he had looked down to get something out of his jacket and he lost control. After leaving the roadway, the car first struck a utility pole and then continued on and struck a tree 96 feet away. Stonaker, who sustained minor cuts and bruises, was ticketed for careless driving. One passenger, Roseann Tufano, of Murray Place suffered lacerations of the head; a second, Michelle Emann of Provincetown Road, complained of back pains. Their car was judged a total loss.

Hit By Car. A Finley Road resident was struck by a passing car last week when he stepped out into the roadway while cutting his grass at 56 Finley.

The victim, Harold Huckins, 58, told police he had been cutting his lawn when he stepped into the roadway. He did not hear a car approaching because of the mower noise, he added.

There were no charges by P.I. John Claus against the driver, Philip Abrams of 69 Pretty Brook Road. A jogger in the area at the time, Mary Pickens of Finley Road, told the office that she had seen Mr. Huckins step from the curb into the path of the Abrams car.

Mr. Huckins was treated at the Medical Center for lacerations of the head. The incident took place on Saturday at 5:31 p.m.

SPEEDERS ARE FINED. In Traffic Court, four Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court.

Phyllis L. Marchand, 29 Montadale Drive, and Alice J. Miller, 59 Linden Lane, were each fined $60; Martha Mitzen, Snydertown Road, Hopewell, paid $65 and Maria Backes, Province Line Road, Skillman, paid $40.

Denise J. Diamond, 24 Wheatheaf Lane, was fined $60 for careless driving and Walter A. Cartledge, 39 Humbert Street, was fined $60 and had his license revoked.

for 30 days for a red light violation. Also fined $50 each were Colleen S. Hargraves, 747 Great Road, stop sign, and Mary C. Lincoln, 158 Carter Road, failure to stop for a stopped school bus.

Others: Brian C. O'Reilly, Cherry Valley Road, $15, failure to have inspection; David W. McGahan, 49 West Long Drive, Lawrenceville, $10, no license or registration in possession; and Neil D. Hood, 57-01 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, $20, failure to make repairs.

SUNDAY SET ASIDE
As Police Memorial Day. Next Sunday, May 15, has been set aside as Princeton Township Police Memorial Day in tribute to all deceased law enforcement officers and especially those who gave their lives in line of duty.

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike has declared the week beginning May 15 as Township Police Week.

All Township police officers will drape their badges with black bands in tribute to their fallen brother officers for 24 hours, starting at midnight, May 14. During daylight hours in the same period, the Police Memorial Flag will be flown at half-mast.

All churches are asked to include in their program next Sunday a special memorial prayer to honor the police dead.

HOME IS ENTERED
And Ransacked. All the rooms in a Westcott Road home were entered and ransacked between 7:45 Friday morning and 8:15 Saturday night. Entry is believed to have been gained through a basement-level garage door. The door was not forced, police said.

Capt. John J. Bellow reported that police are waiting for an itemized list of what was stolen from the owners. Known missing, so far, are six gold and jeweled brooches valued at $800 each.

Someone entered an Evelyn Place home last week and took items of jewelry valued at $2,550. There was no sign of forced entry into the home.

The jewelry was taken from atop a dresser and from a jewelry box in a first-floor bedroom. An attempt to pry open a file cabinet on the second floor was unsuccessful.

Among the pieces stolen were a platinum and diamond ring valued at $1,000, a gold ring with three small diamonds worth $500, a $300 gold bracelet, a man's gold ring with a family crest, a gold and pearl brooch surrounded with diamonds valued at $500 and a second gold brooch. The entry--placed between 3:30 Thursday afternoon and 10:30 last Wednesday evening--is still under investigation.

ATTENTION BURGLAR

Would the burglar who robbed me last Thursday, open a post office box in Trenton, write to me at Town Topics, Box U-22 and give me the box number. I will then mail you a pre-dated check for $150 for the ring with the Coat of Arms (no dealer would give you more). Mail the ring, insured, to Town Topics, Box U-22, Princeton, N.J. 08540. If you will do this, I am prepared to mail you a check for $800 for the rest of the jewels. If the ring does not arrive in the next 10 days, I shall cancel the check.

Attention, Motorists

Two announcements came this week from the Division of Motor Vehicles.

In the first, the MVD announced that the Odd-Even inspection system will be extended. If your car is due for inspection in May or June, and has a license number ending in an odd number, or if you have a vanity plate that is all letters, you must have your car inspected if it is due in May or June.

If your license ends in an even number, you need not have it inspected until 1984, in the month it would normally fall due.

In the second announcement, the MVD reminds drivers that all children under the age of five, must be in a Federally-approved car seat for children, or be secured by a safety belt if they are riding in a car in New Jersey. The law was signed by Governor Thomas Kean April 7.

Children under five must be in an approved car seat if they are riding in front; in the rear seats, they may use a regular safety belt. Children under 18 months, however, must be in an approved car seat, even in the rear seats of the car.

If there are not enough safety belts available in the car for a big family, children who are not restrained must be in the back seat.

Drivers may be fined from $10 to $25, if they violate the law.

There were three student victims after an unlocked and unattended room in Foulke Hall on the Princeton University campus was entered during a 15-minute period last week. One student lost approximately $40, another $10 from a knapsack and a third $10 from a desk drawer.

Another university student listed the theft of a pair of stereo speakers valued at $120 from his room in Joline.

Camera Equipment Taken. Township police report the theft of a 35 mm. camera, lenses and camera equipment with a combined value of approximately $1,300 from a home on Hun Road. The thief entered the home between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Thursday by forcing a rear kitchen window. Ptl. William Potts investigated.

An unknown amount of silver flatware was stolen last week from a home on Stuart Close, a cul-de-sac off of Stuart Road. The home, police said, was entered through an unlocked rear door between 11:30 Thursday night and 9 the next morning.

2nd AND 3rd THIS YEAR. Bomb threats at U-Store. The University Store was the site of two bomb threats last week—the second and third this year. Last year, seven such threats were made at the store, Borough police report. The most recent occurred at 11:10 Tuesday morning when a caller told the store phone operator that a bomb was in the store and was going to go off. The store was evacuated while police and store officials searched for a bomb without success.

Earlier, at 2:50 Thursday afternoon, another male caller reported that a bomb was inside the store and would go off but he set no time limit. Once again the store was evacuated and checked out by police. The store manager reopened the store about a half-hour later.

SEAFOOD VAN STOPPED. For Health Violation. The driver of a Tony's Fish and Seafood truck of the Hunt's Point Co-Op Market in the Bronx, N.Y. was stopped on Washington Road Friday morning and its contents impounded. According to police, the same van had been stopped on another day by Ptl. Randy Sutton. The truck had no refrigeration of any kind and the officer warned the driver that he was in violation of a health law. The driver, Stephen A. Buccafusa of the Bronx, was allowed to continue on when he told police that he would bring the violation to the attention of his employer.

When Ptl. Sutton saw the same truck again, he stopped it. He notified Borough Health Officer Patrick Hanson who sent sanitary inspector Dennis Van Horn to the scene. Everything in the truck's cargo—shrimp, fish, pork, eggs and macaroni salad—was impounded. Valued at approximately $650, the cargo was later destroyed. When police ascertained that the driver had just dropped off a delivery at Nassau Inn, police went to the Inn and confiscated the delivery.

"There was no refrigeration, no dry ice ... nothing!" on the truck, commented Capt. John Bellow.

inch front window at the Association for the Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped, 145 Wither spoon Street, was shattered last week when a rock was thrown at it sometime between 4:30 Friday afternoon and 8:30 the following morning. There was no estimate of the replacement cost.

In another act of criminal mischief, two Borough parking meters on Prospect Avenue were badly damaged during House Party Weekend. Each meter is valued at $300. The vandalism was discovered around 2:20 Sunday morning.

Two tires of the car of a Dempsey Avenue resident were cut last week while it was parked in a private lot at the rear of 360 Nassau Street. Each tire is valued at $69.95.

GOLD CROSS STOLEN

At World Center. A gold cross with a diamond chip valued at $225 was stolen last week at World Center on Olden Street. The victim, a Princeton University student, told police that the cross and chain had been stolen from her coat which she had left on a chair in Liberation Hall.

Two brass mailslot covers, measuring 12 inches by 2 1/2 inches, were removed last week from the front door of Nassau Liquors, 96 Nassau Street—no value was given—and a boy's Kabuki dirt bike, valued at $120, was stolen last week from a rack at Community Park School. Police said it had been locked.

Later, at 3:51, an employee of Collins Development Corporation called police after he saw a man climbing off the roof of a Palmer Square apartment and lowering himself to John Street. The suspect just walked away when he yelled at him.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Taylor responded, and with the witness in their patrol car they searched the area. Bethea was observed by the witness walking on Stockton Street near Library Place.

Police found a pair of pliers in his pocket. An investigation at Palmer Square revealed that two second floor window screens had been twisted off but that an attempted entry into two apartments had been foiled because the inside windows were barred. Bethea was charged with criminal attempt and possession of burglary tools and released again. Police said he had no occupation.

Blackburn Again. Princeton's resident drifter, William K. Blackburn, 56, was creating a disturbance and trouble for himself again.

Sgt. Procaccino and Ptl. Mark Stillitano responded at 2:30 Tuesday morning after police had received several calls that a man was creating a disturbance and shouting profanities on Witherspoon Street. Blackburn was seen walking on Witherspoon, carrying a half-empty bottle of beer. The officers reported they could hear him raising hell even before they had Blackburn in sight.

He was arrested and issued a summons for disorderly conduct. Blackburn had been out of custody on probation for a previous 10-day sentence that had been suspended. Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. revoked that suspension and he was taken to the Mercer County Workhouse to serve the 10-day re-instated sentence.

Marijuana Possession. Garfield A. Brown, 25, 175 Birch Avenue, is one of two persons arrested last week by Township police.

Brown has been charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and released. He was arrested early Friday morning by Princeton University proctors at Jadwin Gym and turned over to Township P.D. Robert Nielsen.

William W. Turnbull, 63, Apartment 3C, 1 Markham, was arrested last Wednesday afternoon and charged with driving while intoxicated.

An anonymous woman called Township police at 4:08 and reported that she believed the driver of a car travelling on Rosedale Road toward Princeton was intoxicated. P.D. Anthony Gaylord responded and observed a car coming toward him in an erratic manner on Rosedale. He turned his patrol car around and stopped the car. Mr. Turnbull was taken to headquarters, given a Breathalyzer test and charged. Police later took him to his apartment.

DIET FACTS & FALLACIES

"NATURE'S WRAPPER"

Carbohydrates, commonly referred to as sugars and starches, are nature's "energizers." Many people, however, fail to realize the importance of choosing the correct carbohydrates. Foods made of refined sugars provide instant energy at the expense of long-term energy fiber and bulk. Instead, choose and use the "right" carbohydrates by following these guidelines:

- Buy fresh vegetables.
- Eat a variety of dark, green vegetables.
- Lightly steam vegetables.
- Eat the skins of fruits and vegetables.
- Finish your meal with fruit for dessert.
- Eat one large salad each day, containing three cups of five to seven varieties of vegetables.
- Keep a large basket of fruit on your table for snacks.
- Shop the outside aisles of fresh produce at the grocery store.

Diet Center recommends you choose only those carbohydrates found in "nature's wrapper!"

THREE TOURS PLANNED
By Historical Society. In observance of the Bicentennial of the Continental Congress, the Historical Society is sponsoring a series of Princeton Tours on three successive Saturdays in May. On May 7 and May 14 Princeton residents and out-of-town visitors are invited to join walking tours which will begin at 10 a.m. at Bainbridge House, 156 Nassau Street, and continue through the center of town. On May 21 a bus tour will leave from the Princeton Shopping Center at 10 a.m. and will travel through historic areas of the Borough and Township.

These tours will provide participants with an overview of local history from the late 17th century to the present. Special emphasis will be given to Princeton as the nation's capital in 1783.

The tours will be conducted by guides of the volunteer staff of the Historical Society. The walking tours are $2 per

ART AND ANTIQUES
Montgomery Event. Early American decorative arts, as practiced from the 1700s down to the present, will be on display this weekend at the May in Montgomery '83 antiques show and arts show in Blawenburg on Route 518.

The weekend events begin Friday evening with a dessert party offering an opportunity to preview the displays of antiques and arts at the Christian Education Buildings of the Blawenburg Reformed Church. Both shows will continue Saturday from 10 to 6, supplemented if weather permits by special outdoor events including an antique car show, concerts by the Blawenburg Band and Skillman Struttin' Society, an open house at the Montgomery Township Volunteer Fire Company No. 2, and release by the American Field Service of 100 helium-filled balloons carrying messages of goodwill in honor of May in Montgomery, '83.

Area dealers will be prominent among the antiques show exhibitors, whose displays will be especially strong in country and period furniture, fine china and glass, primitives, quilts, dolls and toys, silver, pewter, and clocks.

Visitors to the show can bring their own antiques and collectibles for appraisal by Lester Slatoff of Slatoff Auctioneers, Inc., who will be on hand Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m. to evaluate heirlooms.

and potential heirlooms for a modest charge per item.

Complementing the two floors of antiques will be an arts show organized by the Montgomery Arts Council featuring oils, water colors, and photographs by Montgomery artists. There will also be displays of early American decorative arts such as gamebird carvings, German folk art painting, dried and silk flower arrangements, weaving and basketmaking, stenciling, and tinsel painting that emphasize the continuity of the arts in New Jersey.

The $3 tickets cover Saturday admission to both antiques and arts shows, the antique car show, and the two concerts (1:30-4:30 p.m.). Parking is free, and free shuttle service is available from the antiques and arts shows to the exhibits and demonstrations at the Volunteer Fire House. An ala carte sandwich buffet with homemade breads, salad bar, desserts, and beverages will be available.

Tickets for the Friday evening preview are $7.50, including a chance at a drawing for an antique donated by Main Street Antiques Etc. of Blawenburg and free admission to all Saturday events. The dessert party from 7 to 10 p.m. will offer the chance to preview both antiques and arts shows while enjoying musical selections performed by pianist Bille Nastelin and by a band and guitar duo.

For reservations and further information, phone (201) 359-2272.

PDS FAIR PLANNED

For May 14. Preparations are under way for the Princeton Day School Spring Fair on Saturday May 14. The Fair will take place in and around the school's skating rink on the Great Road from 10 to 3.

Besides the traditional favorites there will be a Hot Air Balloon, a Hayride, a Spook House, and, new this year, a Fortune Telling Booth and a Giant Spin Ball Game.

Beginning at 11:30 there will be musical entertainment featuring The Mellow Jazz Group, the P.D.S. Jazz Group, Spiegel's Singers, Suzuki players, The Boudinots and Low Favor's Rock Band.

Adults will enjoy the Plant and Garden Booths and the Cook's Corner featuring Gourmet items and Baked Goods, the Flea Market and the Book Stall. And this year besides the usual picnic fare so popular with children, Chuck's Spring Street and Curry and Spice are catering luncheon choices for the more sophisticated palates.

Friday evening, May 13, there will be a Country Fair

RARE VISITOR: This black-backed (three-toed) woodpecker, denison of northern and western coniferous forests, was photographed in a Prospect Avenue back yard recently where it spent a day and departed. According to Tom Southerland, there have been only three or four sightings of this bird in New Jersey since 1926 and none in Princeton. (Tom Southerland photo)

Square Dance where parents, faculty and friends can get themselves in a festive spirit. The evening will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Upper Gym. Tables of eight can be reserved by calling either Mrs. Charles Greathouse, 924-9130, or Mrs. Ramsey Vehslage, 921-1175, co-chairmen for the evening. There will be a silent auction during cocktails and after dinner there will be square dancing with a caller and a live auction.

WATCH BIRD-BANDING By Ornithologist, Hannah Suthers, will report to the Watersheds Association on the changes in bird life she has observed in aging farm fields in the Sourland Hills near Hopewell. Her talk will be given at the Association headquarters, Titus Mill Road, Pennington, Thursday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. Ms. Suthers has invited Association members to watch while she mist-nets and bands birds in the field. The banding will be on Sunday, May 15 at 8 a.m. Registration may be made by calling the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, 737-3735.

SIDEWALK SALE SET In Kingston, The Kingston Business Association will hold a Sidewalk Sale on Saturday from 9:30 to 3:30.

"Oldies but Goodies" is the theme of the day, and refreshments will be offered in all the Kingston shops. The raindate is Sunday.

TWIN W SQUAD TO GAIN From Plant Sale. The Twin W First Aid Squad, Inc. of West Windsor Township will hold its annual plant and shrub sale this Saturday and Sunday. The hours on Saturday will be from 9 to 6 and on Sunday from 9 to 3. The sale will be held at the corner of the Princeton-Hightstown Road and Clarksville Road.

The sale will feature many kinds of bedding plants, flowers and vegetables, including a wide variety of tomato plants. There will also be hanging baskets and geraniums for window boxes and planters. Flowering dogwoods, crabapples, yews and other foliage shrubs will be available.

Proceeds will go toward providing the Squad with funds to stock the ambulances and to buy equipment and supplies used in the care of the sick and injured.

PLANT SALE PLANNED By Womanspace. Womanspace will hold a plant sale Friday and Saturday at the New Jersey National Bank branch at the Lawrence Shopping Center, Lawrenceville.

Fresh cut flowers, flowering hanging baskets, vegetables, assorted bedding plants and foliage will be available on Friday from noon to 7 and Saturday from 9 to 5. The sale will be held in the parking lot in front of the bank.

Womanspace is an organization that operates a shelter for abused women and their children in Mercer County. In its fifth year of operation, the shelter has provided services to more than 2,000 women and children.

'BIRTHDAY BASH' SET For Brahms. A Brahms Birthday Bash festival will be held Saturday from 3-7 in the N.J. State Museum Auditorium, 205 West State Street, Trenton. The festival, a celebration of Brahms' 150th birthday, is sponsored by the Trenton Music Performance Organization (T'MPO), formed to recognize and create a network for the many musicians living in the Trenton area and throughout Mercer County.

Twenty-two area musicians will perform a variety of Brahms' solo, vocal and chamber music works. Among the performers will be George Jones, clarinetist; Sylvia Nichols, pianist; Juncka Ota, violinist; Ena Bronstein, pianist; Louise and William Cheadle, duo-pianists; and Suzanne Mead, cellist.

The concert will be followed by a champagne reception. Included in the festivities will be birthday cake, balloons, a mime and a mystery performer. An exhibit of facsimiles of Brahms' manuscripts, letters and photos will be on display. Gov. Thomas H. Kean is honorary chairman of the event.

Tickets are $5 for the concert-festival and $3 for the champagne reception. For tickets, mail a self-addressed stamped envelope and check to T'MPO, Box 524, Trenton, 08604. For phone reservations, call 863-7945 after 5.

The concert is funded in part by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the N.J. State Council on the Arts.

NJNPI TO GAIN

From Event Tuesday. The 28th Spring Annual benefit fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Association of The New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute will be held on Tuesday at Smalley Hall on the Institute's grounds in Skillman.

Luncheon begins at 12:30 followed by the fashion show. The Garden Tent and the Tent of Spring Shops will be open all day beginning at 10 a.m. There is no admission fee to the tents.

Tickets for the Spring Annual are $15 per person, $9 of which is tax deductible. Checks should be made out to The Association of NJNPI and sent to Mrs. A.B. Vincent, Jr.,

CORRECTION

The first annual Hilltop Road Race will be held Sunday, May 15, not May 1.

The starting time for the five mile event is 1 p.m. and the starting point will be the Princeton Shopping Center. The $5 entry fee will benefit a new 11-acre public park and playground off Bunn Drive.

Each of the first 150 entrants will receive a free T-shirt. Applications are available at a number of locations around town, including Thomas Sweet Chocolates, Nautilus, Hinkson's and the Athlete's Foot.

Buckle Up Law Passed

A new state law requires that children under five must be secured by a federally approved child restraint system of a safety belt when riding in a motor vehicle in New Jersey.

Children under 18 months must be in a restraint device while riding anywhere in a vehicle; those under five must be in a restraint device when riding in the front seat or be secured by a safety belt when a passenger in a rear seat. If the number of children under five in one family exceeds the number of safety belts available, those not restrained must be seated in a rear seat. Violators are subject to a fine of $10 to $25 — which may be suspended if they later secure an approved child restraint device.

DOG SHOW SUNDAY

In West Windsor. The 54th All-Breed Dog Show and Annual Obedience Trial, sponsored by the Trenton Kennel Club, will be held Sunday at the Mercer County Park on Edinburgh and Old Post Roads in West Windsor.

This year's show is expected to attract more than last year's 3,115 entries, making it one of the largest outdoor dog shows in the United States. Some 129 different breeds will be represented. The individual breeds will be judged by judges from 12 states and Japan.

Showtime, rain or shine, will be 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Fees will be charged for admission and parking.

POETS TO READ

At Arts Council. The last in a series of poetry readings sponsored by the Arts Council will take place this Wednesday at Sunday at the Mercer County Park on Edinburgh and Old Post Roads in West Windsor.

Poets who have indicated they will read their work include Peter Wood of Trenton State College, Pat Groth of Delaware Valley Poets, a teacher at Rutgers, D.E. Steward and Susan Weiner Reiman, along with others. A reception will follow. The series "Hyacinths & Biscuits" has been funded, in part, by a grant from the Mercer County Cultural & Heritage Commission.

Janet Wittler is the coordinator of the project.

PROGRAM FOR PARENTS

In Rocky Hill. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program for parents on "Toys and Games for the Gifted and Talented Child" on Monday at 7:30. Gayle Fiabane will lead the discussion and give suggestions for educational and stimulating games for ages 2 through 15 years. This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

FROM MONTESSORI: "Rainbow Dragon." "The Cave of the Rainbow Dragon," a film made by the junior class of the Princeton Montessori School, Drakes Corner Road, will be shown this Saturday at 4 p.m. in the theatre of the Rider College Student Center. The public is invited.

Juniors at the school are six through nine years of age. The project was initiated by a student who had seen the movie, "The Dark Crystal." Children wrote the script developed the music, sets and costumes, props and special effects. Shooting began in March.

HEALTH SCREENING
This Wednesday, Screening for diabetes and blood pressure will be held this Wednesday from 2 to 4 in the Redding Circle Community

Room Hemocult slides, to test for blood in the stool, will also be distributed.
No appointment is necessary. Those who want to be screened for diabetes should eat a full meal with dessert one to two hours before the test.

HIGH SCORERS LISTED
In Math Contest. The Lawrenceville School, the five highest individual Princeton High School and Princeton Day School were the three Mercer County Schools with the highest team scores in the 1983 annual high school mathematics examination for the state of New Jersey in a contest administered by the mathematics and computer science department at Glassboro State College.

Participating were 9,886 students from 196 high schools and academies in New Jersey. Lawrenceville earned the fifth highest team score, with its highest scoring member, John T. O'Neil, listed as second in scores. Waldwick High School earned the highest team score, and Liaw Huang of South Brunswick High School won the cup this year for the student with the highest score. The three highest individual scores in Mercer County were tallied by John O'Neil, Jon Firester of Princeton Day School, who was listed as a bronze medal winner, and Thomas Keisler of Princeton High School.

BUS TRIP PLANNED
To Winterthur. The South Brunswick Recreation Department still has openings for a bus trip to Winterthur Museum and Gardens in Wilmington, Delaware on Wednesday, May 11.

The trip will include the landscaped display gardens all in bloom, an indoor conservatory, the duPont estate with its displays and magnificently decorated rooms. This trip will appeal to those with interest in art, antiques, history, gardening, and decorating. There is a book shop, art gallery, flower shop, and a restaurant on the premises.

The cost is $11.25 for South Brunswick adults and $7.25 for South Brunswick senior citizens. It is $17.25 for non-residents. For additional information, call 329-4000, ext. 258.

TCS CONFERENCE SET

On Bulimia, Anorexia. The fourth and final workshop of the Annual Clinical Conference Series sponsored by Trinity Counseling Service will be held on Friday, May 13, at the Unitarian Church. The conference will begin with registration at 9:30 and end at 4:30. A buffet lunch will be included.

This final workshop, "Strategic Family Approaches to Bulimia and Anorexia," will be presented by Judith Mazza, Ph.D., and will focus on strategic family therapy approaches to treating bulimia and anorexia.

nervosa. Videotapes of actual family sessions will be shown and the theoretical underpinnings of the approach will be discussed as will the rationale for the paradoxical and straight-forward interventions implemented. There will be opportunity for questions throughout the one-day training.

This workshop will be of particular interest to local mental health professionals due to the increase of these two potentially fatal eating disorders among school-age people, particularly young women. In addition, recent publicity concerning these disorders among well-known celebrities makes this an important subject to understand.

Dr. Mazza is a well-known teacher and clinician with a special expertise in eating disorders. Currently in private practice in Takoma Park, Md., she is a former clinical coordinator of Jay Haley and Cloe Madanes Family Therapy Institute of Washington, D.C. She has been an invited speaker at many professional meetings including the upcoming Erickson Congress to be held in Phoenix in December 1983.

For further information and registration, call Trinity Counseling Service at 924-0060 or stop by at 22 Stockton Street. The cost of the conference is $50.

THIRD WORLD FOCUS
Of Exhibit for Youth. "Somebody Like Me" is the title of a multi-media exhibit which involves its viewers in the lives and tasks of children in developing nations. It will be on view in the Johnson Park School gymnasium and be visited by students of grades four through eight of the Princeton Regional Schools during May and early June.

June, '45? Overdue!

But where was it, all this time? Princeton's public library declared a no-questions-asked amnesty on fines and overdue books during National Library Week in mid-April.

Among the hundreds of books that were returned, the library announced this week, was a book last checked out in June, 1945. Borrower unknown. Returned after Library Week had ended.

Prize for the longest adult overdue went to a borrower who returned a book checked out on October 7, 1971. Longest juvenile overdue: a book checked out May 23, 1967. The adult was rewarded for his/her crime with a copy of Sir Arthur C. Clarke's "2001". The juvenile award was a Muppets book, although the juvenile who took out a book 16 years ago this month, must be far beyond the Muppets by now.

The title of the 1945 book? The answer is surreal: it was a book on Surrealism, by Herbert Read.

This exhibit, which makes use of films, slides, computer games, and simulated ex-reproduction system which has been called the greatest registration, call Trinity Counseling Service at 924-0060 or stop by at 22 Stockton Street. The cost of the conference is $50.

The compact digital audio disc of Trenton will introduce the compact digital audio disc to the area in a series of New Technology Seminars on Thursday, May 12, at 4, 6:30 and 8 p.m.

Len Feldman, writer and reviewer for Audio, Video Review, Modern Recording and independent schools of Princeton and the public schools of the neighboring communities to have their students visit "Someone Like Me" is also planned. After its departure from Princeton, the exhibit will be displayed in museums and shopping malls around the country.

Second, the world we live in is interdependent. Third, young people can make a difference in the world by becoming more informed and taking concrete action to address the problems highlighted in the exhibit. "We hope that through interacting with the display, children will learn about, and experience, life in a Third World community where potable water, food, health care are difficult to obtain and where the work of children is essential for survival."

An opportunity for private and independent schools of Princeton and the public schools of the neighboring communities to have their students visit "Someone Like Me" is also planned. After its departure from Princeton, the exhibit will be displayed in museums and shopping malls around the country.

DEMONSTRATIONS SET

COACH TO SPEAK
To Literacy Volunteers. The fifth annual "Read on Reilly" a one-day conference for Literacy Volunteers of New Jersey, will take place on Saturday from 9:30 to 3 at Rider College.

Princeton football coach Frank Navarro will join keynote speaker Jane Burgo, New Jersey Secretary of State, in a luncheon program that will also include comments from students and tutors. Navarro, a member of the Ivy League Football Coaches Association, recently helped that group become Friends of Literacy Volunteers of America, Inc.

The purpose of the Conference is to focus on what is being done to promote literacy throughout the State of New Jersey, and attendees will include tutors, community coordinators, educators and librarians. Literacy Volunteers of New Jersey teaches adult basic reading as well as English as a second language and has over 850 students and tutors in 15 counties throughout the state.

SWORN IN AT PRINCETON: After Senate confirmation hearings in 1949, Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth, chairman of the Princeton University physics department, took the oath of office as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission in Palmer Lab with University President Harold W. Dodds holding the Bible. At the right is Justice Dayton Oliphant. Dr. Smyth said at the time it was "one job he could not decline."

Henry DeWolf Smyth

partners were Peter Kapitza from Russia and Yoshio Nishina from Japan, both destined to become top physicists of their respective countries.

Returning to Princeton in 1924, he joined the physics department and rapidly worked his way up to chairman in 1935 and full professor in 1936. In 1946 he was named Joseph Henry Professor of Physics, a title he still holds. Emeritus, along with his other title as Chairman of the University Research Board, Emeritus.

Drafted for War Work. Having made a specialty of atomic structure early in his career, he was "drafted" for war work in 1940 as a consultant on research projects for the National Research Council and the Office of Scientific Research and Development. It was this latter office that set up two projects at Princeton, one having to do with the separation of isotopes and the other with chain reactions. Those working on one project were not allowed to talk to those working on the other, and Dr. Smyth likes to point out that since he was in charge of both he was not permitted to talk to himself.

From 1943-45, he served as consultant to the Manhattan Engineer District which produced the atomic bomb. During that time he was associate director of the Metallurgical Laboratory at the University of Chicago.

He was asked by the general in charge of the project to write the official report of the five years' work by thousands of people that went into the making of the bomb, and he did so, with armed guards

posted in eight hour shifts at the door to his office in Palmer Lab.

Government printed copies of the report were released to the press on August 11, and Datus Smith, reading it in the Sunday Times while vacationing with his family, rushed back to Princeton to offer Princeton University Press the publication of the account in book form. Despite wartime shortages of paper, personnel and press availability, "Atomic Energy for Military Purposes" emerged in a record one month's time, became a scientific bestseller and sold an extraordinary 160,000 copies before finally going out of print in 1973.

Relinquished Rights.
Believing as he wrote in the introduction that, "The people of the country must be informed if they are to discharge their responsibilities wisely," Dr.
Smyth took the unusual step of authorizing reproduction of all or part of the book, while at the same time taking out a copyright to keep anyone else from doing so. He also stipulated that he would receive no royalties, and Princeton University Press,
as a non-profit organization, use the $25,000 he might have received to publish other scientific books.

In 1949 Dr. Smyth was appointed by President Truman to fill an unexpired term on the Atomic Energy Commission, the only scientist on the five-man panel. Re-appointed by Truman for a five-year term in 1951, he resigned in 1954, two months after the decision by President Eisenhower to revoke the security clearance of J.
Robert Oppenheimer.

Dr. Smyth was the only AEC Commissioner to dissent from the 4-1 decision declaring Oppenheimer a security risk. At the time he was quoted as saying "a professional review of the case has been supplemented by powerful personal enemies" and that "the conclusion (of the Commission) cannot be supported by a fair evaluation of the facts."

Today, he wonders if he had not had the flu and been absent from the Commission for a week whether he could have gone to the President and affected a different "edict."
Derogatory information on Oppenheimer had been given to the F.B.I. and he felt that the Commission had a clearly established system for handling such cases. He was afraid that if it was not invoked the matter would be taken up by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, but he says that he did not anticipate how the Commission
"could be perverted, which it was."

Return to Princeton. Upon his return to Princeton, President Dodds appointed him head of the Board of Scientific And Engineering Research, in charge of coordinating government supported research. On his recommendation, this board was converted to the University Research Board representing all departments. He served as chairman until his mandatory retirement in 1966.

Dr. Smyth feels that the place where he made his greatest contribution was as the U.S. representative with rank of Ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna. He was appointed by President Kennedy in 1961 and served under

TENNIS TREASURES: Co-chairmen Casey Von Seldenick and Zoe Bylin can't help but smile as they contemplate the growing number of tennis treasures for the Youth Tennis Foundation auction scheduled to be held Sunday, June 26 at Wind Rush Farm. Among the items that will be on the block during the three-hour event are tennis vacations at major resort areas, week-long sessions at John Newcombe's and Dennis Van Der Meer's tennis camps, private lessons with top area pros, and the latest in tennis equipment. Auctioneers Brendan Byrne and Jack McCarthy will start taking bids at 5 p.m. for the affair, a fund raiser for YTF, which sponsors tennis classes for more than 2,000 area students, including an extensive scholarship program. For reservations call the YTF office, 924-4343.

Henry DeWolf Smyth

The Soviet Union was initially opposed to a system of safeguards, Dr. Smyth says, and when he arrived in Vienna the Russians and the Americans were at swords points with each other. He set up a system of bilateral agenda meetings with the Russians, and although there were times when the Americans would be subjected to "polemical speeches" on American imperialism, his tactic was not to argue in opposition but to stress the importance of the job both sides were presently engaged in.

Among his many awards were the Atoms for Peace Award in 1968 for his contributions in promoting international cooperation in the non-military development of nuclear energy and the U.S. know what they are talking Department of State about," he says. "but I hear Distinguished Honor Award the interest and the effort for furthering the goals of this government in the international nuclear field." In 1977 he was the first recipient of the Distinguished Service Award of the IAEA.

Happy Physicist, Dr. Smyth describes himself as "an experimental physicist and a happy one" through the mid-30s when there began to be tremendous steps taken in theoretical physics. These changes, plus the administrative work he undertook in restructuring the way elementary physics was taught at Princeton, at reconstituting a department decimated by the war, and in his several leaves of absence took him successively farther from his original field. But every day he spends time in the office provided by the University, sometimes leaving his door open and overhearing the younger men describe their work. "I don't feel good."

Young Huizing, son of Det. Timothy Huizing of the Borough police force, surrendered to Federal officials last Friday. The other two had been arrested by the FBI on April 19 shortly after Previte had picked up a package reportedly containing cash. Huizing was interrogated at his home the same night, but was released, according to the FBI. B. Dennis O'Connor, attorney for the youth, said he believed the FBI released him because the case against him was not as strong as it was against the other two.

Previte is a part-time student at Mercer County Community College and a resident of Stockton. The others are freshmen at Trenton State. They face maximum terms of 25 years and a fine of $10,000 each if convicted.

The Blocks received an extortion letter followed by telephone calls, demanding money and threatening physical harm to the family.

Sally Whittaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whittaker of 10 Beech Hill Circle, has recently received her degree from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City.

Her sister, Margaret Whittaker received her masters degree in social work from the University of Denver, Colorado last June and is presently employed by the Office of the District Attorney as the Victim Assistance Coordinator of the Juvenile Division Program in Denver. Both are graduates of Princeton High School.

Three Princeton residents are playing on the Hamilton College women's lacrosse team. They are Kate Murdoch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Murdoch of 33 Cleveland Lane; Alice Ganoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Ganoe of the Great Road; and Ann McLusky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. McLusky of 89 Meadowbrook Drive.

Scott Chace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Chace of Drakes Corner Road and a sophomore at the University of Vermont, is the leading scorer on the University's lacrosse team. His 16 goals have helped the UVM lacrosse team post a 6-1 record.

Adrienne L. Holman of 29 Pennington-Lawrenceville Road was named to the honors list at West Chester, Pa., State College for the fall semester.

Theodore J. Ziolkowski, Dean of the Graduate School at Princeton University, has been elected to a post—that of daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Ganoe of the Great Road; and Ann McLusky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. McLusky of 89 Meadowbrook Drive.

The MLA is the principal professional organization for teachers of English and modern foreign languages throughout the United States and Canada.

Dean Ziolkowski is the Class of 1900 Professor of Modern Languages, and Professor of Comparative Literature and Germanic Languages and literatures at Princeton in addition to his administrative duties as dean.

His 1973 book, "Fictional Transfigurations of Jesus," won the MLA's Book Award for Criticism. Dean Ziolkowski's most recent book, "Varieties of Literary Academy's 1983 Citizens medicine and family medicine Medicine and Dentistry of New Thematics," is to be published Award, to be presented May 25 at the UMDNJ-Rutgers Medical School. "Fire & Water: Six Stories" by Elisabeth Stevens, a former Princeton resident, has been published by Perivale Press, Van Nuys, Calif. The stories were previously published in magazines and journals.

Ms. Stevens was art critic for the Trenton Times from 1974-77 and is currently on sabbatical from a post as art and architecture critic for the Baltimore Sun. A widow since 1977, she is living in Baltimore with her 13-year-old daughter, Mass.

Ms. Tenney is a graduate of Princeton High School and has a bachelor's degree in fine arts from SUNY, Purchase. Following this tour, she will be returning for her second summer season as choreographer and movement instructor at the Williamstown Theatre Festival in Williamstown, Mass.

On April 28, 1958, a vanguard of nine persons moved into the farmhouse on Cartier Road that formerly housed the Princeton Film Center. According to the 25th anniversary edition of the center's biweekly house organ, there wasn't a single piece of research equipment on the premises, but two months later the center had more than two dozen researchers and six projects.

"Our research will concern itself with how things would be made, rather than how to design them," Timothy E. Shea, then vice president of engineering told the Hopewell Planning Board in seeking approval for the new research facility. A "light" laboratory was built in 1962, and a vacuum machine for producing thin film integrated circuits. Previously the depositing of a thin film of tantalum on glass or ceramic substrates for electronic circuits took place a few at a time in vacuum bell jars - a cumbersome procedure that required two or three hours to complete.

The in-line vacuum machine speeded production and reduced costs. Today thin film work with the efforts of Bell Laboratories' scientists and of Western Electric products with the engineers at Western Electric's 20 manufacturing transmission equipment.

"ERC was founded to fulfill a need within Western Electric for long range manufacturing research," says Robert Claggett, the center's present general manager. The invention of the transistor in 1951 and the subsequent expansion of solid state technology during the 1950s produced a revolutionary change in product and process technology. These changes made much of the company's existing electro-mechanical technology obsolete and necessitates the development of new electronic processes, he said.

The Center also conducts extensive research in light-wave technology. ERC began work on the manufacturability of lightguide cable while it was still in the exploratory stages of development at Bell Laboratories.

Lightguide cable manufacturing involves three major steps: the production of the solid glass tubes called "preforms," the drawing of very fine glass fibers from the preform, and the combining of the fibers into a cable which will be capable of carrying many times more telephone connections at a fraction of the weight of the current copper cables. The center has been involved in developing new manufacturing processes for each of these steps.

First Laboratory Exclusively for Technology of Manufacturing

Western Electric's Engineering Research Center on Cartier Road celebrated its 25th anniversary last week.

Special guests at a noon time ceremony included two Western Electric former vice presidents of engineering who were responsible for the establishment of the Center as the world's first research laboratory to devote itself exclusively to manufacturing technology. The center also held two family nights and gave a tour of some of its current research projects to members of the press.

academic disciplines. Researchers are currently working on some 100 projects in the areas of advanced automation, light energy, semiconductor processes, testing, engineering computer aids, materials processing research and interconnection research.

Semiconductor processes continue to be one of the biggest areas at ERC. Since the early 1960s when the first integrated circuits were developed, the trend every year has been to double the number of components that can be put on a single silicon chip. Researchers at ERC have developed techniques for improving the growing of silicon crystals from which the semiconductor devices are made, for implanting materials into the silicon to create the devices' unique elements, and for assembling, wiring and packaging the completed product.

Through the years the center's researchers have been granted more than 500 patents for their innovations. The manufacturing processes, which developed have directly or indirectly affected nearly every product made by Western Electric.

"The need for a facility devoted to manufacturing research is greater today than when the center was first founded," Mr. Claggett said. "Product designs are changing at rapid rates and so are manufacturing technologies."

The Future. The decision that resolved the government's case against AT&T will bring Western Electric more directly into competition with the independent telephone companies, he said, but he expected that ERC will continue to develop the advanced manufacturing process which will enable Western Electric to remain "at the forefront of the telecommunications industry."

STOCK OFFERING HELD
By Applied Data Research, 675,000 shares of class B common stock of Applied Data Research, Inc. were offered last week at a price of $29.50 per share.

Of the shares being offered, 470,499 shares are being issued and sold by the company and 94,501 shares are being sold by certain shareholders. The remaining 110,000 shares will be acquired from the company upon the exercise of stock purchase warrants which will be purchased by the underwriters from a selling warrentholder. Dean Witter Reynolds was manager of the underwriting group.

A major part of the next proceeds to the company from its portion of the offering will be added to working capital and will be available to support expansion of the company's business, principally the financing of long-term receivables and the development and enhancement of new and existing software products. A portion of the proceeds may be used to finance a new addition to the company's headquarters building as well as for future acquisitions of new software products. Pending such utilization, proceeds will be invested in short-term securities.

EXHIBITORS DUE
For Chamber Event. Forty exhibitors will take part in the May 12 Business Show, "Getting Acquainted with Business," sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton area.

From noon until 7 p.m. at the Nassau Inn in Princeton, the 40 exhibitors who are Chamber members will display their products and have the opportunity to meet business associates and to introduce their businesses to the community.

For the past several years the Chamber of Commerce has designated May as Chamber month and the Business Show will be the highlight of its 1983 Chamber Month activities.

"Getting Acquainted with Business" is open to the public with free admission, refreshments and door prizes. For further information, contact the Chamber office, 921-7676.

FOR GULTON
Earnings Up. Reductions in overhead, improved margins and a turnaround in the Engineered Magnetics Division contributed to increased earnings for Gulton Industries, Inc., in the year ending February 26, 1983, according to chairman Walter F. Gips Jr.

Earnings increased from 62 cents per share to $1.52 per share. Net earnings were 49 cents per share, after a loss of 13 cents per share from discontinued operations. The loss relates to divestiture of the company's Transvex Division in 1981.

Gulton's financial position has improved "very significantly" from a year ago, Mr. Gips said. The firm eliminated over $3 million in short-term debt, and had an additional $4 million in short-term investments at year's end.

BANK EARNINGS UP
By 21.3 Percent. United Jersey Banks, parent company of the First National Bank of Princeton, has announced first-quarter earnings 21.3 percent above the same quarter last year. Operating earnings were $5.8 million.

In the first quarter, the bank reported net income of 92 cents per share, compared with 85 cents last year. As of March 31, commercial loans totaled $720.3 million, an increase of $163.4 million over last year's first quarter, or 29.3 percent.

Assets, as of March 31, were $3.3 billion, up 19.5 percent from the $2.7 billion of a year ago. Total deposits increased by 26.6 percent to $2.7 billion and total loans increased from $1.5 billion to $1.7 billion.

PERSONNEL NOTES
Shirlee Wenzel, president and creative director of Wenzel & Company, advertising agency in Princeton, was a featured speaker at a recent meeting of the International Association of Conference Centers.

The meeting, held at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center on the campus of the Educational Testing Service, brought together over 150 executives and general managers of conference centers from throughout the world.

Ms. Wenzel's address, entitled "Where Should You Advertise?" focused on the various communications tools available to the conference center industry, including advertising, direct mail and public relations, as well as overall marketing strategies.

John T. Gribbin, III has been appointed vice president for planning and corporate development of Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Gribbin joined the Medical Center as assistant to the president in 1975 and was appointed assistant vice president general services in 1978. In his new capacity, he is responsible for planning, coordinating, directing and implementing new directions and services for the Medical Center.

Mr. Gribbin was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and received an M.B.A. from Rider College. He is a nominee in the American College of Hospital Administration.

OBITUARIES

The Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church at Nassau and Chamber Streets for 17 years and one of Princeton's best known and well-loved figures, died April 30 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. He was 94 years old and had undergone surgery recently.

Dr. Tucker came to Princeton in 1940 to become pastor of Second Church (later called St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church) and except for two years after his retirement in 1947 spent serving churches in Kobe, Japan, and Bangkok, Thailand, he remained here ever since. After the merger of First Presbyterian Church and St. Andrew's to become Nassau Presbyterian Church, he was asked to serve as Minister of Outreach and more recently was named pastor emeritus of Nassau Church.

Dr. Tucker was born in Church Road, Va., and was graduated from Randolph-Macon College, Ashland Va., in 1911 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1916. He received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., in 1937.

He was a missionary in Japan in 1917, returning to the United States to join the Army in 1918. From 1919 to 1921, he worked for the YMCA in War Prisoner Relief in Siberia. He served pastorates in Jersey City and Newark before coming to Princeton as pastor of Second Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Tucker was a member of the Princeton Lions Club, Princeton American Legion Post 76, and Princeton Lodge No. 46, F&AM, and he served as chaplain to the fire companies. During World War II, when half the Borough police force was drafted into the armed forces, he served as an auxiliary police officer and gained a reputation as a sharp shooter at pistol practice sessions.

One of the activities in which he took the keenest interest was his long service under four New Jersey governors on the state Labor Mediation Board. For this board he did a lot of speaking around the state on all aspects of labor relations.

Dr. Tucker was a tireless worker, a fluent writer and speaker, and a man of many interests, particularly political issues. He sometimes described himself as a Democrat in a Republican constituency, and he was involved in efforts at racial integration long before the Civil Rights movement.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Bullington Tucker; two daughters, Mrs. John H. Hendrickson and Mrs. Thomas B. Gerlach; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. A memorial service will be held Saturday at 2 at Nassau Presbyterian Church. Private burial will be in Princeton Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue.

Angela Sierra, 78, of Spruce Circle, died April 28 at Princeton Medical Center. She was born in Pettoranello, Italy, and had lived in Princeton since 1962.

Surviving are her husband, Domenico; five sons, Tony, John and Umberto, all of Princeton, Joseph of Pennington and Flory of Ewing; a daughter, Assunta Sierra of Princeton; a sister, Michelina

Dr. William Tucker

Toto of Lawrenceville; 15 grandchildren and a great-granddaughter. Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Dora A. Davis Wilson, 89, of Hamilton Township, died April 30 in the St. Lawrence Health and Rehabilitation Center in Lawrenceville. Born in Clarksville, she lived in the Trenton area all her life. She was formerly employed at the Thermoid Co. (H.K. Porter Inc.), and she was a member of the Enterprise-Hamilton Senior Citizens Club.

Wife of the late Robert P. Wilson, she is survived by a son, Robert F. Wilson of Princeton; and three grandchildren, Peter Leiggi of Bakersfield, Calif., and John and David Leiggi, both of Princeton.

The service was held at a Trenton memorial home, the Rev. Jesse Owens, pastor of the Nassau Christian Church, officiating. Burial was in the Groveville United Methodist Church Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Nassau Christian Church.

Elizabeth Lyman Frelinghuysen, 76, of Stockton Street, died April 28 in Princeton Medical Center.

Mrs. Frelinghuysen was born in Boston and had lived in Princeton since 1966. She was educated in Boston, Maryland, and Paris, France. She was involved in many historical activities, including serving as First Regent of Gunston Hall, home of George Mason in Lorton, Va., from 1966 through 1976.

At the time of her death she was a trustee and first vice president of the New Jersey Historical Society. She was also a former president of the Woman's Branch of the New Jersey Historical Society, an advisor from New Jersey to the National Trust for Historic Preservation; and a trustee of the Society for the Preservation of New England Activities. She was also a trustee of the Princeton Battlefield Preservation Society, an advisor to the antiquities forum, Williamsburg, Va., and trustee of the Proprietary House Association, Perth Amboy.

Wife of the late Frederick Frelinghuysen of Holmdel, she is survived by a son, Gordon Harrower of Hopewell; a sister, Charlotte L. Clark of Pound Ridge, N.Y.; two brothers, Ronald T. Lyman Jr. and John Lyman, both of Boston, and three grandsons, Ronald, Gordon and David Harrower, all of Hopewell.

A memorial service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 11:30 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, the Rev. Richard A. Bower, officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue.

John A. Tompkins, 68, of Pennington, died April 29 in Hunterdon Medical Center. Born in Trenton, he had lived in Pennington for 60 years. Before his retirement, he was a self-employed manufacturer's representative. He was a former member of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Trenton.

Survivors include his wife, Maureen Gibbons Tompkins; two sons, Bruce J.A. and Stuart A. Tompkins, both of Pennington; a daughter, Jacqueline M. Tompkins, also of Pennington; a grandson, Shane John of Pennington; and two sisters, Margaret T. Pine of Pennington and Isabel T. Holcombe of Ewing.

The service was scheduled to be held Wednesday at 11 in the first United Methodist Church, South Main Street, Pennington, with the Rev. James H. Biggs, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Harborton Cemetery.

Bessie F. Shanfield, 61, of Pelham Street, died April 30 at her home.

Mrs. Shanfield was born in New York City and lived in Princeton most of her life. She attended Rider College and was a volunteer involved with the poor and needy of Princeton for many years.

She is survived by her husband, William; a son, Bernard Shanfield of New York City; two daughters, Marilyn Mawdsley of Springfield, Mass., and Frieda Villepontoux of Hopewell; a brother, Charles Saritsky of Los Angeles, Calif.; and a sister, Eva Den of Miami, Fla.

The service was held at a Ewing memorial chapel, Rabbi Howard Hersch of Congregation Brothers of Israel officiating. Burial was in Fountain Lawn Memorial Park, Hebrew Gardens section. The period of mourning will be observed at her former residence. Memorial contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Gertrude S. Campbell, 82, died April 27 in Hamilton Hospital after a lengthy illness. Mrs. Campbell was born in New York City and graduated in 1921 from Barnard College where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She lived in Grand Rapids, Mich., for many years, where her late husband was an executive in the furniture business. She had lived in Princeton since 1963 and was active in benefits for Princeton Medical Center and the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

She is survived by a daughter, Nolly Campbell Stover of Princeton; four grandchildren, Susan Stover of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., James Stover of Gladstone, Lucy Ashton of Hamilton Square, and Amy Stover of New York City; two great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Alson D. Kimball of Ashland, Va.

The service was private.

Robert C. Miller, 77, of Princeton Pike, died May 2 after a brief illness. He was born in New York City and had lived in Princeton since 1912. He was a graduate of the Lawrenceville School, class of 1924, and of Princeton University, class of 1928. He served both classes as graduate secretary and graduate president. He was chairman of the board of governors of Tower Club at Princeton University and had served on this board for more than 40 years.

RELIGION In Princeton

WOMEN PRESENT QUILT To President's Wife. The Princeton Seminary Women honored Mrs. Hazel McCord, wife of retiring Seminary President James I. McCord, at a luncheon held at the Seminary recently. Attending the luncheon were 65 members of the women's group that includes all faculty wives and female members of the faculty and administrative staff.

The women presented Mrs. McCord with a handcrafted, originally-designed quilt. Each square, sewn by a different woman, depicted a facet of Mrs. McCord's life in Princeton — music, church, family, and home. Mrs. Alexandra Whitlock, a professional quilter, sewed the individual squares together and did the quilting. Mrs. Nancy Willard presented the quilt to Mrs. McCord.

The luncheon was planned by a committee chaired by Mrs. Lois Thomas, coordinator for Princeton Seminary Women.

FORMER RECTOR DUE At Trinity Church. The Right Rev. Robert Spears, part of Trinity's celebration of who is currently Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester, N.Y., will return assisted Bishop Spears while this Sunday to Trinity Church he was rector of Trinity will where he served as rector also return on Sunday. They from 1960 to 1967. His visit is include the Rev. Frank Hun-

MOMENTO FOR THE SEMINARY'S FIRST LADY: This quilted wall hanging was presented to Mrs. Hazel McCord, wife of retiring Princeton Seminary president Dr. James I. McCord, by the women of the Seminary. Each handmade, individually designed square represents a different aspect of Mrs. McCord's interests and activities.

Soloists for the work will include: Kathleen Edwards, soprano; Barbara Tucker, alto; Wayne Edwards and Gerald Mosley, tenors. In addition David Edwards, from the touring choir of the American Boychoir School, will sing the opening solo as David the shepherd boy. The narrator will be Dr. Gordon Myers. "King David" will be preceded by four Motets by Francis Poulenc.

To celebrate the 150th anniversary of the consecration of Trinity Church, on Wednesday, May 11, John Bertalot, the church's new director of music, has written an anthem which will be performed at the anniversary service. The anthem was composed for three choirs, congregation, two organs, trumpets, bells and percussion.

Mr. Bertalot fashioned his anthem to make every part of the music conform to a multiple of 150. For example, he says, the girls' choir sings 150 notes, the adult choirs sing 300 notes and the men and boys' choir sings 750 notes. The composition is exactly 150 measures long and there are 675 words (which is 4½ times 150).

There will be a 15-minute rehearsal for the congregation immediately before the service, which begins at 8. The Rector, the Rev. John Crocker Jr., will preach the sermon at the anniversary service, and the Bishop of New Jersey, The Right Rev. Mellick Belshaw, will give a greeting.

The Princeton United Methodist Church will hold its annual Spring Thing on Saturday from 9 to 4 in front of the church at the corner of Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

There will be potted plants in time for Mother's Day and flowers and vegetables for the garden. Baked goods will also be available. Hot dogs, lemonade and coffee will be available at noon.

The chairmen for the day are Larry Apperson, George Lee and John Vaccaro. Mary Lib Stewart is in charge of baked goods and refreshments.

Bunker Hill Lutheran Church will present Henry and Hazel Slaughter in concert on Friday at 7:30. All are welcome.

The Rev. Robert M. Sletta is pastor. For information call (201) 359-6302.

The Board of Social Action at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Street, is sponsoring a new Second Hour class entitled "Budget Priorities: A Matter of Choice." The three week series will focus on the federal budget and the choices that have been made as to how the federal tax dollar is spent.

The introductory session this Sunday will examine peace with justice issues in the New Testament. The class will also examine the present federal budget and the amounts that are spent for military as opposed to human service needs.

The Princeton Presbyterian Church, which meets in the John Witherspoon School on Sundays at 11 a.m., will focus on the Christian family during the month of May.

For several weeks attention will be placed during the morning service on the responsibilities of husbands, wives and children, and there will be a re-dedication of marriage vows on Sunday, May 22. All are invited.

For more information call the pastor, the Rev. Ken Smith, at 921-1020.

Three Princeton Families Exemplify Ideal Of Volunteer Service to Their Community

The key hour is 8 p.m. By then, the youngest are bathed and filed away in bed, the baby-sitter has settled in to homework — doing or supervising — and the gavel has banged for the start of another meeting.

Three Princeton couples exemplify, not only the ideal of a marriage of true minds, but an ideal of community service far beyond the kind of thing people usually call "volunteerism."

Richard Woodbridge is in his third term on Borough Council and is running for mayor of the Borough. Karen Woodbridge was just elected to the school board.

Ann McGoldrick is president of the school board. John McGoldrick is chairman of the Borough Zoning Board and a member of the board of NJ Transit.

John McGee is chairman of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Rosemary McGee was just elected to her second term on the school board.

All of the six are in it because they love the Princeton community and are delighted to be involved in running it. Three were wanderers, as children or young adults, grateful at last to have a home.

Five of the six have run for elected office and the sixth would, except for New Jersey's tight conflict-of-interest laws. None of the six is an ideologue, a zealot.

Among them, they have nine children, ranging from three to 18. Like other parents, they run the soccer shuttle on Saturday mornings, get the singer to choir practice, attend athletic contests, school plays and choir concerts.

So far as anyone can tell, the children are bustling and happy. Their parents certainly are.

"My family moved a lot and I went to three different high schools in four years," Rosemary says. "It's so nice to be involved in a community where you've lived long enough to know people, where they know you in the stores — to feel you can contribute."

Although John McGee was born and raised in Florence, Alabama, he had another kind of young adult life as Navy officer and IBM employee.

"Between the Navy and IBM, I moved eight times in nine years. We made a conscious decision to stay in Princeton and to become involved locally. Princeton has been our HOME — for 14 years."

Karen's father was in the Navy and she, too, lived the kind of nomad life that makes Princeton seem home port, at last.

Richard and Karen Woodbridge, with Janie
"Without support at home, it would be very, very difficult."

"When we moved here in 1973, I became involved with everything: the Newcomers Club, classes at the YWCA, the Professional Roster, Meals on Wheels. It was a wonderful feeling to be able to do that."

None of the couples met in a way which might have foretold their future community interests.

Ann, just out of Vassar and a political science major, met John McGoldrick, Harvard graduate then in Harvard law school, at a friend's engagement party. They were married in 1966, moved to Princeton right away, have been here ever since.

The McGees found Delta ready when they were: they met on Delta's 40-minute flight from Atlanta to Columbia, South Carolina and were married the following year, in 1963. She was in merchandising, he with IBM.

The Woodbridges met on a blind date, to go sailing. An engineer, Dick was working in the U.S. Government patent office during the day and going to George Washington University law school at night. Karen had come to Washington from Arkansas and its university to work for the Republican National Committee.

Although politics was Karen's profession — she later worked for Texas Congressman Jim Collins and followed legislation for the American Psychological Association — Dick, in his dual role as engineer and law student, had little time for anything else.

"I'd done nothing of a political nature when I was an undergraduate at Princeton," he recalls, "though I was president of Dial Lodge, and managing editor of The Princeton Engineer, but I did do volunteer work in Washington after I got out of law school."

John and Ann McGoldrick
"A spouse is an 'institutionalized critic'."

Triangle Stages Energetic and Skillful Show With Funniest, Most Spectacular Kick-line Ever

How could you possibly miss five dozen high-kicking, high-energy talents backed by a dazzling musical ensemble and a legion of skillful technicians? Easy. Don't go to this year's Triangle Show. But suppose you can't help yourself. Suppose a year without Triangle is like apple pie without ice cream or fish without chips or Steinbrenner without Martin. Clearly, you should put yourself "Under the Influence" as soon as it comes round again in June. What you'll see and hear is a series of zany, slick, colorful sketches designed to spoof the commercial gloss and happy-hour mentality of modern life, in school and out.

"Under the Influence" succeeds often and misses occasionally. But with the exception of a rather long and heavy-handed second half in Act 1 (excluding the very model of a major modern spectacle called "Gilbert and Sullivan Meet Sophocles"), which is smashing, and in which Lorri Goodman's voice has people falling at her feet, literally and figuratively, it moves with break-neck speed through two hours of clever chatter and song.

This is not destined to be one of Triangle's enduring productions. It just doesn't have that one beautiful song... or that brittle tone of off-the-wall outrage that makes one a little hopeful about the class of tomorrow. Politics, peace and pathos are not the headlines, which was a little disappointing to this reviewer, since I look forward to Triangle's taking a bead on the world and shooting from the hip. This year it's shot from the hype. Even the darts had suction cups.

Funniest Kick-line Ever? Cleverness was epidemic, however, both verbal and visual. Sometimes the product got lost in the packaging, but there were still plenty of laughs, plenty of digs, plenty of surprises. And the traditional kick-line has got to be the funniest, most spectacular, most elaborate ever mounted on a Triangle stage. It would be unfair to say more about that showstopper, except that it's nearly worth the price of the ticket.

Special mentions naturally express personal biases, but I want to throw in a few here anyway. "Just for tonight, do it up right — put yourself under the influence!" urges the chorus in the curtain-raiser. I gave in without a struggle, partly due to the intensity of the appeal, partly due to the undeniable talent of one Tom Cott (Music by Cott, lyrics by Cott, acting by Cott, dancing by Cott, etc.) On the conceptual side of most of the company numbers — "Sweet Sixteen" (about multiple personalities), "Gullible's Travels" (a hobble-headed ballet in grocery carts), "Let's Turn On" (leading off Act II), "What a Morning" and "Canticle" (the rousing ESTian gospel number) — Mr. Cott exhibits a penchant for prying up the ludicrous side of both the pathetic and the pathological. It is certainly a gift.

But the staging of those particular numbers leaves an unsettling question: Is there a point at which words are enough? Choreography was tight and precise; blocking was a marvel; scoring was full and strong. And the effect in many cases was a loss of meaning and a psychedelic camouflage of the real satire. I couldn't hear the lyrics, because the demands of the action were too great on the majority of the young performers, and they often seemed to be working too hard to be able to pass on their "good time" feelings, as well.

Kudos to Horns & Drums. Musicianship, nevertheless, was excellent with special kudos to the sparkling trumpets and the indefatigable percussion section. Pre- and post-curtain favorites like "Flintstones" and "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "The Saints" were great audience pleasers, and the finale sent us home humming. "Cheekbones," featuring Emily Jo Guthrie and written by Dave Gannon and Mike Kaplan, was a real stunner. "Empty Heart and Full Bladder," the tear-jerking country and western lament sung by Rhett Dunaway, saved the singles-bar sequence. And Jason P. Jones of the nimble toes and dazzling grin was the ultimate villain as "The Junk Mailman."

Given a show where buildings dance and statues sing, where farmers hoe, hoe, hoe their rows wearing their Walkmans (Walkmen?), where fear of pre-meds and cafeteria women race unchecked, and where Holly Hackett slithers across the stage in a scrap-paper boa looking for smut — given a show like that, how could you possibly have a bad time?

Easy. By staying home. True, you won't catch up on many local campus issues if you go — there was only one Brooke Shields joke in the whole production. And you won't be able to poke fun or bayonets at El Salvadoran policy or James Watt's conservation ethic. But you will enjoy the show. It comes back to McCarter during Reunions: June 3-4.

'DIE, YOU DOG!' Or some such. Whatever the line of dialogue, the line of action seems distinctly unfriendly in this scene from "Belle the Typewriter Girl." The melodrama will be open this Friday at 171 Broadmead, and it is the final play of the 50th Golden Anniversary Season for Princeton Community Players. From left: Marie Miller, Rip Pellaton, Alan Salkin and Jim Hopkins.

A STAGED READING

Of New Play. "Fierce Dreams," a play with music about a seven-year-old West Indian boy living on the streets of New York, and a black woman journalist, will be given a staged reading Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Princeton Inn College Theatre, Alexander Street. The staging is part of the Playwrights-at-McCarter series, and the public is invited to attend.

The play, by Jack Maebly and Carol Tanzman, is based on an article in The Village Voice by lanthe Thomas. In the tradition of McCarter's readings of new plays, the audience is invited to talk about the play afterwards with playwright, director and actors.

ENTER: JARRETT

For Annual Concert. They say he began studying piano when he was three, and series this season. It will be writing his own songs when he was shown in Kresge Auditorium on Washington Road.

The full-length solo piano debut came at age seven, and composition studies in his teens. Now of riper age, Keith Jarrett will make his annual Princeton appearance as a jazz pianist-composer this Saturday at 8 at McCarter. He was six in 1965, and the Charles Lloyd combo in 1966. Since 1972, he has performed with his own group, and as solo pianist in both jazz and concert areas. He will play McCarter as an improvising pianist.

FILM SEASON ENDS
 With "Missing," Ed Horman, a conservative businessman, travels to post-Allende Chile to find out what happened to his son, who disappeared in the right-wing military coup that deposed Allende.

The film based on Horman's experiences is "Missing," and it will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:15 and 9:30 each evening as the final booking in the Movies-at-McCarter series this season. It will be shown in Kresge Auditorium on Washington Road.

"Missing" achieved considerable publicity when it was released in 1982 because it suggests that the United States not only master-minded the anti-Allende coup, but may have conspired in the death of young Horman. The suggestion was denied by the state department.

DANCE WORKSHOP
 Six Summer Weeks. An intensive six-week summer program for dancers in the intermediate through professional levels, will be offered again this year by the Princeton Ballet Society's School of Ballet from June 27 through August 5. A three-week workshop, June 27 through July 15, will also be available. "Workshop '83" will have a new feature this year. Helen

DUET RECITAL PLANNED
 By Voice Teachers. Duets and solo songs will be included in a concert by Sharon Alexander, soprano, and Kathleen Grammer, mezzo-soprano, voice teachers in the Conservatory Division of Westminster Choir College.

The program is part of the Conservatory Faculty Series and is scheduled for Saturday at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel. Accompanying them will be Martha Davidson, director of the Conservatory Division.

Sharon Alexander, who has been with the Conservatory for seven years, also teaches voice at Princeton University. She is a graduate of Westminster Choir College where she received a bachelor's in music education. She has a master's degree from Philadelphia Musical Academy and did graduate study at the Curtis Institute of Music. She was a finalist in the 1975 Philadelphia Lyric Opera Auditions.

Ms. Alexander sings regularly at All Saints' Church and has starred in several musical productions at the Bucks County Playhouse.

Kathleen Grammer received her master's degree in music education from Westminster Choir College and her bachelor's degree from Heidelberg College in Ohio. She taught music in the public schools for seven years before coming to Princeton. Her performing experience includes solo work with the Monmouth Civic Chorus, Princeton Musical Amateurs and the Shrewsbury Choral.

Martha Davidson has a master's degree in accompanying and vocal coaching from Westminster Choir College, where she studied with Phyllis Lehrer and Martin Katz. She has taught piano for the Westminster Conservatory for five years and in August 1982 became its director.

The duet recital program will include works by Purcell, Bach, Brahms, and Mendelssohn, plus excerpts from some Broadway shows. Admission to this performance and all Conservatory Series recitals is free and open to the public. For further information contact the Conservatory Division Office at (609) 921-7104.

Guarneri String Quartet Is Superb in Concert Of Diverse Array of Classical, Romantic Works

The Guarneri String Quartet returned to Princeton on Monday night in the last event of its 1982-83 season. Their concert was a masterpiece of the composer's neoclassical style while retaining some of the romanticism of the early 20th century. The quartet's performance was superb, and the audience was equally warm in its reception.

Opening the program was Haydn's Quartet in G minor, Op. 74, No. 3, a work which, on the surface, is deceptively simple. The four musicians dashed off the first movement without fanfare, avoiding any attempt to impose a facade of depth onto the work. The two giants of vocal literature, Puccini and Wolf, both given ample time to bloom, and its slow-moving, hymn-like harmonies supported the exquisitely sustained melody.

Haydn's genius for imaginative writing in traditional structures shown through clearly in the Menuet, to, while the Finale surged ahead with lightning speed and unflinching technical fluency. The unpretentiousness of the Quartet's interpretation was delightfully refreshing to hear.

Such programming on the part of the Quartet served both to bring rarely heard music to Princeton and to provide a high level of musical enjoyment.

University senior, Martin Pollak, cellist, will give a concert on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Woolworth Center, on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free. Appearing with Mr. Pollak will be Princeton University senior, Douglas Dickson, pianist, and junior, Fred Chang, violinist. Mr. Pollak is majoring in mathematics and plans to attend medical school upon graduation. A native of South Bend, Ind., he was a member of the South Bend Symphony and the Midwest Chamber Orchestra. He is also principal cellist with the Princeton University Orchestra and studies cello with Carol Buck.

The program will include, Debussy: Sonata (1915) for cello and piano; Beethoven: Sonata in C Major, Opus 102, No. 1 for cello and piano, and Mendelssohn: Trio in D Minor, Opus 49 for cello, piano and violin.

MUIR QUARTET TO PLAY Concert at McCarter. Princeton University Chamber Music Series will present the Muir String Quartet, winner of the 1981 Naumburg Chamber Music Award, on Monday, May 9, at 8 at McCarter Theatre. The Quartet, violinists, Joseph Genualdi and Bayla Keyes, and violists, Steven Ansell and Michael Reynolds, was formed in 1979 and is already known as one of the world's finest chamber ensembles. It has won two major international competitions, made two highly successful tours of Europe, and performed extensively throughout the United States.

On April 6 the members were invited to perform with the Juilliard Quartet on "In Performance at the White House." For its program, the Quartet will perform Haydn: Quartet in G Major, Opus 54, No. 1; Shostakovich: Quartet No. 8 in C Minor, Opus 110 and Beethoven: Quartet in E Minor, Opus 59, No. 2. Tickets at $9.50 and $11 are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office (452-5200) and student "rush" tickets may be obtained on the day of the concert for $6.

CHILDREN'S CHOIR
Festival at Westminster. Westminster Choir College is sponsoring a Children's Choir Festival on Saturday at the Princeton University Chapel.

More than 800 children from church choirs throughout New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania will be led by conductor Helen Kemp, professor of voice at Westminster Choir College. The festival day will culminate with a Festival of the Children's Choir Festival Saturday at the Princeton University Chapel. Planned to honor Mrs. Kemp upon her retirement, the festival will culminate in a service with some 800 children singing at 3 p.m. which is open to the public.

Dr. Ray Robinson, president of Westminster Choir College, initiated plans for the Festival in 1982 as a retirement tribute to Mrs. Kemp, who steps down from the Westminster faculty this summer. Mrs. Kemp, internationally known for her work with children's choirs, is the leading children's choir Southwest. Mrs. Kemp has specialized in the United States, performed with her husband Her work with children's and five children as the choir festivals has taken her "Kemp Carols" in concerts around the world but she had in Europe and the United States. Mrs. Kemp, internationally known for her work with children's choirs, is

Auditions Scheduled
Open auditions for NewStage at Intime, the summer theatre company, will be held next Wednesday and Thursday, May 10 and 11 from 5 to 7 p.m., and Saturday, May 14 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. NewStage operates out of Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus, where auditions will be held.

Plays this year will be William Inge's "Bus Stop," Jane Martin's "Talking With" (11 women characters in this one); William Finn's musical, "March of the Falsettos," and Pinter's "Betrayal." The season will run from June 23 through August 14.

A special audition time from 1 to 3 p.m., has been scheduled for Saturday, May 14 for young boys interested in "March of the Falsettos." The play calls for a boy, age 10 to 12, with a soprano voice.

No prepared speech is needed for the auditions, but those interested in the auditions should be prepared with sheet music. Auditions are open to residents of the community and students interested in one or all of the proposed plays.

Technical workers will also be interviewed during the audition times listed above.

IT'S NEW To Us

FINE FARE AT COX'S
A Homey General Store. There is always something at Cox's to delight a mother's heart whether it be a few stems of fragrant freesia, a huge ripe tomato or artichoke for that special dinner, one of the tempting breads found there, or perhaps a sampling of the gourmet goodies prepared for the shop by Princeton Caterers. Ever since Mr. Thomas Root bought the news shop in February of last year, fulfilling a dream of many years, customers have been making their almost daily pilgrimage to buy a paper (foreign or domestic), a cup of good coffee, delicious luncheon fare, an afternoon low-calorie popcorn snack, or a quick quiche plus a scrumptious dessert to put in the oven for dinner.

Cox's is now an ever-expanding yet old-fashioned general store, a homey kind of place which evokes happy childhood memories. The shop's friendly atmosphere is attributable to the owner himself who welcomes steady patrons and strangers alike with a cheery greeting as he bustles back and forth between the outdoor produce and flower display, the only one of its kind in town, to the tiny deli, a new addition, and bake shop in back. The new deli's bill of fare features the kind of things everyone needs for the weekend — good sherry-glazed ham, cheeses, cold cuts of all sorts, marinated vegetables, and cold salads.

FOOD PLUS FLOWERS: Mr. Thomas Root and his daughter Susan are well-prepared for Mother's Day at Cox's. The hurried shopper can stop in and choose a basket full of goodies for his favorite girl. Fresh cut flowers, gourmet delights, frozen and fresh luncheon and dinner menus, perhaps a cooked ham, and a scrumptious dessert can be packed together to make the perfect gift for Mother and a meal which the whole family will enjoy.

Cox's is usually quite crowded during the hours between 11 and 3 during the week because the cooler is chock-full of delectable sandwiches, salads (twin ones of different types for two!) and vegetable dishes wrapped, packed and ready to go with a juice or soft drink. The line is long but no one seems to mind as this shop has become a meeting place where all generations of townspeople and students meet to chat. It has an international flavor.

"We don't open until 6:45 usually but I just hate to see people standing outside, so the early birds and the runners come in and help us make the coffee," laughs Mr. Root, who dons his colorful apron as early as five in the morning. One morning last week a group of 49 residents bound on a historical bus tour stopped by for their coffee and croissant at 8:05. Such orders can be prearranged as can luncheons, dinners, deluxe picnics — whatever the needs of Cox's clients who enjoy the food of Princeton Caterers. Princeton Caterers is owned partly by Mr. Root, father of ten, five of whom work with him at the shop.

Gifts for Mothers. With such impressive family experience, Mr. Root knows what a mother might appreciate this Mother's Day. He and his staff will prepare baskets full of fruits, nuts, cheeses, candies, baked goods, mustards, jellies, and fresh cut flowers, all of which will please a mother. Why not call ahead and plan a surprise picnic for your mother, a basket full of goodies to take to Lake Carnegie or elsewhere? Mother's love picnics, but the preparation can be tiresome. Cox's has the answer for Sunday's dinner as well. A cooked ham or roast, a pasta dish perhaps, topped with a cake such as the carrot, chocolate sheet, or poppy seed ones found in the freezer. The bakery yields wonderful whole grain, French, Italian, and the new raisin and cinnamon breads.

A Mother's Day without flowers is somehow incomplete, but it does not have to be a large arrangement to warm her heart. It could be just a few stem roses, a bunch of hearty snapdragons, graceful tulips, or other types the shop has gaily arranged in pails outside. A flower-arranger par excellence was in Princeton last week and encouraged the women attending his lecture to buy several single flowers of many kinds to fill small glass vases, an effective centerpiece at a reasonable cost. Colorful gerbera, liatris, mini and standard carnations, lilies, iris, daisies and freesia would do nicely.

"What I love is to see the men who enjoy coming in here to choose a few flowers. They have great taste and like having them in their offices as much as they do in their homes," says Mr. Root, who has ordered hundreds of hanging baskets of flowering plants for this weekend's holiday. Spagnum moss baskets, two shades of marigolds, ivy geraniums beginning at $1.95, and wicker baskets full of annuals such as coleus, pansies, and petunias will make lovely thoughts and last all summer long.

If you are looking for an unusual gift for your mother this weekend, stop in at Cox's to see the handsome assortment of stone figures such as ducks, swans which can be planters, cats, turtles, zodiac wall plaques, and tiny bird baths. She will enjoy these or perhaps one of the many statues of St. Francis in stock for her garden during the next months. The deadline shopper will be happy to know that the shop will have many at-

ART In Princeton

FOR PAA BOARD
Six Are Nominated. Election of new board members for the Princeton Art Association will be held at the PAA's annual meeting Thursday, May 26 at Educational Testing Service.

Six candidates, chosen for their present involvement in professional fields linked to the PAA's activities, have been nominated for the board. They are Patricia J. Labaw, president and founding partner of the R.L. Associates survey firm; David Fox, retired, former staff associate to the senior vice-president of ETS; Jean Bussard, silversmith; Susan Lincoln Hockaday, artist; Judi Niemann, president of T-Square Studios, an art and design studio and Albert Aronson, electrical engineer at the RCA space center.

ABSTRACTS
By Kurt Flimm. An exhibit of 20 abstract photographs by the West German photographer Kurt Flimm will be on view at ETS from this Wednesday through June 17. The exhibit, open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1:30 to 4:30, is in Lounge B, of Conant Hall. Flimm, who does not use a photolab for processing and who leaves his photographs untouched and uncropped, uses simple lines, and intends his photographs for meditation. His preoccupation is with nature, and the use of soft color.

All the photographs in this exhibit were taken in Italy, in the area around Siena. The photographer has exhibited before in Princeton, and showed his Egyptian photographs at an earlier exhibit in Gloucester County College.

HOW TO PAINT FLOWERS
In Augustine Class. The varied ways an artist may approach the painting of flowers will be explored by Joanne Augustine in a Flower Painting Workshop Saturday, May 7 from 10 to 4 in the artist's studio, Rocky Hill. The sponsor is the Tri-County Art Association.

Painters may take their own flower arrangements, or use those provided by Mrs. Augustine. Fees are $15 for members of Tri-County and $20 for non-members. Checks, made out to T.C.A.A., should be sent to T.C.A.A., 173 Canterbury Court, East Windsor, N.J. 08520. Additional information is available from 448-8967.

IN ROCKY HILL
Paintings, Sculpture. Three artists from the area will exhibit their paintings and sculpture starting next Monday through May 27 in the Mary Jacobs Library, Rocky Hill.

Pamela Wagner, whose watercolors have been shown at Squibb, Lambertville House and the Stover Mill Museum and in several juried shows in Princeton, will exhibit her works depicting Rocky Hill and its environs.

Hap Heins, local historian, will have on view his painting of "Rockingham" as it appeared when Washington stayed there, August 1783 through November of that year. A map of the roads around Rocky Hill during the Revolution will also be on view. Ebe Metcalf, who will enter Colgate this fall, will display his sculpture.

News Of Clubs and Organizations

Pen Women will meet Saturday, May 14, at 10:15 in the special events room of M. Epstein's, Princeton Shopping Center. Gisela Bly, a portrait and mural painter from Moorestown, will demonstrate portrait painting by painting the portrait of someone present at the meeting.

Ms. Bly was born in East Germany and crossed into West Germany in 1949. She began painting murals and portraits at an early age and is proficient in all mediums. Women artists, writers, dramatists, lecturers, composers and their friends are invited. Call Lee S. Harr at 655-2908 for more information.

The Princeton Chapter of Deborah will have a table at the Kingston Sidewalk Sale on Saturday from 9 to 4. Those who have articles they wish to donate are asked to drop them off at Owen's Barn on Main Street, Kingston. Volunteers are needed to help Evelyn Olsen, chair of the table, and Braddock, vice president; may call her at (201) 359-5804 to volunteer time. Proceeds will be donated to Deborah Hospital.

The Princeton Chapter will have a raffish drawing Tuesday at 8 at Rocky Hill National Bank. The meeting will be the final one of the year.

The Chapter is also sponsoring a bus trip to Deborah Hospital on Sunday, June 5. The bus will accommodate 48 people and will leave from the Princeton Shopping Center in the morning and return in the afternoon. The cost of the trip is $6 per person. For reservations, call Josephine D'Andrea at 924-5750.

The Princeton Senior Citizens Club will meet Monday at 1:30 at the Chestnut Street Firehouse. Raymond B. Demski will present a slide show on his recent trip to Poland. Mr. Demski is chief of the Tort Claims Litigation Section of the Department of Law of the City of Trenton.

The Pennington Chapter of P.E.O. has elected officers for the coming year. They are Donna Moore, president; Sue Olsen, chair of the table, and Gipsy Birdseye, recording secretary; Eleanor Ruggles, treasurer; Norma Herring, chaplain; and M.J. The Lioness Club will meet Monday at 6:30 at the Nassau Inn. Officers will be elected.

The Princeton-Trenton chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. will host its annual Emma Jean Nicholson Memorial Tea Sunday, May 15, at 4 at Trenton State College in the James Forcina Building.

The Sorority will honor Helen Jackson Lee as Woman of the Year, Anna Euse, Zeta of the Year, and Sandra Hackett, Zeta scholarship recipient. Other honorees include Patricia Jackson, Ingrid McKenzie, Ronda Adams, Jacqueline Bell, Michele Greenland, Kevin Nicholson, Carmen Dixon, Mark Greenland, Lisa Rhodes, Anne Voss, Cheree Doggett, Colleen Gilliard, and Tina Kelsey.

The community at large is welcome.

The annual meeting of the Mercer County Federation of Republican Women will be held Wednesday May 11, at the Princeton home of Donna Reichard at 8 p.m.

Agnes McMahon, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the slate of officers to be voted upon at the meeting. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

Members of the Federation, their guests and other Republican women from Mercer County are invited. For further information call president Vonnice Hueston at 924-7165.

The Women's College Club will hold its annual New Member Tea on Thursday from 3 to 5 at the home of Mrs. Jack Leahy, 25 Nelson Ridge Road. All club members are invited and prospective members are welcome.

In addition to its annual scholarship awards, the College Club has announced a Memorial Educational Loan Fund which provides interest-free loans to deserving women above the college freshman level who are graduates of Princeton high schools. The fund is self-perpetuating as the loans are repaid following graduation. Donations may be made in honor of a special friend or occasion, as well as for a memorial gift.

Mary Jane Fleming (924-9273) is chairman of the Memorial Educational Loan Fund committee.

Collins? Learn to Love It.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
It is really difficult to see why everyone is making such a fuss over the planned redesign of Palmer Square by the Collins Corporation. I believe these perpetual whiners are all acting like crybabies. If it is American Colonial design and cutesy little shops they want why don't they go to Williamsburg where they can find plenty of both.

I for one can't wait to see what imaginative use of concrete, plastic, chrome, and neon lighting the Collins mob will come up with. Collins wants to take Princeton into the 20th Century and why should a vocal majority keep them from implementing this long overdue modernization?

The removal of Skirms, Brophy's, and the Music Store was a necessary first act. All of the items sold in these establishments are readily found at the Quakerbridge Mall and the ride over there and trek through the place will provide an enjoyable afternoon's outing for the entire family. Don't tell me the people of Princeton are afraid of a little walking.

Besides, the smoke shop, the shoe store, and the music seller were attracting all the wrong type of element — namely those tweedy bookish types who always crowded the sidewalks and crosswalks and were a constant menace to the smooth flow of traffic around Palmer Square. Since the new shops have come in, one can drive around the Square without the fear of having to slow for pedestrians.

The parking garage is another idea whose time has finally come. Shortly the true Princetonian will be able to park without having his or her Mercedes or Volvo subjected to the merciless elements. This is good because since Princeton does not have a car wash, these residents will not have to go out of town as often, to have their cars professionally washed and hot waxed.

Now this brings us to the subject of the kiosk. We should be glad it is there. It has proved to be an invaluable landmark. Just the other day some out-of-towners asked me where the Nassau Inn was. All I had to say was ride down Nassau Street until you spot that monstrosity with the weather vane and turn there. This eliminated all unnecessary talk about street names and left or right turns.

At least the kiosk displaced the Johnson bronze statue and the fountain, both of which did nothing but collect layabouts who would sun themselves during the lunch hour and generally have a good time. These people should have used their spare time more productively such as patronizing those trendy shops approved by Collins Development for the Square. If people are reluctant to spend money how do you expect America to work itself out of a Depression and reelect Reagan for a second term?

Dr. Strangelove once said we should stop worrying about the Bomb and learn to love it. May I suggest it is now time we stop worrying about the Collins Development Corporation and learn to love it too!

Institute Plans 'Detrimental.'
To the Editor of Town Topics:
(The following is the text of a letter to the Princeton Regional Planning Board.)

Having attended last Tuesday's Planning Board meeting I am now asking you how the Board can possibly condone the Institute for Advanced Study's plan for development on the Endo-Updike Farms. Not only was it made clear from the Updike-Oppenheimer letter, which was read to us, that this land was meant to be dedicated to the protection of the Institute from any construction or development — is it possible that the agreement implicit in this letter is not to be honored? But, furthermore, it was also made very clear to all of us Princeton residents assembled there, and listening to the reports of the Stonybrook-Millstone Watershed Assoc., N.J. State Conservation Foundation, D & R Canal Coalition, and others, that the entire project proposed by the Institute would be detrimental to Princeton's future.

Better Solution Needed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter sent to members of the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

Believing that the development plans of the Institute for Advanced Study would drastically damage our environment, we hope that the Institute, which has contributed so much intellectually to our community, will cooperate with the Coalition PROSPER in a search for a better solution.

HUN SCHOOL DAY CAMP

Staffed by Hun School Faculty

"Every camp has its own style and personality. We have chosen to emphasize a well-rounded experience that will offer children the chance to try many activities in a non-competitive, friendly atmosphere. Small groups enable children to make new friends while working with adults they can look up to."

Lightweight Crew Defeats Harvard and Yale, Heavies Win; Baseball Team Captures Two from both Army and Cornell

Pound for pound, they may be the strongest, most highly conditioned athletes on the Princeton University campus. But last Wednesday, less than 72 hours before the long-awaited showdown with Harvard and Yale, the Tiger lightweight oarsmen were spluttering through their practice like a high performance V-8 with a bad timing chain.

On Thursday Coach Gary Kilpatrick decided to alter his combination. He had his No. 2 and No. 4 men, Bryan Bell and Wye Grousbeck, exchange places. Then, in what must be considered a major piece of tinkering, he had the captain and No. 6 man, John Andrews, trade places with the stroke, John Chamberlain, the oarsman who establishes the all important tempo for the boat.

On Saturday, under blue skies and bright sun, and in front of hundreds of rowing fans who turned out to enjoy the spectacle of crew races on Carnegie Lake, the realigned Princeton lightweights discovered just how strong they were. Despite giving a slight lead to Harvard in the first 500 meters, partly as a result of Andrews missing a stroke, the Tigers rowed to a course-record of 5:43.9, finishing almost three seconds ahead of Yale, which just edged Harvard. The lightweights' time was 1.5 seconds faster than that of the Princeton heavyweights, who defeated Cornell in their regatta just minutes later on the same course.

With the victory the Tigers established themselves as the premier lightweight crew in the nation, favorites in their next meet, the EARC Sprints in Worcester, Mass., and strong candidates for a trip to Henley, England, for the annual crew competition held in June.

All of that, in turn, helps establish why these young men do what they do day after grueling day. In no other sport, one suspects, do so many practice so hard for such a small amount of competition.

In other sports that are more easy to fathom, the Orange and Black fared well over the weekend. The once moribund baseball team seemed to revive itself, sweeping doubleheaders against Cornell and Army. Professional pitching prospect Steve Kordish regained his winning touch in a 5-1 win over the Big Red. Scott LaForest won two games in relief as the Tigers improved their league record to 7-10-1.

The Princeton winning streak continued on Monday, as Coach Tom O'Connell's team defeated Lafayette, 6-3, on Clarke Field. A two-run home run by Dan Arendas in the fourth brought the Orange and Black even at 2-2, and they tied the contest with four more in the fifth. Gerry Rodts won his first game of the season against one loss.

The Tigers were scheduled to host Fairleigh Dickinson Wednesday and St. John's on Sunday, in a doubleheader to begin at 1 o'clock.

A Lacrosse Upset. The lacrosse team, which hosts Dartmouth Saturday at 2 on Finney Field, had mixed results in the past week. The Tigers refused to quit in a wily match against Rutgers, and finally scored a 17-16 upset win. One of the turning points in the game came when Princeton goaltender Oley Marshall scored a goal after Rutgers allowed him to penetrate to within 20 feet of its net. Marshall, who is recovering from mononucleosis, also registered 22 saves in the game. The loss may cost Rutgers, which had been ranked No. 7 nationally, an invitation to the NCAA national

Pros Tap Tiger

The Princeton University football team, which played with relatively little distinction enroute to its 3-7 record last fall, earned the favorable distinction last month of having the only Ivy League football player selected in the National Football League's annual college draft.

Jon Schulteis, the offensive guard and co-captain from Keansburg, was selected in the seventh round by the Philadelphia Eagles, who may consider converting him to center.

A three-year starter for the Tigers, Schulteis played center in high school. The offensive line coach for the Eagles, Ken Iman, predicted that the Princetonian will "be tested here. He's got a good heart, a good body, and he'll get a good shot." No doubt many good shots.

The ordeal of the tryout could fall into but it's wrong to look at it like that. I'm confident that whatever the final boat assignments are, we'll have the best boat possible. What position I have in the boat won't mean a thing."

No one participates in this sport for the glamour. Saturday's race of the lightweights was the equivalent of Notre Dame and Michigan putting undefeated records on the line in football. Stuyvesant Pell, a Princeton alumnus active in the Friends of Crew organization, called the race by peering into a telescope while holding a walkie talkie to his ear and repeating what he heard through a battery-powered megaphone.

With the boats less than 500 meters from the finish line, he suddenly put down the walkie talkie and ran to the lake's edge. There he sighted a line between two stakes on the Princeton side to a marker almost obscured in the underbrush on the West Windsor side. Standing in front of Pell was a Princeton student, John Banes, who was poised with a flag pointed toward the ground.

As the bow of the Princeton boat appeared to cross the plane of the finish line Pell barked an order to Banes, who hoisted the flag into the air.

Sports Fans!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

One of the strangest incidents in golf history happened in a tournament in Houston several years ago when golfer Bob Rosburg made A HOLE-IN-ONE THAT WASN'T A HOLE-IN-ONE ... Rosburg hit a drive off the 12th tee but the ball hooked badly, hit a tree and bounced crazily the wrong way — not to the 12th green — but to the 13th and right into the cup ... It was one of the rarest of golf shots — a hole-in-one in the wrong hole!

I bet you didn't know YOUR THUMB PRINT and the man's next door are as different as your respective insurance needs.

So Why Do They Row? The lightweights' impressive victory on Saturday seemed to shed light on the mental and physical aspects of their sport, which demands that they practice six days a week, from the beginning of school until May or, possibly June, for the chance to compete in just five regular regattas and then the Sprints.

The sport is not one that creates individual stars nor is it one in which anonymity carries any security. Consider the switch in places between Chamberlain and Andrews. Chamberlain's return to school this year was considered one reason for the crew's improved performance, and he had rowed at stroke in every race up until the Harvard-Yale regatta.

Back at the boathouse after the race, a jubilant Andrews explained the reason for the change. "About a week and a half ago the boat kind of fell apart," he said, alluding to the lightweights' narrow defeat of Penn after beating the Quakers easily earlier in the

That enabled the official timer, riding in a launch which was present at the start of the race, to click his stop watch and record the official time. And then Pell shouted out again as the second place Yale boat crossed the line. Banes lowered the flag and the second place time was duly recorded.
